NO RELIGION WAR IN POLITICS HERE

Newspaper Tale Had it DeMeza and Blatz Are Supported by Lodges.

DRAG IN THE CHIEF

The Parties Concerned Make Prompt Denial and Head of Columbus Knights Gives Out a Statement for the Newspapers.

Much indignation was shown yesterday by prominent men and particularly by the parties mentioned in a news story published by an out-of-town paper wherein it was stated in effect that the contest between William G. DeMeza, the present incumbent, and Francis J. Blatz, for the city judgeship nomination at the Republican primaries is "likely to cause a religious war." The same paper this morning published a news story substantially as follows:

City Judge William G. DeMeza and Chief of Police Patrick S. Kiely declared that an injustice had been done them. They declared that not only did the article reflect on their reputations, but upon those of two great fraternal organizations, in stating that the Republican primary nomination contest for city judge has become a religious war. Such a statement, they affirmed, made a most unjust comment on the standard of citizenship of an intelligent community, such as Plainfield.

In the article it was stated "the contest is likely to cause a religious war, as the Knights of Columbus, of which Mr. Blatz is a member, are working in the latter's interest, while on the contrary Judge DeMeza is a member of the Jr. O. U. A. M., and the four lodges here are working in his interests."

"This is not so," said both the judge and the chief, "and we accuse the reporter with having deceived the paper into printing it. In proof of our claims we append the statement made by D. B. Doyle, grand knight of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, and we have received verbally many disavowals from members of the local councils of the Jr. O. U. A. M. A past councilor says that the idea of religious lines being drawn is untrue. Because this (Monday) is a holiday we have been unable to get into communication with present councilors of the four lodges of that order, but one of us (Judge DeMeza), happens to be a member of the order and declares on his oath that he would not countenance support based on religious prejudices."

Chief Kiely, who is a member of the Knights of Columbus, declared that, while Mr. Baltz may be a personal friend, in his capacity as police chief, he challenges anyone to prove that during his whole career as such he has shown any favor to friends by the use of his office. He also declared that he is not in politics and is taking no part in the city judgeship contest and invites any facts to the contrary.

Continuing the judge and chief said further that DeMeza did not cut short his vacation in Maine because Blatz is a candidate, but, on the other hand, stayed away as long as he had stated he would before leaving. Judge DeMeza said that he had not "repented of his action" in having voted for Theodore Roosevelt, as stated, and that such assertion is untrue. DeMeza declared he admired Roosevelt and, although voting for a majority of Republican candidates, being a Republican, cut his ticket on the Presidential issue. De Meza added that he has no regard for a man "who gulps down a whole ticket when it is contrary to his own honest opinions."

Both desired also to take exception to the assertion that "whether Blatz wins or is defeated in the primary, his friends declare he will run for the office." "As personal friends of Mr. Blatz, who cannot answer for himself today, being at Asbury Park," said the judge and chief, "we declare that Blatz will accept the honest verdict at the primaries."

The paper, they stated, had unintentionally done a great wrong to all mentioned.

The statement of Mr. Doyle follows:

"The Knights of Columbus is not a political organization and has nothing to do with the election of a city judge or other official. Every member of the order is free to act for himself politically and no effort has ever been made or could be made to induce the order to indorse any partisan.

"As the head of Watchung Council I must repudiate the story that the Knights of Columbus have indorsed Blatz or anyone else. The Catholics of this community are now and have always been on friendly terms with those of other religious beliefs, and any attempt to stir up a religious prejudice against either Judge DeMeza or Francis J. Blatz is infamous."

EXHIBIT STAGED AT PARKER FIELD

Over 600 Children Take Part in Great Spectacle—Marks Playground Close.

AN IMPOSING SIGHT

Robert Day Awarded the Claybrook Cup—Work Taught Under City Commission's Directions Demonstrated Before 2,500 Persons.

More than 2,500 persons flocked to Parker Field yesterday morning to witness an exhibition of playground work which was given under the auspices of the Playground Commission, and had been arranged by Supervisor George W. Wriston with the assistance of the instructors. The spectacle of over 600 children dressed in white with colored sashes thrown across their shoulders was an imposing one. The Boy Scouts participated in the events. The youngsters represented the Parker Field, Bryant, Irving, Franklin and St. Mary playgrounds and there was keen rivalry among them. The girls took part in folk dancing, potato races and games taught at the recreation centres during the summer months. On the rear of the grandstand was exhibited specimens of sewing, basket weaving and other manual training work.

The children congregated at the various playgrounds and at 9 o'clock boarded special trolley cars for the grounds. At Park avenue and Randolph road the delegations lined-up behind Naylor's band and marched in a body to the scene of the exhibition. The Boy Scouts, upon reaching the field, reported to Deputy Scout Master A. V. Searing, who assigned the boys in squads to do patrol duty. Flags decorated the grandstands and the crowd applauded the children as they marched into the large enclosure.

The first event was a Hungarian folk dance, in which about fifty girls from the Bryant, Irving, Franklin and St. Mary school playgrounds took part. The children gave every evidence of being well drilled in the difficult movements and won hand-claps from the spectators.

The inter-playground relay race was won handily by the Bryant runners and following this event the girls en masse took part in ring games, named, "Drop the Handkerchief," "Farmer in the Del" and "The Squirrel." The youngsters of Bryant, Franklin and St. Mary playgrounds danced a Virginia reel, following which the boys of Parker Field lined-up for a 150-yard obstacle race. The event was won after a close race by Charles Bromlee. O'Donnell finished second. The contestants had to hurdle a bench, crawl through a barrel, slide under a bar set close to the ground and jump over a tape stretched three feet in the air. The scramble for the finish furnished plenty of amusement for the crowd.

Event No. 9 was a drill by members of Patrol No. 7, Boy Scouts of America (Boys of Bethel Chapel), who performed many difficult formations with skill and discipline. The Packsons won the 440-yard relay dace, closed to the Parker Field Junior League. The winning combination was composed of O'Donnell, Clay, Bromlee and King. The Red Stars with B. Mullin, Houston, Caufield and Dan ran a close second. The

HERR'S BUSINESS COLLEGE OPENS FOR THE SEASON

The Plainfield Business College and School of English, Professor Herr's School, was opened for the regular fall term this morning and the opening enrollment of new students was the largest in the history of the school. This institution covers a wide section of this territory and draws patronage along the Central Railroad from Cranford to High Bridge. This year marks the beginning of Professor Herr's ninth year as proprietor of the school and the growth of the school has been remarkable. It is now the only business college in Plainfield and is as large as the Elizabeth schools.

As the arrangement of the work makes it possible for students to enter at any time, there will be a considerable increase over the present splendid showing during this month, so that October will undoubtedly mark a record for attendance.

WILL ELIMINATE BASKET FRAUDS

Union County Sealer A. W. Schwartz to Advertise State's New Law.

A NEW STANDARD

Housewives Should Be on Their Guard to Prevent Hucksters From Cheating Them—How Frauds Are Perpetrated on Public.

Announcement is made by Union County Superintendent of Weights and Measures Schwartz, that between now and September 15 he proposes to publish in the newspapers of the county a series of notices relating to the new "basket law" which goes into effect on November 1, and which will have the result of eliminating the alleged frauds now perpetrated by hucksters and other venders of fruits, vegetables and berries.

This law, which was approved on March 12 and in the passage of which Superintendent Schwartz was largely instrumental, as chairman of the legislative committee of the State association, is exceedingly drastic in the treatment of all sizes of baskets used in the sale of fruit and vegetables and will create a new standard of sizes. The occasion for its passage was found in the fact that under the old conditions hucksters were accustomed to carry three, five, six, ten and fourteen quart baskets respectively, these sizes affording many opportunities of giving short measure.

In explanation of this, Superintendent Schwartz stated that in many cases when a huckster takes to the door a basket purporting to contain a half bushel of fruits or vegetables he uses his fourteen-quart basket and the customer is cheated out of two quarts. Similarly when a peck is ordered, in comes a six-quart basket and again two quarts are missing. Vegetables and fruit are sold by basket and the baskets declared to contain certain units of standard measure, Mr. Schwartz says, when as a matter of fact they don't.

To remedy this, a new standard has been provided in the new law by which only certain sized baskets may be used, namely, two quarts, four quarts, eight quarts, sixteen and twenty, the latter size being included as this size basket is used extensively in shipping to the Philadelphia markets from South Jersey. The old half-pint basket for berries has been eliminated, the standard including only the one and two quart baskets.

BICYCLIST RUN DOWN AND HURT A YOUTH

Two unknown bicycle riders made their way in the dark on Saturday night along the sidewalk of Harrison avenue in the borough without lights or bells, and ran into Clifford Allen, son of David C. Allen, of that street. Investigation showed that the youngster had been knocked down and had his left leg broken between the ankle and the knee.

While no report of the accident has been made to the borough police, it is self-evident that both riding on the sidewalk and without lights after dark should be stopped, as ill results are bound to follow. In this instance, neither rider showed any inclination to stop and investigate the extent of the injuries they imposed upon the boy.

IRVING H. BUCKLE WEDS MISS LAUREL LEWIS

Announcements have been received here of the marriage of Miss Laurel Lewis, daughter of Judge and Mrs. William Lewis, of St. Paul, Minn., and Irving H. Buckle, son of former Mayor and Mrs. James F. Buckle, of Westervelt avenue, this city. The ceremony was performed on Saturday at the home of the bride's parents, but owing to the illness of Judge Lewis the wedding was a quiet one. Mrs. James F. Buckle, mother of the bridegroom, was the only relative present from this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Buckle are now enjoying a wedding trip and upon their return will reside at North Branch, Minn., where the bridegroom is engaged in the hardware business. He formerly held a position with one of the best western railroads.

Crash in Fog Near North Haven—Engineer Not Warned—Washington Starts An Investigation at Once.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 2.—Thirteen or more persons were killed and from 75 to 100 injured at 6:55 this morning when the first section of the White Mountain Express, No. 95, crashed into the second section of the Bar Harbor Express, No. 91, at Palcott Crossing, a mile north of North Haven, which is eight miles from this city. At ten o'clock thirteen bodies had been recovered. The first section had stopped at a banjo signal which was set against it. In a dense fog the following train failed to see the train ahead and plowed through the rear coaches all of which were heavily loaded. Firemen of this city were immediately notified and with a corps of physicians were quickly on the scene.

The dead and wounded were scattered along the track and many of them were taken to the New Haven-Wallingford trolley line, not far distant, where they were started for the New Haven Hospital.

A statement signed by General Superintendent Woodward, of the New Haven road, stated that thirteen dead had been taken out at 8:30. Express No. 95 consisted of seven cars, A. B. Miller was the engineer, and the conductor was L. H. Fowler. Second section No. 91 had stopped for a signal. The weather was extremely foggy, and other trains were running late. The Bar Harbor Express was due in New York at 7:36.

A. B. Miller, of North Haven, engineer of the rear train, jumped and saved himself. He was interviewed by Coroner's Physician Goodrich shortly after the wreck occurred and said:

"Owing to the fog I was unable to read the banjo signals along the line of the road without running very close to them. We came to the banjo signal a mile north of the North Haven station which was set against us. I immediately applied the emergency brakes but the crash came before I could get action on the brakes. There was absolutely no chance to stop."

L. H. Fowler, conductor of White Mountain Express, told Dr. Goodrich that Engineer Miller's statement was correct as far as he was able to observe.

The two rear cars were completely demolished. They were the Pullman sleeper Chancellor, from Kineo, Maine, and Kasota, from Portland, Maine. There were nineteen passengers in the "Kasota" and twenty-two in the "Chancellor." Another sleeper, the "Chisholm," which was third from the rear, overturned and lies on its side on the track.

The other reported injured up to 11 o'clock this morning were W. O. Rowland, Frankfort, Pa., New Haven Hospital; Catherine McLoughlin, 679 Vanderbile avenue, Brooklyn, not badly injured, New Haven Hospital; eanne Annette, Bayonne, N. J., badly injured, and Frank Candon, secretary Trenton Y. M. C. A., leg and forehead cut and back injured, New Haven Hospital.

The injured at St. Raphael's Hospital, New Haven, are Frank P. Shanley, New Haven, condition not serious; Ralph Downes, New Haven, badly cut, possible fracture; Fred A. W. Armstrong, Bridgeport, Conn., dislocated right knee and bad scalp wounds; George T. Korga, Japanese New York city, critical condition, not expected to live.

The sleeping car, "Chisholm," which was overturned, contained a party of sixty boys returning from camp at Cobbossee, Maine, in charge of H. R. Mooney, of New York. So far as is known there were no fatalities in this car.

The bodies of the dead identified follow: L. H. Martin, Bryn Mawr, Pa.; R. A. Hotchkiss, New Haven; A. Green, New York; William Altshul, Norfolk; F. W. Butler, President and sales manager of the Scranton Bolt and Nut Company, and a Japanese whose address is unknown. Raritan

The article in these columns on Saturday, in which it was stated that "A. A. MacDonald, Joseph R. Hickey, Philip A Hickey and Miss Esther Corcoran have been staying at the Casino, Saratoga Springs," proves to have been false, as none of the party have been there. The item was supposed to have been received from a reliable source, and we regret very much its publication.

At the election for members of the Board of Commissioners on Saturday, there was no opposition, and the following were elected: P. V. Z. Stryker, George Leibold, James C. Wyckoff, John Cagnassola, Frank Gallagher, Charles F. Smith and A. G. Chamberlin. The members met at the fire house last night and organized temporarily by the selection of P. V. Z. Stryker as chairman, and Charles F. Smith as secretary. The first meeting for the transaction of business will be held on Monday evening September 15.

The public school opened this morning for the regular fall session.

The annual celebration of St. Rocco Day drew the largest crowd here on Saturday night that ever gathered on the grounds, and the fireworks were far superior than at any previus celebration. Pickpockets reaped a harvest working among the spectators, despite the earnest efforts of the large number of special officers.

Miss Agnes H. McWilliams is visiting at Niagara Falls.

TUTTLE TO RETIRE AS COUNTY CHAIRMAN

Congressman Too Busy at Washington to Give Time to County Committee.

Elizabeth Sept. 2.—Announcement was made yesterday by Congressman William E. Tuttle that he will retire from the Union County Democratic Committee at the expiration of his present term, January 1. Congressman Tuttle made it plain that under no circumstances will he seek re-election. He has been a member of the committee fifteen years, five of which he served as chairman.

According to Congressman Tuttle, his duties in Washington make it necessary for him to sever his connection with the county committee. He is a member of the Congressional committee having in charge the investigation of railroad compensation on second class mail matter. This, he says, will keep him busy for some time.

The Union County Democratic Committee is scheduled to meet tonight in its headquarters, 21 Broad street. Plans for getting every voter in the county to register and the work in connection with the coming primary will be discussed. Formal announcement of the retirement of Congressman William E. Tuttle as chairman of the organization will be made.

It is said that no action will be taken toward indorsing a candidate for the Gubernatorial nomination. It is a rule of the committee to make no indorsement until after nomination.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Cowling and children, of Regent street, have returned after spending two months at Ocean Grove.

ITALIANS CELEBRATE; DRAW LARGE CROWD

St. Nicholas Society Displays Fireworks and Hold Band Concert.

The St. Nicholas Society, an Italian organization of Scotch Plains, held its fourth annual celebration on the ball field of that place last night. Fully 2,500 people were in attendance from the surrounding country, automobiles and wagons with occupants lining the road two and three deep for a quarter of a mile. Both grand stands were filled, while crowds of people swarmed over almost the entire field.

The early part of the evening was occupied with a concert by Roma's Band, of Hoboken. Fireworks galore, which included many elaborate set pieces, followed the musical portion of the program. The display of fireworks was equal to, if not greater, and more brilliant than the exhibition recently given in this city.

In the morning, the society paraded about the village, headed by the band.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Billings and son, of Codington avenue, have returned after spending two weeks with Mrs. Billings' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Thompson, of Brooklyn.

Giving Character For Fame

Here is a little thing from Bayard Taylor which fits our own business splendidly:

"Fame is what you have taken,
Character's what you give;
When to this truth you waken
Then you begin to live."

We awakened to this truth many years back—we adhered to it as closely as any artist ever held to his principles, or philosopher to his opinions.

And so our Fame, or "that which we have taken" is based on our Character, or "that which we have given."

It's a matter of cause and effect—of sowing and reaping; and no store ever sowed dishonesty and reaped success.

It can't be done!

GET MEDICAL AID QUICKLY FOR YOUNG

Some Advice to Parents Particularly Valuable When Schools Are in Session.

With the closing of the schools, comes a decrease in the number of cases of contagious disease, due principally to the fact that the school children, among whom these diseases are prevalent, are not brought into such close contact in such large numbers as they are when the schools are in session, and their chances of infection are thus greatly diminished. But as soon as the schools open again, the increase in cases is likely to occur unless all concerned work together in keeping contagion out of the schools.

The more careful inspection and follow-up system made possible by the employment of a school nurse, has done much toward detecting and excluding suspicious cases, but, quoting from the Bulletin issued by the Chicago School of Sanitary Instruction, "There is much that the medical profession can do; more that the parents themselves can do.

"The medical profession should be on the alert for the early detection of contagious diseases, prompt in reporting every case or suspicious case to the Health Department, and rigidly insistent that quarantein regulations be strictly observed.

"The doctor who faithfully discharges his duty in the presence of contagious disease is a conservator of child life, a community benefactor, but the doctor who fails to properly discharge his duty is a destroyer of children and an enemy of the community.

"Parents are more often responsible for the spread of contagion than are the doctors. In the first place they too often delay calling the doctor and getting a diagnosis until the case is well advanced, and in the meantime the contagious-sick child or others in contact with the child are going about spreading the infection among the unsuspecting well children of the neighborhood. The proper procedure is to confine an ailing child to isolated quarters in the home until absolutely certain that its ailment is not communicable to others; treat all children's ailments as suspicious until otherwise proven.

"Even after the ailment is known to be contagious and parents have been advised of the quarantine requirements, we find that many deliberately violate the lawful regulations and thus wilfully scatter disease and death in their neighborhoods. It not infrequently happens that the parents ask the doctor to violate his duty in the premises in order that they may not be inconvenienced by these necessary regulations. In some cases they even threaten the doctor with dismissal if he shows a disposition to do what he rightfully and lawfully should do. Of course only a weak-kneed, jelly-spined, incompetent kind of a doctor will accede to such requests or demands. Such doctors and such parents are public enemies, they should be treated as harshly as the laws will permit.

"In this connection let it be understood that it is the duty of every citizen having knowledge of quarantine violation to report the facts to the Department of Health at once. Such reports are treated confidentially.

"The fight against contagion is chiefly the parents' fight—a fight for their children's lives. The good doctors of the community and the Health Department stand ready to help you in the struggle.

"Consider yourself enlisted in this fight today.

"DO YOUR DUTY!"

POLITICAL GOSSIP INTERESTING TO YOU

Petitions are being circulated in the First ward for the primary nomination of Theodore A. Martin, of East Third street, for Councilman from that ward, on the Democratic ticket. Mr. Martin, who has been a resident of the city for several years, is in the express business.

Howard Lapsley is a candidate for primary nomination for councilman-at-large on the Democratic ticket. He would make a first rate city father.

The First Ward Republican Club met in special session Saturday night in the Frost building, at which time the question of the councilmanic nomination was discussed. As no other candidates had appeared in the race for the honor, the club decided to endorse Alfred A. Prudhon, of Leland avenue, for the office.

Mr. Prudhon is a member of the firm of Prudhon & Runyon, painters, and has been for several years connected with the local lodge B. P. O. E. He has always been a Republican in politics, and has served several terms on the city committee of that party. Several other possible candidates had been waited upon by the committee of the club, but failed to find one aside from Mr. Prudhon who would be willing to enter the race.

THE INITIATIVE.

The Progressives stand for the initiative. It is a cardinal principle with them. They believe that all authority in government should be in the people. That the people should have the right to suggest any new legislation which they think they need. Why should they not? This government was founded on the individual. It belongs to all the people—not the few. It is common for some to make it appear that the initiative is something that is objectionable. But this is error.

The initiative s only a power in the people to secure legislation which they want, and which their legislators fail to enact for them. What is wrong about that? The great trouble in the past has been, that the Legislature, under the control of the special interests, has failed or refused to give the people certain remedial legislation which they wanted but which the special interests did not want. If those the people elect to office refuse to represent the whole people, why should they not have the right to secure needed legislation by their own act—on their own initiative?

Party government in the past has done many good things. Before it got under boss rule it was usually quite responsive to the people, but of late years it has been used for partisan purposes. This must all go. There should be no partisanship in legislation. There is only one trust in a legislative position, and that is to carry out the will of the people. A member of the Legislature is not his own master. He is the servant of the people. He should be against anything that is against the people's interest. He is only a trustee for the whole people. The modern belief is that it is the duty of a legislator to see that all legislation should be enacted for the benefit of the average citizenship of the nation or State. This should be done without the slightest regard to any interest or any special privilege for the few. The interest of humanity in the mass must be the first consideration in government hereafter. The tendency to recognize this fact is the one hopeful sign of the Republic. The initiative will assure it.

S. W. V. TO GATHER.

Amid much enthusiasm Buffalo tomorrow will give welcome to hundreds of men who saw service in the army or navy of the United States during the war with Spain. The occasion of the gathering will be the annual national encampment of the United Spanish War Veterans, which will have its formal opening and will be continued during the remainder of the week. Some of the delegates and visitors will have journeyed from points as fa rdistant as Alaska, Hawaii, the Philippines, Cuba and Porto Rico to meet their old comrades and to discuss matters of mutual interest.

The encampment will again take up the project of a powerful military reserve for the national defence. The project has no parallel in the history of the nation. In effect, it is an offer from 200,000 Spanish war veterans, scattered throughout the United States and possessions, to maintain an organization and hold themselves in readiness for military duty. In return, the veterans will ask the War Department to grant them some of the priviliges given to soldiers in the regular service. In addition to the business sessions the encampment will be marked by many features of entertainment.

The Elizabeth Journal says that Senator Pierce, of Union county, who is a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, is more nearly allied to the Progressives than any other of the aspirants who have refused actually to enlist in the ranks of the Third party.

Congressman William E. Tuttle has announced that he will retire as chairman of the Union County Democratic Committee on the first of the year. The loss will be a big one to his party for Mr. Tuttle has made an ideal chairman.

Senator Colby's political record will bear the closest scrutiny, and as a result he never has to explain anything he has done. He is a remarkable man in all respects and would make the very best sort of a Governor.

Primary nomination aspirants should remember that tomorrow will be the last day for filing petitions.

FRESH AIR HOME CLOSING DAY

Two Ministers Speak at Service Marking End of Local Camp's Season.

MUSIC AS A FEATURE

Rev. E. R. Brown and Rev. W. S. Richardson Address the Poor Youngsters From New York's East Side Who Had Vacations.

The closing services of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home were held Sunday afternoon. James F. Parker, of the committee in charge, presided. Rev. Ernest R. Brown, of the Dunellen Presbyterian church, made the opening prayer, and instead of the Scripture lesson, one of the little boys recited the Twenty-third Psalm. The special music was rendered by the Children's Choir and the Iowa Ladies' Quartet, which has been visiting in this vicinity. Margaret Wissert, one of the little girls, sang an invitation song.

The speakers of the afternoon were Rev. Mr. Brown and the Rev. W. S. Richardson. The former took as the thought of his talk the subject, "The Lighthouse," and drew the lesson that the Home was as a lighthouse to the little people and their mothers and fathers. He congratulated Miss Curry on the success of the work accomplished and said that he knew of no work that commended itself to the charitable public as the work at the Home.

Rev. Dr. Richardson followed and his remarks referred especially to the religion out of doors in the country and he asked the children to take the lesson they had learned back to the city with them. The closing part of the service was given over to the members of the committee and Miss Curry for a few remarks. J. D. Loizeaux thanked the people of Plainfield for their part in making the work such a success.

Mr. Parker, instead of speaking, had the children, led by Lena Fischer, one of the older girls, recite in concert the Scripture verses they had learned during the season under his direction. Miss Curry then spoke in her earnest and pleasing way, thanking all the kind friends for their help. She especially thanked Clifford Braider, who, throughout the season has been in constant attendance at the services to help with the music. Mr. Braider thanked all loyal friends who had stood by him and given their services in any way. He also expressed his thanks to the local newspapers for valuable space given in the interest of the Home. The service closed with a prayer and benediction by Mr. Brown. Many regrets were expressed as the farewell to the 1913 season was spoken. The children and their mothers returned to New York, yesterday.

PLUMBERS' CLAMBAKE.

Seventy-five of the journeymen plumbers held their annual outing and clambake at Lee's Grove, Scotch Plains, on Saturday. Athletic stunts and games of all sorts occupied the attention of the pipe-fitters for the greater part of the day. A baseball farce of nine innings was the great attraction of the occasion when the aggregation of married men walloped the "old bats" from the field. Erwin Neighbour, of this city, prepared the dinner.

DR. BUCHANAN BARD OF GOLDEN EAGLES

Local Physician Honored at Annual Session of Order's Grand Castle.

Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, of Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagles, was elected worthy bard at the annual session of the Grand Castle in Trenton yesterday, and Horace J. Martin, also of Freedom Castle, was re-elected a member of the law committee. The castle voted to hold its session hereafter on the third Monday in September instead of the first Monday as heretofore.

Several original compositions by Dr. Buchanan were used at yesterday's session for the first time and were enthusiastically received by the knights. The music is intended solely for the use of the order and makes the ritualistic work more effective. About fifteen members of Freedom Castle attended yesterday's session.

FORESTERS IS LARGEST FRATERNAL ORGANIZATION

Henry Hansen has returned from Montreal, Can., where as a delegate he attended the session of the Supreme Court of the Independent Order Foresters, which was held last week at Toronto.

The adoption of a new plan places the order in the position of being the largest fraternal insurance organization conducting fraternal insurance on adequate rates. There are in round numbers something over 246,000 members and this plan will affect about 86,000 only. By this measure a lien from $125 to $260 per thousand is placed on all members' certificates who joined prior to 1899, and upon which they must pay 4 per cent. interest, which means from $5 to $10 a year in addition to the rates they have been paying. The principal is deducted from the amount of the policy at maturity.

RESTRAINS OSLAND FROM SELLING GOODS TO SELF

Trenton, Sept. 2.—Vice-Chancellor Backes, today, continued the temporary injunction restraining the Hudson Porcelain Company, of this city, from selling its product to Richard W. Osland, of Plainfield, who is president and principal stockholder of the concern. The effect of the order is to restrain Mr. Osland from selling to himself. The case will be continued on Tuesday.

YOUR LAST OPPORTUNITY

This week we devote to a final clearing of odds and ends of Furniture. The 1913 August Furniture Sale was most gratifying in its results though every sale leaves us with many odd pieces, samples etc., which renders the stock in a somewhat unbalanced condition. You therefore will find this the week of weeks for money saving wherever an item appeals to your need. The CLUB PLAN places these sales within the consideration of all responsible parties. Ask about the CLUB PLAN and look over the prices which will be displayed in red for the week.

STAGED AT PARKER FIELD

Laurel team was third. The girls of St. Mary, Irving and Franklin playgrounds performed the Kinder Polka with grace and ease, giving evidence of the long preparation they had made for the exhibition.

Edith Bowell, of Parker Field, and Amena Sweeney, colored, of Franklin, ran a nip and tuck race in the potato race, but the former managed to cross the finish line a scant foot ahead.

The one-mile run, open, one of the feature events of the day, was captured by Fiore Comune, from a field of twelve starters. He easily outclassed his rivals. Keeping well back during the first quarter-mile, allowing Ralph Runyon to set the pace, the winner gradually drew away from the field after taking the lead. His time was recorded in 5:12 2-5, which was good, considering the conditions. John Beattie finished second and John Carmichael ran third. Mann, the local High School sprinter, found the going too stiff and finished far in the rear.

Amid the cheers of the spectators, Robert Way was presented with the Claybrook cup by George P. Mellick, president of the Board of Playground Commission, for having attained the greatest percentage gain in strength and speed since the opening of the playgrounds for the summer season. The donor of the handsome prize was R. A. Claybrook, a member of the Board. The winner had been examined at the beginning of the summer, and again several days previous to the exhibition, and registered a gain of 18.99 per cent. To get the cup he won premier places in chinning the bar, standing broad jump and 60-yard dash, which were among the events arranged by Supervisor Wriston to show how much each youth had advanced in strength and speed. Walter Pollock was second with a percentage of 15.21. The average gain of all those who attended Parker Field was 6.70 per cent., which is looked upon as a excellent record for the boys and a testimonial to the instructorship of Mr. Wriston.

A Tarentella dance by the girls of Franklin, St. Mary and Bryant playgrounds closed the scheduled events of the exhibition.

The members of the commission, George P. Mellick, president; treasurer, Harry W. Marshall, and R. A. Claybrook, escorted the spectators to the manual training exhibits, and explained the character of the work and how it was taught.

Somerville

The public schools of the borough opened for the fall term this morning, with indications of increased attendance.

Yesterday was a quiet holiday in this place, most of the young people taking in the various excursions on the Central Railroad. The colored people had great sport playing ball, and ending up with an all-night dance at Germania Hall. Automobile traffic through this place had never been so heavy, while there were but few arrests for speeding.

The Rev. F. J. Soule, pastor of the Baptist church, is expected home from his vacation this week, which was spent at his former home at Alamo, Mich. Communion services will be held in the church next Sunday morning, preceded by the usual covenant meeting tomorrow evening.

Word has been received from Ernest Talbot, who left Somerville for his former home in England two months ago. Since his arrival there his father has died. He expects to return to this place in a few more weeks.

Just about midnight on Saturday the residence of Emile Robiole, on North Gaston avenue, just outside the borough limits, was discovered to be on fire by the neighbors, the flames coming out of the windows of the upper floors. There was no one at home at the time, Mr. and Mrs. Robiole and family being at Raritan witnessing the fireworks. Just what caused the blaze is not known. The alarm was sent in and the borough fire department responded, but was of little service. Neighbors carried out most of the furniture on the lower floors and the firemen kept the blaze from spreading to the barn. The house was built in bungalow style and was valued at $10,000, and was insured for about that sum. It was built several years ago by Alfred Ciminor, a Cuban, and was purchased about two years ago by Mr. Robinole, who made considerable improvements to the place. The family is temporarily making their home in the barn.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. van der Veer have been entertaining the former's brother, Cornelius van der Veer, of Scranton, Pa.

The election districts of the borough will be the same as last year, and the voting places will also be at the same places, with the exception of the third district. The voting place in this district will be in one of the new stores of the Van Doren block.

New Providence.

Miss Camilla MacDonald, of Syracuse, is spending the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Benamin L. Webster, of Springfield avenue, the West End.

An organization known as the Jolly Two gave a dance and reception in Pine Grove Hall, last night.

A daughter has been born to Mr. and Mrs. David Clark, of Union avenue, Diamond Hill.

"The Transient and Abiding" was the subject of Rev. W. H. Evans Sunday morning in the Methodist church. This is Mr. Evans' first sermon since returning from his vacation.

"The Only True Way" was the topic of Rev. W. A. L. Jett, of St. Luke's Episcopal church, Murray Hill, Sunday morning.

Rev. George F. Brauer preached at the Presbyterian church on "The Love of God," Sunday morning. In the evening he preached on "A True Workman" at the union service of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Episcopal churches, which was held in the latte. church.

Rev. Reid S. Dickson, pastor of the Presbyterian church, who has been spending several months touring Europe, returned last week. Mr. Dickson was accompanied by his family. The Dicksons are now at Bellport, Long Island, as the guests of Mrs. Dickson's sister, Miss May Tooker. Before returning to his duties here Mr. Dickson will go to the mountains of New Hampshire, from whence he is scheduled to return in time to conduct the services on September 28.

Miss Helen Bastado, who was to have taught the second grade of the Lincoln School, has resigned. Her resignation was received Friday. TWO BOYS DROWNED ON CANOEING TRIP

Bound Brook, Sept. 1.—Arthur Lester, aged 17 years, son of Jason Lester, of John street, this place, and his cousin, James Arthur Scully, aged 16 years, of Brooklyn, were both drowned in the Raritan river, yesterday morning, while enjoying a canoeing trip. The young men had travelled some distance down the river and in attempting to make a turn near the old boat house, the canoe upset, throwing the occupants into the water.

The young men were both poor swimmers and being some distance from the shore, were practically helpless. There was no one about to give any assistance. When the boys did not return a search was made. The canoe was found and later the bodies were recovered.

Scully had come here to visit his cousin over Labor Day and about 9 o'clock started out on a canoe trip. Arrangements will probably be made for a double funeral.

"VOTES FOR WOMEN" PROBLEM DISCUSSED

Arguments for and Against Made at Free Acre Colony Meeting.

Woman suffrage, pro and con, was discussed at a large gathering of people yesterday afternoon at Free Acre Colony, Berkeley Heights, it being the closing program in the annual two days' affairs held in connection with the exhibition of fruits, vegetables and flowers which was featured on Saturday. This exhibition was held at the colony hall and was well attended. There are about twenty-five families identified with the colony.

Bolton Hall was chairman of the meeting, yesterday, and the speakers included several who are prominent in the suffrage and anti-suffrage movement. Miss Sophie Irene Loeb, of the New York Evening World, who recently addressed the Pankhurst League in London, was the first speaker, her subject being "Why An Anti?" Miss Loeb was one of the leaders in the fight for the new cab conveyance law in New York and was on Mayor Gaynor's commission that drafted the ordinance. She spent fourteen months investigating the subject in Europe and in New York and was finally successful in defeating the opposition to the plan.

Miss Ida Simonton, the well known writer and African explorer, spoke on "Women's Rights in Africa," in which she said that the savage women of Africa have enjoyed the vote from time out of mind, yet they are slaves being eternally sold in marriage.

Dr. A. P. Firth, of Newark, addressed the audience from the negative standpoint and was answered by J. F. Tucker, of New York. Miss Mary Hussey, of Orange, who is prominent in the Essex County Woman Suffrage League, as well as the State organization, made an admirable address on "What the New Jersey Women Have Done to Secure Suffrage."

In connection with the exhibition awards were made. J. F. Tucker received seven prizes for the best variety of fruits and vegetables; Mrs. O. S. Fischer and Miss Anna Hore each received two prizes for the best display of flowers and Harry Haque received two prizes for the best display of fruits and vegetables.

SACRED CONCERT GIVEN AT THE MT. ZION A. M. E.

The sacred concert given at the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, Sunday night, was enjoyed by a large congregation. Alfred White presided at the organ, and was in charge of the program, which was opened with a voluntary. After the processional, prayer was offered by Rev. E. B. Maynard. The congregation sang, "Come Thou Almighty King." Rev. W. H. Hicks, the pastor, read the Scripture lesson.

Mr. White then played "Inflammatus," followed with the singing of "My Heavenly Home" by a male sextette. The choir sang, "Sing, O Daughter of Zion," and the sextette sang "Tarry With Me, O My Savior." The program was concluded with a selection, "The Heavens Are Telling," offertory and recessional.

PROCTOR'S BIG PROGRAM.

"The Flying Horse," a spectacular musical extravaganza in three scenes, is the headline attraction at Proctor's this week. It provides twenty minutes of wonderment, thrills and novel effects, including a messenger and the heroine. Katherine Scott offers a comedy skit entitled, "Freddie"; Bobby Leonard & Co. present the Jewish character comedy sketch, "Nearly a Manager"; Frank Howard, the old-time minstrel and friend of the late George Thatcher, is well received in old-time songs, and a clever monologue. Al. Bailey and the Terre Sisters offer a neat, clever colored singing and dancing act. The photo-plays are excellent.

TRI-COUNTRY CLUB HAD ATHLETIC MEET

Society of Union Village Witnesses Strenuous Events and Then Dances.

Many persons turned out to witness the Tri-County Club's athletic meet Saturday at Union Village. H. L. McDonough was one of the stars of the meet, winning the quarter-mile run and 100-yard dash in good form. Carl Sollman captured the shot put event and by jumping 10 feet won the borad jump. Albert Kyritz cleared the bar at the loftiest height in the high jump and Donald Swensen proved himself to be the best marksman by winning the shoting contest. Andrews, who is built along the William Taft lines, won the fat man's race from a "heavy" field. Miss Amelia Kersting and Miss Alice Cummins won the event for women and girls, respectively. The egg-and-spoon race, which furnished plenty of comedy for the spectators, was captured by Mrs. George Weitzman. The obstacle race was won by Lois Rogers and J. Henry Sticht knocked a baseball the longest distance in the fungo batting contest.

After supper was served shortly before 7 o'clock, dancing was enjoyed. Miss Lillie Handvill played the piano and Carl Sallman rendered violin selections.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

It would require a second Solomon to decide what is the most attractive and popular feature of George Kleine's artistic production of the Cines photo-drama "Quo Vadis" which is now exciting the admiration of the world. Some spectators enjoy most, the spectacular scenes of the arena with its ferocious lions, exciting gladiator combats and chariot races, to say nothing of Ursus' thrilling conquest of the savage bull, while others prefer the romantic love story of Vinitius and Lygia which is so completely related. Some admire the characteristic scenes of Nero's court with its brilliant pageantry, magnificent festivals and reproduction of Roman palaces and gardens—and a great many applaud the production for its deep moral and religious note, the impressive visualization of the early struggles of Christianity and inspiring scenes in which the Savior and the Apostles Peter and Paul dominate. Altogether it is a supreme masterpiece and the one word that fittingly describes it is "marvellous." George Kleine's "Quo Vadis" is announced for the Plainfield Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, September 8, 9 and 10, with matinees daily.

RANDOLPH PITCHES WELL.

Cliff Randolph, of this city, twirling Sunday for the Suburban A. A against the Chesters, in New York, engaged in a pitching duel with Hipfel and lost by the score of 1 to 0. The breaks were against him. He allowed but six hits and his team registered seven. Cliff also fanned seven men, while his rival retired but four players by the strike-out route. Randolph was scheduled to pitch yesterday afternoon for Plainfield in the championship game with Somerville but reported to Manager Dorflinger that his salary wing was sore.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

FRANCES MARSHALL

Pay the Doctor For Health.

Do you pay the doctor because you are well or because you are ill? Do you wait until little Johnny has begun to gasp with the croup or little Jennie has raised a fever of a hundred and three before you call the doctor in? That is one way, of course, of keeping down the doctor's bill. Do you do your own drugging and doctoring? That is another way of keeping down the bill. But both ways are extravagant.

One woman kept down the doctor's bill in this way:

She had a large family—ranging from the old grandfather whose rheumatism made it difficult to get out on damp days, to the baby who had not yet passed the teething stage. This woman had heard that it is the custom in China for families to pay their physicians—unskilled, in comparison to our own—for keeping the family well. So she had a consultation with the family physician. Fortunately he was enthusiastic about her plan, for he was of the new school who looks on a disease prevented as far more interesting than a disease cured. Together they formulated a plan which worked out well. It was this:

He was to visit the family once every month. He chose early on Sunday afternoon, a time when they would all be at home and when he was not busy. At that time he was to examine any of them who needed attention. He was to correct errors in their diet, to correct bad tendencies in the growing children, such as stooping shoulders and squinting. He was to watch the father of the family for signs of overwork, and to help the grandfather choose a diet which would lessen his rheumatism. He was to criticise the house mother's methods — the ventilation, the amount of sun and light, and other faults or benefits which his experienced eye would detect.

The plan worked wonders. Of course, occasional extra visits had to be made in times of illness. But he cured the family of a tendency to colds, for he found that their house in the winter was habitually too warm. He discovered that one of the children was suffering from eye strain, and needed corrective glasses —a condition the parents would not have noticed for months, when the wrong would have been far advanced.

The children looked on the doctor as a dearly-loved visitor. He would sometimes combine sociability with his professional visit and spend a couple of hours watching the children and playing with them and talking to the grownups. And at the end of a year the family was in such good health that the doctor laughingly said he was thinking of refusing to renew his contract for another year—the results meant less money in his pocket.

Some Cookery Suggestions

FRUIT SHERBETS.

SHERBETS are delicious hot weather desserts made with fruit juices, water and sugar. A tablespoonful of gelatin soaked in cold water until it is dissolved and then added to the water used in making the sherbet improves the texture of the ice. Some persons add the white of an egg, beaten stiff, stirring it in after the sherbet is partially frozen.

Simple Desserts.

Watermelon Sherbet.—Make a lemon ice with less water than usual and add the crushed pulp of watermelon. A little grape juice gives a delightful flavor if added when freezing.

Rhubarb Sherbet.—Take twelve rhubarb stalks and boil them for ten minutes in two cupfuls of water and two cupfuls of sugar. Freeze this fruit juice as usual. Just before removing the dasher from the freezer add one cupful of chopped raisins.

Served In Glasses.

Grape Sherbet.—Take a pint of water and in it boil one-half pound of sugar and a teaspoonful of chopped lemon rind for five minutes. Strain and when cool add the juice of one lemon, a half pint of grape juice and the white of an egg. When cold freeze. Serve in sherbet glasses.

Peach Sherbet. — Take a quart of peach pulp, a cup of orange juice, the juice of a lemon, a cupful and a half of sugar. Mix and freeze.

Cooling Confections.

Lemon Sherbet.—Take four cupfuls of water, two cupfuls of sugar, three-quarters of a cupful of lemon juice, the whites of two eggs. Make a sirup by boiling the water and sugar together for twenty minutes. Add the lemon juice, cool, strain and freeze. When frozen add the beaten whites of the eggs and stir well to incorporate them with the sherbet.

Pineapple Sherbet. — This may be made with fresh or canned pineapple. Take a can of grated pineapple, one and one-half pints of sugar, one and one-half tablespoonfuls of gelatin, the juice of two lemons. Dissolve the gelatin in a little cold water, then add to it one pint of boiling water. Let it cool, then pour one pint of cold water over the pineapple and strain through a sieve. Add sugar and lemons, also the yolks of four eggs for pink gelatin and only the whites of the eggs when you use white gelatin. Freeze like ice cream.

Pussy Was Stealing Fish.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—Why Pussy Ran Away From Home.

EVELYN had asked mother to allow her to accept the little white kitten which a friend offered to give her.

"And mother said I couldn't have it, though the kitty would have been lots of company for Tabby now, when she has no kittens of her own," Evelyn complained to daddy.

"If you had a white cat, how would you ever keep her nice and clean? Kittens can't wash themselves very well. White cats soon become soiled," said daddy.

"Why, we could wash her then," Evelyn answered.

"Yes, Shoppie gets into the bathtub and has a bath just as nice as anybody," Jack spoke up.

"Well, once I knew a long haired white cat. It had a charming temper and was always polite to every one," daddy went on.

"One day there was to be company for tea, and the cat's mistress made a nice salmon salad.

"She set it away on a shelf in the pantry and then went out, thinking she had closed the door after her.

"Pussy was watching and noticed that the door was left open on a crack. She pushed very gently at the pantry door and soon got it open enough for herself to slip through. Then she jumped up on the shelf where the salmon was and began to eat it.

"After awhile her mistress came into the dining room and, glancing at the pantry door, saw that it was ajar. She caught Mistress Pussy calmly licking the last of the salmon off the dish.

"Then pussy knew that she would be punished, and so she darted along the shelf and jumped down, overturning a jar of maple sirup.

"The sirup was spilled all over her fur. The cat ran out of the pantry, down into the coal cellar and hid behind some barrels.

"When they got her out no one would have believed she was a white cat. Coal dust and ashes and soot coated her fur.

"So they put some water, not too warm and yet not too cold, into the bathtub. Then pussy's mistress drew on a pair of stout gloves, and the cat was lathered with white castile soap. She struggled and scratched and spit, but her mistress held her firmly until she was clean.

"Then she was wiped dry and given a saucer full of milk. She was a white but sulky pussy. When the company came some one must have let her get out. At any rate, when her mistress looked for her she was gone. And she never came back."

Ladies' Home Journal Patterns

The finest pattern articles in the world printed exclusively in Plainfield in The Plainfield Daily Press. Ladies' Home Journal Patterns are on sale at A. E. Force & Co., "The White Store."

The Young Girls' Clothes Are Distinctive In Style While Simple In Line.

Fashions have always arranged themselves, and what is fashionable always become agreeable to the eye in time. There is really charming originality about the new garments. Perhaps it is due to the fact that at last there is no longer the painful attempt to flatten out everyone of nature's curves nor to compress the waistline into a smaller circumference. Everything is left very much as nature intended it to be. The peculiar manner of draping many of the gowns is one of the important details which is of much consequence.

One of the most attractive models featured for the season is brought out in the figure No. 7843. This lovely gown is adaptable for charmeuse or crepe de chine in one of the new midnight blues. It is suitable for a young woman who is in search of an informal costume of this character. It closes at the back, and has a tucked yoke or bosom front which is quite smart. The three-quarter length sleeves are designed in one with the bodice. A frill at neck and on sleeves is up-to-date in every particular. The skirt has a tuck above the hem which gives it added charm, and the draped sash of contrasting silk or satin affords novelty. This pattern is cut in 3 sizes, 16, 17 and 18. For size 16 you will need 4 1-4 yards, 36-inch fabric. For the draped girdle you will only have to have 7-8 yard of 22-inch silk cut on the bias or two yards of wide satin ribbon. 15 cents.

The school girl requires one practical coat for every day wear. Why not select the model No. 7896? It is called the "sports" coat and would be most attractive as well as serviceable made up in velours or mannish mixture. It is in single-breasted style showing upper left and lower right and left pockets which are quite handy at times. The collar notched in style is of plain cloth. Two-piece full-length sleeves with cuffs of the plain cloth. The pattern is cut in four sizes, 14, 16, 17 and 18 years. Size 16 calls for 3 yards, 42-inch material. 15 cents.

To wear with the separate coat there is not a prettier skirt than the one shown in No. 7701. You can make this up in serge or some fancy worsted fabrics. Plaided cheviot is very good and is excellent style this year. The pattern is cut in three sizes, 16, 17 and 18 years. It has a bip yoke that is becoming to the girlish figure. For size 16, use 3 yards, 36-inch material. 15 cents.

A Dogwood Design For Embroidering Your Blouse.

This design of dogwood blossoms may be embroidered on a front or back closing blouse of crepe de chine, batiste, nainsook, voile, crepe or handkerchief linen, with the color of the material and the flowers have many possibilities of arrangement for various styles of waists. These dogwood flowers are to be developed by working the edges of each petal in over-and-over stitch, the inside spaces or flat portion of each petal in punched work and the center of each flower in French dots. If you prefer, on a blouse of crepe de chine, chiffon cloth or charmeuse, the centers of the petals may be worked in darning stitch in place of the punched work.

These dogwood blossoms may be adapted in many ways for embroidering children's party dresses, nightgowns, combination garments and negligees of batiste, crepon or crepe de chine and you will find the design most effective for the amount of work necessary for developing it.

You might use this pattern for embroidering an entire dress of any soft crepey material using the yoke section on the waist and scattering the clusters of flowers on the skirt, or using one of each of the larger clusters on each end of the sash.

Sporting Editor:
Query—A man having an eight gallon measure full of cider wishes to sell four gallons, but he only has a three gallon and a five gallon measure. How can he measure it?—S. E. D.
Answer—Fill the three gallon measure and pour it into the five; then pour two more gallons from the three gallon into the five, leaving one in the three gallon measure. Pour five back in jug. Pour one from three into five, and it is split in half to sell the four gallons.
Or—Fill the three-gallon measure and then pour that into five. Repeat this operation, filling the five gallon measure. You will then have one gallon left in the three. Pour five into eight again, and the one into five. Fill up three and empty into five, and there you are.
Do you get the drift?

HOPE CHAPEL BEATS PRESBYTERIANS 6-5

Sturggle Went Ten Innings—Each Team Scores in Final Session.

By sending one more run across the pan than their rivals in the tenth inning, the Hope Chapel players defeated the representatives of the First Presbyterian church, Saturday afternoon, in a Sunday-school League contest by the score of 6 to 5. With each team having four tallies to their credit, the Presbyterians came to the bat in the last session and sent a run across the plate with the assistance of errors made by the Hope infield. The subsequent winners went their victims one better, however, and captured the game by scoring twice.

GOLF SCORES MADE AT PLAINFIELD C. C.

Result of Two Holiday Events at Popular Course Given in Detail.

Weather that was ideal for golfing attracted a large field to the Plainfield Country Club, yesterday. The course was thronged all day with lovers of the sport. The chief event was the first and second rounds, match play, in the Fall tournament, which was begun on Saturday with a qualifying round. The competition is for both classes and the first rounds were played in the morning and the second in the afternoon. All of the scores were close, one being particularly so. That was between A. W. Kleinecke and Dr. F. E. DuBois, which the former won by 1 up in twenty-four holes. The play will be continued on Saturday.

In addition to the play on the course, there was the first of the dinner-dances in the evening at the clubhouse. This was largely attended by the members, who welcomed the return of the social features.

The results of the play in the Fall tournament were as follows:

Class A. First round: P. J. McKeon drew a bye; D. H. Rowland won from H. E. Butler by default; H. R. Stockton beat J. E. Erickson, 2 and 1; F. O. Reinhart drew a bye; L. A. Chase beat H. G. Lapsley, 3 and 2, W. A. Engeman beat R. G. Morse, 7 and 5; J. W. Baker beat R. F. Murray, 2 and 1; S. T. Perrin drew a bye. Second round—P. J. McKeon beat D. H. Rowland, 1 up; F. O. Reinhart beat H. Another event of interest was the thirty-six holes, medal play competition, for both classes. Frank O. Reinhart won that for Class A, receiving a combination cane and silk umbrella, while T. S. Wheeler won the Class B event, receiving a cup. All of the cards returned in this competition were good ones. They were as follows:

SAURER LOST TO PLAINFIELD PETS

SCORE WAS 11 TO 1

Pitcher Dixon Was Effective Until the Sixth Session When the Visitors Scored 8 Runs and Won Game.

After holding the Plainfield Pets to one run up to the end of the fifth inning, the Saurer nine, champions of the City League, went to pieces in the sixth session and allowed their opponents to score 8 runs, in a baseball game played Saturday afternoon on Parker Field. The contest ended with Dorflinger's players the victors by the overwhelming count of 11 to 1. Up until the fatal sixth, Dixon, the diminutive star twirler of the losers, pitched superb ball but when his fellowmen in the infield blew up in this round, he became less effective, and the heavy hitting Pets battered the sphere to all corners of the lot.

Harney pitched eight innings and allowed but four hits, although he gave a like number of free passes. He was effective in pinches, however, and was given excellent support in the field. The three misplays made by the victors did not result in the lone score made by the shop team. Dixon scored one strike-out, his victim being no other than Joe Harter, who did not get on to the Saurer flinger's curves until the latter part of the contest. E. Stallings, with a bum knee, played a star game for the Central Leaguers, regardless of his handicap.

BAPTISTS WINNERS OVER MONROE NINE

Losers Out-Hit Victors But Errors Cause Their Downfall—Score 6 to 3.

Although they outhit their opponents 10 bingles to 6, errors caused the defeat Saturday afternoon of the Monroe Avenue church team at the hands of the leading First Baptists, by the score of 6 to 3, in a Sunday-school Baseball League contest. Catcher Stine, of the victors, was the shining light of the game and second honors go to Pierson, the speedy second baseman of the Baptists. The former accounted for three tallies and the latter, besides registering two counts, drove Stine across the plate by a long single in the fifth session. The losers changed their line-up considerably and seemed disorganized. The Baptists did not play their usual brilliant game and if the Monroes were not so completely off-color they would have been returned the winners.

MANAGER CALLS GAME SPECTATORS PROTEST

Unsatisfactory Finale to the Scotch Plains-Plainfield Contest.

The baseball game yesterday morning at Scotch Plains had a very unsatisfactory ending to the spectators. After battling for nine innings to a 5-5 tie, Manager Joe Alberts, of the Plains nine, "called" the contest to allow Walton, his star shortstop, to "catch" a train for New Brunswick, where he was to play in an afternoon game. The contest was stopped after the home team failed to put over a winning tally in its portion of the final round, after the Pets had tied the score during their last turn at the bat. Although the spectators protested, and hooted, Alberts refused to change his mind, although a Saurer player was on the field, in uniform, and volunteered to play the balance of the game gratis.

For Scotch Plains, Slocum pitched superb ball, striking out eight opposing batters. He walked four men, however, and once a man got on base, the speedy Pets ran around the sacks at will against "Hen" Alberts' throws. Eight double steals were registered by the visiting players. Walton played in brilliant style for the home aggregation.

PLAINFIELD DEFEATS SOMERVILLE IN BATTLE FOR THE LEAGUE PENNANT

In the first battle of a three-game series for the championship of the Central New Jersey League, Plainfield beat Somerville yesterday afternoon by the score of 6 to 5.

The contest was played on the Parker Field diamond and was witnessed by one of the largest crowds that has ever witnessed a baseball game in this city. The locals were returned victors in the last half of the ninth fanning after the Somerville players had failed to score in their portion of the final session. With the score a tie, 5 to 5, Ortleib, the local's pitcher, came to the bat and fanned. Joe Harter was hit in the back by a pitched ball and took first base. E.Stallings, after letting two wide ones pass, knocked the sphere to deep centre for a two bagger. Harter raced from first to home, accounting for the winning tally.

The game was a corker from start to finish, although things looked bad for the locals when their opponents tallied twice in the first round. But the atmosphere took on a rosy tint for the Pets and the Plainfield fans, when Pitcher Stack, trotted out to the mound to do the twirling for the visitors Stack, if stacked-up against a public school team would do as a pitcher, but not in the ranks of the semi-pros. He could hardly reach the plate when firing a few across the rubber in practice. And when the game began, he pitched four dinky out-curves to Joe Harter, and the latter took his base. A dinky out-curve was about the only thing that Stack could throw and he very seldom was successful in locating the plate with that, or even a straight ball.

Ed. Stallings was the one shining light of the game, and Joe Harter also played brilliantly. The latter got on first three times without registering a hit, and on two occasions Stallings, who was second in the batting order, came up and banged out a hit scoring the speedy Joe. Harter stole home for the Pets' first run while Stack made his delivery. He got a big hand from the crowd.

Grimes started activities in the scoring line for Somerville in the first session. He bumped the sphere for a triple and scored when Porter knocked a home-run, after Dalton had been put out on a fly. Wiltse and Samuels were easy out on infield bounders, retiring the side. With the score two runs against them, the Plainfield players came to bat. Stack passed Harter, who immediately stole second and took third when Ed. Stallings poked a long single to the long grass. As Stack wound-up to pitch the next ball, Harter sped like the wind for the plate, sliding across the rubber before Torpey could touch him Stallings stole second and third W. Stallings walked and went to second on the next pitched ball. Craig was fooled on three curves. Lewis sent the ball soaring over the outfielders' heads for a two-bagger and the Stallings boys each dented the pan. After pitching four wide ones to Nelson, manager Jack Torpey sent Stack to the outfield and put him out of the game in the fifth when Tommy Mullin borrowed a uniform and did the rescue act Porter, a left-hander, took the mound and Moran got safe on Wiltse's error. Dorman struck out and Ortlieb flied to first, retiring the side. The score, Plainfield 3, Somerville 2.

Somerville assumed the lead in the sixth by scoring two runs. Grimes took first and second when Lewis let a swift one go through his legs and took third on a passed ball. Dalton hit to Craig who held on to the sphere for fear Grimes would ramble home. On a ball, Dalton went to second Porter, the home-run hitter, then knocked a single to the outfield and both Grimes and Dalton galloped home.

The locals forged to the front in the following round when Ortlieb pounded one far out over centre and reached third before the ball was returned to the diamond. Harter poked a grass-topper to second and Ortlieb slid home with the tieing rally. Harter was sacrificed to second by Ed. Stallings and dented the pan when Bill Stallings singled to centre. Craig and Lewis were thrown out at first.

In the eighth Mullin gave the horse-hide a ride to deep centre and perched on third. Grimes drove a Texas leaguer over third scoring Mullin. Dalton rapped a low fly to Craig who threw to the initial sack in time to catch Grimes. The session ended without further scoring.

Torpey came to the plate first in Somerville's last turn at the bat. He popped out to Lewis. Conti flied out to Harter and Mattoe was retired, Craig to E. Stallings. The last half of the ninth was a short one, but a sweet one, for Plainfield. Ortlieb struck out and Harter was hit in the back, taking his base. Ed. Stallings came to the bat and the 3,000 spectators rose to their feet, loudly crying for a hit. Ed. let the first one pass for a ball and struck viciously at the next. The heavy-hitting first-baseman made an awful swing at the next one. Porter knew by the sound made when the bat struck the ball that the game was over. The sphere flew far out over Mattoe's head and Harter tore around the bags to home-plate. Stallings reached second and stopped. The crowd swarmed out on the field. The game was won. Plainfield 6, Somerville 5.

By banging out a victory over the Monroe Avenue Church nine Saturday the team of the First Baptist church added to its brilliant chances to capture the pennant of the Sunday School Baseball League. Hope Chapel is making a stubborn fight for the precious rag but the season seems too short for them to overhaul the leaders, unless the latter fall into a slump and the Hopes win the balance of their scheduled games. The Baptists are now 132 points a head of the second place team and even if they should lose the next game and the Chapelites should be returned a winner, the present leaders would still stay on top by 33 points. The Hope Chapel players again subdued the First Presbyterians, and pulled further away from the Monroe Ave. M. E. team, which occupies the third rung of the championship ladder. The Park Avenue church team did not play Saturday.

ARROWS DEFEAT GIANTS.

The speedy Arrows won from the Giants yesterday afternoon by the score of 9 to 1 in a baseball game played on Hyde's Oval. Billians started to pitch for the Giants but was knocked from the box. Leak and Larton were the battery for the victors.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

The Plainfield-Somerville struggle was a thriller.

The game began as if it was going to end in a farce, but the finish was of a brand that you read about. And Ed Stallings and Joe Harter were the heroes.

Pitcher Stack, of Somerville, was the "find" of the season—for the Pets.

Ortlieb, although touched up at times, played a steady game and helped to win the contest by rapping out a single and a three-bagger and registering one run.

When Umpire O'Rourke announced the batteries, everybody thought Jack Torpey had hired Stack, of big league fame, to do the twirling for the visitors. What a come down.

Lewis, the former Williams College star, scored the first run in the Plainfield-Saurer game. In the sixth, the speedy shortstop hit for three bases, scoring Craig and W. Stallings. His work in the field was also of high order.

Dixon, the Saurer twirler, made Joe Harter fan the breeze for a strike-out on the Newarker's second trip to the plate in Saturday's game. Joe got even though in the sixth session, when he poked a single past the third cushion, scoring Dorman and Nelson.

Giddes, in right field for the Pets, played a star game against Saurer. In the sixth he caught flies that were labeled for three bases, after hard runs.

From a baseball stand-point the Scotch Plains-Saurer contest Sunday was a farce.

We have heard of the Chicago fans who want the baseball scribes to 'cut' the slang stuff in their write-ups of the national pastime. But here is a new one: A Scotch Plains fan of the fair sex sitting in the bleachers at Sunday's game remarked: "I should think they would make the spectators eliminate the usage of slang at baseball games." Oh deer-o-deer.

SAURERS LOSE GAME TO SCOTCH PLAINS

In Comedy Sketch the Home Team Defeats the Shop Nine 7 to 0.

In a burlesque game of baseball at Scotch Plains, Sunday afternoon, the nine of that place easily defeated the Saurer shop team by the score of 7 to 0. Catcher Bergen and First Baseman Britt Martin, of the losers, were the main attractions in the cast. Their numerous misplays had the spectators poking fun at them throughout the contest. At one time, Bergen muffed a ball thrown to him by an infielder to catch a runner attempting to score, and the big blonde watched two men scamper across the pan as he slowly walked in the direction taken by the sphere he missed. "Kate" Mulder began the twirling for the Saurer aggregation but he was yanked from the box when the home team began to knock his offerings to every corner of the lot. Young Dixon then took the mound. Ortlieb twirled a steady game up until the eighth session, when he was taken out and Manager Joe Alberts went in to pitch—just to add more humor to the occasion.

The Saurer team greatly increased its lead in the City League yesterday by capturing two games from the West End A. C. by the scores of 7 to 6 and 7 to 3, and by these victories practically clinched the pennant. Throughout the season they have repeatedly exhibited their superiority over the other teams.

The Dixie Giant-Spicer game, which was scheduled for Saturday, was not played, although the managers gave no particular reason for the cancellation of the contest. Whether the nines will hook up later in the season, the managers have not decided.

VICTORS SHOW FORM

Outplay Opponents in Both Contests—The Scores Were 7-6 and 7-3—Losers Make Many Errors During the Game.

The Saurer shop team showed its superiority over the West End A. C. yesterday in two games and thereby clinched the championship of the City Baseball League. Both games were interesting, however, despite the fact that the leaders outclassed the West Enders at almost every stage of the game.

In the morning setto errors were costly for West End, the contest going to Saurer by the score of 7 to 6. Most of the winning team's runs were knocked in by Bergen, after Jaeger, Williams or Martin had reached first on errors or hits. Fulton, although he allowed eight hits, was strong in the pinches, except in the eighth session, when his opponents tallied three times.

Scoring three runs in the opening session and accounting for the same number of tallies in the final round, the Saurers ran off with the second contest by the score of 7 to 3. For the losers, Heron played a star game, making three hits, which brought in the majority of the West Enders' runs. Martin, the lanky first baseman of the Saurer nine, accounted for two runs and four hits, thus aiding his team in capturing the contest.

FORMER PRESIDENT W. H. TAFT, SAYS

in the New York Spectator: "There is no cause that I know of that works on a conscientious man who loves his wife and his children so much as the prospect of leaving them helpless in the world and dependent on others; and there is nothing comparable to the relief from this worry that the instrumentality of Life Insurance offers to a man who has a family, and who has only his brain and his hands to support them from year to year, and who must regard his possible death as the launching of those near and dear to him upon a helpless sea of trouble and want. It is to the lasting credit of the American people that they are coming more and more to realize the necessity for Life Insurance and are in constantly increasing numbers availing themselves of its benefits."

The O. A. R. Motor Company, of South avenue, petitioned the Council for permission to install two five-hundred gallon tanks, one for gasolene and the other for kerosene. This was referred, as was also a petition for lights on West Second street, between New and Liberty streets.

H. W. Hedley, of Newark, owner of land on Raymond avenue, requested the city for a verification of the same on the city map to meet the requirements of the State Board of Taxation. This was referred. The Public Service Corporation notified the Council that it had located a light on New street, between West Fifth and Sixth streets, as directed.

A communication was received from William Barrett, a former resident, who has removed to Westfield, relative to a refund of a dog license of $2.50, but in accordance with Corporation Counsel C. A. Reed's advice the city has no right to make such refund and Mr. Barrett will be notified to that effect.

Horace G. Adams, clerk of the District Court, reported receipts of $180.10, with a balance of $130.50 for August. Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett reported the granting of fifteen sewer permits for August and the expenditures of the poor department for the same month were reported to be $942.40.

DEFOREST INVENTS AN ADDING MACHINE

John Taylor Johnson's Son-in-law, Therefore Must Go to Work Though Wealthy.

Edward L. DeForest, of Garden City, scion of a prominent New York family, and son-in-law of the late John Taylor Johnson, at one time president of the New Jersey Central, enjoys the unique distinction of being compelled to go to work by his wealth. Although a millionaire, Mr. DeForest has turned an inventor, and the most recent result of his genius is the invention of an adding machine.

Mr. DeForest is a graduate of Yale. Later he took the electrical engineering course at Columbia, graduating in 1903. He is a cousin of Robert W. DeForest, tenement house commissioner of New York and advisor to Mrs. Russell Sage. His wife is a member of one of the oldest New Jersey families. In the days when Father Knickerbocker lived at Washington Square, the John Taylor Johnson art gallery with its $2,000,000 worth of paintings was a centre of attraction.

The machine will be about ten inches square and light enough to be carried anywhere. It will be numbered only from one to ten but any combination can be struck from these.

SOME PETITIONS FILED FOR PARTY PRIMARIES

Petitions for candidates for primar nomination filed with City Clerk James T. MacMurray to have names placed on ballots to be used at the coming primaries are as follows:

Herbert Buxton, as candidate for the Republican city and county committees from the Third district of the Fourth ward;

John Manley, as Republican candidate for constable from the Second ward;

William Newcorn, as Republican committeeman on city and county committees from the Fourth district of the Fourth ward;

Frank H. Smith, as committeeman on the Republican county committee from the First district of the Third ward;

William G. DeMeza, as candidate for the Republican nomination for city judge;

J. Hervey Doane, as candidate for the Republican nomination for freeholder.

MAKING PREPARATIONS FOR SCHOOLS OPENING

Principal Lindsey Best, of the Plainfield High School, announces that he will be at the high school on Thursday and Friday mornings and Saturday evening to consult with parents rearding the work of their children for the coming year.

Arrangements have also been made for the supplementary examinations next week. The examinations for Monday will be as follows: 8.30 a. m., English; 10.30 a. m., mathematics; 2 p. m., languages. Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock there will be an examination in history and at 4 o'clock one in science, and Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock the examination in commercial subjects will be held.

8,000, NOT 800, WOMEN IN ANTI-SUFFRAGE ORGANIZATION

Through an error, which was general in the newspaper throughout the State, the Daily Press in an article published last Saturday stated that there were about 800 people enrolled in the Association Opposed to Woman's Suffrage. Local members of the association have investigated the source of the statement and it has been learned that one correspondent in Trenton, who furnished the story to a number of newspaper, had made the error. The figures should have been 8,000, and this correction is made with pleasure.

"THE COMING OF COLUMBUS."

"The Coming of Columbus" will be the feature picture at the Plainfield theatre, today, and tomorrow, Friday and Saturday, the spectacular picture, "Victory," will be offered. The first three days of next week "Quo Vadis" will be seen here for the first time in pictures.

BORO SCHOOLS OPENED FOR TERM

New High School Principal, Albert Early, to Make Some Changes.

ENROLLMENT NORMAL

Some Important Changes Made In the Teaching Corps in Both Somerest and Watchung Schools in North Plainfield.

The borough public schools were opened for the fall term this morning with a full corps of teachers present. The registration was about normal, although it is expected that the enrollment will exceed previous years when completed.

Several changes have been made in the faculties of both the Somerset and Watchung schools. Albert Earley, who has been acting as teacher of mathematics, has been made principal of the Somerset school, succeeding Benjamin J. Phelps, who resigned that position last spring.

The list of new teachers in the High School include Miss Helen K. Ray, instructor in English, who is a graduate of Syracuse University, and has had several years experience in English and foreign languages. In the Latin classes, Miss Bernice M. Attner, a Radcliffe College graduate, will be in charge. Miss Attner has been teaching at Bay Shore, L. I., for the past two years. In the commercial department, Miss Grace Winnie, a graduate of Plattsburg N. Y. S. N. S., will act as assistant to Miss Montague, and have charge of the bookkeeping and typewriting classes. Miss Winnie will also be clerk of the supplies. Miss Jessie M. Utter, of Plainfield, who will be the music teacher, is a graduate of Damrosch Institute of Musical Arts. Miss Utter has acted as a substitute in the Brooklyn schools during the past two years. Miss Bertha E. Spencer, the new teacher in Domestic Science and Art, is a graduate of the Thomas Normal School, of Detroit.

The instructor in manual training will be Stanley C. Stillman, who has been recently in charge of similar work at Alfred University. The teachers in music and domestic science will give all their time to this work instead of two or three days a week as in former years. In the elementary grades, the new teachers have been assigned as follows: Second grade, Miss Edith N. Beers; first grade, Miss Nancy Woodworth; third grade, Watchung school, Miss Lora N. Bushnell. Miss Agnes Boxold, a graduate of Adelphi College, Brooklyn, will act as office secretary.

With the beginning of Mr. Earley's administration as principal of the High School, several changes in the courses will be made. As announced by the Board of Education earlier in the year, a course of agriculture will be introduced. A four years course in industrial and vocational training will also be added to the curriculum. In addition to these innovations, the commercial course has been materially enlarged to meet the increased demands of modern business practice.

PROGRESSIVES ACTIVE; WILL FILE PETITIONS

About twenty-five local Progressives met in the Babcock building last night to complete plans for filing petitions for various city and county committee offices. There are several districts where such petitions will not be filed, but the names will be written in on the primary ballots. It was announced at the meeting that Henry W. Herrman, of 731 Carlton avenue, would be the party candidate for councilman in the Second ward, instead of Stanley E. Gunnison, whom it was first expected would run. Mr. Herrman is an efficiency engineer in New York, and was active in the Progressive cause last year.

Frederick Conlin, who was president of the local Progressive league last year, sent in his resignation because of the pressure of business. As the meeting was not a formal one last night, no action was taken, but regret was expressed at Mr. Conlin's decision.

MICHAL MANSFIELD.

Michael Mansfield, of 225 Prescott place, aged seventy years, died at his home yesterday afternoon, following an attack of acute indigestion. Mr. Mansfield was a coremaker by trade and was employed for several years at the foundry of the Pond Machine Tool Company. He is survived by one brother, John Mansfield, of Paris, Illinois, and one daughter, Mrs. Mary A. Hutelmyer, of Germantown, Pa. He was a second cousin to John P. Owens, the Democratic candidate for city judgeship. The funeral will be held Friday at the home of his daughter at Germantown, Pa.

DEFER ACTION ON AUTO FIRE ENGINE

Common Council Decides to Postpone Acceptance of Local Concern's Offer.

AFTER A LONG TALK

Leighton Calkins' View That Council As a Committee of the Whole Should Discuss the Matter Prevails.

The attempt of Councilman Fred Endress to secure the adoption of a resolution accepting the bid of the International Motor Company to furnish an automobile fire engine for $7,000, the lowest bid, resulted in an animated discussion at the September meeting of the Common Council, last night. The resolution was finally laid on the table, and the suggestion by Mr. Calkins that the Council as a committee of the whole consider the matter prevailed.

The Council received a letter from the International Motor Company, through Mr. Endress, in which it stated that the automobile engine it proposed to furnish the city for $7,000 would be absolutely new in every respect; would be strictly in accordance with the specifications and would be fully guaranteed. The company added that it would be willing to have the engine submitted to any recognized test, and further explained that it is employing six hundred men who are residents of Plainfield, which fact should be given some consideration. It was also stated that the company has a large number of apparatuses in service in New York city.

Subsequent discussion brought out the question as to wnether the local company had any auto engines in service; whether the one they proposed to furnish the city was the best machine; whether it had been demonstrated and numerous other questions.

Mr. Endress said that the committee had gone over the matter carefully; that the company had offered to furnish the city a new apparatus, built according to specifications, fully guaranteed and that if it did not come up to the requirements the city would not be obligated to purchase the machine.

Councilman Edgar wanted to know if Fire Chief Doane favored this engine, which led Mr. Endress to remark that Mr. Doane was notified by postal card of a meeting of the fire committee, but did not attend. Councilman Wilson said that the city had advertised for bids and that the local motor company's bid being the lowest he thuoght it should be accepted.

Mr. Calkins asserted that he favored a conference of the whole Council to discuss the matter and he suggested that such a conference could be held at an early date so as not to delay action.

Mr. Reville said that the city had no option but to accept the bid of the International Motor Company, it being the lowest, unless all bids were rejected and other bids asked for. Otherwise the city must accept the lowest bid.

Councilman Endress in speaking of the matter after the meeting, said that the Plainfield Board of Trade was trying to boom the city and was urging people to patronize home industries and yet when the city has an opportunity to do that very thing objections are raised. He said that if the International Motor Company could give the city what it wants, accompanied by a guarantee, there was no reason why it should not be given the contract to suppy the auto engine. Beside, if anything happened to the engine it could be fixed quickly, whereas if another machine was purchased it might mean a delay of several days.

Mr. Endress further commenting on the disposition of the local company to do the right thing said that recently when it was thought that the thirty horse-power engine originally used in the chemical engine, which was rebuilt by the company here, was not of sufficient power, the company replaced it with a forty horse-power engine, without one cent of expense to the city.

It was suggested to some of the Councilmen last night that it might be well for them to visit the exhibition of motor apparatus now being held in New York in connection with the convention of the International Association of Fire Chiefs, and the suggestion was thought to be a good one. All the important motor companies are exhibiting in New York this week.

HER COUSINS KILLED IN RAILROAD WRECK

Mrs. Alling Hears Sad News—One Plainfielder Hurt—Young Grossett's Escape.

Included among the twenty-two persons who were killed in the railroad wreck on the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, yesterday morning were Royal W. Hotchkiss and his brother, Philo Hotchkiss, of New Haven, Conn., cousins of Mrs. Alling, of Woodland avenue, this city. Royal Hotchkiss was killed instantly and his brother died in the hospital. Mrs. Alling received a telegram this morning conveying the sad news. The brothers were aged 14 and 16 years respectively and were sons of wealthy parents. They were exceptionally bright boys. They were returning from their summer vacation.

Donald Grossett, of Woodland avenue, had a narrow escape from possible fatal injuries. He was a passenger on the Bar Harbor Express, but left the train at Portland, Me., deciding to return home on another train.

Valentine Goldsmith, of Evergreen avenue, was a passenger on the ill-fated train, returning home from a camping trip in Maine with a party of friends. He was only slightly injured and was able to resume his journey without much delay.

HER AGED HUSBAND MYSTERIOUSLY DISAPPEARS

Mrs. A. C. Lazzi, of 1171 West Third street, has reported to the police that her 76-year old husband has mysteriously disappeared. She could attribute no reason for his action and does not know of any enemies Mr. Lazzi had who could be detaining him by force.

The woman came to headquarters last night in a state of excitement. She said her husband had gone out for a walk and did not return. A search was made of the entire neighborhood, but no trace of him could be found.

Lazzi was a stone-cutter by trade, but has not been working for some time. He has gray hair and wears a beard. He wore a blue suit when last seen.

ELIZABETH "HOGS" IT; BEARDSLEY IS OUT

Ten Eyck R. Beardsley, a New York lawyer living in Fanwood, sends the following explanation why he has withdrawn as an Assembly primary candidate:

"I withdrew my petition as a candidate for the Assembly nomination as soon as I learned that Francis V. Dobbins, of Rahway, was seeking the same office.

"Last fall it was pretty well demonstrated that with more than one candidate running from outside the city of Elizabeth the nominations would all go to Elizabeth men. While I have a high regard for all three of the present Assemblymen I think in common with a great many others it is unfortunate that they should all come from the city of Elizabeth. We Democrats cannot continue to carry Union county after the Republicans and Progressives get together, which they undoubtedly will, unless we have a united and harmonious party, and this we shall not have if a residence in Elizabeth is to be a condition precedent to holding public office."

DESECRATION AT WASHINGTON ROCK

Youthful Vandals Break the Lock of the Crypt on Historic Spot.

HUNT FOR OFFENDERS

Police Chief Canning and C. W. McCutchen, Who Gave Land to the State, Indignant Over the Outrage.

Considering it the work of some boys, the North Plainfield township police are hunting for the vandals who attempted to force the lock of the crypt of the monument at Washington Rock about a week ago. A sharp instrument was used, being driven into the keyhole of the lock, rendering it impossible to open the door with the key.

Chief E. T. Canning says that in his opinion the guilty ones are boys for he cannot imagine that any grown person would try to desecrate a patriotic marking. He also believes that the work was done on a week-day inasmuch as either he or another policeman is always on guard on Sundays. "Many people seem to have a mania for writing their names on the memorial, but this is the first time that there has been any attempt of an actually destructive sort."

Charles W. McCutchen, who donated to the State the site of the rock upon which Washington stood to watch the Hessians, was promptly notified by Chief Canning after Chief Marshal Weiss, of North Plainfield, had made the discovery, is greatly surprised at the unpatriotic deed. To a Daily Press representative he stated:

"It would as though public opinion ought to be arrayed against this sort of trespass, which is an offense against patriotism, not to say reverence for Washington, and all that is held sacred by our people because of its association with him, to say nothing of its being a violation of the laws of the State and of the township."

The offenders, if caught, Chief Canning says, will be prosecuted vigorously and he will do everything in his power to see that they get the maximum penalty.

MISS JULIA MACKENZIE GIVES A CHARMING DANCE

Miss Julia Mackenzie gave a delightful dance at her home, Road Ending, last night, there being about forty guests from out-of-town and this city. After the intermission at midnight, dancing was continued until an early hour. Among the forty guests were a number from New York and Brooklyn. Miss Mackenzie proved herself a charming hostess and the guests congratulated her upon the pleasing entertainment.

Marshall, proprietor of Marshall's Laundry, who charges him with the embezzlement of $25. According to the police, Ward, a driver for the laundry, has been making collections and pocketing the money and making false returns to the company. Detective-Sergeant Flynn, who made the arrest, said Ward confessed to making several small collections for his employer and keeping the money for his own use.

Ward was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza and held in $200 bail to await Grand Jury action.

IT IS SERIOUS.

The constant aching of a bad back,
The weariness, the tired feeling,
The pains and aches of kidney ills
May result seriously if neglected.
Dangerous urinary troubles often follow.

A Plainfield citizen shows you what to do.

Mrs. Anthony Wahl, R. F. D. No. 1, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I had such distressing pains in my back that I could hardly stand and it was out of the question for me to stoop. I was all crippled up and I knew perfectly well that my kidneys were the cause of the trouble. A neighbor recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to me and on her suggestion, I used them. They gave me almost immediate relief and three boxes changed me from a chronic sufferer to a healthy woman. I still take Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally, when a cold settles on my kidneys and they act as a preventive of any serious trouble. You may publish this account of my experience for the benefit of other kidney sufferers."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

STYLISH—RELIABLE

Giving Character For Fame

Here is a little thing from Bayard Taylor which fits our own business splendidly:

"Fame is what you have taken,
Character's what you give;
When to this truth you waken
Then you begin to live."

We awakened to this truth many years back—we adhered to it as closely as any artist ever held to his principles, or philosopher to his opinions.

And so our Fame, or "that which we have taken" is based on our Character, or "that which we have given."

It's a matter of cause and effect—of sowing and reaping; and no store ever sowed dishonesty and reaped success.

It can't be done!

AGILE FUGITIVE NABBED IN CELLAR

Suspected Flat Thief Gives Cop Lively Chase.

FIND BOOTY ON HIS PERSON

Most of Property Burglar Had When Searched Identified by the Victims. Newark Police Believe They Have Thief Who Has Committed Number of Robberies.

Newark, N. J., Sept. 3.—Discovered robbing the rooms of Misses Margaret and Jessica H. Kidd, on the second floor of 147 South Tenth street, Jacob Holzman, alias "Schellen," of New York city, was cornered in a cellar after a chase through alleyways and over fences, during which several shots were fired. A quantity of jewelry and other valuables were found in his possession.

When arraigned in the Second precinct police court Holzman told Judge Herr that he lived at 310 Belmont avenue. He also claimed that Holzman was his correct name. Judge Herr held him in $3,000 bail for the grand jury and in default of the bail he was committed.

In the arrest of Holzman the authorities believe they have a thief who has been committing a number of flat house key robberies in this city. The police say he has a record. Holzman is keeping silent.

Miss Kidd and her sister went to Rockaway for a couple of days. A neighbor saw the thief's shadow on the glass door of the Kidd apartment and notified a policeman who lived in the house and who placed the robber under arrest.

When he was searched at the Fifth precinct station Holzman had a gold watch, gold bracelet, gold neck chain, gold cross, six gold baby pins on chains, two silver lavallieres, string of imitation pearl beads, gold neck chain and locket, gold cuff buttons, silk chain and fob, baby's gold chain, eight gold rings, seven teaspoons, silver meshbag, razor, silk cap and a pair of pearl earrings. Most of it was identified by the Misses Kidd.

When examined by Captain Long Holzman admitted that he had stolen some of the articles found on him from another house in the neighborhood of the Kidd residence, but declared that he would not be able to identify the house.

SPRY THIEF GETS $1,800.

Robs Philadelphia and Reading Station and Vanishes.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 3.—Taking advantage of the rush of home going passengers buying tickets for a train for Philadelphia a thief stole $1,800 in bills that had been stacked up on a rear counter by Ticket Agent Chapman in the Philadelphia and Reading station.

The bills had been counted and prepared for deposit in a bank. Chapman discovered the loss a moment after the train had left. It was stopped on the meadows and a search was made of the coaches with no result.

The thief carefully timed his work. Waiting until Chapman and his two assistants were busy at the front windows selling tickets he was hid from them by the ticket rack. He then sneaked in, took the bills and got away.

He was appointed postmaster by Grover Cleveland in his first term and in 1884 was elected to the state legislature. He was engrossing clerk of the house of assembly during Leon Abbott's governorship and was also on Abbott's personal staff. Mr. Pintard also had served as counsel for Red Bank and Rumson.

He was clerk of the board of education in 1911. The deceased was a member of the Elks lodge, the Knights of Pythias and the Monmouth Boat club.

Mrs. La Monte, who is the wife of the banking and insurance commissioner, succeeds Mrs. Lewis T. Bryant of Atlantic City, and Mr. Evans succeeds Professor Royal Meeker of Princeton university.

Mr. Meeker resigned because of his recent appointment by President Wilson, which will take him to Washington, and Mrs. Bryant retired from the board because of the difficulty in attending its sessions.

LONG SOLITARY CONFINEMENT.

Jesse Pomeroy, probably the most notorious life prisoner in the United States, on Friday will enter upon the thirty-seventh year of his confinement behind the gray walls of the famous State Prison in Charlestown. All of these years have been spent in solitary confinement. This does not mean, however, that he never leaves his cell. If he so desires he is permitted to exercise in the prison yard outside his cell for an hour every day in charge of a guard. But this is while the other prisoners are at work in the shops. He is never permitted to meet or see any person excepting his mother, who comes to see him once a month, the prison warden and occasionally the Governor or members of his counsel.

Pomeroy was a boy of sixteen when he was sentenced to prison for life for torturing and murdering little children. He is now well past his fifftieth year. Much of his time has been spent in study and reading and he is said to be well informed as to curent events. But he has never seen an electric car or automobile, never heard a phonograph, never talked through a telephone, and has never ridden in an elevator.

So far as the records show Pomeroy has served in solitary longer than any other prisoner in America and, unless the commitment order is changed, he will have to be kept in that manner until he dies. No great effort has ever been made to obtain a pardon for him, but some years ago the American Society for the Promotion of Criminal Anthropology petitioned the Governor to remit the solitary confinement clause of Pomeroy's sentence, on the ground that such a punishment is not in accord with modern public sentiment. But before the Governor and his council had time to consider the petition an ingeniously-made tool was found on the prisoner and the matter was dropped promptly. More recently the famous prisoner made a desperate effort to regain his freedom and did succeed in escaping from his cell. With the aid of a tool or tools which the prison authorities have never located Pomeroy cut the bars of his cell door and was quite a distance down the prison corridor before he was discovered and captured by the guards.

THE NEXT GOVERNOR.

It is important to New Jersey who the next Governor shall be. The indications now are that it will be one of three men. Mr. Fielder Democrat, Mr. Stokes Republican, or Mr. Colby Progressive. The primaries may eliminate one or more of these but it is hardly likely. If Mr. Colby shall be nominated by the Progressives, as now seems probable, the State would be fortunate.

It is no reflection on any other person to say that Mr. Colby would bring to the Governorship qualities that the others would not. He is a new man at the helm. He has no alliance that could in any way interfere with or hinder his usefulness to the State. He is an educated, clean man with fixed ideas and ideals on State policy. He could carry them out without fear or favor. The State needs new blood and a fearless champion of the people and popular reforms. He is just in the prime of life. He is safe and far seeing. He is open to reason. He is a student of governmental policies. There is not much tenacity to party in these days and Mr. Colby would be found safe for a Democrat, Republican or Progressive to support. When you come to a question of politics what difference does it make what party name you call a man if the man himself has the character, ability and integrity to stand for right things?

There is not a fair-minded man in New Jersey who would doubt Mr. Colby's qualifications in all these regards. As the Newark Call puts it: "Mr. Colby led in the earliest contests and has attained a national prominence." He would undoubtedly be a great vote getter as people view politcs n these days. He favors as the Call puts it, "regulation by the people for the people." Is not that the kind of man New Jersey should have as her Governor? If he shall be one of the nominees for Governor is it not self evident that he would command the votes of men heretofore attached to all the other parties?

THE SHORT BALLOT.

Many ask, what is the short ballot? Its name indicates the answer. It is simply to reduce the number of officials to be elected by the people so that the ticket will not be so long. The State ballot could not be any shorter in New Jersey than it is. We do not elect in our State by the people any other State officer except the Governor. The county ballot might be shorter, but it could only be done by changing the Constitution providing for the appointment of sheriff, county clerk or other county officers now elected. City tickets could only be shortened by electing only the mayor and he appointing all other city officers. Of course, councilmen would have to be elected. New Jersey has, really, a short ballot now.

There are only a few officials whom it would be possible to change from being elected to being appointed. There is a strong public sentiment favoring the appointment of all officials except Governor, legislators and mayors. It is really the ideal system. That system is sure to come. It always takes time to get political reforms embodied into law.

What about Freeholders and Township Comittees one naturally asks? The answer is appoint them. What a nice little ticket we should have if only Governor, Senator, Assemblymen and Mayor were elected. If Freeholders must still be elected then reduce the county board to three or five members and give them a ter mof three or five years and elect one each year. If there were only four or five names on a ticket how easy it wuld be for each voter to study out the character and fitness of each candidate and vote accordingly. It would tend to eliminate party loyalty and that of itself would be a good thing.

Let every candidate stand for what he is and not be voted for simply because he is on the ticket as a representative of some party. The time is fast coming when the man and not the party will be the test of every voter in casting his ballot.

YOUR LAST OPPORTUNITY

This week we devote to a final clearing of odds and ends of Furniture. The 1913 August Furniture Sale was most gratifying in its results though every sale leaves us with many odd pieces, samples etc., which renders the stock in a somewhat unbalanced condition. You therefore will find this the week of weeks for money saving wherever an item appeals to your need. The CLUB PLAN places these sales within the consideration of all responsible parties. Ask about the CLUB PLAN and look over the prices which will be displayed in red for the week.

NINE DEAD IN THIS WRECK.

All Burned to Death When Smashed Train Takes Fire.

Carlisle, England, Sept. 3.—Nine passengers were burned to death, an engineer was instantly killed and ten persons were seriously injured when a Manchester express on the Midland railway telescoped a London express near Hawes Junction. The wreck was partly burned. The collision occurred when most of the passengers on the London train were asleep. Both trains were from Scotland. As the London section came to a halt at Hawes Junction the Manchester train crashed into the rear of the London train, plowing through three sleeping cars. The wrecked cars immediately caught fire, and the nine passengers were burned to death.

The engineer of the Manchester train was killed in his cab. Several passengers were unaccounted for. At least ten of the injured will die, and twenty others were hurt.

"LAST HOPE" AT PROCTOR'S.

"The Last Hope," a great play written by David Belasco in colaboration with Richard Warner, will be presented at Proctor's theatre, tomorrow, by Emmett Devoy, with Hermine Shone & Co., in the cast. It is said to be stronger than "Within the Law" "The Master Mind," or "The Argyle Case." The play is lavishly staged. There are eight people in the cast and the play is in three scenes, the first the warden's office, the second the old tower, and the third the belfry. This will be the most pretentious offering at Proctor's. The rest of the bill will include Paul Porter and Alice Sullivan in a "Piscatorial Pastorial;" The Nola Family of four trapeze wonders; Elsa Balty and Sister in a high-class musical offering, and Harry Wardenn, the clever singing comedian. The photo-plays, as usual, will be the best.

RAPID VACUUM CLOTHES WASHER

Money Saving Time Saving Labor Saving

THE NEW WAY.

READ WHAT WE HAVE TO SAY

You can save many dollars in a year on your clothes and add a day of pleasure to your life each week with this wonderful Rapid Vacuum Clothes Washer, but cutting your laundry work in two. Most clothes are RUBBED OUT and not WORN OUT. When you send your clothes to the laundry what happens to them? They are soaped and beaten, and rubbed so that the hot soap-suds (sometimes a little acid added) is forced through and through the goods. This cleans the goods, but they do not last long. When your clothes are washed in your own home what happens? The hot soap suds are pushed in and out of the garments, as they are rubbed on the board. This cleans them, but wears them out. In every process of washing, soap and water are the only elements having any cleaning properties. When your clothes are washed with the Rapid Vacuum Washer what happens? Gallons of soapy water at boiling temperature (which sterilizes the clothes) is forced through the goods every 60 seconds. This cleans your clothes snowy white without straining a thread. You can now wash woolens, blankets, sheets, shirts, collars, bed quilts, etc., at home, and after washing the articles will be whiter, softer, cleaner, fluffier and more beautiful in appearance than before. Compressed air, hot water and soap does the work.

You can wash a tubful of dirty clothes in five minutes without rubbing, without bending, and with very little work.

A tubful of clothes can be rinsed and blued in the same way in one minute.

You can clean anything that can be cleaned with soap and water or gasoline in a few minutes, without straining a thread.

No more rough hands and tired backs for the person who does the washing.

The Vacuum Washer has no moveable parts, cannot get out of order, and with proper care will last for years.

WASHDAY NO LONGER A DAY OF DREAD

DIRECTIONS FOR OPERATION

Have your water hot, the hotter the better. Add sufficient soap and see that it is thoroughly dissolved before putting in the clothes, as hot water without soap will set the dirt. Use enough hot water to float the clothes, then operate the plunger up and down, each time a gallon or more of hot suds is forced through the fabrics, and the same amount is drawn back on the upward stroke. This suction force is produced by an automatic suction valve, which is a distinct and original feature of our invention. During five or ten minutes, which is required to do a washing, many hundred gallons of hot, soapy water are forced through the clothes, which cleans them in a more perfect manner than any other process and with absolutely no wear or tear. This is the secret of the success of this Rapid Vacuum Clothes Washer.

If you do your own washing, it will save you time, strength and temper. If you send your washing out, we know that you are not satisfied, as your clothes are worn and eaten with the strong washing compounds used by laundries. If you employ a maid, her time is worth money.

DO NOT LET ANOTHER WASHDAY PASS WITHOUT A RAPID VACUUM WASHER.

THE OLD WAY.

Which Way Do You Prefer ?

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT-AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 1.

THIS is a sort of before-and-after-taking Talk. I want to show my idea of the difference between a WANT AD. that is informative and attention-getting and one that is stereotyped and uninteresting—in short, the difference between "the quick and the dead."

Let's take the usual kind first—the dead one. It reads something like this:

> YOUNG MAN (28), Stenographer and Typewriter, desires position. Address S 7700, PRESS office.

The man who inserts an ad. like that can't understand for the life of him why he isn't swamped with replies. He doesn't realize that there are fifty, or a hundred, or two or three hundred young men in this town who are stenographers and typewriters and who are looking for desirable jobs. He expects that ltitle two-line ad. of his to get and hold the attention of every employer who is in need of stenagraphic help.....Well, it won't.

Now let's consider the other kind of WANT AD.—the live wire—the ad. that says something—the only kind of an ad. that stanes a decent chance of getting results. Suppose we write an ad. for that young man something like this:

> DO YOU WANT A HIGH-CLASS STENOGRAPHER?
> I have had eight years' experience. Am rapid and absolutely accurate. Have gone as high as I can go with my present employers and am looking for larger opportunities. Twenty-eight years old; single; well educated; of good address and habits. Highest recommendations and references.
> For interview, address
> S 7700, PRESS OFFICE.

"Oh," you say, "that's all right, but that kind of an ad. will cost more money!" Certainly it will. Suppose the first ad. costs 20 cents and the second costs a dollar and twenty cents. Isn't the fact that the latter stands a hundred times the better chance of being noticed and responded to worth the difference?

I tell you, you've got to SAY SOMETHING in your advertisins—even if it is only a little WANT AD.—if you want to get results.

FRANCES MARSHALL

The Late Supper.

The days of indoor evenings and late suppers have come back again. Not that the late supper is not a part of the summer's joys; but it generally consists of some cooling beverage or an ice. But for the late evening refreshment something substantial, like the maligned welsh rabbit, is really preferable to something light and sweet, like ice cream and cakes.

The welsh rabbit—by the way, incorrectly called rarebit—is indigestible only when incorrectly made or when eaten with an accompaniment of varied sweets. But since it is as easy to make a good welsh rabbit as a bad one, and since the dish is a meal in itself, and so can be served without sweets, there is no reason in the world why it should be indigestible.

Men almost always like it better than they like sweets, and it is more nourishing, and so more refreshing, than a lighter or sweeter dish.

To Make a Good Rabbit.

The first essential to a good rabbit is fresh cheese. Insist on having soft, fresh cheese, for if it is at all hard the rabbit will be stringy.

Cut a pound of cheese in small pieces. Beat an egg, measure out a cupful of milk, and mix half a teaspoonful of mustard with a little paprika and a pinch of salt.

Butter a chafing dish and heat it. Put in the cheese and melt it over a low flame. As it melts press out all the lumps with a silver or wooden spoon. When the cheese is melted gradually stir in all the milk, as smoothly as possible. Then add the mustard, salt and paprika. At last add the egg, stirring quickly as you do so, and leave the rabbit on the stove about a minute longer. Have thin slices of brown toast ready, or else use toasted crackers, and pour the rabbit over them.

When ale is substituted for milk the rabbit is not so nourishing.

Stuffed or plain olives are a fitting and appetizing accompaniment to welsh rabbit.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

Reply to Anti-Suffragist Placards.

The placards displayed in front of the Anti-Suffrage Headquarters, on East State street, Trenton, seem to the suffragists to be misleading. Answering the statement on one of the placards to the effect that the best child labor laws are in the States where women do not vote, Miss Helen Todd, former State factory inspector in Illinois, said:

"There are more than four million children now working in the mines and factories in the United States and that we lead all other civilized nations in our destruction of child-life." Continuing she added that the worst conditions of child labor, such as no other civilized country tolerates, is in the cotton and silk mills of the South, where there is no suffrage for women and where many children of nine and ten years old work sixteen hours a day. "Statistics taken by the bureau at Washington regarding the children working in the South reveal conditions so appalling that it is a disgrace to any civilized nation," said Miss Todd.

"It is to prevent such conditions of child labor," continued Miss Todd, "and to give the women in the home some control that we are asking for the vote."

"As a former State factory inspector, I can say that the statement published in the windows of the Anti-Suffrage Association in Trenton is an absolute untruth. In all States where women have suffrage the effects have been to immediately benefit the condition of working children. In every State where women vote there are laws which adequately protect the children in the industries in which they are employed."

Mrs. Rheta Childe Dorr, of New York, taking up the charge of the anti-suffragists that suffrage has never raised women's wages, said that voting alone has never won men's wages, but one of the first laws that the California women had passed after they had the vote was a minimum wage law for women. They have also a minimum wage law in Oregon, where women vote, and Senator Helen Ring Robinson, of Colorado, introduced into the Legislature a minimum wage law for women teachers, as a beginning for wage regulation in that State. In every one of the equal suffrage States the women teachers receive the same pay for the same work as men. This also applies to men and women under civil service.

"In New York City the women teachers fought for seven years to get their pay equalized and already the men teachers who have votes, are successfully working to offset the law," said Mrs. Dorr.

The placard: "Why this increase in juvenile crime in Denver," displayed at the headquarters of the local anti-suffrage headquarters was answered in this manner by Mrs. Frances Maule Bjertman, formerly of Denver:

"There has been no increase in juvenile crime in Denver. Ever since the juvenile court was established the rate of juvenile crime has steadily and rapidly decreased. The only possibly grounds for the assertion that juvenile crime has increased, may possibly be furnished by comparison of the records of the juvenile court today with the general court records before the juvenile court was establishd. In those days no statistics whatever, with respect to juvenile delinquency, were kept. In that, as in every other respect, a child who tipped over an apple cart was classed in the same category as the murderer and the thief. Today the statistics with respect to juvenile delinquency are kept so that now we know how many children are brought into court, whereas in the old days we had no way of distinguishing the juvenile delinquents from the criminals. If there is one thing for which the city of Denver is celebrated all over the world it is for its juvenile court and for the mastery way in which this court handles the whole subject of juvenile delinquency. From all over the world officials and authorities journey to study the system of dealing with juvenile delinquency as it is being worked out in Denver.

"This court was founded as practically everybody know, by Judge Ben B. Lindsay, of Dover, who has again and again made the assertion that it was women's help and women's votes that enabled him to start the court in the first place and to keep it going in the face of the opposition of both great political parties. Recently an unjust attack on Judge Lindsay has been sent broadcast through the country. This is unsigned and untraceable."

FRESH grapes are delicious and wholesome, but when there are grapes that have come off the stems or are slightly bruised it is convenient to use them in some way where this defect will not be noticed.

Made With Grape Juice.

The following recipes call for grape juice which may be made by pressing the juice from the fresh grapes and straining it or by utilizing prepared grape juice sold in the shops.

Grape Sponge.—Take two tablespoonfuls of gelatin, cover it with half a cupful of cold water, and when the gelatin is soft pour in one quart of boiling grape juice. Add one cup of sugar, the strained juice of one lemon and stir until dissolved. Cool, add the stiffly beaten whites of four eggs, beat until the mixture begins to stiffen, then turn into a wet mold and place on ice to harden. Turn out of the molds and serve with whipped cream.

Shaped With Gelatin.

Grape Mold.—Take a quarter of a box of shredded gelatin, a quarter of a cupful of cold water, three-quarters of a cupful of sugar, one cupful of grape juice, juice of one lemon and the whites of three eggs.

Soften the gelatin in the cold water and dissolve by placing the dish in hot water. Dissolve the sugar in the fruit juices and strain the gelatin into it. Set in very cold water and stir occasionally until the mixture begins to thicken.

Then add gradually the well beaten whites of eggs and beat until whole is very light and stiff enough to hold its shape. Pile slightly in individual glass dessert dishes and pour over it a custard made from the yolks of the eggs.

Light and Wholesome.

Grape Syllabub.—Take a quart of fresh cream, whites of four eggs, one glassful of grape juice and two small cupfuls of powdered sugar. Whip half the sugar with the cream, the balance with the eggs. Mix well, add grape juice and pour over sweetened oranges and bananas. Serve cold.

Grape Tapioca.—Press enough Concord grapes through a sieve to make a quart of juice. Mix half a pound of sugar with a pint of water and simmer to a clear sirup. Add the juice of the grapes as well as the juice of one lemon and about a cupful of tapioca measured dry. Soften the tapioca before adding. Cook slowly until the tapioca is clear. Cool near the ice and serve with plenty of whipped cream.

A Brown Bulldog Raced Up.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Billy Gave the Children A Fright.

SCHOOL had opened, and Jack and Evelyn were both devoted to it.

"I hope you will like it as well at the end of the term as you do now," daddy said.

"Of course we shall," the children replied, much surprised.

"Last year was little Jane's first year at school," daddy went on. "She was in the kindergarten class, and Antony used to take her hand every morning and lead her to school, which was only two blocks away.

"There were two crossings to get over, and they had to watch very carefully to make sure that no automobiles or carts driven by reckless butchers or grocers' boys were coming.

"When Antony reached the door of Jane's room he always left her with an uneasy feeling, for he was a shy little boy, and his first year in school had been very dreadful for him.

"But Jane was not afraid of strange people, and she soon was quite friendly with all the children in her room. Her little voice was the gayest in the little songs they sang and her tiny feet the liveliest in the games they played.

"Antony was glad—very glad—that she liked it all, for he shared everything with Jane, and he wished to share school. Why, did they not have even the measles and the whooping cough at the same time?

"It was not very long until Jane chose a little friend from among the little girls in the kindergarten. The little girl lived near them, so they often walked home from the kindergarten together.

"But it is of the first day they went home together I must tell you. They were walking along, talking quietly of their school, when Antony's heart stood still. A big brown bulldog was racing toward them as fast as it could come, with eyes glistening and mouth open.

"Jane and Antony had no dog at home and knew nothing about doggies except that the little boy remembered having heard his mamma and his grandma talking of a mad dog that had bitten a child in the city.

"And Antony, looking at the bulldog racing straight for them, gasped with fear. Here was a mad dog coming to bite them. What should he do? There was no place to run, and as quickly as he could he threw his arms around Jane and pushed her against the wall to shield her from the dog.

"The little girl friend laughed, and when Antony looked around she was patting the dog on the head.

"'Dear old Billy,' she said. 'He comes to meet me every day.'

"And Antony was so mortified that no one would have heard about it if Jane had not told her mamma."

Fashion Still Favors the Simple Frock for Informal Wear.

Simple as to line, are these early Autumn frocks, but they show little touches of novelty in the cut of the collar, or some odd quirk in sash arrangement. Here are two that illustrate this. The first, 7891, is a perfectly simple, practical model, with the convenient front closing, that women will not give up in a hurry. The novelty lies in the shaped trimming section of the stamped leather, soft as a glove, that forms a sort of extension of the front lap, and in the girdle and sash of crocheted silk, which is the ties of a butterfly bow. Paris is simply mad over butterflies, and they are shown in almost everything—hats, girdles, lingerie and in lace, ribbon, jewels and braid. The crocheted girdle is another new note, and women are crocheting these as they did the men's scarfs a short time ago. Dotted challis, poplin or faille may be used in fashioning this frock, which is in six sizes, 34 to 44, requiring for the 36 size 4 7-8 yards of 36-inch material.

The shaping of the collar of the other dress, 7893, is new, and the combination of materials is cleverly worked out, giving the impression of a coat blouse and skirt, though the dress is in reality a one-piece affair. The peplum effect is gained by making the blouse and the yoke of the dress of flowered taffeta, black with huge crimson roses, while a soft rose silk forms the lower part of the skirt and sash. The closing is in front, and the waist is in drop-shoulder style. Five sizes, 34 to 42, and for size 36, 3 yards 36 inch material, flowered, and 2½ plain will be required. Each pattern 15 cents.

Artistic Design for a Pillow Cover or Table Cover.

This charming design of conventional dahlias was adapted from a design made by that great English decorator, William Morris. You could not find a more artistic motif for embroidering a pillow or the table cover to be used in the living room, library or hall. This pattern, which is seventeen inches square, may be stamped on pongee, linen, poplin or moire silk and should be embroidered in colors, using three shades of yellow, brown, red or old rose for the flowers and two shades of soft, dull green for the leaves. The flowers should be worked with heavy rope silk in unpadded solid work, using the lightest shade for the center of the flower and the darkest shade for the outside petals. The buds should be worked in the two darker shades with the rows of petals next to stems in green. The leaves may be done in either outline stitch or, if you prefer, they may be cut from green material and appliqued with buttonhole stitch.

This design might also be embroidered entirely in white on white linen for use as a centerpiece or between-meals-mat, or it may be cut apart and adapted to the ends of a runner.

Transfer patterns for stamping this design can be supplied to readers at fifteen cents each.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

Poor generalship on the part of Manager Jack Torpey, of Somerville, lost the first title game for his team, at the hands of the Plainfield Pets.

His "star" pitcher, Stack, which he hired for the day, was the downfall of the Somerville nine. Had Porter twirled the first part of the initial session, Plainfield would have undoubtedly been unable to score three runs in that round, and the game would thus be awarded to the visitors by the score of 5 to 3.

If Stack has pitched many games this year he must have held a parasol over his dome, because the skin on his face was lilly white, and possessed none of the bronze hue, so noticeable on diamond warriors who play frequently.

Labor Day was a poor "September Morn" for the West Ends.

Joe Harter's inside play, although not noticeable by the average fan, has often been responsible for games captured by the Plainfield team. In a close contest, Harter can invariably be seen crouching near the batter on the local team, coaching less experienced players than himself, in the correct move to make.

Torpey and Dorflinger will soon hold a confab to arrange for the second game. If history repeats, three contests will be staged before the pennant race is decided. They're financiers, y'know.

Al Palzer and Francois Moran, two "White Hopes," will clash tonight in a ten-round bout at the St. Nicholas A. C., New York.

Ah Chung, said to be the only Chinese boxer in captivity, lost last night in the sixth session to Benny Leonard, at the Atlantic Garden A. C., in New York.

"Here Comes My Daddy Now," was the tune the band played at the polo grounds yesterday when Rube Marquard appeared on the field beaming with smiles The great flinger became the father of a bouncing boy yesterday.

No shirts have been washed for several days in New Brunswick. The "Chinks" were all busy discussing the coming of the Hawaii University baseball team, which is composed entirely of Orientals. And after the foreigners trounced the Brunswicks 6 to 3, the laundrymen spent much of their time entertaining the visitors and talking about the contest.

The Brunswick players didn't know whether they were being called names or praised when several Chinamen in the bleachers threw off their cloaks of usual silence and started to "root."

FAMOUS KEENE RACING STOCK SOLD YESTERDAY

New York, Sept. 3.—The dispersal of the famous Castleton stud of the late James R. Keene took place Monday night at Madison Square Garden before a representative gathering.

Peter Pan brought the highest price, the grand old son of Commando being purchased by Harry Payne Whitney for $38,000.

Colin, another famous son of Commando, and winner of $180,912 in purses, went to Price McKinney, the multi-millionaire of Cleveland, for $30,000. "The Undefeated," as Colin was called, was first to be sold, and as he pranced before the elite audience racing folk from far and near commented on his beauty.

GLENNEY BROTHERS PLAY.

William T. Glenney and his brother, W. Lester Glenney, of the Plainfield Country Club, both competed in the qualifying round for the golf championship at Garden City, L. I., Monday. The former returned a score of 46-47-93 for the first half of the round, while the latter's score was 55-44-99.

ARMY-NAVY FOOTBALL CONFERENCE TODAY

Washington, Sept. 3—The question of whether this year will witness an Army-Navy football game, for years past one of the notable events of the gridiron season, probably will be decided finally today at a conference between representatives of the Naval and Military Academies with Secretary Daniels, of the Navy, and Acting Secretary Breckenridge, of the War Department.

After the announcement was made a few days ago, from West Point that the annual game with Annapolis had been called off and that the Cadets would play the Carlisle Thanksgiving Day, the Secretaries decided that it would be well to see if the differences could not be patched up. Colonel Townsley, in charge at West Point, and Captain Gibbons, in command at Annapolis, were asked to send to Washington those in charge of the football arrangements.

Officers here of both branches of the service believe an agreement will be reached as to the scene and that the game will be played as usual.

GAME WILL BE PLAYED.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Washington, Sept 3.—It was arraged today at a conference between Secretary Daniels, Assistant Secretary Breckenridge and the athletic directors of West Point and Annapolis that the Army and Navy football game shall be played at the Polo Grounds in New York, on November 29.

LOCAL BOY SCOUTS ENJOY BIKE TRIP

Carry Message of Greeting From Mayor Stewart to High Bridge Executive.

Many local Boy Scouts are taking advantage of the vacation season to enjoy long bicycle trips to distant woods, or to the banks of a far-away stream, for a pleasant week-end encampment and the cordiality impressed upon all Boy Scouts in the honor code, help make the trips pleasant ones, particularly as the Plainfield youths are invariably met and entertained by the patrols organized in the vicinity of their temporary encampment.

Joseph Sutton, Thomas Fitch and George Reed, in charge of Leader Alfred Seals, of Troop No. 9, took a trip to High Bridge on their wheels, carrying with them a letter of greeting from Mayor Percy H. Stewart, to Mayor Williams of that city. Starting on Monday, August 25, at 5:30 o'clock in the morning, the Scouts made their way leisurely along the roads to their destination, arriving at High Bridge at 5 o'clock in the evening. They pitched a tent in Taylor's Woods that night, where they remained until Thursday morning. On Tuesday and Wednesday the High Bridge Scouts camped with them Riding three miles to Annandale, the local boys on Thursday established camp at Annandale, where they stayed until Friday night, accompanied by the Boy Scouts of Annandale. Sutton, Fitch and Reed took the train home from this town, because of the poor condition of the roads. Seals, however, made the trip alone to this city Saturday morning. He will deliver Mayor Williams' replying note of friendship to Mayor Stewart, when the latter returns from his summer home at Southampton.

ATHLETICS VS. GIANTS AT NEWARK SUNDAY

Jersey City, Sept. 3.—A needy Hudson county charity will be the gainer when the teams of the Philadelphia Athletics, under the leadership of Connie Mack, and the New York Giants, with Johnny McGraw in charge, will clash in a game of baseball at Wiedenmayer Park, Newark, next Sunday, Sept. 7, at 2 p. m.

Arrangements were completed last week by correspondence between the two managers that will insure the meeting between these two stars teams for sweet charity's sake, and both managers were unanimous in declaring that every cent was to be devoted to charity. Speculation is rife as to the possible lineup of both teams, and both managers are yet to be heard from on that subject.

RECORD BREAKER AT GARDEN CITY PLAY

Will T. Glenney, the Plainfield golf champion and his brother, W. L. Glenney, have been eliminated from the tournament now in play at Garden City, L. I. Jerome D. Travers, the three-time national titleholder, barely qualified yesterday in a play-off for the right to compete in the match play for the title. Charles W. (Chick) Evans, of Chicago, returned a 71, establishing a new competitive record for the course. This was three strokes better than the clever Francis Ouimet, the Boston golfer who created such a furore by leading the first day. Travers and Ouimet will pair in today's play. Evans' score now stands at 148 and Ouimet, 151.

FORFEITED GAME GOES TO PHILADELPHIA TEAM

President Thomas J. Lynch, of the National League, in New York late yesterday afternoon decided in favor of Philadelphia the game of last Saturday, which Umpire Bill Brennan forfeited to the New York team. This game was played in Philadelphia. The arbiter took this action twenty minutes after Manager Dooin, of the Quakers, refused to instruct the police to clear a space in the centerfield bleachers into which the spectators had crowded when New York took its last turn at bat. These spectators, in the opinion of Bill Brennan, interfered with New York's chances and his own task because, while entirely in front of the plate, they waved their arms and coats and hats.

WANT TO RENT TRACT FOR A BALL FIELD

David B. Martin, W. F. Wilson and J. F. Wilson in a petition to the Common Council, last night, stated that they wish to lease from the city the field at Rock avenue and West Front street, for five years, for the promotion of baseball, football and other field sports. The petitioners want the city to level off the tract.

Mr. Martin is one of the veteran ball players of the city, and for several years played with the Plainfield team. Inasmuch as there is no adequate grounds in the West End of the city suitable for such sports, it is believed that the one at Rock avenue and West Front street would prove a popular recreation centre. The petition was referred to the finance committee of the Council.

HEAP PRETTY SQUAW FOR GIANT JIM THORPE

Carlisle, Pa., Sept. 3.—James Thorpe, world's greatest athlete and now member of the New York Giants, left here after a twenty-four-hour stay, during which he announced his engagement to marry Miss Margaret I. Miller, a Cherokee Indian girl now in California, but a resident of Otoe, Okla.

WOLGAST GOES TO REST.

San Francisco, Sept. 3.—The obituary of Ad. Wolgast, former lightweight champion, were written yesterday on all the sporting pages with the record of his defeat at Oakland Labor Day by Joe Azevedo, a green and nervous youngster, who won the decision at the end of ten rounds. "What's the use of going any farther?" asks Wolgast yesterday. "I don't need to box for a living. I don't like these short fights, and I would rather quit altogether than spend my time training and boxing around like a sideshow man" Wolgast added that he was thinking of returning to his Oregon ranch and settling down as a farmer. Ad was unhurt. He fought a characteristic battle but was wild and his blows lacked the old sting.

PROSPECTS OF GOOD ELEVEN AT RUTGERS

Few Gridiron Warriors Lost by Graduation and Many Clever Candidates.

Pre-season football practice for the Rutger's College gridiron warriors will begin tomorrow, when Coach Gargen and Assistant Coach Loree will arrive in New Brunswick and immediately begin preparations for the opening game. Eddie Elmendorf, of New Brunswick, will captain the eleven.

Although Freddie Johnson, a backfield man, and Van Winkle, Julie and Bergamini, three line-men will be missing because of graduation, promising recruits are on hand to fill the vacancies. Among them is Dick Talbot, who for two years captained the Barringer High School team, of Newark. He is a big fellow and plays centre or guard. Gene Rockefeller will again be seen at full back and H. and E. Rockefeller, Tallman, Gay, McCullum, Toohey, Seiler, Todd, Folensbee, Harker and White, who performed last year, will all be seen again in battle array. Watkins, a former Peddie tackle, will be among the new candidates for the team and with many of last year's scrub team fighting for permanent berths, a good team and bright prospects seem assured for Rutgers 1913 football season.

CHANCE NOT TO QUIT.

Noted Manager Will Remain With New York Americans.

Frank Chance is not going to quit the managership of the New York Americans.

The "peerless leader" emphatically denies the truth of the story from Los Angeles that he was going to retire to his orange grove in Glendora, Los Angeles, at the end of the present season. Chance was at a loss to explain how the story originated.

"I have not the slightest intention of resigning as manager of the New York club," said Chance. "Instead, I am working and planning to put a real pennant contender into the American league next season. It's slow work, to be sure, for I have to go into the bushes for new material and then develop it for the big league. Unless circumstances over which I have no control arise, and I know of nothing of the sort at present, I shall continue with the New York club until I close my active baseball career.

"I have no apologies to offer for the showing of the club to date. I realized from the start that it would have to be entirely rebuilt in order to prove a winner, and this task, which cannot be accomplished in a week, is the one which is engaging my entire attention at this time. I expect by trade, purchase and draft to gather players who will strengthen weak points on the team, and when I get the combination together we will have a team to be feared. In fact, the boys are already beginning to play a fast game.

"My relations with President Farrell are most harmonious, and the support given both the club and myself by followers of baseball is all that could be desired. I am absolutely satisfied with New York as a baseball and home proposition."

RACES STRAIN ON BODY.

Marathoner Goes Through Nerve Racking Experience, Says Duffy.

"Football, baseball, rowing, boxing and some of the other sports all are a great strain on the body," says Arthur Duffy, the former amateur sprinter. "They call for the strictest training. When," he continues, "I was an athlete, some years ago, I was credited with running a hundred yards in 9 3-5 seconds. At the time it was said such a performance was a terrific strain on the heart and other muscles of the body. But how can such a performance be compared with a Marathon race?

"A Marathon runner must go through the most arduous siege of training. He must be prepared to stand the gaff for over two and a half hours of the most nerve racking experiences. He must have untold nerve, strength and endurance. There is no chance for the quitter in this game. Yes, no matter what may be said, a Marathon champion is a champion of champions."

CAREY'S UNIQUE FEAT.

Left Fielder Carey of the Pirates in a recent game with Philadelphia attained the unique distinction of scoring five times without registering a hit. Carey's performance has aroused considerable discussion, no one remembering a similar feat by any other major league player.

In the first inning Carey reached first base by grace of Knabe's fumble, while on his next four appearances at the plate he received a base on balls, converting each gift into a run.

To top off the day's play he stole four bases and twice advanced two bases on wild pitches.

BASEBALL BRIEFS.

An interesting Los Angeles item is to effect that major league scouts are "noticing" the work of Pitcher Jack Ryan, and that one club, Washington, has made something like a definite offer for this "budding" phenom.

Another Hawaiian has broken into organized ball. He is Pitcher Lewis, a member of a Hawaiian team that has been touring the country. He looked so good while pitching exhibition games that Fremont of the Nebraska State league signed him.

Pitcher Dick Robertson in the South Atlantic league so far holds the record for the year in organized ball for successive victories. He won seventeen straight before he was beaten by the tail end Albany team. It was his third defeat of the year, and his first since May 6.

The Brooklyn club has purchased Pitcher Elmer Brau from the Montgomery club of the Southern league. The latter club will divide the $7,000 paid for Brown with the St. Louis Americans club, which had a claim on Brown, in addition to giving St. Louis Pitcher Manning.

Myers, the elongated first sacker, is proving to be a valuable man for the Boston National club. The big fellow covers an acre of ground around the initial sack, getting all kinds of throws, many of which would get by a man of ordinary height. In addition to this he is proving a good sticker and a fast base runner.

Texas-Oklahoma league averages show George Robinson, formerly with Fort Worth and now playing the outfield for Paris, to be the leading hitter, with a mark of .322. Covington, the Denison first baseman, recently sold to the St. Louis Browns, has an average of .314, and leads the league in home runs, with ten.

MUTUAL RELATIONS AND INTERESTS OF THE BELL SYSTEM AND THE PUBLIC

The suit brought by the United States questioning the purchase of certain telephone properties in the northwest, as well as the pending Interstate Commerce Commission telephone investigation, have caused many inquiries. Without taking up anything going to the merits of these proceedings, it has seemed to us proper to state generally what has been our policy and purpose in the conduct of our business.

We have found, or thought that we had, that our interests were best served when the public interests were best served; and we believe that such success as we have had has been because our business has been conducted on these lines.

We believe that our company has an interest as vital as that of the public in the proper administration of the problems of electrical inter-communication. The success and prosperity of our company depend upon a solution of these problems which shall be sound from both the standpoint of the company and the public which it serves.

Following our own best judgment, supplemented by the best obtainable advice, we have endeavored to do what would best serve the public interest; wherever possible our plans have been disclosed to the public in advance, and what has been done in carrying them out has been along ordinary business lines, with the implied, and generally, with the expressed approval, authorization or consent of the municipal and state authorities directly interested. Our effort has been not only to obey the law, but to avoid everything which might even have the appearance of an attempt at evasion.

Our business methods and policy, and practically all of the details as to the transaction of our business, are matters of common knowledge and are, and for many years have been, well known to the government. We will willingly furnish the government any additional information which is in our possession or under our control, and will cordially co-operate with it in obtaining such further information as it may require. Every possible assistance will be given by us to the courts in their effort to determine whether our policy is or has been inimical to the public interest. We desire that anything wrong be corrected; we will voluntarily rectify any wrong that may be pointed out to us; and, so far as it may be determined that our policy or any act under it is against the public interest, we will promptly conform to such determination.

We believe that if each of our exchanges were made an independent unit and if each connecting line were put under a separate control, the effect upon the telephone service of the country would be a condition so intolerable that the public would refuse to submit to it and would immediately require such physical connection and common control of these various units as would amalgamate them into a single system. Physical connection in the case of telephone or telegraph does not mean transfer of messages from one line to the other. It means such a connection as will permit one person to have the actual possession of the particular line of communication from one end of it to the other and this can only be given efficiently by exchange systems and connecting lines under a common control; and that is what the Bell System is.

In this connection, and for general information, we will restate the policy which controlled the building up of the Bell System, and our belief as to what a telephone system should be, and what are its relations to the public.

We believe in and were the first to advocate state or government control and regulation of public utilities; that this control or regulation should be by permanent quasi-judicial bodies, acting after thorough investigation and governed by the equities of each case; and that this control or regulation, beyond requiring the greatest efficiency and economy, should not interfere with management or operation. We believe that these bodies, if they are to be permanent, effective and of public benefit, should be thoroughly representative; they should be of such character and should so conduct their investigations and deliberations as to command such respect from both the public and the corporations that both will without question accept their conclusions.

We believe that the public would in this way get all the advantages and avoid all the manifest disadvantages of public ownership.

We believe that centers of business and population exist for the convenience of the public as a whole, and that no such center can prosper without sufficient and efficient means of intercourse with others centers and tributary territories; that such means can only be afforded by prosperous utility and service companies and that fair rates are essential to prosperous companies. We do not believe that any public either desires or can obtain, nor can any service or utility furnish, permanent and efficient service at less than cost, including capital charges. We believe that ultimately the public either directly or indirectly pays the losses involved in the efforts to furnish such service at less than its fair cost either through the loss of the capital involved, the losses incident to poor service or the necessary increase in charges required to pay for duplication of capital.

We believe that the highest commercial value of the telephone service depends on its completeness—on the extent and comprehensiveness of the facilities for intercommunication, not only between individuals but between centers of population, that no isolated section can be considered independently of any other section or of the whole; that rates must be so adjusted as to make it possible to obtain the maximum development by making it possible for every one to be connected who will add to the value of the system, thus giving the greatest value to the greatest number; that the inter-dependence of the telephone service and the value of complete and universal intercommunication justify and require some services partly at the expense of the whole for the benefit of the whole.

We believe that this highest commercial value can only be attained by one system under one common control and that it cannot be given by independent systems unless they are operated under agreements which result in one common control and one common interest, in effect making them a single system.

We believe that rates should be so adjusted as to afford the company sufficient revenue to pay such wages and compensation as will secure the most efficient service; to maintain the very highest and most advanced standards of plant and apparatus, to carry on such scientific and experimental research and inventions as to apparatus and methods as to insure the highest standards, and to carry to reserve and depreciation such amounts as will enable the company at any time to replace old plant and old methods with new plant and new methods as fast as they may be developed and found to be to the advantage of the service. We believe that in addition, such fair charges should be paid upon the investment in plant as will enable the company at any time to obtain money necessary to provide the plant required to meet the continuing demands of the public; and in order that waste and duplication of effort may be avoided and uniformity of purpose and common control be enforced, that there should be a centralized general administration in close communication with and having general authority over the whole on matters common to all or matters of general policy.

We believe that any surplus beyond that necessary to equalize dividends on a fair basis should be used by the company for the benefit of the public and should be inalienable for any other purpose, and should be either invested in revenue-earning plant until necessary to substitute plant which may become inadequate or obsolete, or should be used to make the service cheaper or beter.

We believe that under proper governmental control and regulation the profits from promotion or operation allowed to be distributed should not be so large as to warrant or tempt complete duplication of plant and organization, with its duplication of its capital charges and its organization, operating, maintenance and depreciation expenses; and we do not believe that utilities giving at fair rates an efficient and sufficiently comprehensive universal service should be subject to limited competition, not giving such service. Competition which ignores the obligation to furnish a complete and comprehensive service is not competition, is not for the benefit of the public in that it does not reach the whole public interested.

If, therefore, complete duplication with its dual exchange connection and dual bills for service, is a prerequisite to complete competition, government control and regulation cannot go hand in hand with competition.

We believe that the record of the Bell System will be accepted by the public as fully in accord with these declarations. Consistent adherence to this policy has given the public of the United States the best, most comprehensive and cheapest telephone service in the world and made the Bell standards the standards of all nations.

To remove any possible excuse for misapprehension on account of the many misleading statements which have been circulated as to the alleged unnecessary and overcapitalization and excessive charges of the Bell System, the following statistics are given. Except where stated, the figures are for the Bell System; that is, the American Telephone and Telegraph, and its Associated Companies.

The entire Bell System on June 30, 1913, had outstanding in the hands of the public obligations (i. e., notes, open accounts, bonds and shares) to the par value of $776,000,000.

The book value of the total tangible assets, which is considerably less than their replacement value, amounted to $960,000,000. Many appraisals of property included in these assets have been made, and most of them under the direction of public authorities. In no case has the value as it stands on the books failed to be sustained, and in most cases it has been very largely exceeded.

The total dividends and interest paid during the year 1912 amounted to only 6.1% on the average of its outstanding obligations, and to less than 5% on the average value of its assets.

The actual cash which has been paid into the treasury of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company on account of the capital obligations now outstanding amounts to $22,000,000 more than the par of such outstanding obligations.

The Associated Companies collected from the public and paid back in taxes over $10,000,000 during the year 1912.

The steadily increasing necessities of the public not only for additional but for new telephone service can only be met by new construction, involving capital outlay. To meet these demands during the six and one-half years from 1907 to June, 1913, inclusive, the increase in telephone plant was as follows: Toll line wire increased from 1,460,000 miles to 2,242,000 miles; exchange wire increased from 6,000,000 miles to 13,000,000; the number of exchange stations increased from 2,730,000 to 5,200,000; the number of stations of independent companies connected with the Bell System increased from 343,000 to 2,620,000. The number of independent companies connected with the Bell System is about 25,000. The number of employes in the Bell System, not including the employes of connected companies, on December 31, 1912, was 141,000.

During this same period the number of shareholders of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, not including either the associated or connected companies, increased from 17,000 to about 54,000. About 47,000 shareholders hold less than 100 shares each; 6,500 shareholders hold from 100 to 1,000 shares each; 347 shareholders hold from 1,000 to 5,000 shares each, while there are only 16 shareholders of 5,000 shares or over in their own right. A majority of the shareholders are women.

PREMIER DECIDES TO RELEASE THAW

Get Him Out of Canada, He Orders.

DOMINION IS SCANDALIZED

Sarcastically Refers to Sherbrooke Jail as "Public Boarding House"—Meanwhile Court Reserves Decision and Prisoner Has Another Brief Respite.

Sherbrooke, Que., Sept. 3.—Secure from the immigration authorities who seek to deport him, Harry K. Thaw has another brief respite in the Sherbrooke jail.

Superior Judge Hutchinson reserved decision after hearing arguments for and against sustaining a writ of habeas corpus calling for the fugitive's release. Meanwhile Thaw will remain in his cell. Crowds gathered here for the fair cheered him wildly as he was driven up the hill on his return trip to the jail. He bowed in acknowledgment, but showed signs of extreme nervousness after the morning hearing.

Developments came fast. Aime Geoffrion, special representative for the provisional attorney general and premier, scotched the attempt of Thaw's lawyers to obtain adjournment of the habeas corpus proceedings by declaring that it was the attorney general's wish that the matter be disposed of forthwith.

This was a blow to the Thaw forces and to Thaw himself. His lawyers contended that to liberate Thaw on a writ sued out by his erstwhile captor, John Boudreau, chief of police of Coaticook, were perversion of the act and that, if necessary, they would carry the case to the "foot of the throne."

Prisoner Very Nervous.

W. L. Shurtleff of counsel for Thaw questioned the right of the attorney general to intervene, and H. R. Fraser defied the lawyers acting for New York state to cite one instance on record where a writ has been sustained when the prisoner was an unwilling party to the proceedings, as is the present case.

Thaw, paler than usual, sat through it all scrunched up on a lounge. He twirled his new straw hat to ease the tension, bit his nails and now and then scribbled notes, using his hat crown to rest the paper on.

Sir Lomer Gouin, attorney general and premier, intervened in the case through Aime Geoffrion, as special representative, and demanded that steps be taken at once to bring about his liberation from the Sherbrooke jail where for two weeks Thaw has defied deportation.

His detention was branded as a scandal to the Dominion, the jail was described sarcastically as a "public boarding house." Thaw as one who had boasted that he laughed at outwitting the authorities.

Probably 200 persons waited without the jail to watch Thaw make the trip down to the courthouse.

Outside the main entrance there were fully 15,000 persons. Several ran up to clap Thaw on the back as he made his way through the crowd, but La Force shoved them forcibly back.

13 DUBLIN FAMILIES BURIED.

Houses Collapse—Seven Dead Extricated—53 Persons Missing.

Dublin, Sept. 3.—Two houses in Church street, occupied by thirteen families, collapsed, burying all the inmates.

A large force of rescuers was speedily at work, and seven dead and many injured have been extricated.

It is feared that the death roll will be heavy, as it is reported that fifty-three persons are missing.

Heartrending cries are heard from the ruins, as many persons still alive are imprisoned in the wreckage.

The houses fell without the slightest warning. Church street consists of old, dilapidated tenement buildings, occupied by members of the very poor classes.

HARRISON RESIGNATION IN.

Addressed "To the Governor," It Goes to Mr. Sulzer.

Albany, Sept. 3.—The resignation of Francis Burton Harrison as congressman, representing the Twentieth New York district, to take effect Sept. 1, was received by William Sulzer. Mr. Harrison recently was appointed governor general of the Philippines.

The resignation was addressed, "To the governor of the state of New York." Following out the policy in effect since both Mr Sulzer and Lieutenant Governor Glynn laid claim to the gubernatorial prerogatives the postoffice authorities placed the letter in the postoffice box of which Mr Sulzer had the key.

BOARD OF TRADE WANTS TO KNOW

Jeffery Leads in Objecting to Purchase of Saurer Auto Fire Apparatus and Why.

IS THE MACHINE NEW?

International Motor Co. Official Courts Fullest Investigation and Offers to Have Apparatus Submitted to Hardest Tests.

The Board of Trade will interest itself in the plans of the city to purchase an automobile fire engine, according to an announcement made today by President William Jeffery. There will be a meeting of the board of directors at Mr. Jeffery's office at 4 o'clock this afternoon, when the matter will be discussed and the board will be represented at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council on Monday, September 15.

In speaking of the matter today, Mr. Jeffery said that if the city authorities attempt to accept the bid of the International Motor Company, steps will be taken to secure an injunction against restraining the Common Council from doing so.

In is the opinion of Mr. Jeffery that the local motor company intends selling the city what he considers a second-hand machine, that in his opinion it will not be strictly a new apparatus, that he believes it intends to simply take the engine and motor from the apparatus now at the works, which was brought from abroad, and place an American body on it. This, Mr. Jeffery says, does not comply with the specifications as set forth in the Council's advertisements for bids.

Mr. Casner, an official of the International Motor Company, denies the report that the engine the company proposes to furnish the city if awarded the contract, will be a second-hand one in any respect. He declares that it will be a new machine, that it will comply strictly with the specifications, be fully guaranteed and that the company will stand by that guarantee. Mr. Casner explains that throughout this whole controversy there has been frequent reference to the words "foreign make," inferring that this is undesirable in case of a break or trouble with any of the parts.

Regarding this, Mr. Casner says that a false impression prevails. All the work of the Saurer plant is of "foreign design" and not "foreign make," and that any motor or parts made either here or in Switzerland are made according to Mr. Saurer's design, but all are interchangeable and repairs could be made here promptly and without delay. The company according to Mr. Casner, welcomes the most severe test possible, suggesting that the engine be subjected to steady running day and night for a week or even two weeks, the longer the better it will suit the company.

COULD NOT DRAW JURIES IN SOMERSET FOR TERM

Somerville, Sept. 4.—On account of the absence of Supreme Court Justice Charles W. Parker, who is still on his vacation in Canada, and because of the non-appearance of the official list of 500 names, which had been mailed to Justice Parker for his approval, it was impossible for Judge D. H. Beekman to draw the list of grand and petit jurors in accordance with the provisions of the new law when the Somerset County Courts convened yesterday at Somerville for that purpose.

Judge Beekman adjourned court until Saturday, when it is expected that the missing list will be on hand. Under the provisions of the new law it is mandatory that the list of grand and petit jurors be drawn not later than next Monday, fifteen days before the opening of the September term of courts.

He holds a responsible position with the Pyrene Fire Extinguishing Company, of New York.

Local Y. M. C. A. Undergoing Repairs—Gymnastic Classes Will Open Oct. 6.

The Senior Leaders Corps of the Y. M. C. A. held a meeting Tuesday night, adopted a new constitution and set of bylaws and after electing officers for the ensuing season, talked over plans for the reopening of the gymnastic classes on Monday, October 6. Raymond Boice was named as president and Cedric Ostrom was elected secretary and treasurer. Fourteen members voted.

The leaders corps represent the most proficient turners and gymnasts in the senior class and will soon begin a special course of preparation for the opening of the season, under the direction of Physical Director Oslin. At present the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium and swimming pool is "closed for repairs," until Wednesday, September 10. The swimming pool room is being repainted and various minor alterations and improvements are being made in the gym. It is expected that this year's enrollment will be larger than ever, as many new members have joined the institution this summer.

ANOTHER BUILDING BOOM IN NORTH PLAINFIELD

The Union County Investment Company, at the September meeting of the North Plainfield Council, tomorrow night, will present a map of a tract in the borough, which has been developed for building purposes, which it will ask the Council to approve. This particular tract, comprising three city blocks, extends on one side from Somerset street to Harold street, the fourth block from Watchung avenue to Newton street, is not included, and on the other side it extends from Hudson avenue to the L. M. Coddington line.

The tract, which is known as the Hudson Terrace of the Union county Investment Company ,adjoins that of the Hudson Terrace of Foster & Goetz, which is also under development.

The Union County Investment Company's tract is divided into lots twenty-five feet wide and from 130 to 136 feet deep, and not less than two lots will be sold to a party so as to insure fifty foot frontage. The tract is laid out with streets, sidewalks, curbing etc., and ready for market.

MRS. VAN BUREN AIDS DAY NURSERY WORK

In response to the appeals which have been made in the Daily Press for funds to aid the work of the City Day Nursery on West Front street, another check was received this morning. Mrs. Julia M. Van Buren is the contributor, sending $10. The prolonged warm weather during the last few days has made the work at the nursery more important than ever, and funds to continue the work until cool weather comes permanently are very much needed.

All contributions will be welcomed and acknowledged by the Daily Press, whether large or small.

LITTLE GIRL STRUCK BY AUTO DRIVEN BY WOMAN

Elizabeth Voorhees, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Voorhees, of 21 Stone street, North Plainfield, was struck by an automobile last night at Greenbrook road and Somerset street, sustaining slight bruises about the body and also a crushed finger. The car was owned and driven by Mrs. H. W. McCamdnews, of New York, who has a summer home at 15 Prospect place. She was accompanied by three other women.

According to the police, Miss Voorhees was crossing Somerset street and the machine, which was being driven slowly along that thoroughfare toward this city, turned to avoid her. As the car was about to pass several feet from her, it is said, Miss Voorhees suddenly turned around and stepped directly in the path of the auto, the accident being unavoidamle.

HIS BIKE STOYEN.

Alfred Cole, of 200 West Second street, reported to the police this afternoon that his bicycle had been stolen from in front of the Codington building at Park avenue and West Second street, at mid-day. The bike was a new one, and the thief had filed the chain of the lock.

ST. MARY PLAYGROUND HAS CLOSING EXERCISES

The closing of the St. Mary playground was appropriately observed yesterday afternoon, when the children who have been enjoying the recreation centre during the summer months played games, held an athletic meet, gave a calisthenic drill and paid a tribute to Miss Hayes, their instructor.

Miss Margaret McCarthy won the girls' prize, a gold brooch, by winning the most points in the various races she entered and LeRoy Pope, was awarded a printing set, for the boys. Both prizes were donated by Miss Hayes. A short musical program ended the festivities. Many parents attended the event and repeated the wishes of the children—that Miss Hayes would be assigned to the St. Mary playground next season for the third consecutive time.

MGR. SANDERSON HOST.

Manager Sanderson, of Proctor's theatre, played host last night to the thirty boys who deliver the Daily Press to its readers in the city and borough. Under the watchful eye of the circulation manager the future voters gathered in the lobby of the house at 7 o'clock, and were soon settled in comfortable seats from which they viewed the excellent vaudeville show which was provided for the first three days this week, and did not miss a flicker of the moving picture camera. All left declaring that they had had the best time ever, and high in their praise of Manager Sanderson for his courtesy.

AN APPEAL FOR CLOTHES.

This is one of the hardest periods of the year for mothers with five or six small children to be fitted out with clothes for school. A boy can go barefooted all summer but they will not let him return to school without shoes. Boys' trousers and jackets, girls' dresses and shoes of all size are greatly in demand and the Charity Organization Society will be glad to send for them if telephoned to 103 or send a card to No. 323 Babcock Bouilding.

TO RESUME SERVICES.

The regular schedule of services for the winter will be resumed at the Church of the Heavenly Rest on Sunday. The Sunday school will also resume its sessions on that day. A change will be made in the hour of the service of evensong which, beginning Sunday will be held in the evening at 7:30 o'clock, instead of 4 o'clock in the afternoon as heretofore.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED ON ELECTION LAWS

Assistant Attorney General Gaskill Replies to Several Queries of Interest.

Trenton, Sept. 4.—In compliance with a request presented through Acting Governor Fielder, Assistant Attorney-General Nelson B. Gaskill has written a letter to Henry F. Dempsey, clerk of Morristown, advising him upon the various phases of the election laws. Most of the questions discussed have already been passed upon by the attorney-general's office, whose rulings, however, do not seem to have been impressed upon all of the county and municipal offices.

The first question propounded was whether a blank space must be left on the ballot for the primary election. after the names of the candidates for Governor, in which a voter may write the name of any person for whom he desires to vote. In answering this question affirmatively, Mr. Gaskill said that the leaving of the blank space is provided for in paragraph 269 of the election law pamphlet of 1913, and paragraph 400 of the same pamphlet. It is also covered by paragraph 420 of the general election law, which is made applicable to the primary election law.

The next question propounded was whether in case of offices for which no nominating petitions have been filed the title of the office must be printed on the ballot and a space left after it for writing in a name. In disposing of the question, also affirmatively, Mr. Gaskill said:

"In view of the fact that the voter has the privilege of voting for any person nominated or not, for any office, it follows that the ballot should contain the title of all officers for which nominations are to be made, with a sufficient number of blank spaces under the title to allow for the nomination of the proper number of officers to be nominated."

The next question presented was whether in the event of a candidate filing a petition for nomination on the Republican ticket and another for nomination on the Progressive ticket, the name is to be printed twice with the party designation under it in each case, or printed nce with both designations following it.

"In my opinion," said Mr. Gaskill, "such a situation cannot be presented under the law. The act with reference to nominating petitions requires that the person nominated shall be certified by the signers of the nominating petition to be a member of their party, and acceptance of this nomination, it seems to me, would stop any candidate from declaring himself a candidate upon another ticket in opposition to the first nomination.

"A candidate's acceptance of the nominating petition would justify you in refusing to accept a nominating petition from antoher party, since the nominess could not properly declare himself to belong to both parties. You should either reject the second petition or call upon the individual so nominated to withdraw from one nomination or the other."

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 77 degrees; 11 a. m., 83 degrees; 1 p. m., 85 degrees.

HARL A. SIPE DIES ON AN U. S. BATTLESHIP

Adam Neuman, of Watchung avenue, received word last night that Harl A. Sipe, who was employed at Neuman Brothers' store a few years ago and had been in the navy for the past four years, died on board the battleship Louisiana at Vera Cruz, Mexico, last Friday. He was twenty-one years old, and his home while here was made with Mr. Neuman. He had a number of friends in this city, and they can get any information about the young man which they may desire by communicating with Mr. Neuman.

The body was brought to Norfolk Navy Yard today and will be sent to Easton, where the dead man had a younger brother who lives with an uncle. The time of the funeral will be announced later.

MISS S. LOUISE WOOD NOW MRS. HARMON SPEAR

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss S. Louise Wood, of East Sixth street, this city, and Harmon Spear, formerly of Bloomfield, but now of Philadelphia. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, on Tuesday, at the summer home of the bride in Belmar. After a wedding trip the couple will live in Philadelphia, where the groom holds a position with the Curtis Publishing Company.

Mrs. Spear was for many years a teacher in the Plainfield public schools, having retired at the end of the last school year. She taught in several schools here, her last position being at the Lincoln School.

MISS BERTHA VICKERS BECOMES MRS. NASON

Miss Bertha Vickers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Roberts, and Alfred George Nason, both of Murray Hill, were married in the Methodist church, New Providence, at 6:30 o'clock last night, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends, including several guests from this city, where the couple is well known. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. H. Evans, pastor of the church.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, during which congratulations were offered and supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts left last night on a wedding trip. They will reside at Murray Hill.

Mrs. Roberts was a teacher in the public schools at New Providence for nearly six years, following her graduation from Normal School. Mr. Nason is proprietor of the Rose Nursery at Murray Hill, established by his late father many years ago.

PAINLESS DENTIST; A PAINFUL SURPRISE

Burglar Loots Offices of Dr. Paine and Police Work Painfully to Catch Him.

A burglar worked this morning about 1 o'clock, in the office of Dr. Francis Paine, at 148 East Front street, and before he left ransacked the dentist's suite of rooms, carrying away a camera valued at $65; dentist's tools worth $100 and about $50 in gold filling the plate. Although the burglar's noise in his operations awakened Mrs. Mary Mullin, who occupies an apartment on the third floor with her daughter, Miss Ella Mullin, the two women thought it was caused by the dentist who works until late when business is brisk.

The thief made his entrance through a back door which he found opened although it had usually been locked. The door leading into the dentist's main office he forced open by making a large hole over the Yale lock with the aid of a brace and bit. The perforation complete, the looter stuck his hand through the opening and turned the latch. Once inside, the burglar got the dentist tools, gold plate, silver filling and everything of commercial value. A private roll-top desk he pried open, breaking the lid in several places. Mrs. Mullin heard this noise but did not make any investigations.

The theft was discovered shortly after 8 o'clock this morning by Mrs. Emma Beguelin, another tenant, who telephoned Dr. Paine at his apartment in Truell Inn. The police were notified.

The burglar left no clue other than the brace and bit and a chisel, which may be means of tracing him, providing they were purchased in this city. The looting was undoubtedly the work of an amateur.

BORO PUBLIC SCHOOL PUPILS NUMBER 1,046

The Watchung School has an enrollment of 230 in the primary grades, making the total registration in borough schools of 1046.

HORSE DEAL LEADS TO ARREST FOR STEALING

According to Robert Broadway, of New Market, whose ancestors supplied the name for the "Gay White Way," he purchased a horse several weeks ago from Jacob Aschley, of West Hoboken, paying part in cash and giving a chattel mortgage for the balance. Broadway further states, according to the police, that he paid the balance and that Aschley refuses to give up the mortgage papers. The horse dealer claims the New Market man has not paid the full price as yet, and that he engaged John Sherry, 40 years old, of 200 Union avenue, Brooklyn, to come to New Market yesterday to get the horse.

Accompanied by James Sheers, who claims he is a deputy sheriff, and lives in Brooklyn, Sherry took the horse from the Broadway farm and started eastward. Mrs. Broadway saw the men and summoned her husband, who notified the police department of Dunellen.

The borough authorities in turn notified the local police and Detective Sergeant Flynn and Patrolman MacIntyre arrested Sherry and took the horse to a livery stable in East Second street. Broadway has charged Sherry with being a horse thief.

WHY I AM A PROGRESSIVE

—By—
GEORGE T. HUGHES,
(City Editor, New York Globe)
Candidate for Assembly nomination in Somerset County.

The people have a right to know the position of a candidate on every public question likely to come before him should he be successful in his campaign. Neither evasion nor quibbling on any issue whatever will be tolerated. Of course, I am well aware that under the primary election law of New Jersey, the legislative candidates of the Progressive party will assemble at Trenton after the primaries and formulate their platform. I expect to stand upon that platform. But there are some questions on which the individual attitude of a legislative candidate are important and which it is only proper should be stated. In a county like Somerset, without large centres of population, the rule has too long been to support or oppose a legislative candidate according to the party label he wore and not according to his own stand on specific public problems. I think this is a mistake

First, then, I believe in the principles of the Progressive party as enunciated in the national platform and in applying them to local and State conditions. Take for instance the principle of conservation. I believe that New Jersey should apply this principle to the State's water supply and that such an application would be of inestimable benefit to the State in general and to Somerset county in particular. At a later date I shall present a plan which I believe will ensure to the people of the county the control and safeguarding of the community's water supply. It would be difficult to suggest a more important topic than this or one of greater concern to the people at large as the citizens of Bound Brook and Somerville can testify.

I am unqualifiedly in favor of woman suffrage. I will do all in my power to make it possible for the voters of the State to pass upon this question, and when they do I will be found on the side of those who favor the equal suffrage amendment In my opinion the issue is not whether admitting women to the right of suffrage will raise or lower the level of political morality although there is no question in my own mind that it will do the former It is a simple act of political justice to give women the vote. And no one guided by the desire to do such political justice need worry about the results, moral or otherwise.

I believe in the principle of the employer's liability act. It is a good principle. Every industry should bear the hazard of its own making. But I do favor, and if elected, will advocate and vote for, the exemption of farm help and domestic servants from the operation of this law. Despite the high prices consumers have to pay for farm products, the margin of profit to the farmer, and especially to the eastern farmer, is terribly small. Prof. W. J. Skillman, of the United States Department of Agriculture, has just compiled figures that show that taking the entire country over, the farmer makes less than five per cent. on his investment and ordinary farm wages for his own labor. In practice I am sure that the application of the liability law to farm conditions will work more injustice than its enactment was intended to remedy. In an extreme case it might be the means of causing a struggling farmer to lose his all. In a lesser degree the same considerations apply to domestic servants.

Although I have said I believe in the principle of the liability law please notice that I do not say I believe in the law as it now stands. I think it can be amended in several important particulars with great advantage to everyone except the insurance companies.

I am in favor of a complete rivision of the State laws relating to the inspection of foods. It is doubtful whether the average citizen realizes the extent to which adulteration of our daily food is carried on, adulterations to which the Federal pure food law is powerless to reach. This subject is of vital importance to every man and women in the State. It is not in any sense political, but someone must take it up. It would be one of the principal subjects of my attention should I be sent to Trenton. At a later date I propose to take up this matter and discuss it in more detail.

Now as to more general questions. I am a Progressive because the Progressive party seems to me more anxious to solve great social and economic problems, not because of any party advantage to be gained therefrom or any public office to be won, but because of the social service to be done. I find in the ranks of the Progressives men and women of the highest ideals, such as Everett Colby in New Jersey and Jane Addams in Illinois. I believe men and women of this type are thoroughly unselfish and devoted to the public good and I am glad to associate myself with them even in a very minor capacity. I believe that in Somerset county there are a great many people who feel just as I do, only they have not yet come to the point of leaving the old parties for the new. I think they will in time, but however that may be, I am sure that A Progressive party if not THE Progressive party has come to stay because the principles advocated by Progressives are just and right and are bound to prevail. And such a prevailing cannot come, at least now, from either the Republican or the Democratic party. In the first we find the same conditions existing that caused the break at Chicago a year ago. In the second we find both a Woodrow Wilson and a James Smith. No party can be big enough to reconcile such irreconcilable elements. You cannot mix oil and water.

And to my friends in both the old parties, and I have them in both, equally conscientious and equally devoted to the public interest, I say come out from among them and cast in your lot with us.

Man and Money Are Mutual Friends

"It's not what you make but what you save—that makes you what you are."
—Benjamin Franklin.

In most cases they are more than friends, they are lovers—for parting is such bitter sorrow.

There are never any pathetic farewells between man and money in the Rothberg Clothes-Shop.

They both see the point quickly—cash buying and cash selling and small expenses give us a saving—this reverts to you and means $3 to $5 saved when you buy your clothing at Rothberg's.

And the quality—oh, well, you know us too long to question that — besides what's the use of talking quality—you can prove that better than we can.

You don't have to buy when you only want to look, convince yourself when passing by.

Suits $10 to $25

FIVE MORE WRECK VICTIMS MAY DIE

Interstate Commission Plans Public Inquiry.

IT WILL BE FARREACHING

Fundamental Operation and Executive Management of Road Will Be Gone Into—To Call Engineer Miller and General Manager Bardo.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 4.—Reports from Grace hospital and New Haven hospital state that five of the injured in the New Haven wreck are beyond hope of recovery. These victims are Jeanne and Edna Annett, sisters, of Bayonne, N. J.; Rose Zimmerman of New York, William O. Rowland of Philadelphia and L. E. Collomy, or Cullum, of Bucksport, Me. The death toll likely will be twenty-six.

The interstate commerce commission will begin a public inquiry here tomorrow into the cause of the wreck. The hearing will be conducted by Commissioner McChord, who has invited the public utilities commission of the state to sit with them, as has been the case at previous wreck hearings.

Inspector Arrives.

W. H. Belnap, inspector for the commission, arrived here and served notice on President Elliott of the New Haven road that he would expect the attendance at the hearing of all witnesses who could throw light on the causes of the wreck. President Elliott said that the road was eager to assist the commission in every way and that all evidence that could be gathered would be placed at his disposal.

"This investigation will be one of the most thorough ever conducted into a wreck on the New Haven road," said Mr. Belnap, after a long distance telephone conversation with Commissioner McChord in Washington. "We are not only going into the causes of this wreck specifically, but we intend to bring to light the fundamental conditions of operation and executive management which may lie behind it.

Inquiry Will Go Deep.

"Our inquiry will go much deeper into these conditions than the inquiry into the wreck at Stamford last June. That had mainly to do with the personnel of employees and the question of adequate brakes. In this inquiry we shall look into the general operation of the road, into methods of running trains, into the signal system and every other possible factor. Be sure we are going to the bottom in a most thorough manner. I have no doubt that the commission's action in the matter will be drastic."

Mr Belnap sent two of his inspectors to the scene of the wreck to investigate the signal system. He has thus far examined none of the trainmen involved in the wreck and said that no attempt would be made to question them or any officials of the road until the public hearing. Engineer A. B. Miller of the Bar Harbor train will be one of the first witnesses called tomorrow, and C. L. Bardo, general manager, will be another. It is likely that President Elliott will also take the stand before the inquiry is finished.

100 STUDENTS EXPELLED.

Ban on Frats and Sororities at Lockport High School.

Lockport, N. Y., Sept. 4.—One hundred students of the Lockport High school, members of secret fraternities and sororities, were expelled by Principal Walter E. Severance in compliance with a resolution passed by the school board condemning the societies.

Principal Severance distributed slips to the students requesting each boy or girl belonging to a society to state the fact. The wholesale expulsion today of all those admitting membership followed. The active members and the alumni of the societies say they will test the validity of the action.

MISS LAW IN RECORD FLIGHT.

Garden City, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Miss Ruth Law, sister of Rodman Law, the aeronaut, in a biplane carrying Mrs. Richard R. Sinclair and Miss Pearl McGrath, one of New York's last winter debutantes, made what was probably a world's record flight for a woman aviator carrying passengers here. She made a flight of about ten minutes' duration at an altitude of about 800 feet. Mrs. Sinclair, formerly Miss Helen Mart of Baltimore, noted for her beauty, occupied a seat in the plane near Miss Law, while Miss McGrath sat in the lower plane.

HALE BRINGS NEWS OF MEXICO TO PRESIDENT

Denies Saying Envoy Lind's Mission Was Failure.

Washington, Sept. 4.—William Bayard Hale, President Wilson's unofficial adviser on the Mexican situation, arrived in Washington direct from Mexico City. He is expected to present a detailed report on conditions in Mexico, the Lind negotiations and the prospects for the future to President Wilson and Secretary of State Bryan.

Mr. Hale has established himself at a hotel here and declares that there is nothing he can say regarding Mexico for publication. He is ready, he says, to give the president and the state department the benefit of whatever knowledge he may have acquired by his stay of several months in Mexico City and that his future movements will depend upon the wishes of the president.

As Secretary Bryan had left the state department, Mr. Hale did not call there. No arrangements have yet been made for him to call at the White House and discuss the Mexican situation with the president. It is probable, however, that the president will send for him very soon, as he has previously said that he places the highest confidence in Mr. Hale's judgment, and he constantly received advices from him from Mexico City.

Mr. Hale denied that he said in Key West that the Lind mission was a failure and that Mr. Lind would return to the United States in a few days. The statement attributed to him was utterly without foundation, he declared.

WILSON BACK TO WHITE HOUSE

Silent About Wreck, Which He Viewed on Way From Cornish.

Washington, Sept. 4.—President Wilson returned here, being delayed more than two hours by the wreckage of the Wallingford disaster. The president immediately plunged into his work at the White House.

Although he viewed the wreckage at Wallingford, which at the time he passed by was being burned, the president refused to make any statement on the catastrophe.

FREES PRISONER WHEN CHILD BEGS

Stork's Visit Gains Clemency When Politicians Fail.

HAD SIX MONTHS' JAIL TERM

Jersey City Judge Listens to Little Girl's Story, Then Releases Man. Others Couldn't Get His Freedom. Leaves Prison With Deliverer to See New Child.

Jersey City, N. J., Sept. 4.—Unmoved by ward heelers, Salvation Army officers or personal and political friends, Judge Charles Francis Xavier O'Brien released Peter Adrian of 166 Montgomery street, this city, from jail and six months' penitentiary sentence that the imprisoned man might go home and see his newly born girl baby.

Peter, who is twenty-four, went out on the warpath last Friday and was gathered in badly demoralized. On Saturday Judge O'Brien gave him six months.

Judge O'Brien was up to his ears in the tumult of the court business when up to the bench walked a pretty flaxen haired little girl of ten years. A bailiff put out a hand to stop her. The prosecuting attorney nodded to her to go back and continued his address to the court. But the youngster, nothing daunted, kept on her way until she stood in the presence of Judge O'Brien and handed up this note:

"Please, Mr. Judge, won't you please let Mr. Adrian go this time. His wife is calling for him. A little baby girl has just come."

His honor bade the golden haired messenger come closer to him. What he said to her was in a voice that none but she could hear. What she replied was heard by the entire courtroom.

"Oh, judge, it's the dearest little baby girl"

Judge O'Brien then gave some direction to Isaac Smith, Hudson county's probationary officer. As Smith went out he turned and beckoned to the little girl. Together they went down to the jail, and the doors of the bastile swung open for Peter Adrian. With his hand in that of his deliverer he left for the cradle of the little voice from heaven.

Governor Fielder's auto was not overturned and the occupants escaped without injury. In the motor with the governor were Congressman A. C. Hart, Colonel Alfred E. Holley and Colonel Frank M. THE SUFFRAGE AMENDMENT.

The women of New Jersey who favor suffrage for their sex are naturally much disturbed over the failure of the board appointed by the last Legislature to comply with the requirement of the State Constitution and publish the suffrage amendment adopted last year for three months previous to making choice of the Legislature to be elected in November next. For this failure there is no excuse. If it was not design it certainly was gross misfeasance in the officials charged with the duty of making the publication. There is no use of trying to evade the duty nor is there any use of attempting to deceive the women of the State by suggesting the publication can still be made. It cannot now be made and comply with the Constitution.

The coming Legislature will be required to go over its work of last year and then publish as the Constitution requires and adopt it again in 1915 and the nsubmit the amendment to the people in 1915. It will delay the vote on the amendment for one year, but if it shall then be adopted it will still be in time for the women to have a vote for President in 1916. It is a hard draft upon the patience of the women of the State t lose the chance to get a vote in 1914, but they have waited so long that their zeal will lose none of its force if they can secure it in 1915, as they can if the amendment shall be adapted in August, 1915, which is still possible by expedition in submitting it by the Legislature of 1915. That it will be adopted by the Legislatures of 1914 and 1915 and submitted to the people in 1915 there now seems no doubt. Possibly the delay may make its adoption in 1915 more certain than it would have been if voted upon in 1914.

The sentiment for the acceptance of the amendment by the people of the State is steadily increasing.

ELIZABETH "GRAB-ALL"

In withdrawing as a candidate for an Assembly nomination, TenEyck R. Beardsley, of Fanwood, expresses what all Democrats outside of Elizabeth have been complaining of for some time and so far as that party's future is concerned it is a serious matter. "Last fall," says the Fanwood man in a formal statement, "it was pretty well demonstrated that with more than one candidate running outside of Elizabeth the nominations would all go to Elizabeth men." And he continues that if the county is to be carried by his party there must be an united and harmonious party, and this he says will not be "if a residence in Elizabeth is to be a condition precedent to holding public office.'

Practically there was the same state of affairs in the Republican party last November. Elizabeth got pretty much everything and had nominated four of the seven freeholders, leaving Plainfield, a Republican city and the second largest community in the county, without any representation on the freeholder ticket.

This is all wrong. The Elizabeth Republicans and Democrats, both, should appreciate the fact that all parts of the county are entitled to recognition as to both party policy and control, as well as to elective offices and appointments. Otherwise it means disaster.

The New Haven's danger signal system like its passenger traffic rolling stock is antiquated. Instead of fattening their own bank accounts at the price of human lives and human suffering, had they had any conscience they could have installed throughout their entire system a device insuring absolute life-saving. They had only to equip their lines with the invention of Frank E. Kinsman, of this city, whose danger signal apparatus makes an accident on the rail an impossibility.

Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., Republican, is the only one whose name will appear on the primary ballot for mayoralty nomination in North Plainfield and indeed is the only one whose name will be printed on the general election ballot. This is as it should be and reflects as much credit on the citizens of North Plainfield as on the honored municipal executive himself.

Steps should be taken at once by the State commission appointed by the Governor for the preservation of Washington Rock to see to it that there is no more vandalism on that historic spot. The cowardly, unpatriotic culprits who committed an act of desecration there should be run down and brought to justice.

The contributing editor for Saturday's issue will discuss a local matter in which we are all interested.

CHURCH BELL'S SILENCE NOW APPEARS CERTAIN

The officers of the First Baptist church have decided, it is said, to do away with the use of the bell which has been in the tower of the edifice practically since its construction in 1869. The workmen in making extensive repairs to the tower found that the continued ringing of the bell undoubtedly had much to do with the loosening of the heavy stones of the structure, making the present repairs necessary.

Investigation showed that the mortar originally used had all dried out, making that part of the structure unsafe. With the ringing of the bell the swinging was likely to cause the stones to topple over. This brought up the question of doing away with the bell and possibly substituting chimes. The officers, as well as many of the church members favor the use of chimes.

The repairs being made will necessitate the removal of the bell, and it is a debatable question now as to the wisdom of restoring it to its former place. The church was built in 1869, the stone used in construction being taken from the Watchung mountains.

The decorators have about completed their work in the church and within a few days work will be started laying the new cork composition floor and installing the new stained-glass windows.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Temple Baptist church will resume its regular meetings Sunday evening in the Baraca Bible class room, at 7 o'clock, with Miss Gladys Mead in charge. President C. J. Utzinger urges a full attendance of members.

WAGNER AND THE CABBY.

A Bit of Comedy That Won a Good Tip From the Composer.

A story of Wagner known to very few is brought to the light by the Vossische Zeitung. When the composer was in a really merry mood, the right mood for story telling, he used to say that, being in Berlin on a very hot summer's day and finding himself in the Donhoffsplatz, he summoned one of the first class droshkies that were still fairly numerous at that time and told the driver where to go. His destination was at the very farthest point of a district within which only the lowest fare could be demanded.

It struck Wagner immediately that his driver was taking a very affecting leave of one of his fellows, as though he were starting on a life or death journey. "Goodby, William," he said; "we shan't see each other again for a long time."

After the carriage had rattled on for a good while it came suddenly to a standstill. The driver got down from his box on the right hand side, opened the carriage door and banged it to again; then he went round to the left side and repeated the performance, climbed up on to his box and resumed the journey. At the end of the drive Wagner asked him what this dumbcrambo show meant. The driver, with a sly look, made answer: "I just wanted to bamboozle my old nag. He would never have believed that the whole drive was for a minimum fare and would have refused to go on. But by banging the doors I got him to imagine that one fare had got out and another got in."

Wagner laughed heartily over this explanation, and the driver, in spite of his greed, over which the composer made very merry in his letters, realized the handsome tip on which he had been speculating.—London Standard.

GREECE HAD THE RECALL.

Only In the Old Days the System Was Called "Ostracism."

In the palmy days of the Greek republics, many centuries ago, as historians tell us, when a man rose to such a height of power or affluence that he became a possible menace to the state, the citizens took a vote on his case as an "undesirable." This was sent to the senate, and, if the vote was sufficiently large and representative, that body passed a resolution in which the too distinguished citizen was invited, in polite diplomatic terms, to take a few years of retirement abroad—in other words, he was officially exiled for the good of the state.

This was "ostracism," so called from the fact, it is explained, that the voting citizens wrote their names on oyster shells, and it was instituted as a measure of security to the commonwealth. Any citizen of great wealth or influence or who had a large personal following which might, in an emergency, be used to the detriment of the state was liable to receive this distinguished mark of public consideration. It was a kind of primitive "recall," which had the advantage of being equally applicable to "ins" and "outs."

Those early Greeks were wonderful fellows, who knew how to deal with knotty problems of their day, which doubtless included grafting and other human peculiarities not unknown in our own time. If an election did not suit them or if any man swelled too far above his fellows there was always the leveling oyster as a wholesome corrective in reserve.—Christian Herald.

A Cheap Dress Shirt.

As for paper fasteners, a touring actor writes to point another of their utilities: "There is, at times, in a small company especially, a scarcity of starched linen. And shirts, like King John's treasure, get lost or mislaid in the wash. You are playing a dude part, say, with naught but a flannel shirt to go with your dress coat. Take a sheet of note paper or foolscap, prod it under your vest, and where the central stud should be—insert a round headed brass paper fastener!" Necessity mothers invention.—London Chronicle.

Pitfalls of Success.

"How's your son, the lawyer, getting on?"

"Badly, poor fellow. He's in jail."

"How's that?"

"He was retained by a horse thief to defend him, and he made such a good plea that the judge held him as an accessory."—Lippincott's.

Talking the Language.

"He's a ball fan. Don't allude to 'em as mistakes; allude to 'em as bonehead plays. He'll understand that all right."—Pittsburgh Post.

Outgrew It.

"You can never tell how a boy is going to turn out."

"No, you can't."

"There used to be a boy at home whom the neighbors called Artie, but he's the president of a railroad now."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Rahway, September 4.—Chief of Police David H. Ramsey has been suspeded for four weeks without pay by the Common Council on a charge of using insulting language to W. J. Witte, of Newark, whom Ramsey arrested August 17 for speeding his automobile.

The chief's suspension was recommended by the lamps and police committee, which also recommended the dismissal of a complaint by Mr. Witte that he was fined unjustly by Judge John W. Buckley.

APPLE PIE CARNIVAL.

Rifle, Colo., Sept. 4.—Hundreds of visitors came to Rifle today to enjoy the festivities of the annual Apple Pie Carnival. Originally conceived as a celebration of the abundant apple crops of this section, the carnival has developed this year into a two-day celebration, with an attractive program of racing, bucking and roping contests, baseball and other sports. In addition there is a fine exhibit of live stock, fruit, vegetable and farm products. The managers still adhere to the original custom of furnishing apple pie free to every visitor.

TROLLEY CAR KILLS FARMHAND

Trenton, Sept. 4.—Robert Cook, a middle-aged farmhand, employed on a milk farm near Ewing, was struck and killed by a trolley car of the Trenton and Mercer County Traction Company, yesterday. His body was cut into three parts. Cook recently received $30 in wages from his employers. He had been drinking heavily for several days and it is thought, was probably lying on the tracks in an intoxicated condition when the accident happened.

ROYALTY SEES THE CLANS.

Edinburgh, Sept. 4—The King and Queen motored today from Balmoral Castle to Braemar to attend the gathering of the clans, of which event the King is the chief patron. The gathering is the most important fete day in the highlands and never fails to attract a brilliant attendance. The scene presented of men in tartans and women in smart gowns, sashed with the colors of the different clans, is most picturesque.

RAPID VACUUM CLOTHES WASHER

Money Saving Time Saving Labor Saving

THE NEW WAY.

READ WHAT WE HAVE TO SAY

You can save many dollars in a year on your clothes and add a day of pleasure to your life each week with this wonderful Rapid Vacuum Clothes Washer, but cutting your laundry work in two. Most clothes are RUBBED OUT and not WORN OUT. When you send your clothes to the laundry what happens to them? They are soaped and beaten, and rubbed so that the hot soapsuds (sometimes a little acid added) is forced through and through the goods. This cleans the goods, but they do not last long. When your clothes are washed in your own home what happens? The hot soap suds are pushed in and out of the garments, as they are rubbed on the board. This cleans them, but wears them out. In every process of washing, soap and water are the only elements having any cleaning properties. When your clothes are washed with the Rapid Vacuum Washer what happens? Gallons of soapy water at boiling temperature (which sterilizes the clothes) is forced through the goods every 60 seconds. This cleans your clothes snowy white without straining a thread. You can now wash woolens, blankets, sheets, shirts, collars, bed quilts, etc., at home, and after washing the articles will be whiter, softer, cleaner, fluffier and more beautiful in appearance than before. Compressed air, hot water and soap does the work.

You can wash a tubful of dirty clothes in five minutes without rubbing, without bending, and with very little work.

A tubful of clothes can be rinsed and blued in the same way in one minute.

You can clean anything that can be cleaned with soap and water or gasoline in a few minutes, without straining a thread.

No more rough hands and tired backs for the person who does the washing.

The Vacuum Washer has no moveable parts, cannot get out of order, and with proper care will last for years.

WASHDAY NO LONGER A DAY OF DREAD

DIRECTIONS FOR OPERATION

Have your water hot, the hotter the better. Add sufficient soap and see that it is thoroughly dissolved before putting in the clothes, as hot water without soap will set the dirt. Use enough hot water to float the clothes, then operate the plunger up and down, each time a gallon or more of hot suds is forced through the fabrics, and the same amount is drawn back on the upward stroke. This suction force is produced by an automatic suction valve, which is a distinct and original feature of our invention. During five or ten minutes, which is required to do a washing, many hundred gallons of hot, soapy water are forced through the clothes, which cleans them in a more perfect manner than any other process and with absolutely no wear or tear. This is the secret of the success of this Rapid Vacuum Clothes Washer.

If you do your own washing, it will save you time, strength and temper. If you send your washing out, we know that you are not satisfied, as your clothes are worn and eaten with the strong washing compounds used by laundries. If you employ a maid, her time is worth money.

DO NOT LET ANOTHER WASHDAY PASS WITHOUT A RAPID VACUUM WASHER.

THE OLD WAY.

Which Way Do You Prefer ?

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

George H. Broadhurst cast aside all stage conventions when he wrote "Bought and Paid For," which will appear at the Plainfield theatre on Friday, September 12, coming direct from William A. Brady's Playhouse, New York, where it has been the dramatic sensation of present-day theatricals. The story is one that grips and holds to the pulsation of the heart, as we see it from the rise to the fall of the curtain. The incidents and happenings are such that every husband and wife will draw a lesson from it. Mr. Broadhurst has imbued into his story a new vein of comedy that is really delightful and is bound to leave a lasting impression upon the mind of every auditor. The cast and production come here under the personal direction of William A. Brady, who has spared no expense in sending to this city the complete Playhouse company.

George Kleine's glorious photo-drama production, "Quo Vadis," which established a record run of six months at the Astor theatre in New York city, has exercised a potent influence in all circles of society, religious and educational. Large theatre parties were formed from various schools and colleges and in several instances Sunday-schools attended the performances in a body. The lessons taught by these wonderful pictures are both impressive and inspiring. Mr. Kleine's production, which is the only bona fide and important production of "Quo Vadis," is announced for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Plainfield theatres with matinees daily

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 2.

YOU men and women whose faculties are intact—have you ever stopped to think how blessed you are in having a good mind in a sound body?

The other morning, while I was being shaved in an uptown barber shop, a youth of about seventeen came in and applied for a job. He wanted to be a lather boy in that shop. He was deaf and dumb. (I know that the jokesters will say right here that he would have made a good barber. But to me an affliction like that of this poor lad is not a laughing matter; so let's be serious for a moment.)

Here was a boy terribly handicapped in life's struggle. I do not know whether he got that job, for he was still writing on a pad and passing it to the proprietor when I left, but the incident set me to thinking of the thousands of men, sound of limb and senses, who go through life complaining that they "never had a chance."

Chance! Every moment is filled with chances for the man or woman who really wants to succeed. Every sunrise brings to those of us who earnestly want to "go on" fresh opportunities to build ourselves anew. Every day is filled with possibilities for the man or woman who is willing to pay the price of success.

Your chance may be, not a few years off or a thousand miles away, but right now, in the newspaper you are holding.

Turn to the WANT ADS. In the WANT AD. columns employers are constantly advertising for capable employes. In the WANT AD. columns there are presented business opportunities by the score. In the WANT AD. columns your opportunity may be looking for you.

FRANCES MARSHALL

Resting the Seventh Day.

The old-fashioned Sunday in the small New England town had a charm which Sunday today lacks. To be sure, it was sometimes stiff, and even uncomfortable, in all its strictness and starch. But it breathed rest and quiet. Today you must go a long and weary way before you come across a really quiet Sunday.

Aside from all religious aspects of Sunday, there is a clamor on the part of every body and brain in the world for occasional and systematic rest. This fact has been proved again and again. When France, after the revolution, abolished Sunday, the government yet found it necessary to establish by law a day of rest. The citizens could not stand all work and no play, any more than little Jack of nursery-rhyme fame can stand it.

Simplify the Meals.

The elaborate Sunday dinner has brought fatigue to more servants and housewives and disorder to more tired digestive apparatus than any other one thing, probably. Hence the woman who would make Sunday a restful day must begin with Sunday dinner.

In some households Sunday dinner is dispensed with and a nearty lunch and hearty supper, both easy of preparation, take its place. This plan is admirable. The lunch, for instance, could consist of soup made on Saturday, sandwiches, for which the filling was prepared the day before, olives, and a made dessert—blanc mange, orange sponge, or lemon jelly with cream, and cakes. The supper could consist of a cold roast chicken, tomato salad—prepared the day before and put on the ice—bread and butter, hot chocolate, coffee or ice tea, and fresh fruit, crackers and cheese. Either of these meals could be so prepared on Saturday that twenty minutes' work on Sunday would serve them.

If the Sunday dinner is a necessity, plan and partly prepare it on Sunday. Salads, desserts, soups and most vegetables can be partly prepared the day before. Many meats, too, can be partly prepared. Chicken can be cooked in a casserole the day before and put in the oven on Sunday half an hour to warm.

The absence of the smell of cooking food is a pleasure on your day of rest. The absence of the extra work is a relief to everyone. And you need not give up the habit of having "Sunday company." Sunday night supper is a delightful meal, generally considered much more pleasant than Sunday dinner. And week-end guests will enter into your two-lunch plan with enthusiasm.

The restful Sunday is a boon to servants. They will also be glad to work doubly hard on Saturday to make the next day one of rest. It is often convenient when the two-lunch plan is followed, to allow servants to take a full Sunday holiday, which they will gladly take in exchange for half days on Thursday and Sunday. They come back to their work refreshed and grateful and much the better for their little change.

JAPANESE LULLABY.

Sleep, little pigeon, and fold your wings—
Little blue pigeon with velvet eyes;
Sleep to the singing of mother bird swinging—

Away out yonder I see a star—
Silvery star with tinkling song.
To the soft dew falling I hear it calling—
Calling and thinking the night along.

In through a window a moonbeam comes—
Little gold moonbeam with misty wings.
All silently creeping, it asks, "Is he sleeping—
Sleeping and dreaming while mother sings?"

Up from the sea there floats the sob
Of the waves that are breaking upon the shore,
As though they were groaning in anguish and moaning,
Bemoaning the ship that shall come no more.

But sleep little pigeon, and fold your wings—
Little blue pigeon with mournful eyes.
Am I not singing? See, I am swinging—
Swinging the nest where my darling lies. —Eugene Field.

"Mother's Forgiveness" from American Motherhood for July. "I can see to this day every detail of grandmother's little room upstairs, which served as my prison. Mother always said when she left me, 'You must stay up here all alone until you will call down to me that you are ready to be good.'

"At first the register was the one thing in the room which I hated and shunned, because I was to call down through the register when I wanted to return. What a hot, angry little rebel I was! How I stormed and tramped up and down and vowed I would die first! But, finally the anger would die out and leave a very penitent little girl. This, however, was only half the battle.

"Strange as it may seem, I wanted to be good long before I could summon the will power to tell mother so. It was a hard thing for me to be shut indoors a half hour even, but I have often kept myself a prisoner for thrice that time, because it was an infinitely harder thing to humble my will and call down the register to mother. * * *

"I'd have told her 'yes' long ago, but mother never came. She was wise enough to know that the victory wouldn't be complete that way. It was a great deal better for me to have to take the first step and go to her. * * *"

"When Corporal Punishment For Children Is Right," July "Outlook." * * * "I announced my intention of doing so, like the irresponsible little tyrant that I was. My mother began to explain—but reasons fell on stormy soil. At first, however, I felt only a fragile, kittenish opposition to the regular routine of going to bed, and if my mother had been firm with me—down-right absolute—all would have gone as she wished. But the longer I fenced, the stronger grew my will. At last it seemed to me that I must have my way at any cost. My mother with angelic, but to me irritating patience, had succeeded in undressing me. But as she was about to put the nightgown over my head I threw myself full length, face downward, on the floor. At the same moment my grandmother entered the room.

"'I heard thee talking to her,' said my grandmother, 'and thee has talked long enough. If she doesn't get into bed this instant, thee must give her a good slap.'

"The next instant I was lying across her knees, and, sure enough, my bare legs were smarting under her firm little palm. It was over in a minute, and I stood sobbing on the rug while Grannie buttoned my nightgown and smoothed back my ruffled hair. She kissed me as I lay on the pillow, and promised that mother would come in directly to say goodnight.

"My dearling mother bent over me, her eyes full of tears.

"'So Esther got spanked,' she murmured. 'Does it smart?' She passed her hand tenderly over my legs.

"'Yes—it smarts—mother, I sobbed, 'but I think—I—like it better—than being talked to.'"

"The New Constructive Dancing," July, Good Housekeeping. "Scientific dancing may seem a contradiction of terms, but the dance, to be truly rhythmic and beautiful, must be based on fundamental principles.

"Through the rhythmic dance Florence Fleming Noyes aims to correct artificiality of body and mind and to teach the true principles of nature. Wonderful results have been obtained in working with the children. She says:

"'Train the child's imagination to feel beauty and to express it, for it is only what is felt vitally that affects the life of the individual. If the beautiful is made a reality to the child by teaching him to care for it, he can then express it in his body, gestures, and whole life. Thus by constructive, instead of instructive teaching, are the creative faculties stimulated. For what affects the intellect alone is never so much a part of one's life as what comes from the feelings."

The vogue of the represensible "turkey-trot" and its flock of similar dances is but the negative phase of the dance movement—the longing to break loose from false restraints and conventions. There is much pent-up vitality in us as a people. The need for such educators as Miss Noyes is manifest.

Some Cookery Suggestions

VEGETABLE OMELETS.

LUNCHEON MENU.
Minced Chicken.
Tomato Omelet.
Potatoes Hashed and Browned.
Muffins.
Cream Cheese.
Crackers.
Iced Tea.

OMELETS in which herbs or vegetables are ingredients are quickly and easily made and often in an emergency will give a touch of novelty to an otherwise commonplace meal. Almost any cold vegetables may be used for the omelets.

Parsley Omelets.—Take four eggs, break them into a bowl with four tablespoonfuls of cold water and beat until light. Mix with two tablespoonfuls of chopped parsley. Put one teaspoonful of drippings or butter into a frying pan and when hot pour in the eggs. With a fork or spatula lift the edges so that the thin portions will run underneath, and fry until the eggs are set, shaking the pan quite often.

A Homely Vegetable.

Cabbage Omelet.—Take a small boiled cabbage, which has been allowed to become cold, and chop finely. Add a tablespoonful of melted butter and season with pepper and salt. Stir in three beaten eggs and a half cupful of cream. Melt a large tablespoonful of butter in an omelet pan and turn the mixture into it. Stir till brown and then turn out into a hot dish.

Potato Omelet.—This may be made with cold creamed potato. If you have some left over put it into the frying pan with a teaspoonful of butter, a little grated onion and heat through, stirring all the time. Beat three eggs with two tablespoonfuls of cold water until well mixed and pour over the potatoes. Fry the same as an ordinary omelet, lifting the edge with knife until done. Fold over and serve with chopped parsley.

With Canned Vegetables.

Tomato Omelet.—Take three tomatoes, scald and skin them. Melt a small piece of butter in a saucepan, to which add a teaspoonful each of chopped onion and chopped parsley. Season with pepper and salt, put in the tomatoes, stir them around and let them remain in the hot butter for two or three minutes. Turn out the mixture and set it aside till quite cold. Beat three eggs and stir in the cold tomatoes. Place a lump of butter in a frying pan and when it is hot pour in the mixture. Leave it over the fire until the edges are firm, and then hold the pan in front of the fire till it rises to the top. Serve it at once.

The Judge Came In His Robes.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How the Miser's Horse Rang the Bell.

JACK and Evelyn were both very fond of horses. Whenever they saw a poor old nag on the streets drawing a heavy load they were very sorry for him.

"I am sure when you are older you will be glad to read the story I am going to tell you as it is told by the poet Longfellow," said daddy.

"Many years ago in Atri, an old town in Italy, there lived a man who was very stingy. He was a nobleman and had once lived very splendidly, but as he grew older he became a miser. He sold all his handsome clothes and jewels and furniture and rented every bit of his land and all his houses that he might have more gold to count over. He even sold his fine horses, all save one favorite old horse that had carried him safely through many wars when he fought for his king. But he hardly fed this horse, and in winter it shivered in its cold stall.

"One day the miser said: 'Why should I spend money keeping up that useless old horse. I will turn him out on the public road, and he can pick up a living there.'

"So the poor lame old beast went hobbling about, picking up a mouthful of grass here and there by the roadside as he could, barked at by cross dogs and chased by bad boys with sticks and stones.

"Now, it happened that the king had caused a big bell to be hung in the market place of the town. The rope hung down where every passerby could reach it.

"The king had ordered that whenever any one in the town felt that he had been wronged he should ring the bell and call out the judge and people to hear his story. Then the judge should decide what should be done about it.

"This idea of the king's did much good. Many unhappy persons who could not get justice any other way got it by ringing the bell.

"As time went on the rope grew old and raveled at the ends. Some passerby one day mended it with a bit of vine.

"One summer day when the sun was shining its hottest the bell pealed loudly and long. All the people rushed to the market place to see who rang.

"When they reached the square where the bell hung all they could see was the old miser's half starved horse, with eager eyes, nibbling at the vine at the end of the rope. It was thus he had rung the bell.

"The judge came in his long robes, and when he saw the poor old beast and heard how his rich master was starving him after a life of faithful service he called the miser before him. He ordered him to thereafter feed and stable his horse comfortably or he should be punished."

Ladies' Home Journal Patterns

The finest pattern articles in the world printed exclusively in Plainfield in The Plainfield Daily Press. Ladies' Home Journal Patterns are on sale at A. E. Force & Co., "The White Store."

The New Lingerie, Though Dainty and Fine Is Really Simple and Straight and Narrow of Line.

Perfectly flat trimming, soft sheer materials, scanty, clinging lines—that is the newest lingerie in a nutshell. And truth to tell some articles of underwear are so sheer, that they could be folded into a nutshell, or drawn through the proverbial ring.

Many of the combinations shown among early fall models have not a brassiere top like 7738, and this is made of stout wash net, or of all-over embroidery in open eyelet pattern and trimmed with net plaitings. For the drawers, sheer batiste or silk mull is used, trimmed with a scanty plaited net frill put on with ribbon-run beading. Seven sizes, 34 to 46, and for size 36, 2¾ yards of 36-inch material will be required.

The princess slip has got to be an indispensible part of the modern woman's wardrobe, since so many sheer frocks are worn. A good style one, 7265, and this may be of net, fine batiste, mull taffeta, messaline or crepe de chine in white or a color. The closing is at the back, and with this pattern you can make a plain slip, or you can have a circular, plaited or gathered flounce. Insertion and ribbon are the usual trimmings. Seven sizes, 32 to 44, and for size 36, with plaited flounce, 5 yards of 36-inch material will be required. Each pattern is 15 cents.

An Attractive Bird Design For Outline or Applique.

Runners of linen and pongee in brown, green, dull blue, old gold or grey, to harmonize with the wall covering of the room, make the most satisfactory covers for the living room table, the large table in the library or the hall stand and they can also be used on the dining room table between meals. It is wise to have at least two for each of the tables so that they can be cleaned. A table-cover constantly in use soon becomes mussed, dusty and marked and should be of a material that launders well so that it can be always fresh.

The birds in pattern 14444, may either be embroidered in outline-stitch or they may be cut from a material of a contrasting color and appliqued either with outlining or long-and-short stitch. Somehow this design is particularly suitable for blue materials and a runner of blue linen or pongee with the birds, either in white or a darker shade of the same blue would be very attractive. However, the design might be carried out in two shades of brown or grey. These birds would also be effective embroidered or appliqued on a pillow, screen, portiers or curtains and they are very decorative when used on a Japanese kimono.

For embroidering both ends of a runner, a large table-cover, portiers or curtains, buy two transfer patterns as four birds are given in each pattern. This transfer pattern 14444 can be supplied to readers at ten cents.

Not a home in this city but has its quota of discarded furniture, rugs, stoves perhaps, a wheelbarrow maybe.

A few cents for a Press want ad and some one who needs the very article that lies rotting in your garret will call and pay you for it.

You are better off—new owner is pleased—and the article itself is contributing to the reduction of the high cost of living.

THE LATEST CUT OF A LADY'S RIDING COAT

Only two buttons, severely plain in cut, reaching down to the knees, tan in color, loose in the skirts—to be worn not with a derby, but a "sailor"—such is the latest fashion in foreign made ladies' riding suits. Marie Doro is the first American actress that has ever worn one on the stage—that is, during the second act of "The New Secretary," wherein Miss Doro is a modern "Katherine" to Charles Cherry's equally modern "Petruchio."

WITH THE BOXERS

September 12 has been named as the date when Frank Mantell will take on Kid Krantz at Reno.

Tommy Berren, the Lewiston, Me., middleweight, and Eddie McGoorty will meet at Springfield, Mass., September 15.

Arthur Pelky declares that he is not only willing to meet Jack Johnson, but believes that he can whip the black man in jig time.

Dick Smith, an English soldier, who has held the amateur heavyweight championship for three years, is going to enter the professional rank.

BASEBALL NOTES

Twenty-two players in the National and sixteen in the American League are batting for .300 or better.

Max Carey, of the Pirates, leads the run-getters and is second in the list of base-stealers in the National League.

The Athletics have five regulars, Collins, Baker, McInnis, Strunk and E. Murphy, hitting well over the .300 mark.

Houck, of the Athletics; Boehling, of Washington, and Demaree, of the Giants, have proved to be the class among the young pitchers of the season.

Since his return to the big show, Guy Finn, the former New York-Rochester player, has done some remarkable work for the Boston Braves.

The Red Sox have fallen down badly in their batting this season, Tris Speaker being the only member of the champs who is hitting in the .300 division.

Jake Daubert, of the Superbas, is the real leader of the National League batsmen. Jake is also putting up a fancy article at the first station.

Catcher Ivy Wings is not only putting up a splendid article for the Cardinals, but seems to get rare enjoyment out of his work behind the bat.

Bob Bescher, of the Cincinnati Reds, and Heine Zimmerman, of the Cubs, have agreed to accompany the Giants on the world's tour of the Giants and the White Sox.

Milan and Moeller, of the Washington team, are leading the base stealers in the major leagues. The pair of speeders have pilfered over 100 sacks between them.

Fifty-eight home runs, and each circuit smash good for five pounds of smoking tobacco, is a sample of the "hits that pay" on the Philadelphia National League grounds this season.

The Philadelphia Nationals have produced the greatest bunch of heavy hitters of the season. Had the Phils been as strong in the box as they were in stick work, they would have romped home a winner.

Bobby Veach, of the Detroit Tigers, and Duffy Lewis, of the Red Sox, are great throwers. Standing at the home plate in Detroit recently, both players heaved the ball over the left field fence into the street.

Owner Gaffney, of the Boston Braves, is out with a hard rap on President Lynch and his staff of National League umpires. Gaffney claims that the Braves have been given the worst of it at the hands of the umpires all season.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:
Query—What are the grievances of the English women that they are making such desperate efforts for the ballot? Are they permitted to own absolutely any property or to will it as they choose? S. S.

Answer—It is still a question whether the ardor of the English suffragists is due to special grievances or to the spirit of the English race. It seems to be the product of both. The grievances have never been listed to our knowledge, but the causes seem to be due largely to the economic and industrial conditions; partly to the laws regulating marriage and divorce, and partly to the traditional treatment of women by British men. Women are permitted both to own and will property, having larger powers in this direction than some of our own States grant. The entail of property, however, is the basis of English divorce laws.

Sporting Editor:
Query—Some time ago I heard of Thomas A. Edison having a star. Is this correct? S. E. D.

Answer—You are referring to a kite with an electrical attachment which Mr. Edison used for experimental purposes.

Sporting Editor:
Query—With a runner on second base the batter puts up a fly to the third basemen and the runner runs into the fielder, knocking the ball out of his hands. Is the runner out? T. W.

Answer—Yes. Base runners must avoid interfering with fielders when the latter are playing the ball.

Sporting Editor:
Query—While at the seashore I dropped some stamped and addressed letters in a box marked "U. S. Mail," which stood on the counter of a postcard store. Is the person who displayed such a box bound by the government to forward mail to the postoffice or can he refuse to do so if he wishes? A. W.

Answer—The person depositing mail in such boxes does so at his own risk.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

The Scotch Plains baseball team will be the guests of the Plainfield nine Saturday at Parker Field.

Joe Albert's players seem to have the "sign" on the locals, whom they defeated early in the season by the score of 2 to 1, and Labor Day morning held the Pets to a 5 to 5 tie.

The next Plainfield-Somerville struggle for the Central New Jersey Championship will be enacted Saturday, Sept. 13. Wonder who the "13" hoodoo will affect?

Jimmy Clinton may be secured by Manager Jack Tarpey to do the mound duty for his team.

A. G. Hooley has entered his prize-winning English setters in the bench show being conducted at Red Bank under the auspices of the Rumson Country Club. A. Clinton Wilmerding has also sent his cocker spaniels to the competition.

Fay Washburn, the local third baseman, is playing with Worcester. Jesse Burkett, manager of the New England Club, sent a hurry call for the player Tuesday afternoon, because his regular guardian of the difficult sack was taken suddenly ill.

The New York Baseball Club is going to remodel the Polo Ground stands to hold 40,000 people, who will come to see the Army-Navy football game, which will be played in the Metropolis, Sept. 29.

Among the local dog fanciers who won prizes with their entries at the show held Labor Day at Allentown, Pa., are George J. Heck, of Norwood avenue; Mrs. J. D. Anderson, of New street; W. L. Smalley, of North Plainfield, and the Meadow View Kennels.

A two-base wallop by Larry McLean, who batted for Mathewson yesterday in the eighth inning of the Boston-Giant battle, robbed George Tyler, of the bean-eaters, of the honor of having pitched a no-hit game. Lanky Larry's bingle was the only one the Giant batters secured in the whole nine innings, and New York lost 2 to 1.

Frank Moran, a boxer who has just entered the primary grade of the publiistic school for "White Hopes," scrapped Al Palzer, one of the leaders of the grammar class last night, at the St. Nicholas A. C. in New York, and to the surprise of the wiseacres sent big Al to the boards for the count of ten in the seventh session.

CONTI WILL BE SENT TO MINORS BY MACK

Joe Harter is Being Urged to Enter the Big League Field.

Third-baseman Conti, the Somerville star, who had a try-out with Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics last month, will be placed in a minor league club next spring for more seasoning, and if he makes good will again be re-called to the American League leaders. Conti played Labor Day afternoon for Somerville against the Pets and is considered the best player at his position in the Central New Jersey League. In the championship game he accepted six chances without an error, made one put-out and secured a hit. He was caught attempting to steal second, however.

Mack recently said Conti was a "comer" and with more experience in high society, would prove a wonder. He takes speedy bounders with apparent ease and has a lightning throw to first. Many times, this season, he has knocked down balls that looked like sure hits. A student of the game, Conti is a valuable asset to any team and his many friends in this city wish him all the success he deserves.

Joe Harter, the speedy and heavy-hitting outfielder of the Plainfield Pets, is again being urged to embark in major league fields. Joe has received many offers and a very tempting one has been forwarded by the Boston Nationals. Harter has a good-paying and responsible position with the Worthington Pump Works, in Harrison, however, and feels reluctant to resign for the ever uncertain career of a big league ball player.

CORNELL FOOTBALL SQUAD TO START PRACTISE EARLY

Ithaca, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Football practise at Cornell will begin early this year, a call for candidates having been sent out for September 10. This is about a week earlier than usual and is made necessary by the long, hard schedule arranged for the Cornell eleven this year.

Coach Al H. Sharpe will be in charge of the team again and he is expected to finish his system of training begun last year in such a manner that the traditional defeat at the hands of Pennsylvania on Thanksgiving Day this year will be reversed. He will arrive here next week from Chautauqua, where he has been coaching a semi-professional baseball team during the summer months and playing himself to keep in conditon. The athletic management has already begun to put the field in shape for the coming gridiron warriors.

Assistant Coach Daniel A. Reed, of Dunkirk, who is now in New York city as an officer of the American City Bureau, will arrive the following week and will have charge of the line men again this year. Ray Van Orman, who had charge of the end candidates last year, will again be in charge.

EVANS, TRAVIS AND TRAVERS VICTORS

Chick Evans, Chicago, will face Walter J. Travis, Garden City, today in the third match play round of the national amateur golf championship at Garden City, a meeting sure to bring out an enormous gallery. That will be by far the most interesting match.

The draw otherwise will be Thomas M. Sherman, Utica, vs. J. G. Anderson, Boston; Archie Reid, St. Andrews, vs. Jerome R. Travers, Upper Montclair, and Fred Herreshoff, Garden City, vs. Parker Whittemore, Boston.

Without doubt those old rivals, Travers and Herreshoff, will come together in the semi-finals. In the upper half there is more doubt, but it looks as if Evans would defeat Travis, and in all probability it will be Travers vs. Evans in the final, just as it was last year. As the cards were stacked last night, Travers would be a favorite, but by slight odds.

Evans yesterday afternoon beat Eben M. Byers, Pittsburg (who won the title in 1905 at Englewood), 1 up, thirty-nine holes, after one of the hardest-fought battles on record. At least 1,200 persons watched the three extra holes. Travers beat Francis Quimet, Boston, who as a putter is a revelation, 3 up and 2 to go, at thirty-six holes. Travis went thirty-eight holes to retire Fraser Hale, of Chicago. Archie Reed, St. Andrews, beat Roy Webb, Englewood, 6 up and 4 to go; Fred Herreshoff, Garden City, defeated Paul Hunter, Chicago, 7 up and 6 to go; Parker Whittemore of Boston, retired Fred Martin, Ekwanok, 6 up and 5 to go; J. G. Anderson, Boston, beat Warren Corkran, Baltimore, 4 up and 3 to go, and Thomas M. Sherman, Utica, beat B. P. Merriman, Waterbury, 3 up and 2 to go.

HANS WAGNER STILL SUPREME.

Old Hans Wagner, who is at present reminding us that he'll surely go on forever, is playing his seventeenth season in the major leagues. Honus started in the large show in 1897 and since then has played in 2,251 games. In that length of time—and that's quite a little while—Hans has approached the plate just 8,529 times and has scored 1,7[illegible] runs. What is even more interesting is the fact that he has made 2,918 hits in that length of time and never yet has failed to bat less than .300. His lowest average at the bat since he has been a major leaguer was .305, his average in 1898. Other players perhaps have shown us brief flashes of more brilliant work, but for consistent pounding of the pill it would be hard to beat the record of Hans Wagner.

DOYLE GETS MARRIED WHILE GIANTS LOSE

New York, Sept. 4.—Why Larry Doyle, captain and second baseman of the New York Giants, was not in the lineup in yesterday's game was explained last night when it was learned he had spent the afternoon in marrying Gertrude Elizabeth McCoombs, whose only address given in the license is the State of Florida.

Fred Merkle, the first baseman, aided Larry in obtaining his license in the morning. When Doyle did not show up at the Polo Grounds, however, Merkle said nothing. Arthur Shafer went to second in Doyle's place.

When the ceremony was over Doyle and his bride left in a cab. That was the last seen of them, and the Giants are wondering whether or not their captain intends to return today. They admit Larry is open for congratulations and they want to extend them to him but no one knows where he is.

Doyle came to New York in the season of 1907, having played in Springfield, Ill. Before that he was with the Paducah, Ky., team. He was born in Caseyville, Ill., and is 25 years old. He is rated one of the best infielders in the game.

PRINCETON WINS AT TENNIS.

Philadelphia, Sept. 4.—Princeton qualified four players and Harvard three for the second round of the Intercollegiate Lawn Tennis championship which will be played today on the courts of the Merion Cricket Club at Haverford. The representatives of all the other colleges entered were eliminated in the preliminary and first rounds played yesterday. The other institutions represented were Yale, the University of Pennsylvania, Dartmouth, Haverford, Washington and Lehigh. Princeton's entire team, consisting of George M. Church, last year's champion; Wendell Kuhn, B. C. Law and A. M. Kidder, is still undefeated. E. H. Whitney, Massachusetts State champion, the fourth member of the Harvard team, was defeated by Church, of Princeton, yesterday, 6-1, 6-4.

ARMY CAMP JUBILANT.

West Point, N. Y., Sept. 4.—There was great joy in the Army camp yesterday afternoon, when it was learned that an agreement had been reached in the matter of the Army and Navy football contest for this year and that the Polo Grounds had been selected as the site for the game. One hundred and forty-two men, the largest number that has ever turned out here for football, reported yesterday for practice. The Army will have daily practice, playing its first game with Norwich University on September 27.

THOROUGHBREDS AT AUCTION.

New York, Sept. 4.—Another notable sale of thoroughbred race horses was opened today at Sheepshead Bay. The lot to go under the hammer embraces the entire Ramapo Stud, the property of the late Charles Kohler. Many former champion race horses are destined to change ownership as a result of the dispersal sale, among them the famous Uncle, formerly the property of John E. Madden. Others on the list are Master Robert, Charles Edward, Zeus and Superman.

CHOICE CHICKENS FOR CROKER

Rufus Delafield, of "Sunswick Farm," has shipped three Houdan chickens, valued at $250, to Richard Croker, Glencairn, Sandyford County, Dublin, Ireland. The shipment was made by express to connect with a steamer at New York. The birds were presents from Croker's son in New York.

GIES-HART NUPTIALS.

North Branch, Sept. 4.—Miss Helen Raymond Hart, daughter of the pastor, was married to Howard Somerville Gies, of Newark, in the presence of a large number of the members of the congregation and relatives of the couple at the Reformed church, yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John Hart, father of the bride. When the bridal party entered the church the wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Frank Kip. The bride was escorted by her brother, Rev. William Reese Hart, of Farmis, N. Y. The maid of honor was Miss Susan Wonson, of Boston. The best man was Russell W. Gies, of Newark, a brother of the bridegroom. The ushers were Harry Brewer, of Elizabeth, and Dr. George Talbot, of Newark. After the ceremony a reception was held at the parsonage, where about seventy-five guests were entertained. Luncheon was served. After this Mr. and Mrs. Gies left on a honeymoon trip in the North. On their return they will live in Montclair, where the bridegroom is engaged in business as a contractor and builder. The bride is a graduate of Wesleyan University, class of 1909, and formerly taught in the Somerville High School.

EXTRADITION FOR MISSOURIAN.

Trenton, Sept. 4.—Officials from Jackson county, Missouri, appeared before Governor Fielder Tuesday afternoon to urge the approval of a requisition for the extradition of Charles Cole, formerly of Flemington, who is charged with embezzling $850 in Missouri. Cole contested the granting of the extradition. The allegations made by the Missouri authorities set forth that Cole was a sub-contractor in Kansas City. The contractor is alleged to have given him a check for $850 with which to pay off the workmen. Cole, it is alleged, cashed the check and made away with the proceeds. He was arrested in Flemington August 23 and was released on bail by Magistrate George W. Dunham. Cole contended that he was innocent of the charge of embezzlement, declaring that the money which he is charged with taking was owing to him on the contract.

THAW IS NEARER TO BORDER LINE

Jerome Says He'll Shortly Be Back In Matteawan.

LAST STAND AT COATICOOK

White's Slayer, Turned Out of Sherbrooke Jail, Is Given to Immigration Officers—Board of Inquiry to Pass on Case Today.

Coaticooke, Que., Sept. 4.—Harry K. Thaw will in all likelihood be tossed back into the United States as an undesirable insane alien. He was released from jail following Judge Hutchinson's decision that he had been illegally arrested and that consequently Chief of Police Boudreau was justified in asking that he be liberated.

Immediately after the decision sustaining the writ of habeas corpus, Thaw was taken in charge by immigration officials and rushed in an automobile at full speed for Coaticook.

Here Thaw's attorneys plan to make a fight against his deportation before the board of inquiry, which is expected to meet this afternoon.

The attorneys for New York state, however, are confident of having Thaw across the border in short order. Jerome predicted that Thaw would be back in Matteawan within a few hours.

Jerome Is Confident.

The sudden turn of affairs which set in when it became known that the attorney general would not permit the Sherbrooke officials to hold Thaw on a faulty commitment longer was brought to a climax by the decision.

The fight of the Thaw attorneys to prevent the removal of their client across the line from where he may be rushed into New York state and back to Matteawan must now be made before the immigration authorities.

Thaw's attorneys did not have an opportunity to take further legal action to prevent the removal of their client to Coaticook, and the New York state attorneys, headed by William Travers Jerome, expressed themselves as being confident of having Thaw back in Matteawan in short order.

Justice Hutchinson handed down his decision on the habeas corpus writ in his chambers. Only newspaper correspondents and attorneys for Thaw and New York state and the prisoner were present. The judgment was brief, simply reviewing the case and pointing out that as Boudreau had arrested Thaw illegally, he was justified in asking that he be liberated.

Bitter Fight Planned.

Counsel for Thaw had evidently expected the decision, for all arrangements have been made for a bitter fight before the board of inquiry.

Thaw made no statement, but before being taken to Coaticook was allowed five minutes to confer with counsel.

Contrary to expectations, "Educated Roger" Thompson, the chauffeur who drove the car in which Harry K. Thaw escaped from Matteawan, was on hand here for trial on the charge of bringing a lunatic into the Dominion. His case was continued, however, until next Tuesday by consent of both sides.

If Thompson is willing to tell all he knows about Thaw's escape William Travers Jerome is willing to do what he can to have the conspiracy indictment against him in Dutchess county quashed.

"I did not urge him to squeal," said Mr. Jerome, "but if, as he says, he was not in the inside plot that brought about Thaw's liberation we might be able to do something for him."

DIES OF POISON; GIRL SAYS HE LOST $32,000

Probe Death of Supposedly Wealthy German.

Hoboken, N. J., Sept. 4.—Karl Schoepe, a highly educated and apparently wealthy German, who arrived in Hoboken Aug. 15 on the steamship Pretoria, was found dead from laudanum poisoning in a lodging house kept by a Mr. and Mrs. Niemeyer at 204 River street.

Schoepe took rooms at the River street house Aug. 17 for himself and an attractive young woman he introduced as his wife. She is a pronounced blonde. She speaks no English. Through an interpreter last night she told the police she was Adela Schimmell and said Schoepe took her from the Leo mission at 6 State street, Manhattan, shortly after she arrived in this country.

Miss Schimmell said her companion had taken his life because on Tuesday he lost a letter of credit for $32,000. Tuesday he asked her to visit his bankers with him. He showed her the letter of credit and said he wanted to put the money in a bank.

On entering a bank on lower Broadway, she said, he suddenly discovered that the letter was missing.

"The man in the bank was very gruff," she went on, "and Mr. Schoepe was heartbroken at the treatment he received. After we returned he cried off and on for several hours. He finally said he thought he would commit suicide, but I didn't believe he would. He sent me out on a pretext and then took the poison, I suppose."

GUBERNATORIAL ASPIRANTS TALK

Colby, Pierce, Fowler, Osborne, Carey and Others Speak at Newark.

STOKES NOT PRESENT

Unique Mass Meeting, Candidates of Leading Parties for Governorship Nominations Expressing Their Platforms to a Big Audience.

Seven of the ten Gubernatorial candidates last night at Newark submitted themselves to what, in a measure, might be termed an informal civil service examination by the public on the question of "What is your idea of the office of Governor?" The candidates who appeared on the platform in the auditorium of the new Cleveland School in Bergen street were: Acting Governor James F. Fielder, State Senator Cariton B. Pierce, former State Senator Everett Colby, Dr. James Gilbert Mason, the Prohibition candidate; Edmund B. Osborne, former Congressman Chas. N. Fowler and Judge Robert C. Carey.

Besides Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., whose itinerary prevented his presence, the only one who had not responded to the invitation was former Governor Edward C. Stokes.

That one of the most imperative needs of the present day was to get the power of government back into the hands of the people was the view of Mr. Colby, who, besides dwelling on the principles he announced some time ago at the New Auditorium, laid particular stress on the question of bettering the conditions of the poor and how to stem the tide of ever-increasing destitution. As one of the remedies Mr. Colby advocated a minimum wage law.

Mr. Pierce said:

"I rest my candidacy upon the desire to acomplish the following five reforms:

"The abolition in fact of dangerous grade crossings.

"The equalization of tax assessments.

"The restoration of a reasonable tax upon banks and trust companies now practically escaping taxation.

"The substitution of the indeterminate franchise, or tenure during good behavior, for the present fifty-year franchise.

"True jury reform through the elimination of the subject from politics."

Mr. Fielder also made a great hit when explaining his views on current questions as did Mr. Fowler, who was mildly applauded.

SOMNAMBULIST SAVED AT SEA.

Passengers arriving in New York this week on the White Star liner Oceanic, brought a story of the rescue of John Steele, who with his sister, Miss Gertrude Steele, was on his way to visit his brother, Thomas Steele, of this city. While asleep, Steele crawled out a porthole and awoke, just as he was about to drop into the sea. His screams attracted seamen, who lowered a rope tied in a bowknot over the side and drew him to the deck.

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 5.—It was said at the Hartford Hospital today that the condition of George M. Cohan and his party, injured in an automobile accident on the Berlin turnpike Thursday afternoon, was favorable in every respect. None of the party is in a serious condition.

TARIFF LAW SOON.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Washington, Sept. 5.—There is no ground for the expressed belief that the tariff bill will pass the Senate by tomorrow night. It will be the middle of next week at the earliest, it is thought.

CURRENCY BILL QUICK.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Washington, Sept. 5.—Senator Weeks says he has no hope of passing his resolution to postpone action on currency as President Wilson is personally opposing the proposed postponement.

GOLF RESULTS.

TO BURY MR. NAYLOR SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Funeral Services to Be Held at His Daughter's Home.

The funeral of John R. Naylor will be held from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Edward E. Townley, of Codington avenue, Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Charles M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, will officiate, and the burial will be in North Plainfield cemetery.

Mr. Naylor died yesterday, after a short illness of complications brought on by excessive walking. For many years he was in the insurance business and was one of the oldest agents in this vicinity. He was in the employ of the Metropolitan Insurance Company. Mr. Naylor was born in Bound Brook. He was a member of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and of Antietam Camp, Union Veterans Union. He was a member of Co. I, 37th N. J. Volunteers. For many years he was also identified with the First M. E. church and Court Watchung, No. 3871, I. O. of Foresters.

Mr. Naylor is survived by one sister, Mrs James Burdick, of East Third street; two brothers, Daniel Naylor, of Orange, and Jacob Naylor, of Brooklyn, and six children, Mrs. Nathan Lee, Mrs. Eugene Lorton, Mrs. Edward E. Townley, John E Naylor, George B. Naylor and Albert B. Naylor, all of this city.

Y. W. C. A. NEW HEADS TAKE CHARGE OF WORK

Miss Florecne E. Smith, of Utica, N. Y., the new general secretary of the Young Women's Christian Association, who succeeds Miss Parmlee, and her assistant, Miss Grace Henley, of Cincinnati, arrived yesterday and are now in charge of the work here. Miss Wetherill, the physical director, who continues, has also returned and taken up her work.

A native of Utica, Miss Smith has been interested in Y. W. C. A. work for some time, being engaged in Brooklyn, and more recently at New Bedford, Mass. Miss Henley is a graduate of the National Training School in New York. Both are well equipped for their work. Miss Beatrice Gardiner will have charge of the housekeeping department.

All of the girls of the association are invited to join in a tramp over the mountains tomorrow afternoon to gather bay berries for Christmas candles. Miss Henley will be in charge and the start will be made from the association at 2:30 o'clock. Miss Smith will make a more extended announcement of the association's activities tomorrow.

PLAINFIELD IS WITHOUT OVERSEER-OF-THE-POOR

For some unexplained reason, the Common Council has not yet decided upon a successor to Overseer of the Poor Henry L. DeForest, who resigned a few weeks ago, the same to become effective upon the selection of another man. The appointment was taken out of the hands of the Mayor some time ago and the power vested in the Council. There is a feeling that the appointment will not be made until after election.

Garret T. Dunham, who is now acting overseer of the poor, is out for the position, and Alexander D. Ayers, who formerly held the position, is also a candidate. It is said that there is about an even division of opinion in the Council as to who should have the job.

Sometime ago Mr. DeForest removed Mr. Dunham and placed William Gilbert in his place, but the latter's unwillingness to serve resulted in Mr. Dunham's return to the position of assistant.

WILL RESUME SERVICES.

The full order of services will be resumed at St. Stephen's church on Sunday. The rector, Rev. Warner E. L. Ward, having returned from his vacation, will officiate and preach. Charles W. Walker, organist and choirmaster, and the entire choir have also returned and will be in charge of the music. During the summer the church was attractively decorated under the auspices of St. Margaret's Guild. The services were in charge of Rev. H. S. Kidder and Herbert Peck Grant, lay reader.

ANTI-SUFFRAGISTS' MEETING.

The next regular meeting of the local branch of the New Jersey Association Opposed to Women Suffrage will be held Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the auditorium of the Free Public Library.

TOO ARDENT LOVER PLEADS NON VULT

Arraigned on Charge of Carrying Concealed Weapon Sentence is Deferred.

Charles MacBride, 22 years old, of Elizabeth, who came to Plainfield, on Tuesday, August 26, armed with a loaded revolver and a blackjack to force Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Whelan, of 635 East Second street, to consent to his marriage to their daughter, Miss Anna Whelan, pleaded non vult this morning when arraigned before Judge James C. Connolly, in the Court of Special Sessions, at Elizabeth, on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. He will be sentenced on Friday, Sept. 12. The defendant was represented by James P. Kelly.

MacBride has been paying attentions to Miss Whelan for two years and sought to marry her although his would-be-bride's parents strongly objected to the union and denied him the privilege of visiting his sweetheart.

On the morning of his arrest he came to Plainfield and after walking to the Whelan home, where he threatened Mr. and Mrs. Whelan with the revolver, he proceeded to Morris Abrams' shoe store, where Miss Whelan is employed. He was arrested on West Front street before he could see the girl he wished to make his wife.

DRAWING OF JURIES UNDER A NEW PLAN

Sheriff Will Perform Work Fifteen Days Before Court Opens.

While under the old law governing the drawing of juries the juries for the October term of court would be drawn by the Sheriff next Tuesday, the new law, known as the Fielder emergency bill, considerably alters this arrangement and makes it impossible to draw juries prior to fifteen days before the opening of any term. The old law named the fourth Tuesday before the opening of court, which in this instance would fall on the 9th.

Under the new law juries for the October term may not be drawn before Monday September 22. After that date Justice Bergen, of the Supreme Court, who now has the lists in his hands for approval, may set a day when the Sheriff may make his drawings in open court. In the absence of Justice Bergen Judge Connolly, as presiding Judge of the Union county Court of Common Pleas, may sit at the drawing and confirm the action of the Sheriff. The date for the drawing, however, can only be set by a Supreme Court justice, in this case Justice Bergen.

SUFFICIENT PUNISHMENT.

Hugh McPherson, colored, of this city, who was arrested in Fanwood several weeks ago charged with having stolen a quantity of wine from Phelix Cohn, of that borough, was brought before Judge James C. Connolly, in the Court of Special Sessions at Elizabeth this morning. He received a suspended sentence. He had been confined in the county jail since August 7, and the court expressed the opinion that that period of detention was punishment enough.

JEROME ARRESTED; JAILED AS GAMBLER

Lawyer Imprisoned Where Thaw Was; Later Released on Bail.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Coaticook, Quebec, Sept. 5.—W. Travers Jerome was arrested today on a charge of gambling. It seems that Jerome and some friends engaged in a game of penny ante yesterday. An enemy of Jerome's communicated with the authorities and as a result Magistrate Aldrich issued a warrant for the arrest of Jerome. The Canadian laws hold that for gambling if the charge be proven the accused is liable to one year's imprisonment. Jerome was locked up in the same jail where Thaw had been confined.

Jerome was released on bail.

ELECTIONS' BOARD FILLED VACANCIES

Certificates Also Issued for the Commission Gov't Election in Rahway.

Under the provisions of Section 30 of the Election Laws, the Union county Board of Elections sat yesterday afternoon and will do it again tomorrow from 8 o'clock until 5 o'clock for the purpose of adding new names to the registry lists of Rahway voters in preparation for the special election to be held in Rahway Tuesday on commission form of government.

While certificates of transfer can only be granted by Judge Connolly for any regular election, in the event of a special election, as is to be held in Rahway Tuesday, this power devolves upon the election board, and under the law that body must sit the Thursday and Saturday preceding the date of the special election.

The purpose of this is to allow a voter who may have moved out of one ward into another the privilege of voting, as there has been no registry day for this election, and otherwise such voters would be disenfranchised by the act of moving out of the ward in which they are registered.

The law provides that the County Board of Elections shall sit "for the purpose of adding to the register the names of any legal voters entitled to vote at such election and erasing therefrom the names of any persons not so entitled to vote."

In addition to the issuance of transfer certificates for the Rahway election, the board was busy yesterday morning filling existing vacancies in the list of election officers throughout the county caused by the resignation of officers recently appointed.

MR. WHITESIDE IN TOWN.

Rev. Francis E. Whiteside, formerly of this city, but now of Chattanooga, Tenn., where he is associated with Rev. Dr. Henderson in his religious work in the interest of the Methodist church, stopped in Plainfield today for a short time to call on friends. He and his family have been enjoying a vacation at White Plains, N. Y.

ENTERTAINED AT CLAMBAKE.

Dr. Charles B. Lufburrow, of West Front street, who is a native of Atlantic Highlands, where his parents still own a large tract of land, entertained eighteen fellow practitioners at a clambake at that place on Wednesday. The doctors made the trip to and from the Highlands in automobiles, returning home early in the evening.

WILL MEET PARENTS.

Miss Noel J. Bullock, principal of the Franklin School, will be in her office at the school on Monday, September 8, from 9 o'clock in the morning until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when she will be pleased to see any parents who may wish to enter pupils or consult her in regard to school matters for the ensuing year.

ONE DOLLAR MORE.

One dollar from "A. B. C." was the only contribution received in this morning's mails by the Daily Press office for the City Union of the King's Daughters for use at the Day Nursery. The Union can make use of all contributions, as the demands upon it are great at this home which is doing so much good work.

BENEFIT PERFORMANCE.

The Italian Dramatic Club will present the four act drama, "Tosca," in Saengerbund Hall on Tuesday night, for the benefit of the club's director, Enrico Venga. The cast will include local talent to be assisted by New York artists.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company, today, is as follows: 9 a. m., 69 degrees; 11 a. m., 72 degrees; 1 p. m., 80 degrees.

VENERABLE WOMAN SUCCUMBED TODAY

Mrs. Mary B. Gillies Dies Following Paralytic Stroke; Funeral on Sunday.

Mrs. Mary B. Gillies, aged 84 years, widow of Theodore J. Gillies, died at 5.30 o'clock this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Nelson Van Winkle, 712 Berkeley avenue, following a paralytic stroke which she suffered about a week ago. Mrs. Gillies was born in Philadelphia and had lived in Plainfield about fifty years. Since the death of her husband she made her home with her daugters.

The family is one of the oldest here and for many years lived on both Central and Madison avenues. Mr. Gillies was prominent in the old volunteer fire department, and was engaged in the auctioneer's business in Madison avenue.

Mrs. Gillies was a member of the Crescent Avenue church and in her earlier days was very active. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Edward B. Ryder and Mrs. Nelson Van Winkle, five grandchildren, one sister, Mrs. David Snedeker and four brothers.

The funeral will be held at the home of Mrs. Van Winkle, Sunday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock. Rev. J. O. McKelvey, of Warren Chapel, and Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will officiate.

AUTO FIRE MACHINE OBJECTIONS RAISED

Board of Trade Committee Wants to Attend Council's Conference.

William Jeffery, as president of the Board of Trade, has written a letter to the Common Council, setting forth at considerable length the result of an investigation regarding the city's purpose to purchase an automobile fire engine, in which attention is called to a visit of a special committee comprising A. S. Herr, H. B. Sweeney, John R. Cline, an automobile expert and himself, to the Saurer plant, where an investigation was made of the engine, which he says the company planned to sell to the city.

Mr. Jeffery states that the committee first visited the Netherwood fire house, saw the Nott engine, called on Councilman W. W. Wilson, who he says informed them that the Saurer Co., was bidding on a new engine, but at the suggestion of Mr. Jeffery, it was decided to visit the Saurer plant where Mr. Casner, the superintendent, was met. The committee, he says, was careful to ask Mr. Casner if the machine shown to them was the one the company intended selling the city and the latter assured them that it was, Mr. Jeffery says.

It is further set forth in the letter that Mr. Casner informed the committee that the company planned to place a new top on the engine, and in answer to a question explained that this would be necessary to conform to the requirements of the city. This together with some other work was necessary to bring the car up to a state of efficiency. When asked if he thought it fair for the company to enter into competitive bids with such a car against new cars, Mr. Casner is reported to have said: "Why this is new, or it will be when we get through with it. It has been used only for demonstration purposes in Europe and America."

Mr. Casner is reported to have said: "Mr. Jeffery, what is your definition of new?" and he replied: "If I were buying a new shirt, I would not want to buy one that had been worn by someone else."

In his letter, Mr. Jeffery requests that the Board of Trade be allowed a hearing at the meeting on Sept. 15, and that all bids be rejected, new bids asked for, together with test results satisfactory to the city and that the advertisement specify whether new or second-hand apparatus is desired.

COUNTY PAYS OWENS $150 FOR SERVICES

Compromise Claim for Work as County Attorney Under Ousted Board.

Elizabeth, Sept. 5.—The Board of Freeholders yesterday paid the bill of John P. Owens, of Plainfield, as County Attorney under the ousted Small Board without any discussion. It was for $150. Owens' original claim is said to have been for $500. None of the other claimants under the Small Board has had their claims allowed because of a ruling of County Attorney Codington that they had no standing because of the unconstitutionality of the Small Board act.

The Board adopted on first reading an ordinance which is designed to prevent the blocking of county roads by building contractors.

The Sycamore avenue, Plainfield, Bridge Committee reported that the contract for the repairs to this span which is over Green brook, would be paid for equally by Somerset and Union counties. The contract price is $2,883, and the F. R. Long-W. G. Broadhurst Co., of Hackensack, will do the work.

Several new culverts were authorized in Fanwood Township on the request of the Mosquito Commission. A total of $5,000 was authorized to be expended for bridge repairs throughout the county. Among the bridges to be repaired is the Stanmore place bridge, Westfield. Middlesex and Union counties will divide on the cost of two new bridges at Madison Hill road, Clark Township.

The county sealer of weights and measures was authorized by resolution to advertise the new "basket law," so as to prevent fraud by fruit and vegetable dealers.

STATE INTERVENES IN CASE AGAINST A. WILLS

Granting the request of the Attorney General's office at Trenton, City Judge DeMeza has postponed the trial of Arthur Wills, 24 years old, of 316 East Seventh street, who is charged with a violation of the motor vehicle laws, until Wednesday, Sept. 10. Mr. Wills was arrested on August 13 by Patrolman Flatley after his auto had struck a carriage on West Seventh street. It is alleged in the complaint that Wills was intoxicated at the time of the accident.

The purpose of the request for a postponement is that the State Automobile Department may be represented at the trial.

NEW YORK SUBWAY TIED UP BY FLOODS

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

New York, Sept. 5.—The subway was practically tied up this morning by last night's rain. The sewers in the vicinity of Times Square overflowed, the water sweeped into the subway. Few trains were operated between Flatbush avenue Brooklyn, and Forty-second street, New York, and some trains were operated from the upper end of Manhattan to Ninety-sixth street. The running of the Interborough Rapid Transit trains below Ninety-sixth street was resumed at 8 o'clock this morning, after a tie-up of eight hours due to floods.

WILSON OUT-GENERALLED IN MEXICAN NEGOTIATION

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Washington, Sept. 5.—That the United States has been outmanoeuvred diplomatically in the Mexican situation is the conviction gradually dawning upon Congress. All reports from Mexico flatly contradict the basis for optimistic views given out by the administration. There are murmurings of discontent in Congress along the line of Senator Bristow's utterances of yesterday but there is nothing to be done in the premises.

The administration was without news from Mexico this morning.

TOTAL VALUATION IS $27,795,495

Union County Board Going Over the Plainfield Assessors' Books at Present.

A HIGHER TAX RATE

County and School Amounts Largely Responsible for Increase—Local Tax Budget Shown to be $355,113.00.

The Union County Board of Taxation, which is working on the books of the local tax assessors, as well as those from all other parts of the county, informed Tax Collector William R. Townsend that the books would probably be returned to this city in about two weeks. In the meantime the people are wondering what the tax rate will be for the coming year. The books of the assessors show the total valuation in Plainfield to be $27,795,495, the figures representing about a million and a half increase over that or last year.

The tax rate for the coming year will be undoubtedly higher than that of last year, but it will be chiefly the county and State school tax that will be responsible for it. The county tax this year has been increased $150,000, but as yet it is not known what the State school fund will be, and until that is determined the local rates cannot be fixed. The local tax budget for the coming year as fixed by the Common Council amounts to $355,113, but the local governing body has no control over the county and State school tax, which always boosts the local rate.

In making up the total local valuation of $27,795,495, each ward shows approximately the same increase. There has been considerable building in all four wards, the growth being steady. Included among these dwellings are many of the higher class, which has materially aided in the total increase.

The special tax commission appointed by Mayor Percy H. Stewart is about to resume its work of equalizing the tax assessments of the city. It has about completed the work in the business section but as many families in the residential section have been away, it was thought best to wait until their return before proceeding any further.

While not officially stated, it is known that the special committee found numerous cases where the assessments were not equitable, instances of where the assessments of one side of a street were far in excess of the other and it is for the purpose of equalizing these figures that the committee was appointed. As an evidence of the care and pains taken by the committee in its work, it is known that the best part of three hours were spent one evening in reaching a decision on a certain assessment. It will probably be several months before the committee will be able to complete its tedious task, but Mayor Stewart and the Council feels that great good will result eventually from the special work.

HERE IS LARGE FAMILY IN NEED OF YOUR HELP

Any Plainfielders who wish for an opportunity to assist a worthy family in need of help can do a good work by aiding the family of Mrs. Peter Murray, of Terrill road, whose husband was killed by being run down by an automobile driven by a North Plainfield man some time ago.

Mrs. Maurray has seven children to support and only one of these is old enough to work and yet he is a mere youth. This boy collects garbage but as most of his customers have been away during the summer, his business has been slack. He also raises vegetables, but naturally has not been able to earn enough to support a family of eight.

The family is in actual need of clothing and shoes, particularly the younger children who are about to return to school. They are without any coal and some would be most welcome. Provisions are also needed. The Daily Press having investigated the case makes this appeal on the Murray family's behalf.

MOWREY—REINMANN.

Miss Violet Mowrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Mowrey, and Peter Reinmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Reinmann, both of North Plainfield, were married yesterday afternoon by Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, at his home on Central avenue. Miss Henrietta Ammon and Pete Blumeto, of North Plainfield, were the attendants. The couple will reside in the borough after a trip.

THAW LOSES IN HIS LAST STAND

Appeal May Serve to Delay Deportation.

HIS COUNSEL FIGHT HARD

Lawyers For Prisoner Will Be Given Privilege of Appealing to Ottawa Officials From the Board of Inquiry.

Coaticook, Que., Sept. 5.—The board of inquiry at the deportation hearing here ruled out Harry K. Thaw's contention that he was traveling through Canada as a tourist at the time of his arrest, following his flight from Matteawan. This was the severest blow dealt Thaw in his fight against deportation since the sustaining of the habeas corpus writ in Sherbrooke.

Immediately after his tourist claim had been ruled out the members of the immigration board announced that they would begin at once a probe into his sanity.

Under the Canadian law the question of the present condition of mind does not enter into the situation, all that is necessary for deportation being to prove that, within the five years preceding his arrival in Canada, he had been confined in an asylum for the insane.

Thaw's lawyers objected to the insanity hearing unless they had alienists present to testify for them. Their demand was taken under consideration, and the hearing was temporarily held up.

Appeal to Act as Stay.

It was announced that Attorney Marchal, representing the inquiry board, stated that the attorneys for Thaw would be given the privilege of appealing to the Ottawa officials from the decision of the board, and that any technicality acting against this would not be insisted upon.

This appeal, if carried out, would probably take about two days after the present inquiry is brought to a close.

Thaw was the first witness to appear before the board when it began its inquiry at Coaticook. He made a strong impression as a witness, but his attorneys thought that the program had already been set to run him into Vermont.

But there was an air of uncertainty as to the case, and from Assistant Superintendent of Immigration Blair at Ottawa came the significant statement that Thaw might appeal the question, even of his sanity, in the event that the adverse decision was based upon the certificates of American doctors. If the Canadian doctors decided that Thaw was insane, ran the official information, then immediate deportation would follow.

"It's not what you make but what you save—that makes you what you are."
—Benjamin Franklin.

In most cases they are more than friends, they are lovers—for parting is such bitter sorrow.

There are never any pathetic farewells between man and money in the Rothberg Clothes-Shop.

They both see the point quickly—cash buying and cash selling and small expenses give us a saving—this reverts to you and means $3 to $5 saved when you buy your clothing at Rothberg's.

And the quality—oh, well, you know us too long to question that — besides what's the use of talking quality—you can prove that better than we can.

You don't have to buy when you only want to look, convince yourself when passing by.

MANY WIDOWS ASK COUNTY FOR HELP

Numerous Applications Under State Law Provisions Made to Court.

Throughout the county there have been many indigent widows with dependent children who have made application to Judge Connolly and the State Board of Children's Guardians for financial relief made possible to them through chapter 281 of the laws of 1913 commonly known as the "Widow's Pension Bill."

While in other counties definite action has been taken toward providing the relief authorized in this bill, nothing has yet been done in this county through the delay on the part of the State Board of Children's Guardians to investigate the claims of applicants and send representatives to appear before Judge Connolly approving the petitions for relief and aid, as required by the law.

The "Widow's Pension Bill" as a term applied to the act in question is misleading to a degree. The law does not provide for the pensioning of widows. That is far from its aim. But rather it is intended to provide home life for dependent children. The law was passed on the basis that the home influence is the most vital influence on the average child and that the breaking up of a home to send dependent children of indigent widows to State institutions is a grave mistake and an injustice to the children for whom provisions are being made.

So, in order to allow these children to remain amid home surroundings and under the guiding influence of their mother, the law was passed making it possible for the State to grant financial assistance and relief to indigent widows having children dependent upon them for support and sustenance. It is not a law providing for the pensioning of widows just because they happen to have to be widows, but it is really a law pensioning the home and keeping the home ties closely knit.

Under the law initial application of widows seeking financial relief must be made to the county clerk. From him they receive three application blanks, all of the same form, which must be filled out and sent, one to the overseer of the poor in the municipality, township or borough in which they live, one to the State Board of Guardians, and one to Judge Connolly as judge of the Court of Common Pleas.

The blanks are addressed to the Court of Common Pleas of Union county and require, first the name of the petitioner, the name of her deceased husband, the date of his death and the names, ages and places of birth of her children. Below this is a blank in which the date of her marriage is to be filled in, her address, the length of time she has been a resident of the State and the place she has lived in during the past five years.

A list of all the property either owned by the petitioner or her children or interests in property, whether future or contingent, must be made out. A statement of all efforts made to support herself and her children must be given together with the names and addresses of all relatives of herself or deceased husband so far as they are known to her.

Attached to this application blank is an affidavit which must be sworn to before a notary public assuring the correctness of all statements made in the petition. In this work Overseer of the Poor Sattler and Assistant Probation Officer Hamilton have done much for those who have made application from Elizabeth by tendering their services as notaries without charge.

PROCTOR'S FINE SHOW.

The Proctor show this week is a remarkably good one, each act being a feature. The big act, "The Last Hope," presented by Miss Hermine Shone & Co., in three scenes, and a carload of scenery, together with a real rain storm, is by far one of the best seen here in some time. The Nola Family of European triple trapeze performers; Elsa Balty and Sister in a refined musical act, 'cello, violin and piano; Porter and Sullivan in "A Piscatoral Pastoral," with a lot of dainty nonsense, and Harry Wardell, the clever blackface comedian, comprise one of the best all-around bills yet offered at Proctor's.

THE BILL BOARD.

In times gone by when publicity-getting was not made so thorough a study, in many kinds of business the bill board was used as a means of attracting the public. The retail merchant and the theatre manager chiefly used it for that purpose and then as now the commodity producer restored to it. He now continues to do so but the theatre manager and the retailer are wiser in their generation. They realize that the best means of reaching the public is through the advertising columns of the respected newspaper.

Commenting on the change, the Trenton Times refers to the action of the State Street Theatre managers in that city in giving up the bill board for newspapers. It says:

"This decision was made on the advice of their publicity man, who had carefully computed the relative cost and benefit of the two kinds of advertising. He found public sentiment against the bill boards.

"Theatrical posters were sometimes unsightly and even offensive and the plays seldom reached the marvels depicted on the bills. This is the fault of the theatres more than of the bill board system, but there are other reasons for giving up the pictorial bill boards. The people do not need them any more than they need the emblem signs once a conspicuous feature of every business street. Everybody reads the newspapers now and no one who wishes to go to a theatre would think of consulting bill boards to find out what was going on in the play houses.

"There is an advantage about newspaper advertising and that is its compulsory honesty. All manner of fancy things may be pictured on a bill board and the only chance for punishment comes from immoral pictures or statements, but a dishonest newspaper advertisement may get the advertsier into court under chapter 318 of the laws of 1913, which provides severe penalties for false statements in advertising.

"Bill boards are frequently unsightly and malodorous, and the change so far as theatres are concerned seems for the better."

THE FIRE APPARATUS.

Isn't the President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Jeffery, unduly alarmed over the attitude of the Common Council regarding the proposed purchase of automobile fire apparatus? The facts are that after the Councilmanic fire committee recommended the acceptance of the bid of a local manufacturer, it being the lowest, the city fathers decided not to act too hastily but rather to acquaint themselves thoroughly with the proposition as it stands before making any contract.

There can be no question about the ability of the Common Council to handle the matter satisfactorily for there are members among them of good business capacity and sound judgment. Their decision to defer action shows this. If the offer made by the local concern is found to be fully up to the specifications and needs, it being the lowest, there is but one thing to be done. If, on the other hand, it is not precisely up to the standard demanded in the advertisement and specifications, then there is another thing to be done. In either case we believe the Common Council can be depended upon to act accordingly.

It seems that Mr. Jeffery and his committee are unnecessarily alarmed.

Simply because he had an idea that the man had looted a freight car, a Pennsylvania railroad detective shot him to death. His victim bore an excellent reputation and it is admitted as extremely impossible that he had done anything wrong. Time and again, we have commented on the murders committed "in the name of the law" by these thugs in railroads' employe. Right in our own neighborhood there has been a sacrifice of life on their part and there have been numerous occasions when these railroad detectives have maimed innocent persons without the slightest justification or excuse. The hand of the law should deal severely with them. The railroads themselves are criminal when they give sanction by employing such a class of men to guard their property.

One cannot help but admire the vigorous and effective campaign being waged by Frank Katzenbach for the Demcratic gubernatorial nomination. Although the contest seems hopeless, as the Wilson forces are solidly arraigned against him, the Trenton man is fighting to "the last ditch" and the morning after the battle of the ballots is fought he may be found defeated but not having surrendered.

The contributing editor for tomorrow's issue will be Clifford E. Braider, a splendid young man who has done much good work in behalf of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home. He will tell you something about that institution, something surely to prove interesting.

Everett Colby may be counted upon to put up a brilliant fight, and will not waste his ammunition at this early stage of the primary contest.

BOOST PLAINFIELD

If you like the old town best tell 'em so
If you'd have her lead the rest help her grow
When there's anything to do let the fellows count on you,
You'll feel bully when its through, don't you know.

If you want to make a hit get a name.
If the other fellow's it who's to blame?
Spend your money in the town.
When you pull the sheckles down,
Give the mail concerns the frown,
That's the game.

If you're used to giving knocks change your style,
Throw bouquets instead of rocks for a while.
Let the other fellow roast,
Shun him as you would a ghost,
Meet his hammer with a boast and a smile.

When a stranger from afar comes along
Tell him who and what you are; make it strong.
Needn't falter, never bluff; tell the truth, for that's enough.
Join the boosters, they're the stuff.
We belong to the Plainfield Board of Trade.

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

As it is in North Plainfield, so it is in Dunellen, for in the latter borough there is but one candidate for a primary nomination for the mayoralty. E. B. Latham will be the next mayor of Dunellen, therefore, unless the unexpected happens, and if he should be chosen that burg will be blessed. He is an exceptional man and that suburb of Plainfield will be fortunate indeed if it has him as its executive.

"CHARLIE ROSS" IN BRUNSWICK.

New Brunswick, Sept. 5.—Convinced that he is "Charlie Ross," who was kidnapped from his home in Germantown, Pa., July 1, 1874, a man who came here from Cleveland last week went home yesterday to prepare conclusive proofs of his identity. He went to an old settlement near here, called Pegtown, where he says he was taken by his captors. The stranger was conducted about by the chief of police, and says he recognized the place where he had lived with a man and a woman.

—There is no place in town where that next lot of envelopes can be so neatly printed as at the Daily Press office.

GERMANY'S GREATEST MANOEUVRES TODAY

Berlin, Sept. 5.—On the historic plains of Silesia, where the armies of Frederick the Great carried the standards of Prussia just one hundred and fifty years ago, another great army carrying the imperial colors of a united Germany assembled today under the eye of Frederick's descendant, Emperor William II. For the next five days this modern army of 70,000 men, divided into two opposing corps, will engage in the annual Grand or "Kaiser" manoeuvres, which are the most important army exercises of the year.

The manoeuvres this year are regarded as the most important ever held by the German army. More men are engaged than ever before, while the tests to which they will be put will be unusually severe. Aeroplanes and dirigibles, the latter equipped with wireless outfits, will be employed for scouting purposes and the carrying of despatches. The German army is soon to have a bicycle corps for the first time, and it is expected the various types of machines will be tried out in a practical way during the manoeuvres

Eminent military leaders of many countries are to witness the manoeuvres as personal guests of the Emperor. Among them are Gen. Pollio, chief of the general staff of the Italian army, and Gen. Ramon Ruiz, chief of the general staff of the army of the Argentine Republic. All of the kingdoms, grand duchies, principalities and other component parts of the German empire are represented by their rulers or other distinguished dignitaries. The King of Saxony, the King of Wurtemburg, Prince Frederick William of Prussia, and Prince Rupert of Bavaria are among the number.

Practically all of the commanding officers of the army are to attend, the list being headed by Field Marshals von der Goltz and Count von Haeseler. While the detailed program has not been made public, it is understood that the general idea will be to solve the problems of defence against an invasion of German from the East. The invading and defending armies will be represented by the 5th and 6th Army Corps, respectively. Until the manoeuvres are well under way none of the generals-in-chief will be given any information as to where the Emperor's headquarters are located, that this knowledge may not influence their dispositions.

Elizabeth, Sept. 5.—"I stole because I was hungry," was the defense of Harry Oslin, a negro, to Chief of Police Peters, Wednesday, after admitting the robbery of five local residences. In every house Oslin entered he pilfered food. Another negro in custody at police headquarters has been identified as Charles Wilson, sentenced in Washington, D. C., ten years ago for burglary and sent to the State prison in this State. Wilson gave his name to the police as John Wilson. It is not thought that he was implicated in any local robberies, but he is being held for further investigation. Edward Simmons and John Green, negroes, were arrested Wednesday night on suspicion.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

"Believe Me, Xantippe" has scored a success in New York.

Sothern and Marlowe will open their season on September 8.

"Years of Discretion," by Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Hatton, is about to be produced in London.

Elsie Ferguson has a new play called "A Strange Woman," written by William J. Hurlbut, author of "The Fighting Hope.'

George M. Cohan's dramatization of "Seven Keys to Baldpate" is soon to have its premier in New Haven.

Eleanor Gates' successful play, "The Poor Little Rich Girl," is to make a tour of the large cities this season.

The third season at the Playhouse in New York has been inaugurated with "The Family Cupboard," by Owen Davis.

"The Merry Martyr," a new musical play, is to be given first in Boston, Maclyn Arbuckle playing the leading role of a pompous Spanish provincial governor.

Ethel Levy, who has been acting in the English and Continental music halls, is to have the leading part in a play by Hubert Henry Davies. It will be her first appearance on the legitimate stage.

Mme. Pilar-Morin, the celebrated French actress, pantomimist and author, has completed a three-act play, "La Cordette," dealing with the period of the French Revolution, which is to be produced shortly.

The American Music Hall in Chicago is to be operated this season on lines similar to the New York Winter Garden. Lew Fields in "All Aboard" will be one of the early attractions.

Reginald De Koven, Channing Pollock and Rennold Wolf have written a comic opera, "Her Little Highness," which is to be given its first hearing within another week or two at the Tremont theatre, Boston.

"Within the Law," at the Eltinge theatre in New York is nearing a year's uninterrupted engagement and it is announced to remain until the Christmas holidays and longer should its business warrant.

A play for the use of William H. Crane this season is being written by Winchell Smith and Victor Mapes. It will be called "The New Henrietta" and is based upon Bronson Howard's "The Henrietta," which was a milestone in Mr. Crane's career as a comedian.

The management of the Cort theatre, Chicago, is planning to revive "The Double Cross," by George Bronson Howard and Wilson Mizner. The play was first produced four years ago under the name of "The Only Law" and was the first of the underworld plays. Emmett Corrigan is to have the principal part in the revival.

A new American farce called "A Run for Your Money," by John Golding, is dramatized from a story about a Mexican revolution, which is postponed in order that the commanding general may attend a horse race in Juarez and bet the treasury of the budding republic upon an outsider among the thoroughbreds.

ARREST ENGINEER IN FATAL WRECK

Coroner Mix Acts After Hearing In Secret.

FLAGMAN ALSO IN CUSTODY

Accused Engineer Says He Has Nothing to Fear and Expects to Clear Himself — Resents Newspaper Story Calling Him Scapegoat.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 5.—Coroner Eli Mix of New Haven county ordered the arrest of Augustus B. Miller, engineer of the White Mountain express, and Charles Henry Murray, flagman of the wrecked Bar Harbor train, on charges of being criminally responsible for the death of Royal A. Hotchkisson of a New Haven broker and one of the victims of the wreck. Miller and Murray were held in $5,000 bail.

When the inquest had lasted all morning and afternoon, with no jury or public official other than the coroner attending and with two policemen stationed at the door of the courtroom in the county courthouse to keep reporters away from all the witnesses, Miller, the engineer, was taken to the courthouse and subjected to a long examination. Thereafter H. W. Belnap, chief inspector of the Interstate commerce commission, was permitted by the coroner to serve Miller with a subpoena to appear at the commission's public investigation into the wreck to be held here today.

Remanded Twenty-four Hours.

Immediately afterward Miller was taken by the coroner to the police station and placed under arrest on a coroner's warrant, which remanded him to jail for twenty-four hours after the coroner should return his verdict. After that time, in the failure of further prosecution, the arrest would cease automatically.

Asked whether he had sufficient evidence to warrant the prosecution of Miller, Coroner Mix replied:

"I have evidence sufficient to hold him for twenty-four hours after I find my verdict."

He refused to disclose the evidence or to tell anything that had come out at the inquest; but, turning to Miller, he said:

"Tell these gentlemen whether I have treated you fairly and kindly."

Miller, who looked gaunt and haggard, his square jaw hollowed in the two days since the wreck, his face clammy and eyes red and tremulous, replied:

"I think you used good judgment. I am all demoralized over what the newspapers have been saying. If you fellows would tell the truth it would compliment the coroner, the railroad and myself. I'd like to catch hold of the man who wrote that story in the newspapers calling me a scapegoat. I'm not a scapegoat.

"I haven't read the papers myself," continued Miller nervously, "but they have told me a lot of things that have been said in them. I have nothing to fear. Certainly I expect to clear myself."

BROOKLYN MAN DEAD IN LAKE

Otto Brodine Last Seen a Week Ago as He Went Rowing at Night.

Monticello, N. Y., Sept. 5.—The body of Otto Brodine, who was mysteriously drowned in Kiamesha lake on Thursday night of last week, was found floating near the shore by a party of summer guests. Brodine was last seen alive at 11 o'clock on Thursday night when he put out from shore in a rowboat. The following morning the boat was found partly submerged. For three days the authorities dragged the lake for the body without success.

Brodine came from Brooklyn, where he lived with a sister, Mrs. Fred Stolley, at 311 Forty-fifth street. He was employed as chauffeur for Colonel E. T. Greenfield of New York city, who has a summer home at Kiamesha. He was twenty-eight years old.

BURNED BY THIRD RAIL.

Curry, Trackwalker, Dropped Wrench on Charged Conductor.

New York, Sept. 5.—John Curry and Frank Sidello, trackwalkers in the subway, were burned while walking the tracks at One Hundred and Seventy-fourth street. Curry dropped a wrench and, stooping to pick it up, did not notice that one end was in contact with the third rail.

Curry was made unconscious, but his hand still grasped the wrench. Sidello pulled him away and was badly burned on the left arm. Curry was burned on the right arm. Both were taken to Fordham hospital.

WIFE AND BABY SLAIN.

Mrs. Peterson and Two-year-old Son Found Murdered.

Fremont, Neb., Sept. 5.—The wife and two-year-old son of Rasmus Peterson were murdered in their home. The woman had been choked and beaten to death, and the child's head was crushed.

The authorities are searching for Peterson and have bloodhounds on his trail. Peterson and his wife separated a few weeks ago, and he went to Minnesota, but returned this week and is said to have made efforts to effect a reconciliation.

U. S. SENATOR WEEKS.

© 1913, by American Press Association.

Senator Weeks, Republican, of Massachusetts gave notice to the committee on banking and currency that he will introduce a resolution in the senate calling for postponement of the consideration of a currency measure until the senate meets in December. Senator Weeks mentioned the different views of the senators of the banking and currency committee as one of his principal reasons for proposing delay.

G. M. COHAN BADLY HURT IN AUTO SMASH

Daughter of Playwright May Die of Injuries.

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 5.—George M. Cohan, the actor-playwright, and his three-year-old daughter Georgia were seriously injured near here, and Wallace Edenzer and Francis X. Hope, actors, were badly cut and bruised when Cohan's automobile collided with a farmer's wagon on the New England turnpike.

All four were hurriedly removed to the Hartford hospital, where it was found that Cohan's right arm was fractured in two places and that the little girl's skull had probably been fractured. It was also believed that Cohan suffered from internal injuries. Edenzer and Hope were badly cut and bruised.

Cohan, his daughter and the two actors were on their way to this city to attend a rehearsal of a new play. They were proceeding at a good rate along the New England turnpike about seven miles south of this city, when the automobile ran into the farmer's wagon, throwing it from the road and against a telegraph pole.

Cohan, as he was thrown forward, tried to grab his daughter, who was seated at his side in the tonneau, but failed. All four in the car were thrown out by the impact. Both the automobile and farmer's rig were wrecked.

In response to a telephone call two ambulances were sent from a hospital to bring in the injured.

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 2.

YOU men and women whose faculties are intact—have you ever stopped to think how blessed you are in having a good mind in a sound body?

The other morning, while I was being shaved in an uptown barber shop, a youth of about seventeen came in and applied for a job. He wanted to be a lather boy in that shop. He was deaf and dumb. (I know that the jokesters will say right here that he would have made a good barber. But to me an affliction like that of this poor lad is not a laughing matter; so let's be serious for a moment.)

Here was a boy terribly handicapped in life's struggle. I do not know whether he got that job, for he was still writing on a pad and passing it to the proprietor when I left, but the incident set me to thinking of the thousands of men, sound of limb and senses, who go through life complaining that they "never had a chance."

Chance! Every moment is filled with chances for the man or woman who really wants to succeed. Every sunrise brings to those of us who earnestly want to "go on" fresh opportunities to build ourselves anew. Every day is filled with possibilities for the man or woman who is willing to pay the price of success.

Your chance may be, not a few years off or a thousand miles away, but right now, in the newspaper you are holding.

Turn to the WANT ADS. In the WANT AD. columns employers are constantly advertising for capable employes. In the WANT AD. columns there are presented business opportunities by the score. In the WANT AD. columns your opportunity may be looking for you.

"RICH BANKER" A MERE ADVENTURER

German Found Dead Borrowed Money From Girl.

LETTER OF CREDIT LOST.

Supposed Wealthy Banker Who Died In a Hoboken Boarding House Had Threatened to Commit Suicide Because He Lost Money, Says Companion.

Hoboken, N. J., Sept. 5.—Further investigation of the supposed suicide of Karl Schoepe, who was found dead in a boarding house at 204 River street, indicate that he was a penniless adventurer, instead of a wealthy German banker, as was first thought.

Schoepe was found dead in his room soon after the return of a girl, who says she is Adele Schimmel, whom Schoepe had introduced as his wife. The girl declared she never saw the man until Aug. 15, when both arrived in the second cabin of the steamship Pretoria. She says she never saw the letter of credit for $32,000, the loss of which was supposed to have caused Schoepe's suicide. The girl also declared the man borrowed money from her.

Schoepe was apparently educated and well to do. One day Schoepe is said to have gone to New York to draw on a letter of credit. He came home despondent, according to Miss Schimmel's story, and threatened to commit suicide, because he had lost the money.

Before the supposed loss of the letter of credit, Schoepe, it is said, borrowed $70 from Miss Schimmel, saying he needed it to go to San Francisco, where, he said, there was a fortune waiting for him. He said that he would leave $125 with the boarding mistress to cover her expenses while he was away, and later would return and marry her. According to her story, she threatened to return to the mission.

Miss Schimmel went out. When she returned a cry was heard and the proprietor of the boarding house went to investigate. She found Schoepe unconscious on the bed. She called a doctor, but the man died a few minutes after he arrived. Laudanum poisoning was said to be the cause of the death.

CANDIDATES SPEAK.

Seven Accept Invitation of Newark Improvement Association.

Newark, N. J., Sept. 5.—Seven candidates expounded their reasons for seeking the governorship of New Jersey on the same platform at the Cleveland school in Bergen street. The meeting was under the auspices of the Clinton Hill Improvement association. The hall was crowded. Theodore S. Fettinger presided.

Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., who is opposing Governor Fielder for the Democratic nomination, was unable to appear because of a previous engagement in Cape May county. The Rev. James G. Mason, Prohibitionist candidate, took his place.

Besides Mr. Mason, those on the platform were Governor Fielder, ex-State Senator Colby and Edmund B. Osborne, who are contesting the honors in the Progressive party, and three aspirants in the Republican ranks—ex-Congressman Fowler of Elizabeth, Carlton B. Pierce of Union county and Judge Robert Carey of Jersey City. Ex-Governor Stokes, who is again in the running in the Republican primaries, declined an invitation to take part in the meeting.

ATTACKED FIXING GRAVE.

Orange Woman Charges Cemetery Superintendent With Assault.

Orange, N. J., Sept. 5.—Eugene Reilly, superintendent of St. John's cemetery here, was arraigned before Judge Woodman in the police court on a charge of assault and battery preferred by Mrs. Ann M. Durnin of 14 Cleveland street, Orange. According to the story told by Mrs. Durnin, it has been her custom every afternoon for the last year to visit the grave of her son, Frank J. Durnin, formerly a newspaper man well known in New Jersey, to care for the flowers and shrubs. She alleged that on several occasions Reilly demanded money for permitting her to enter the cemetery and that on Aug. 16, while she was sprinkling water over the grave, he attacked her because she again refused to listen to his demands. In the scuffle that followed, she alleges, when he attempted to wrench the pail from her hands she was knocked down and fainted.

The story of the attack was corroborated by three young women, and Reilly was held in $300 bail for the Essex county grand jury.

DEPOSITORS AID BANK.

Subscribe $100,000 to Reorganize Roseville Trust Company.

Newark, N. J., Sept. 5.—The Depositors' association of the Roseville Trust company has voted to subscribe $100,000 to the reorganization fund of the wrecked institution, provided the directors raised $300,000.

At a meeting a few hours previously the directors agreed to contribute $250,000 to the fund.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

Plainfield and Somerville baseball bugs are rooting for the sun to shine its brightest tomorrow—so that the second championship game can be played.

The contest will be staged at Somerville and an overflow crowd is assured as the fans in that burg have gone nutty over their team's chances to cop the pennant

'Tis said that Pitcher Stack wants a chance to redeem himself against the Pet sluggers. We hope Manager Jack Torpey grants the request.

But Jack says he'll trot out a mound artist of proven ability and again promise a surprise. His last surprise in twirling stock was a pleasant one for Dorflinger.

The leading Giants of the National League and the predicted pennant winners of the International League—Newark—are in the midst of a slump which has the respective managers worried. Connie Mack's men are seven and one-half games ahead in the American organization.

R. Norris Williams, Jr., of Harvard, who gained fame as a member of America's champion tennis team, helped his alma mater pave the way toward the intercollegiate tennis championship yesterday by sensational playing in both the singles and doubles.

President James R. McAleer, of the Boston American Club, has again chosen Bill F. Carrigan as manager of the world's champions.

Hartford won the pennant of the Eastern Association yesterday by capturing two games from New London. The umpire was mobbed because he called the second game in the seventh round.

Frank L. Kramer, champion professional cyclist of America, broke his arm yesterday while cranking his automobile. He will be out of the game for over a month.

HARVARD MAN DEFEATS TIGER TENNIS CRACK

Haverford, Pa., Sept. 5.—R. Norris Williams, 2d, representing Harvard, yesterday defeated G. M. Church, representing Princeton, in the second round of the intercollegiate tennis championships. Williams won without extending himself by 6-3, 6-4.

In the other singles played on the courts of the Merion Cricket Club, J. J. Armstrong, Harvard, defeated B. C. Law, Princeton, 6-4, 6-0, and W. M. Washburn, Harvard, defeated A. M. Kidder, Princeton, 6-1, 6-2.

In the first round of the doubles Church and Kuhn, Princeton, defeated Replogh and Gilden, Pennsylvania, 8-6, 6-2.

MOTORCYCLE NOTES

One of the youngest motorcyclists in America is William Wright, of San Francisco. Master Wright is just 10 years old, but in company with his father is making a motorcycle trip to New York.

Motorcycle Policeman Gray, of Mansfield, O., has found a new use for his motorcycle. When the officer finds a tramp loafing about the city, instead of ordering him out of town, he puts him on the rear seat of the motorcycle and escorts him a few miles into the country.

Two San Francisco motorcyclists have started on a crusade through California, Oregon and Mexico in behalf of the Portola Festival, which is to be held in September.

Miss Della Crewe, a writer of Waco, Tex., is making a motorcycle tour of the world. Miss Crewe expects to write impressions of her trip for a magazine.

The first "motorcycle wedding" ever celebrated in Santa Rosa, Cal., occurred recently when Miss Ida Goldman and Walter Eames, of San Francisco, chugged into town, secured a license and were married by Justice Atchinson.

Members of the Muncie (Ind.) Motorcycle Club are finding much pleasure this summer in the game of motorcycle hare and hounds. The game was originated last spring by the St. Louis club.

One of the most efficient parcel delivery concerns in Beloit, Wis., is that of R. S. Maxwell. Maxwell has attached a side van to his motorcycle and delivers packages quickly to any part of the city.

A volunteer squad of twenty-five motorcyclists has been sworn in to assist the officers of Aurora, Ill., in enforcing the speed ordinances.

ENGLAND PREPARING FOR POLO CONTESTS

Lord Ashby St. Ledger has named the international polo team with which he intends to come here next year, and already has started to collect the best squad of ponies available in the British Isles. In mustering the ponies he will be helped out by the Duke of Peneranda, who supports one of the best polo stables in England. It was his ponies that the Quidnunes used in all their matches this season, and with which they won the final in the Kings Coronation Cup.

Two of the men selected by St. Ledger were here last year, they being Captain Ritson and Captain Lockett. The other two are Captain E. Palmer and Captain F. W. Barrett, and both belong to the Fifteenth Hussars.

According to word from the other side, the St. Ledger challenge to the American Polo Association for next year's match is likely to arrive here today. It is just possible that two teams may come, the other one to play daily against the St. Ledger outfit to bring out their real speed.

HIGH-BRED DOGS ON SHOW.

Oakland, Cal., Sept. 5.—Scores of thoroughbred dogs, representing all of the popular breeds, were on display at the Piedmont Pavilion today at the opening of the annual bench show of the Oakland and Alameda County Kennel Club. Judging was commenced soon after the opening this morning and will be continued until the close of the exhibition tomorrow night.

TRAVIS VICTIM OF 'CHICK' EVANS

SEMI - FINALS TODAY

Travers, the Present Titleholder, Beats Reid—Champion and Westerner Will Probably Battle For Premier Honors.

Walter J. Travis went down to defeat yesterday afternoon in the national amateur golf championship tournament on his home course, the Garden City links, in almost pathetic style. Chick Evans, Chicago, beat him, 5 up and 4 to go, simply because the veteran was tired out. Mentally Travis was as keen as ever, but he lacked the physical energy to get off his tee shots, began to flub his seconds from fatigue, and even his usual fine putting reflected his exhausted condition. The crowd wanted to see him win at home this year if he never did again. As the crowd scattered home many said sadly, "I'm afraid the grand old man has won his last title."

On the morning round Evans began to show the woozy putting that frequently crops out of his play, and it seemed likely that Travis might win on that score, if no other, but the veteran's fatigue was in evidence almost from the start in the afternoon. Consequently Evans quickly picked up and, while he did nothing very unusual, played in creditable style.

In the afternoon Reid won the first three holes in 3s—a sprint, halved the next two and captured the sixth, leaving Jerry but two up. The seventh was halved. Travers won the eighth and ninth and was 4 up at the turn. Losing the tenth, 5 to par 4, left him 3 up. After hooking on the eleventh, he took his jigger and got in a wonderful half in par 4, despite a stymie. At the thirteenth Reid was but 2 down. Halving the next two and winning the sixteenth, sufficed, however, for "Jerry" to win. Cards:

Sherman—

In..... 4 4 4 5 5 5 5 6 4—42—83

In the afternoon everything hinged on the 2 that Anderson made at the twelfth. Cards:

In..... 5 5 2 6 4 4

Sherman—
Out..... 5 4 4 6 4 5 5 5 4—42
In..... 4 4 4 5 5 4

The draw today will be Evans vs. Anderson and Travers vs. Herreshoff. The latter will carry a big gallery. The crowd expects to see Travers win the final from Evans, as last year, but golf is the most uncertain of sports.

The Hope Chapel ball-tossers will undoubtedly advance in the race tomorrow, when they play the Park Avenue boys on the Myrtle avenue diamond. The lowly Baptists haven't won a contest this season and the Hopes should experience little trouble in recording a "win."

FLAG CONTENDERS PLAY TOMORROW

Somerville and Plainfield Baseball Teams Meet on Former's Diamond.

CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES

A Victory for the Locals and the Central New Jersey League Pennant Will Come to This City—The Lineup.

THE BATTING ORDER.

Plainfield—Harter, ct; E. Stallings, 1b; W. Stallings, 2b; Craig, 3b; Lewis, ss; Nelson, c; Moran, lf; Dorman, rf; Ortlieb, p.

Somerville—Grimes, lf; Dalton, ss; Muilin, 2b; Wiltse, 1b; Cunningham, cf; Torpey, c; Conti, 3b; Hickey, rf, Clinton-Porter, p; Matteo, sub.

If his High Majesty Jupiter Pluvius allows the sun's rays to shine unmolested tomorrow in this section of the country, the Plainfield and Somerville baseball teams of the Central New Jersey League will engage in a battle tomorrow at Somerville, in the second skirmish to decide the pennant. Although Plainfield captured the initial struggle Labor Day afternoon in this city, Jack Torpey feels, confident that his soldiers will make the locals hang out the white flag on the Somerset county battle ground. Although he has named Clinton or Porter to fire the ball across the home plate, Jack claims to have his eye on another twirler who has a cannon-ball delivery, whom he can secure to do mound duty in case Clinton is unable to perform or if Porter has a sore wing.

The Plainfield battalion will line up the same as on the Labor Day struggle on Parker Field, although Dorflinger says he may get a new first baseman to take the place of Ed Stallings, who has a bum knee. Ortlieb, who was touched up for a three-bagger and a circuit clout in the first inning of the last championship game, says he will be on guard tomorrow and will pitch such a tight ball that the Somerville swatters will find it hard to make many bingles in succession.

Cunningham and Hickey, two Somerville outfielders who did not take part in Monday's game, will man centre and right fields, respectively, and as both are fast men and heavy hitters, the county seat nine should be strengthened by their addition to the batting order.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

	W	L.	P. C.
Plainfield	11	4	.733
Somerville	10	5	.666

It has been heretofore stated in local papers, that Scotch Plains would be the opponents tomorrow of the Plainfield Pets, but this arrangement was cancelled following a conference between Managers Dorflinger and Torpey.

Peaches Again.

If you are still able to get peaches, make the most of them. Often the late autumn peaches are the best that come, both for flavor and for texture. If they are delicious in both these respects, serve them raw. If they are a little hard, a little sour, cook them in some way before serving them.

When you are serving peaches whole on the table remember that the furriness of their skins is unpleasant to some persons. Wash them in cold water and dry them on a coarse towel, or else rub them with a towel wet in cold water. This process removes most of the fur.

When you are serving cut-up peaches, slice them just before they are needed. If you must slice them ahead of time, sprinkle them lightly with sugar. The sugar forms a syrup with the peach juice and helps keep the fruit from turning black. If anyone dislikes the fruit sweetened a whole peach or two can be provided for him.

Raw peaches served with cooked syrup are good. Boil equals parts of sugar and water for five or six minutes, and pour this syrup, hot, over the fruit. Peaches without much flavor can be treated in this way, and a few drops of lemon juice can be added to the hot syrup.

Peach Whip.

The following peach whip is delicious. Cut ripe, juicy peaches in cubes, and cover them with sugar. Stand them on the ice for half an hour. Whip the whites of eggs stiff and beat in granulated sugar until you have a stiff meringue—in the proportion of a tablespoonful of sugar to one egg white. Pile the meringue in the center of a dish, pour the peaches around it and serve with cream.

Peach Pie.

This is a recipe for peach pie which is famous in the family where it is made. Make a soft dough of a cupful and half of flour, half a cupful of butter, two tablespoonfuls of baking powder, a pinch of salt, a quarter of a cupful of sugar and enough milk—as little as possible—to make a soft dough. Roll this out and line a pie plate with it. Fill it with sliced peaches, well sweetened, and cover them with sweet or sour cream. Bake in a moderate oven until the fruit is cooked through.

Some Cookery Suggestions

HOW TO USE CLAMS.

DINNER MENU.
Clam Chowder.
Beef a la Mode. Boiled Potatoes
Green Peas.
Stuffed Baked Tomatoes.
Peach Pudding. Small Cakes.
Coffee.

CLAMS make a light and nourishing summer food. When the fresh shellfish cannot be procured canned ones may be substituted for them.

Hot Weather Foods.

Clam Salad.—Heat together one pint of cider vinegar, one slice of onion, six whole cloves, a bay leaf, pepper and salt. Place as many little neck clams as are needed in a dish. Pour over them the hot vinegar and let it stand until cool. Then drain the clams and arrange in a nest of crisp lettuce leaves. Garnish with minced hard boiled eggs.

Clam Mousse.—Take three dozen clams and strain the liquor through a fine sieve. Put the clam juice in a freezer, season with celery salt and to every pint of clam juice allow one cupful of whipped cream. Freeze to a soft water ice consistency and serve in bouillon cups.

Fried Golden Brown.

Clam Fritters.—Take two and two-thirds cups flour, four teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, two eggs, one pint clams.

Clean the clams and cut them into half inch pieces. Mix together dry ingredients, add egg well beaten and mixed with clams. Have fat hot enough to brown a bit of bread in one and one-half minutes.

Drop mixture by spoonfuls into deep fat, fry until a golden brown and drain on brown paper.

A Popular Chowder.

Clam Chowder.—Take one quart clams, four cups potatoes cut into three-fourth cubes, one and one-half inch cuts of fat salt pork, one sliced onion, one tablespoon of salt, one-eighth teaspoon of pepper, four tablespoons butter, four cups scalded milk, eight soda crackers. Clean the clams, drain reserve liquor, heat to boiling point and strain. Chop finely hard part of clams, cut pork in small pieces and fry out. Add onion, fry five minutes and strain into stew pan. Parboil potatoes five minutes in boiling water to cover, drain and put a layer in bottom of stew pan. Add chopped clams, sprinkle with salt and pepper and dredge with flour, add remaining potatoes, again sprinkle with salt and pepper, dredge with flour and add two and one-half cups boiling water. Cook ten minutes, add milk, soft part of clams and butter, boil three minutes and add crackers split and soaked in enough cold milk to moisten. Reheat clam water to boiling point and thicken with one tablespoon of butter and flour cooked together; add to chowder just before serving.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Towser Gives The Naughty Kittens a Scare.

Mrs. Whitefoot Clawed Towser.

JACK and Evelyn claimed daddy's promise. "You know you said you would tell us about kitty cats tonight," Evelyn reminded. It was her turn to choose a story.

"Very well," agreed daddy. "Then it shall be about Snowball and Muff. Snowball was six weeks old. So was Muff. They were twins, for they had both been born at the same time.

"Their mother, Mrs. Whitefoot, was very proud of them. She thought they were the handsomest kittens she had ever seen.

"Snowball was a perfectly white kitten, while Muff was gray, just like the muff her little mistress carried in the winter. The kittens had their home in the stable. They lived in an empty manger in one of the big stalls. Old Jeff, the horse who had the next stall, was a great friend of Mrs. Whitefoot's, and when she went out she always asked him to look after her babies while she was gone.

"One day when Mrs. Whitefoot started out, leaving the kittens fast asleep, she said, 'I'll just run over to the field and get a nibble of catnip.'

"Mrs. Whitefoot had a fine time in the field. She not only ate catnip, but lay down and rolled in it."

"'When the kittens are a little older I'll take them over and teach them to eat catnip,' Mrs. Whitefoot promised herself. 'There's nothing in the world better for a little cat's health than a bite of catnip.'

"As she neared the house she heard the hoarse bark of a dog. 'It's that horrid Towser from down the road,' she growled. 'What's he doing here?'

"She was careful to keep out of sight as she peeped into the yard where Towser was prancing around a tree.

"Just one look up the tree was enough for Mrs. Whitefoot. Muff and Snowball were clinging to the trunk, so frightened they could scarcely hold on.

"Mrs. Whitefoot gave a leap that landed her on Towser's back. Towser yelped as he felt her claws sink into his flesh. Then he started home, howling for help.

"Mrs. Whitefoot jumped down and rushed back to her precious babies. She coaxed them down and marched them back to the stable, where she divided her time between scolding and scrubbing them.

"When old Jeff heard about it he said: 'You're a brave cat, Mrs. Whitefoot. Old Towser is a cross dog, and he hates cats.'

"'He's a wicked old scamp to try to hurt my dear children, and I'm glad I scratched his old back. Perhaps he will stay at home after this. At any rate, I hope the kittens have learned to mind me and stay where I tell them.'"

T. R. ADVISES SULZER TO ANSWER CHARGES

He Also Condemns Assailants of Executive.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 5.—Governor Sulzer made public the following letter from Colonel Roosevelt, written from Arizona in reply to two letters on the gubernatorial situation sent by the impeached governor to the former president:

I believe I thoroughly understand the assault that is now being made upon you. I have yet to meet a single person who believes or even pretends to believe, that a single honest motive has animated the proceedings of your assailants.

From Mr. Murphy himself to the legislators who obeyed his instructions there is no possible question that all of your assailants are the enemies of the public and that their aim is to acquire the evil domination of the state government and that the conspiracy against you has not one saving impulse behind it that can in the remotest degree be ascribed to patriotism or civic spirit or to anything save the basest impulse of crooked politics. We have never seen a more startling example of the power of the invisible government under the present system.

The extraordinary thing is that the "conservative" upholders of this present system should have witnessed the decrees of the invisible government carried out within twenty-four hours and who, nevertheless, denounce as revolutionary our proposal for changes in the form of government whereby the deliberate judgment of the majority of the voters may be executed within a space of time no shorter than that required for the execution of their deliberate judgment in the choice of a president of the United States.

Let me add one thing, my dear governor. You owe it to yourself and to all those who have supported you to take the earliest opportunity to answer the charges made against you.

That the purposes of those bringing the charges are wholly evil I am sure that all honest men feel. Moreover, I am sure that honest men feel that the assault made upon you by your foes is due to your having stood up for the principle of good government and decent citizenship, even when it was necessary to defy the will of the bosses of the two parties and especially of your own and to stand in the way of the success of the corrupt schemes of the party machine managers.

But there is also among honest men a desire for a full and straightforward explanation and answer in reference to the charges made against you, and I very earnestly hope that as soon as possible the explanation and answer will be made.

Asked if he would follow the former president's suggestion, the governor referred to his general denial of the Frawley committee charges issued on Aug. 10 and added:

"My explanation will be given at the impeachment trial."

POPE'S RELAPSE DENIED.

Pontiff Gives Several Audiences During Day and Blesses Pilgrims.

Rome, Sept. 5. There is no truth in the report that Pope Pius X. has had a recurrence of his illness. He gave an audience to Cardinal Ferrari of Milan, who headed a deputation of Milanese pilgrims. He afterward appeared before the pilgrims and welcomed them to Rome.

The pope also gave an audience to twelve priests, including the Rev. G. J. Fox, a California Jesuit, who are going to the Holy Land for two months on behalf of the Biblical institute. The pontiff blessed numerous pilgrims from Placenza and other places in the courtyard of San Damascus.

Still the Girdle and Tango Drapery on Modish Street Gowns.

Even the dog in the picture has a look of admiration for the new gowns worn by his mistress and her friend. One who may want to make a modish street dress could not find prettier or more practical models than those sketched to show some of the latest details which French couturiers have devised. The costume, on the figure at the right, suggests the ultra smart combination of contrasting materials, being black moire with a dull Indian red charmeuse skirt. The collar is of tan net embroidered in futurist design and gay colors. It forms a point on the shoulders of the blouse. The deep folded girdle forms almost a tango drapery on a two-piece skirt in peg-top effect, which may be slashed on the side seams. Size 36 requires 2½ yards of 36-inch material for the blouse and girdle; and 3 1-8 yards of the same width for the skirt.

A new idea is noticed in making the side front gores appear like drapery and a sash in one, in the smart niggerhead brown eponge dress with fichu of ecru lace and net starting from a collar of striped silk. The skirt is cut in four pieces and extends to a high waistline in the middle back, showing a girdle only part way around. Size 36 requires six yards of 42-inch material. Both patterns may be had in 5 sizes, 15 cents each.

Wallachian-stitch is very easy to do and is particularly suitable for embroidering towels, because, being unpadded it does not make lumpy places and also because it launders so well. This simple design may be used on the coarsest, roughest grade of huckaback which really is most serviceable for towels for general use, and the embroidery should be done with number 12 mercerized cotton. The scalloped edges of the towels should be carefully padded with chain-stitch or running stitches, lengthwise of the scallops, and each scallop should be run on the line of the stamping with fine stitches before beginning the buttonholes so that the threads of the material will not fray out after the towels have been laundered. Pattern 14341, includes transfers for stamping both ends of two towels on 22-inch material. If you like, a three-inch initial or a monogram of two-inch letters may be placed in the wreath and you will find the plain script or block letters the appropriate styles to use with the Wallachian embroidery. The script 14068 and the block letters 14266 come at 10 cents for five sizes of one initial. The design may also be adapted to a bureau scarf of butcher's linen, cotton poplin or imitation linen as the design is not appropriate for fine, sheer material.

Towels for general use should be from 36 to 38 inches long and it is well to allow an inch on each end to hold the material in the frame while doing the embroidery. All linen huckaback is preferable to the cotton and linen mixture because it is more absorbent, although the cotton and linen material wears better than the pure linen. Do not buy cotton huckaback for making towels as it does not absorb water easily and does not wear well. It is poor economy to buy a cheap material and spend time in embroidering it. This transfer pattern 14341, which can be used for stamping two towels or pillow cases, can be supplied to readers at 10 cents.

VICTORY CENTENNIAL.

Portland, Me., Sept. 5.—One hundred years ago today the United States ship Enterprise and the British cruiser Boxer met off the Maine coast and engaged in battle. The British were defeated and their vessel captured. The victory of the Americans came but five days before Perry's triumph on Lake Erie and was peculiarly welcome since it relieved the popular depression caused by the capture of the Chesapeake by the Shannon three months before. The engagement of the Enterprise and the Boxer attained a mournful celebrity by reason of the fact that both Commanders Burrows, of the American ship, and Blyth, of the British ship, were slain. Longfellow, then a child, heard the booming of the guns over the tide and as a poet celebrated the tragedy of the two captains who lie buried side by side in a Portland cemetery.

FIRE FIGHTERS ON PARADE.

New York, Sept. 5.—The convention of the International Association of Fire Engineers, which has held forth here since the beginning of the week, culminated today in a grand street parade. Fifteen hundred fire fighters, representing the paid and volunteer departments of the metropolitan district and near-by cities and towns, were in line. The procession also included a display of fire-fighting apparatus, from the old "hand tub" to the modern motor-propelled engines and trucks. Following the disbanding of the parade the fire fighters assembled on Riverside Drive for the unveiling of the Firemen's Monument. The monument is an imposing affair of bronze and granite, representing a fire engine drawn by three plunging horses.

GIRL ATTACKED.

New Providence, Sept. 5.—While returning from Diamond Hill School to here home in Mountain avenue, ten years old Mary Gottlick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wenzel Gottlick, was attacked by an unidentified man, who sprang from the bushes and attempted to drag her into the woods. The man probably would have been successful had not a carriage appeared on the scene. The occupants were attracted by the girl's screams. He ran into the woods in the rear of Simon P. Debbie's residence, and escaped.

COUPLE MARRIED FIFTY YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. John Corey Celebrate Their Golden Wedding Anniversary.

AT A DINNER PARTY

Engagement of Their Granddaughter, Miss Cory M. Angleman, to H. W. Cutler is Announced—A Family Reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cory, of West Front street, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding, yesterday, and last night a dinner party was arranged in honor of the event. The home was attractively decorated, there being a profusion of yellow flowers and greens, while Mrs. Cory received among other beautiful gifts many choice cut flowers. After the dinner, the evening was spent in a social way. The affair was of double interest for announcement was made of the engagement of their granddaughter, Miss Cory M. Angleman, to H. Watson Cutler, of Roseville. Miss Angleman is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs George Angleman, of Jersey City.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. John Cory, Rev. and Mrs. George Angleman and daughter, Miss Cory M. Angleman, Miss Margaret Cory, and Mrs. Charles A. Lee and daughter, Miss Marguerite Lee, of the borough, also relatives of the celebrants.

Mr. and Mrs. Cory are both natives of New Jersey, the former being born at Warrenville and the latter at Union Village. Mrs. Cory's maiden name was Miss Mary E. French, she being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David A. French. Mr. Cory spent his early life at Warrenville. The couple was married at Union Village by Rev. Mr. Adams and for the past forty-five years they have lived in Plainfield. They are both active members of the First M. E. church, Mr. Cory being a trustee and a steward. The couple have two daughters, Mrs. George Angleman, whose husband is pastor of the Methodist church in the Greenville section of Jersey City, and Miss Margaret Cory, who was a teacher in the public schools here for several years.

FIVE DOLLARS MORE FOR THE DAY NURSERY

Five dollars more came to the Daily Press office this morning from a friend for the use of the City Union of Kings' Daughters at the Day Nursery on West Front street. This brings the total amount received to date to $127.50, which is much less than the people of Plainfield contributed last year.

Additional contributions for this worthy charity will be received and acknowledged through the Daily Press.

RESPOND TO APPEAL FOR FAMILY IN NEED

In response to the appeal made in yesterday's issue of the Daily Press for Mrs. Peter Murray, the widow on Terrill road who, with her seven children, is in need of clothing and other necessities of life, the Daily Press acknowledges with pleasure the receipt of $12, $10 of which came from "A Friend," and $2 from S. L. H. This will help this worthy woman and her family very much, but further contributions will be welcomed. Coal and wearing apparel are mostly needed.

REGRETS HIS DEPARTURE.

The Classis of Newark at its last session, adopted resolutions relative to the dismissal of the Rev. Royal A. Stout from the Netherwood Reformed church, to become pastor of the Green Hill Presbyterian church, Philadelphia, expressing its regret in dissolving the pastoral relations between the local church and Mr. Stout.

EVENTS SCHEDULED FOR Y. W. C. A. GIRLS

Attractions Arranged for Coming Week and Later in the Month.

There will be "open house" at the Young Women's Christian Association on Monday nights during September, when the new secretaries hope to become better acquainted with the association girls. Miss Florence Smith, the general secretary, has come to Plainfield after several years' experience in association work, her last location having been New Bedford, Mass. Miss Grace Henley, the assistant secretary from Cincinnati spent last winter in New York at the National Training School of the Young Women's Christian Association. Miss Elizabeth Wetherell returns this fall to the gymnasium work, having completed the physical director's course in the Training School this summer. Miss Beatrice Gardner, of the Mechanics Institute in Rochester, will have charge of the housekeeping centre.

The Kitchi Kimiwan Camp Fire will have a ceremonial meeting preceded by a supper Tuesday evening on the mountain. The members will meet at Hyde's lodge at 6:30. Honors are to be awarded for the work done during the summer. Miss Smith and Miss Henley will be invited guests. This group will continue meeting each Tuesday and Thursday evening during September.

A meeting of the Owaissa Camp Fire will take place at the association building each Thursday evening.

All association girls are invited to join the Saturday afternoon walks which will be taken to local points of interest when the weather permits.

The housekeeping centre, a new department of the association, will be open for inspection next Thursday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock. On the following Monday classes will begin in practical housekeeping and cooking for junior girls.

FITZSIMMONS DRAWN FOR THE GRAND JURY

New Brunswick, Sept. 6.—Robert Fitzsimmons, former world's champion heavyweight pugilist, who runs a farm in Middlesex Borough, near Dunellen, is one of those drawn by Sheriff Bollschweiler yesterday for Grand Jury service in Middlesex county in the September term.

The sheriff drew forty numbers from the Grand Jury box and the names corresponding to those numbers were taken by Judge Daly to be submitted to Supreme Court Justice Bergen. If any of the forty can show reasonable excuse, they will be excused from service, and if more than 23 are left on the opening day of court, the first 23 on the list will constitue the Grand Jury. Champion Fitzsimmons is not among the first 23, so unless there are enough excused ahead of him, he may not serve after all.

New Brunswick got more grand and petit jurors both than any other section. Dunellen, Jamesburg, Milltown, Monroe, North Brunswick, Raritan and Roosevelt are not represented in the Grand Jury list. Helmetta, Jamesburg, Spotswood, Dunellen and Highland Park have no petit jurors.

STILL PLEAD FOR SANITARY SCHEME

Municipal Garbage and Ash Disposal Plan is Urged by City Health Board.

REVIEW OF THE MONTH

What's Been Done to Keep Plainfield Healthy—Only Three Contagious Cases at the Present Time.

The urgent need of a municipal system of garbage and ash disposal and public comfort stations was discussed at the September meeting of the Board of Health, last night, and it was decided that the attention of the Common Council again be called to the matter. The steadily increasing growth of the city was shown to be strong evidence of the need of these improvements.

Only six cases of communicable diseases were reported during August, three tuberculosis and three typhoid fever. The city has been entirely free from contagious diseases for a period of several weeks. At the present time there are three cases of typhoid fever, all of which would seem, from the information procured, to have been contracted out of the city. There are no houses under quarantine at present.

During August 22 rooms in eleven houses were disinfected; also the contagious disease ward at Muhlenberg Hospital. Twenty-one cultures were examined, nine being for tuberculosis, five for diphtheria, four for typhoid fever and three for malaria. Sixty-four dairies in all were inspected and conditions were found to be good. Milk samples were collected from the regular dealers and were given the usual analysis. Inspections were made of the bakeries and conditions were found to be fairly good, with a few exceptions. The restaurants, lunch rooms and stores where soda water is sold were inspected.

The following returns were made to the Board of Health during August: Births, 62; still-births, 2; marriages, 19; deaths, 26. Inspections were made as follows: Plumbing, 86; complaints and nuisances, 620; communicable diseases, 10; general work, 139; milk supply, 122.

CONGREGATIONAL SERVICES TO BE HELD IN HARTRIDGE SCHOOL

URGES CLEANING OF GREEN BROOK

Borough Health Board Directs Council's Attention to Its Unsanitary Condition.

OTHER IMPROVEMENTS

Provision Made for Several Changes—Joint Sewer Ordinance Passed on Second Reading—Councilman Milne in the Chair.

In a communication to the North Plainfield Council read last night at a meeting of that body, Dr. A. H. Dundon, secretary of the North Plainfield Board of Health, described the unsanitary conditions of Green brook and advised that the bed of the small stream be cleaned immediately of the refuse and decayed material as its present condition is proving a detriment to the health of the community. Councilman Milne, who presided in the absence of Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., referred the communication to the committee on public affairs.

The Plainfield Board of Trade several weeks ago brought the attention of the borough and city authorities to the unhealthy condition of Green brook and Tier's pond.

A proposed ordinance, introduced by Councilman Stahl, was passed on first and second reading, it calling for the macadamizing of Watchung avenue, from Codington avenue to the bridge spanning Green brook. Several years ago it was arranged to make this improvement. It was agreed upon that the work should be started as soon as the property owners receiving the benefits should pay two-thirds of the cost of the work in advance. The majority of the property owners have complied with this agreement, but the starting of the work has been delayed because several citizens refused to pay their assessment until the work was completed. The ordinance introduced last night calls for and provides that the macadamizing be done as soon as possible—the assessments to be levied after the job is completed in all cases where the money has not been collected.

Mr. Stahl also introduced a resolution authorizing the street committee to have erected a concrete culvert along Greenbrook road to Stony brook. The resolution provided that the structure should be built, starting at Somerset street, and the operations continued as long as the 1913 appropriation of the street department will permit. Mr. Stahl said he figured that about $500 could be used on the improvement this year, which would erect the culvert as far west as Grove street. The work could then be continued in 1914 when an additional appropriation would be secured.

Councilman Woolston, after saying that the work should be done, declared that other improvements had been promised and contemplated in other parts of the borough and that the latter should be attended to first. He referred principally to the erection of a storm sewer along Westervelt avenue, from Grandview avenue to Green brook, an improvement promised to the property owners along that thoroughfare for the past two years. Woolston voted against the resolution on this point, but was defeated, Milne, Rushmore, Stahl and Cowperthwait voting "aye."

The sewer ordinance, concerning the erection of the joint sewerage system in this city, the borough and Dunellen with a disposal bed on the Darling farm in Pitcataway township, was reintroduced, according to law, and adopted on first and second reading.

An amendment to the dog ordinance, providing the Mayor with authority to issue a proclamation at any time calling for the leashing of all canines, was adopted.

A grade map showing the grades along Watchung avenue, on the tract known as Hudson terrace, was adopted. A communication was read from the Board of Equalization of Taxes, calling the Council's attention to a law of 1913, which orders the drafting of a tax-map to be submitted to the Board on or before September 15. It was stated that Mayor Clark had attended to the matter. The New York Telephone Co. was granted permission to erect several poles on Watchung avenue and Greenbrook road. Recorder Gano's report for August showed that twenty-four arrests had been made and $65 in fines collected.

Overseer of the Poor Fred J. Becker was granted an appropriation of $200 for his department and a resolution was adopted authorizing the borrowing of $1,000 for the borough's current expenses. Warrants amounting to $2,442.29 were ordered paid.

The following building permits were granted: James M. Way, garage, at 259 Somerset street; Mrs. Carper, barn in Harrison avenue; Nicholas Van Winkle, barn in Union street; Dr. A. H. Dundon, addition to house in Somerset street.

Mrs. Rachel Liefke, wife of Henry Liefke, died suddenly yesterday afternoon at her home, 812 West Front street. Only a short time before Mrs. Liefke passed away she was sitting up conversing with those about her and her sudden death was a great shock to the members of the family.

Mrs. Liefke was born in Scotland, her maiden name being Miss Rachel Carr. She came to this country with her parents and located in Morristown in 1872. BUSINESS WORRIES CAUSE OF A SUICIDE

Strike and Thefts Led Paterson Silk Manufacturer to Kill Himself.

Paterson, N. J., Sept. 6.—Albert L. Blondell, a silk manufacturer, shot himself in the head in the bathroom at his home, 397 Eleventh avenue, this city, and died less than an hour later in the Paterson General hospital without regaining consciousness.

Mr. Blondell was dressing and stepped into the bathroom. A moment afterward Mrs. Blondell heard one shot and ran to him. He had a wound in his temple and lay senseless on the bathroom floor. She called for help and he was removed to the hospital quickly, but was beyond the help of surgery, the ambulance doctors told Mrs. Blondell as they left with him.

The Blondell Silk company mills, which the suicide owned, were closed throughout the recent strike. They employ about 200 men and women. In the last year or two there have been several big silk robberies at the mill. Four of the thieves are now in the New Jersey penitentiary and a fifth man, charged with complicity in one of the robberies, was caught two weeks ago and is soon to stand trial.

Friends of Mr. Blondell believe that business worries led him to kill himself.

HOOD HAS SUED NOW FOR SLANDER

Brings Action Against James Lockwood—Claims $50,000 Damages to Character.

PAPERS ARE FILED

Alleges Defendant Told Ship's Captain Hood Had Stolen Securities and Was Traveling Under Assumed Name.

Richard Haden Hood, who has gained considerable prominence through a divorce action on the part of his wife, and subsequent litigation in an effort to regain possession of his $50,000 residential property on Stelle avenue, yesterday filed in the Supreme Court a slander action for $50,000 damages against James Lockwood.

Mr. Hood asserts that Lockwood slandered him last September by telling the captain of the steamship Kronprinzessin Cellie that Hood was on board under the alias of "Robert Harris." He further alleges that Lockwood informed the captain that he (Hood) had stolen certain securities and that a watch had better be kept upon him. Hood declares that these false statements were repeated in London.

The Hood mansion on Stelle avenue is still being guarded day and night by detectives employed by Mrs. Hood against any possible trouble that her husband might make. Mrs. Hood continues to occupy the place with her mother and sister. It was only recently that Mr. Hood gained an entrance to the house through a rear door and he was arrested by the police on complaint of his wife who charged him with assault.

Somerville

The firemen were called out yesterday morning, about 10.30, because of a blaze at the home of Samuel W. Davenport, on West Cliff street. The fire was caused by a defective flue, and was in the upper part of the house. Through the prompt arrival of the firemen, and by the aid of neighbors much of the furniture was carried out of the lower floors, fearing that the house was doomed. The fire, however, was soon under control, before a great deal of damage was done. Water poured on the blaze did considerable damage to the interior of the house. House and contents were insured.

WORDS FROM HOME.

Statements That May Be Investigated—Testimony of Plainfield Citizens.

When a Plainfield citizen comes to the front, telling his friends and neighbors of his experience, you can rely on his sincerity. The statements of people residing in far away places do not command your confidence. Home endorsement is the kind that backs Doan's Kidney Pills. Such testimony is convincing. Investigation proves it true. Below is a statement of a Plainfield resident. No stronger proof of merit can be had.

Albert Naylor, musician, 256 East Second street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Several years ago I suffered from an ache in the small of my back and sharp pains when stooping or lifting. I took Doan's Kidney Pills, as I was told that they were good for such trouble and by the time I had finished two boxes, I was feeling better in every way. I have often recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to people I have heard complaining of kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

BACK-BONE

Its Importance to a Man and a Store

Mark Twain had two wishes.

The first was to be a millionaire; and the second to be a multi-millionaire.

But being only a humorous wisher, neither one was achieved.

It takes more than a wish-bone to succeed; it requires a back-bone

And those stores that "fall by the wayside" like the men who never "get there," are the spineless sort—the kind with no back-bone!

We have been firm in our principles—we have lost many a customer because we have refused to "move a price," or "mis-state."

But these things to us are unethical, and what is the joy of existence, if it is not to do as we know we should?

THE FORUM.

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

Your editorial in yesterday's Press amuses me. It seems so silly and unworthy of you. Your benign and complacent attitude is not agreeable nor consistent in the premises. In other words, we do not expect the deal to be put over. You understand? We are not alarmed, but on the job. Astonished, that's all. The same kind of practical astonishment that characterized the efforts in the Madison avenue widening proposition. You know what happened to that. The same sound adviser and Council will undoubtedly refuse to be hoodwinked into buying the orphan fire pumping apparatus.

Now, my friends, let us review the reason or cause for our astonishment or what you are pleased to suggest, as "alarm":

2. Mr. Casner, superintendent of the Saurer Works, showed us the fire pumping apparatus at the Saurer Works, the very one that the company bid on to sell to the city at $7,000. He explained all about it, made in Switzerland, requires new top on the American plan to conform to the city requirements, together with general overhauling. You ought to see it now. Whow! Ask Mr. Casner to send it down so you can cast your benign gaze upon it. Why you ought to see it and laugh and write up an editorial that would make a laughing stock of those who are trying to work off this thing on the city of Plainfield.

Mr. Casner showed us the whole business, even the plans for the new American top for the Swiss infant. None of us doubt Mr. Casner's veracity in his statements to us. We saw and believed. You have seen nothing and rest, as we do now, believing that the Council which has taken charge of the affair will realize that it came near being bamboozled. Alarm! Tommyrot. Alarm is not for us, it is for the fire committee. The fire committee, some of whose members have not even seen the fire engine; simply left the matter to other members. Ask Mr. Wilson, he can tell you what he told me, that he had not seen it. He was so busy with his own business that he left the matter entirely with Mr. Endress. Do you get me? It was John R. Cline, our expert, who had the nerve to sign a true report about the orphan. All honor to him. It was the Board of Trade who demonstrated again, that he knows how to get after things and people. It was President Clay of the Council who asked the bidders if they were bidding on brand new equipment. It was the chairman of the fire committee who had the nerve to insist that the Council purchase the orphan, at the meeting of the Council Monday evening last. It was Councilman Calkins who acted promptly in the city's interest and asked for further information. It was your paper that published Mr. Cline's report on Aug. 9, and on Sept. 5, wrote an editorial that maybe we are unduly alarmed.

Did not Mr. Endress try to put it over, notwithstanding out objections? Are not actions in such matters, taken by the Council very often at the instance and advice of committees

The Council is now called upon to repudiate the action of the fire committee. It should do more and reprimand it for either incompetence or malicious intent. Is it our alarm? I guess not. Are we on the fence? Not on your life, and we propose to push you off it.

I trust that you will understand that Saurer Motor trucks are not fire pumping apparatus. The pump is the important feature of a reliable fire apparatus.

In conclusion we laud and sustain any local industry in its efforts to place products of the proper kind on the market, but these products should be such as will reflect credit upon the city in which they are made as well as upon the company which makes them.

If the Saurer Company is going into the fire pumping apparatus business and will produce the best equipment of the kind, I and the other members of this civic organization will be only too glad to insist that Plainfield will try out its own product first and give its industries the benefit of whatever advertising merit there is in a machine tried and found true.

Yours faithfully,
WILLIAM JEFFERY,
President Board of Trade,
Plainfield, N. J.

Communion will be celebrated at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church tomorrow morning. The subject of the evening sermon will be, "Privileges of the Believers." Rev. H. J. Hubach, pastor, who has returned from his vacation, will occupy the pulpit at both services.

Oriental Rugs

Men and women who appreciate beauty and serviceability in rugs, and seek the better qualities for their homes, are invited to be present at the Autumn opening of the Wanamaker Rug Gallery on Monday morning next.

Kirmanshahs
the quality of which is stated by rug experts to be 100 per cent. finer than the ordinary Kirmanshah generally met with in the shops; of surpassing beauty of color and design.

Mahals
"without a question the finest pieces I have ever seen anywhere"—said one who knows Oriental rugs like a book. "They sparkle like a Moor's eye in the dark, and the weave is as tight as a drum." Sizes range from about 8x11 feet to about 10x14 feet.

Sarouks
soft to the touch, deeper-tinted than the Kirmanshahs, with a close, short pile which ensures long service; ideal rugs for library or living-room. Sizes from about 3x5 feet to about 9x12 feet.

Georeovans
rugs of vigor in color and design, impregnate with the spirit of the wild, nomadic tribesmen and tribeswomen who weave them; very picturesque, suggestive and serviceable. Sizes from about 12x10½ feet to about 14x11 feet.

6x9 ft. Persian Rugs
Very hard to get; seldom seen save in the red Khiva-Bokharas; and yet so much sought for.

Antique Rugs
A sprinkling of genuine, time-mellowed rugs, such as rug-dealers keep near them in their offices, padlocked, or in the safe; Kabistans, Irans, Daghestans, and Joshegans.

The Chinese Rugs
A selection from the first importation of the better type of modern Chinese rugs; inspired by the antiques; showing the royal yellow, the beautiful blue, and peach and apricot tones. Sizes range from about 4x7 feet to about 12x14 feet.

Small Persian Rugs
ranging from about 3x6 feet to about 4x7 feet; and some hall-runners; at prices so moderate that we do not believe their equal in value can be found in America.

Love of home, as a place where life is really lived, and as an inspiration and the setting of a standard for the children, is inherent in the men and women of America.

We are greatly mistaken if this unusual assemblage of Oriental Rugs does not hold for them rich store of delight and a great opportunity.

These New Silk Dresses Make Choosing a Wardrobe Very Easy

Ask to see the crepe dresses at $12.75.
Ask to see the charmeuse dresses at $16.50
Ask to see the soft, crinkled crepe dresses at $18
Ask to see the charmeuse dresses at $23.50.

After you have seen them and many other styles, at prices running up to $50, we believe you will be as enthusiastic over ready-to-put-on-clothes —the Wanamaker kind—as we are.

We take the greatest pleasure in securing for our clientele uncommon gowns even at these moderate prices.

This plain dress at $23.50, for instance, is nothing less than remarkable. Charmeuse, in black or colors, draped beautifully and without any trimming except the transparent collarless vest of white tulle. It is one of the most unusual dresses we have seen at the price.

Another model of unusual excellence is of silk and wool poplin, embroidered in self colored braid with a vest of lace, priced $19.50.

An afternoon gown of crepe de chine is trimmed with charming lace and has just a touch of color, priced $29.50.

But up to $50 there is wonderful variety of the dresses which are so good to have right now—to wear on any cool day.

Second floor, Old Building.

A house with 60 rooms might drape the windows of each room with these Marie Antoinette curtains, and no two rooms show the same design.

PANELS—36, 45, and 54 inches wide; arabe only; 12 styles, $8 to $15 each.
8 styles in American-made panels, white and arabe, $2.25 to $3.50 each.

SASH CURTAINS — matching most of the designs in the long curtains; white and arabe; $3.25 to $10 pair.

Beautiful New Table Cloths and Napkins from Ireland

Some of these linens have the distinction of banquet cloths, yet they are adapted perfectly to small and medium size tables.

There are borders of tall irises with centers of polka dots; there are cherry borders with centers of coin spots; there are conventional designs of unusual distinction. Nearly twenty patterns—all so uncommon, it is hard to choose between them.

The linens themselves are of the qualities which have made this firm famous. Woven of exquisite yarns, bleached in the most approved fashion. They appeal to every woman who feels or sees them.

They have been marked at the following moderate prices:

Table Cloths
2x2 yards, $2 to $5.50
2x2½ yards, $2.50 to $6.75

The Wanamaker Rotary Sewing Machine is Two Machines in One

It is a combination of both a lock stitch and a chain stitch machine.

It is speedy—in fact, it will do in four hours what an ordinary machine will usually take seven hours to do.

Its rotary shuttle spins so smoothly and evenly that the needle can sew through double thicknesses and over seam without puckering or snapping the thread.

The Wanamaker Rotary Sewing Machine is a splendid example of the high developments to which mechanism for domestic purposes has reached.

For the Sale of Housewares, we are offering a number of these machines for $30, instead of $40, because of a slight difference in the cabinet work from the usual style, which you would be apt to think an actual improvement.

The running parts are all precisely the same as in the regular model, and the machines are all new and perfect.

—$30 instead of $40. Also on special terms for those who prefer.

THE FRESH AIR HOME.

The subject of the Fresh Air Home has been one of dormant interest to the few charitable minded for many years, but during the past few years it has come to be a subject of vital interest to the many who have the real interests of the child at heart. Never has there been such united effort made toward bringing the "child of the city" to the "fresh air of the country." Fresh Air Homes have been established everywhere and thousands of families have opened the doors of their homes to the children of our large cities.

There are two distinct types of the Fresh Air Home—the one whose sole motive is to give the child fresh air, physical and mental recreation—the other whose motive is broader and deeper; to give not only fresh air but to develop the physical, mental and above all the moral condition of the child, and it seems to me that the latter type comes up to the highest standard to which a Fresh Air Home may attain. Thus it is that among the many Fresh Air Homes that have been established throughout the suburban districts of New York, the Netherwood Fresh Air Home fulfills its mission so well.

Seventeen years ago Miss Curry and a few of her faithful friends established this Home in Westfield, content with bringing a few hundred from the tenement districts of New York to get a breath of fresh air, little realizing that in so short a time it would grow to be a work of such enormous proportions—where in the beginning of this work only a few hundred came under the care of this "Little Missionary," now about four thousand are received at the Home at Netherwood each season, from a few tents and a rustic auditorium at Westfield, it has been transplanted to the spacious grounds and commodious buildings at Netherwood, all made possible through the generosity of the late Frederick Hewitt, of New York, and the many warm friends both in New York, Plainfield and the surrounding towns. The great mass of people in Plainfield little realize the great work that is being done at this Home—a few facts may be of interest.

During the season just closed about four thousand mothers and children were received at the Home. These were brought in groups of about three hundred each—each group remaining at the Home for ten days, exceptions always being made where the mother or child needed special care or where a longer rest would be beneficial. Of this number there were about fifty babies, ranging in ages from six months to three years—these were received without their mothers, the entire responsibility for their care resting on Miss Curry and her faithful assistants. Many children were received who were ill; these were tenderly nursed and cared for and returned to their homes in the full vigor of health.

Some may ask the cost per capita for a stay of ten days at the Home, and no doubt the answer may be of surprise to many. The average cost per capita for such a stay is about eighty-five cents—this is the maximum. This low cost is made possible by the fact that many kind friends give of their services—food supplies are bought at wholesale—mothers who choose to show their gratitude for many kindnesses shown both to themselves and their children give their services—friends give clothing, bedding, fruits and vegetables—these all contribute to keeping at a minimum the expenses of the Home. In a word, where in many of our charitable institutions at least fifty per cent of the funds given for their maintenance go into operating expenses, in this particular work not over twenty-five per cent. is paid in salaries.

The amusements at the Home are varied. One evening each week is devoted to an entertainment—many of the talented singers and elocutionists of Plainfield have given their services—groups of young women from the various churches in town have gone to the Home afternoons and read stories and played games with the children—friends have served light refreshments, baseball, tennis, croquet, sliding boards, see-saws, swings, these all give the children an opportunity to enjoy outdoor sports.

The religious part of this work, however, is the great motive that has prompted the work from its inception—the making of strong Christian men and women of the boys and girls that come to the Home. To this end religious services have been held at stated intervals each week during the season. Ministers and laymen alike have given their services—preaching no creed, drawing no denominational lines—simply giving a message that would be an inspiration for right thinking and right living to the girls, boys and their mothers. The results of this religious training may be seen on every hand—one young man being in preparation for the Christian ministry, young men holding responsible positions of trust in banking and mercantile houses, young women holding positions of trust in many of the leading offices in the city. All these are directly the result of early training at this Home.

Truly this is a unique work, and is fulfilling its mission as a Fresh Air Home in the highest sense. This particular Home has an unique leader, hence its success. Sarah Curry, who has borne the heat and burden of the day, has proven to be an exceptional leader. She possesses the best of all religious gifts to the world—the spirit of thought, care and service for others—the cultivation of willingness to serve and sacrifice for those who have no stronger claim on her than that they are human fellow travellers on the open way, the passion that pours itself out on the one most needy. She shows how to bear the burdens of others, hers is the life of a friend; she spends no time about advertising her own burdens or exhibiting them as arguments for immunity from the troubles of her neighbors. Sick ones, sorrowing ones, the hungry, crowd her own needs out of the circle of her attention. None ever seek her only to find the BUSY sign at her door. The ideal woman is, above all else, the ideal friend. Her power over woman and children lays not in proficiency as a teacher, but in that she enters into their lives and daily in friendship's simple ways gives her life to the lives about her. Simple friendship, after all, is the most helpful expression of any man's religion, and he is most like his Creator who most loves men. Whether it be in Fresh Air work or in the ordinary walk of life, religion at its best is doing deeds of kindness, showing friendship in plain every-day ways. It is the laying down of life for men, not by dying, but by daily living for them. So it is that the Netherwood Fresh Air Home fulfills its mission, by following the example of its capable leader—by thoughtfulness, gentle consideration, practical helpfulness, by doing whatever the friend of sinners would do for men, this proves itself born from above.

SAW GHOULS ROB WRECK VICTIMS

Cut Off Ring Finger of Dying Woman.

PULLMAN 20 YEARS OLD

Witnesses Testify Trains Frequently Drifted by "Banjo" Signals In the Fog—Flagman Admits That He Was Without Watch.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 6.—Detectives are scouring the country in this section for heartless ghouls who cut ring fingers from the dead and dying in the wreck when the White Mountain express ran into the Bar Harbor express, causing the death of twenty-one passengers and the injury of seventeen more.

In his secret inquest the coroner was told that looters were seen not only stripping jewelry from the dead and searching the pockets of the injured but that at least one ghoul had cut off the ring finger of a dying woman.

Augustus B. Miller, engine driver of the White Mountain train, testified witnessing the act, being attracted by the woman's groans. As Miller turned the looter fled. Miller testified to having seen another robber strip the jewels from a dead woman's hands, while he witnessed a third ghoul tear a locket from the throat of an injured woman.

Stuffed Purses In Pillow.

Other railroad employees gave corroborative evidence, testifying that while they were summoning help and trying to get out the injured, a man carrying a pillow case from one of the sleeping cars went among the dead and injured, gathering up jewelry, purses and other articles of value. When indignant men saw this they chased the fellow across the fields, but he escaped. When Coroner Mix informed Chief Smith of this testimony the police had detailed four detectives to search for the ghouls.

The sleeping car Kasota, one of the two splintered to kindling by the impact of the locomotive, was twenty years old, according to G. W. Whildin, mechanical superintendent of the New Haven railroad, testifying at the probe conducted by C. C. McChord of the interstate commerce commission. Two railroad witnesses testified that trains frequently drifted by "banjo" signals in the fog.

Flagman Had No Watch.

Charles H. Murray, the rear flagman who failed to stop the White Mountain train, admitted he had no watch, as flagmen are required to have, and that many men not qualified to act as flagmen were acting as such.

The train dispatcher who directed the trains which collided testified that he had ordered the White Mountain train held at Wallingford and then had rescinded his order.

Commissioner McChord ordered the minutes of the New Haven railroad board of directors to be produced to show if any measures had been taken to promote safety since the Bridgeport wreck of July 12, 1911.

HER BABY HELD FOR RENT.

Cincinnati Landlady Seizes Child When Mother Can't Pay.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 6.—Mrs. Walter Meeker complained in court that her baby had been torn from her arms by Mrs. Margaret Wilson to be held as hostage until she could pay her rent.

Miss Emma Utz, probation officer, and two policemen went to the house and found the child in bed. Mrs. Wilson admitted that she took the child in lieu of rent which Mrs. Meeker told her she could not pay. Mrs. Meeker's husband is ill and out of work. The landlady made several visits to ask for the rent and was told that it was impossible to pay.

GIMBEL BROTHERS

Announce the Opening on Monday of a Very Unusual

Shoninger Piano Club

Rarely in the annals of piano selling has there been an occasion to equal the one that begins Monday. Unlike many loudly exploited "sales," here is A WONDERFUL ECONOMY OFFERING, based on

Absolute Truth — A Known High Grade Piano
An Exceedingly Low Price, and EASY TERMS

The usual piano sale offers pianos of little-known names, the assumed values of which are bolstered up by fictitious figures of alleged former selling prices in the Rocky Mountains, or far Siam. This GIMBEL PIANO CLUB presents Pianos and Player-Pianos, perfectly new and of full standard of quality made by the famous house honored in New York and all over the Continent for half a century—

B. SHONINGER COMPANY

The "values" quoted on these instruments are the actual, fixed PRICES THAT THESE PIANOS HAVE BEEN SOLD FOR ON OUR OWN FLOORS FOR THE PAST THREE YEARS. The SAVINGS of those who buy in this Club are not only very LARGE; but they are definite, solid, UNQUESTIONABLE.

The prices that you may pay on Monday are only available during the few weeks of this Club. Our definite agreement with the manufacturers restores the regular prices as soon as this Club closes.

This Opportunity came because the manufacturers were changing the styles of the outside cases of these pianos. So we arranged to purchase all the pianos, of those designs, in stock, and in course of construction; and the makers agreed to permit us to sell them at the BIG PRICE-CONCESSIONS SHOWN BELOW, during this Club Sale ONLY.

And THIS is the sensational news the occasion brings:

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 3.

YOU remember, doubtless, the story of Aladdin. Whenever he rubbed his wonderful lamp, a genie appeared before him and said: "What wouldst thou have? I am ready to obey thee as thy slave, and the slave of all those who have that lamp in their hands; I, and the other slaves of the lamp."

You, Mr. Business Man—you, Mrs. Housekeeper—you, Mr. Average Individual—you hold in your hands a lamp of equal power—the lamp of publicity— of advertising, if you please.

There is this difference: Aladdin existed only in the imagination of a clever writer of fiction. The lamp was a myth. Advertising exists as a real power, without any quality of magic, but with tangible want-satisfying and business-building possibilities.

Let's get down to facts. You need a cook. You insert a little WANT AD. in this newspaper. Thousands of genii instantly go to work for you, here, there, everywhere. Each copy of the paper is a searcher after the sort of services you want. One of these searchers finds that cook and puts you in touch with her. The "slaves of the lamp" have obeyed your command to go forth and bring back what you want.

Or you are a business man, say, and are in need of the services of a competent stenographer. A little WANT AD. will put you in touch with a score or more. And at a cost of twenty or thirty cents you have commanded thousands of little advertising genii to go out and find that which you seek.

Next time you've a Want, rub the lamp within your reach.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

FRANCES MARSHALL

Clothes for School.

School-days are here again, or, if they are not yet here, they are soon coming. And with them comes the perennial problem of clothing the schoolchild suitably and economically.

The old days when little girls wore pinafores was a day when dressing for school was not the problem it is today. For any small girl could be kept clean and trim if she had a big enough supply of fresh pinafores.

For autumn days wash frocks are doubtless the most attractive. They should be made simply, in one-piece fashion. Gingham, made with front or side closing, with black patent leather belt, and collars and cuffs of white pique, is serviceable.

Cotton crepe is also serviceable for the wash frock for school. This can be made with turnback collars and cuffs edged with a little very narrow lace—Irish picot edge, which comes at fifteen cents a yard, or a little linen torchon is a good choice.

Bloomers made to match the very small girl's school frocks are in good style and are a great saving on more easily soiled petticoats. Moreover, they make for neatness.

Heavy Frocks.

Serge is the most durable woolen material for the small girl's school frock. This can be charmingly made into a simple frock that buttons from neck to hem, with long sleeves, and worn with turnover linen collar and cuffs and a black belt and silk windsor tie. The collars and cuffs give it freshness. Serge can also be made into frocks in jumper style and worn with white sash guimpes of linen, lawn, dimity or batiste. Mohair can be used in the same way.

Outside Clothes.

A raincoat of some sort is a necessity for the schoolchild. One with big pockets, where chilled hands can be warmed, and a hood to match, is a good choice. A sweater is adequate protection against moderately cold weather and a mackinaw serves the same purpose. For very cold days a big, over-all coat of chinchilla or some other soft, thick woolen material should be provided.

A durable school hat is a soft felt shape, banded with a grosgrain ribbon.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE

Conducted by Plainfield Branch New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

I was talking to a friend the other day who had not yet decided fully what she really believed on the subject of votes for women.

"It seems to me," she said, "that the women working for suffrage, can be divided into three classes—those who want either excitement or notoriety; those who really have a dislike to men, and those who honestly believe suffrage would be a beneficial thing."

It seems to me her classification is by no means unfair. How much the lore of the lime-light, the excitement of street meetings, parades, sensational journeys and so on has influenced many of our younger women who have tired of the mild dissipations of society, who can say?

Then there are those who declaim about "man-made laws" and betray a species of sex antagonism. One of these said to me lately "I wouldn't trust a single man." As a fact, she trusts a good many individual men and would be most indignant if they were attacked in any way. The same sex-antagonism is apt to indulge in such expressions as Miss Hilman uses in the "Votes for Women" column, August 27, when she says, "In California last winter and spring man's dearest chattel proved that she is a thinking being." What nonsense to imply that American men look on women as "chattels." Fortunately this class is not very large but it includes a good many of those who are most earnest in contending for what they call "equal pay for equal work." How unfortunate it would be, under present conditions, if they succeeded in their demands, is shown in New York where the men teachers are being driven from the schools by the success of this demand. The queer thing is that these man-haters are anxious to become, not only equal to man, (no sensible person denies the equality of men and women), but they want to be identical with men, which, in the nature of things, is impossible.

E. S. Martin, in his late book, "On the Unrest of Woman," refers to Mrs. Belmont's criticism of the constitution as "a document which divides the people by an arbitrary line of sex" and therefore "not in touch with modern growth" and retorts, "That was the way the Creator divided the people and if He is not in touch with modern growth, it behooves modern growth to get into touch with Him at its earliest convenience."

Just here, I would like to recommend two books to thinking women, Ida Tarbell's "The Business of Being a Woman," and this one of E. S. Martin. They are both written in a calm, impersonal manner, which lends weight to their arguments.

ELIZABETH B. SYKES.

Representative Henry, in a speech made the other day, disputes some of the claims of the suffragists. Part of his statement is as follows:

"Their speakers a few days ago made the flat, unqualified assertion that they represented 4,000,000 women voters and they included in this number the State of Illinois, which has only a limited franchise for women," says the statement. The census shows there are in these nine States a sum total of only 3,397,241 women, 21 years of age and over, and the total of females who have reached voting age includes the ignorant, the foreign born, the unnaturalized, the negro, the Indian and the Japanese and Chinese. The total number of native born white women of voting age in all these nine States is exactly 1,818,396. The foreign born total 853,014. Those of foreign or mixed parentage amount to 838,150.

"Consequently under the limitations and restrictions put on the franchise in these States, it would be more than a liberal estimate to say that there are 2,500,000 women voters represented by the suffrage leaders. By this we mean 2,500,000 women of all conditions and nationalities who are able to vote, but the States which have granted the franchise to women estimate that, as a top figure, not more than two-thirds of the women of voting age and conditions register and not more than 70 per cent. of those who register go to the polls.

"Even this is a very high estimate. Two-thirds of 2,500,000 does not amount to 1,700,000. Consequently those women who arrogantly made to Congress the outrageous statement that they represented 4,000,000 women voters in reality voiced the opinions of far less than 2,000,000 women. Having behind them the support of less than 2,000,000 women they claimed 4,000,000."

Some Cookery Suggestions

FISH SALADS.

LUNCHEON MENU.
Halibut Salad.
Baked Potatoes.
Rice Muffins.
Crackers.
Cheese.
Tea.

GOOD salads may be made with salmon, sardines, halibut—with almost any fish, in fact.

They are mixed with chopped celery, cucumbers, cabbage, potatoes, pickles and hard boiled eggs. Any preferred dressing may be used.

When Salmon Is Used.

Salmon Salad.—Take a can of salmon, pour the fish into a bowl, remove skin and bones and break into pieces convenient for the salad. Squeeze over the fish the juice of half a lemon and then set it away to get chilled upon the ice. Take some celery; cut it rather coarsely, preparing the same quantity of the chopped celery as there is fish. When ready to serve add the celery to the fish together with a dozen broken English walnut meats, three small pickles and a half dozen minced olives. Mix with a silver fork. Serve with mayonnaise on lettuce leaves.

An Ornamental Salad.

Halibut Salad.—Chop very fine one pound of cooked halibut, add five drops of onion juice, two teaspoonfuls lemon juice, one-half teaspoonful paprika, one-half teaspoonful salt; add one-eighth cupful of thick cream which has been beaten stiff and the whites of two eggs beaten stiff. Bake in buttered individual molds until firm. Chill on ice, remove from pans, arrange on salad dish, garnish with mayonnaise dressing.

Codfish Salad.—Take some fresh codfish and boil until it is cooked but not broken. Sprinkle with salt and let it get very cold. Then cut into neat pieces about an inch square. Line a bowl with lettuce, lay the bits of fish among the leaves and put on each piece of fish a slice of crisp cucumber. Pour mayonnaise dressing over all.

Simple Combinations.

Sardine Salad.—To a large box of sardines take six hard boiled eggs. Drain the oil from the fish, remove the backbone, tail and skin and mix thoroughly with the eggs, minced fine. Season with pepper and salt. Serve on lettuce leaves with vinegar or lemon juice or with mayonnaise dressing.

Anchovy Salad.—Fillet the anchovies. Cut each fillet into two, lengthwise, and arrange in lattice fashion on small dishes, garnish with slices of hard boiled eggs and capers. Pour a little olive oil over and sprinkle with chopped chives or parsley and serve.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Story of The Dainty Rose Leaf Princess.

The Queen Received the Princess.

"Can't get to sleep," complained Jack. "Bed's too hard."

"The sheet on mine is all wrinkled," Evelyn grumbled.

"You are getting to be as particular as the little rose leaf princess," daddy said. "She was a very particular princess indeed.

"Her name was Princess Rosabel, and she had spent her childhood in a beautiful big palace. She slept on rose leaves in a golden bedstead which had covers of silk.

"One day, however, a war broke out between her father, the king, and the king of another country, and her father rode away with his army to fight.

"Not having anything to amuse her, the princess one day made up her mind to go out alone and take a walk in the forest, although she knew her father had forbidden this.

"She slipped quietly out of the palace gate and walked until she was tired. When she tried to find her way home she could not. The princess was lost.

"She came at last to a town. Instead of stopping to ask for food at any of the cottages or small houses she went right to the big castle on the hill.

"Now, it happened that she had walked straight to the castle of the king with whom her father was at war. The lady who received her was the queen. The Princess Rosabel pretended she was a poor girl, lost while out for a walk. But the queen did not believe this, for the princess had lovely white hands, the most beautiful face in the world and such charming manners that her son, the prince, fell right in love with the fair stranger.

"So the queen told the maids when making up the stranger's bed to fill it with rose leaves laid smoothly and evenly. Only one rose leaf was to be crumpled between the silken sheets.

"The next morning when the Princess Rosabel arose the queen asked her how she had slept.

"'Very poorly indeed,' replied the princess. 'There must have been a rose leaf crumpled under the sheet.'

"And then the queen knew that only Princess Rosabel, who had all her life slept on rose leaves, would have noticed the crumpled leaf.

"Then the queen sent word to her husband to stop the war between the the king and Rosabel's father, because the prince and Princess Rosabel had made up their minds that they would marry one another when they were old enough, and both kings were much pleased and shook hands, while the people cheered and shouted, and I think that's the end of the story if you don't mind."

One-Piece Frocks Show Paris Style Details.

Paris designers cling to the idea of simplicity in one-piece dresses such as New York women want for early fall street wear. The new note is sounded in fabrics and in the broken line of the silhouette. Two of the latest models here shown call attention to the narrow bottom of the skirts, and to the inevitable drapery. That on the left (7946) is made of taupe color wool poplin, and has a belt of chiffon velvet and a brocaded silk collar, by way of adding a touch of bright color. It has a drop shoulder blouse with trimming sections, and crosses diagonally to meet the line of the smart two-piece skirt in peg-top effect Size 36 can be made from 5½ yards of 42-inch material.

When a little hand embroidery is judiciously used, as illustrated on the other gown (7974) it instantly puts a dress out of the ordinary class, no matter how simple it may be otherwise. This is the touch that many women can give but will not afford to pay for in the ready-made garment. The material of this attractive model is navy blue ratine with satin charmeuse for the border, cuffs and crush girdle. The decoration (which may be duplicated with embroidery pattern 14390) is done with black soutache braid and dots embroidered solidly in old blue, Indian red and green. The rounded bottom of the centre front and the effective drapery on one side, are strikingly novel features. The skirt is cut in three pieces, and the blouse has a slightly dropped shoulder. 4⅝ yards of 42-inch material will make this gown in size 36. Both patterns are cut in 5 sizes. 15 cents each.

Beautiful Collar and Cuff Set for Your One-piece Dress.

Do you know of any thing that adds so much distinction to a simple little dress of serge, eponge, charmeuse or crepe de chine as a dainty fresh set of embroidered collar and cuffs? For wear with a gown of crepe de chine or charmeuse, the collar and cuffs must be of the finest, sheerest lawn or handkerchief linen and the embroidery should be either in eyelet work or cut work. This set is very effective for the amount of work necessary to embroider it. It should be done in button-hole stitch, and the openwork spaces may be cut out after the button-holing is done. The centers of the flower may be worked solid or as eyelets For wear with a frock of heavier material as serge, whipcord or bedcord cord. These collars and cuffs may be worked on heavier round-thread linen or fine cotton poplin and although they are daintier done entirely in white, sometimes one can add a pretty touch of color to a costume by working the design in blue, brown, violet or green to match the frock.

The new collars are all very narrow at the back and wide on the shoulders and give the long sloping shoulder effect so becoming to a slender girl. The neck should be finished either with a bias-band one-half inch wide, or a straight shaped band and the neck size can be made larger by cutting the material inside the dotted line or smaller by cutting it outside of this line. In either case ⅜ of an inch should be allowed for the seam.

Transfer patterns 14560 for stamping this collar and cuff set can be supplied to readers for fifteen cents each.

THAW'S COUNSEL WIN NEW DELAY

Montreal Judges Halt Decree of Deportation.

JEROME PUT UNDER ARREST

Coaticook, Que., Sept. 6.—By an eleventh hour move the attorneys retained by Harry Kendall Thaw saved him temporarily at least from deportation and paved the way for a test of the constitutionality of the immigration act. While William Travers Jerome, who had been assured that the board of inquiry would vote to deport Thaw, was waiting with his men at Norton's Mills, Vt., ready to receive the prisoner a special train was rushing to Coaticook from Montreal at a seventy mile an hour clip. Aboard the train were members of Thaw's counsel armed with the authority of the court of king's bench to restrain the immigration men.

These developments overshadowed for a moment the sensational arrest of William Travers Jerome on a charge of gambling, and the subsequent disappearance of Jerome from the town in his automobile after the crown prosecutor. Mr. Hanson, had announced that the attorney would be arrested at any time he attempted to leave Coaticook on the ground that he intended wilfully to forfeit his bail of $500.

The court order, which was transmitted to the custodians of Thaw by telegraph and was followed by a copy of the writ of habeas corpus in the hands of Mr. Lafamme of Thaw's counsel, developed a peculiar situation.

This was further complicated by news from Norton's Mills, Vt., that Mr. Jerome had reached that town, across the border, and was prepared to begin extradition proceedings as soon as Thaw arrived here.

Mr. Jerome now finds himself in an involved position, facing prosecution on the gambling charge and forfeiture of his bail and arrest as a fugitive from justice. In either case he is likely to have difficulty in continuing his active work as New York's representative in charge of the business of returning Thaw to Matteawan.

Situation Greatly Tangled.

Thaw was ordered deported on two counts—first, having entered the Dominion by stealth; second, having been an inmate of an insane asylum within five years. Instead of this action being taken, however, it now seems probable that Thaw will be taken to Montreal as soon as the writ is served, and the real battle will follow in the court of appeals there. The order has thrown the situation into a remarkable tangle, and the immigration authorities and Thaw's lawyers here are alike at a loss to forecast the outcome. It is believed that the fight will be made on the ground that Thaw is not an immigrant in the true sense of the word and as meant in the wording of the immigration act.

The sensation of the day was the arrest of Jerome, New York's special representative assigned to the work of bringing Thaw back to Mattewan. Jerome was accused of being a common gambler and was locked up for more than an hour in the same jail where Thaw was taken on his arrest here more than two weeks ago.

At the end of that time Jerome was released in $500 cash bail for a hearing before Magistrate McKee, when in all probability he will be held to await action of the grand jury in Sherbrooke in October.

BALDWIN ESTATE IS SETTLED

Value of Late Turfman's Property Is More Than $36,000,000.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 6.—The estate of "Lucky" Baldwin, the turfman, has been settled so far as the courts are concerned, and is valued at more than $36,000,000.

The court has awarded $180,000 in fees to each of the executors, Henry A. Unruh, brother of Baldwin's first wife, and Bradner H. Lee, an attorney, who fixed the fees themselves. If they had not done this the court announced that each would have received $250,000 for the successful handling of the estate.

The heirs are Baldwin's two daughters, Mrs. Clara Baldwin Stocker and Mrs. Anita Baldwin McClaughrey. The estate has been held nearly intact despite the onslaughts of numerous litigants and claimants after Baldwin's death.

FIGHTERS TO INVADE PARIS.

New York, Sept. 6.—A wonderful string of American fighters, in point of numbers at least, sailed for the other side today in charge of Al Lippe. Included in the party were Johnny Daly and Joe Hyland, of New York; Bobby Scanlon, Charlie Thomas and Barney Ford, of Philadelphia; Biz Mackey, of Cleveland, and Jeff Smith, the New Jersey middleweight. The objective point of the bunch of ringsters is Paris, where the fight game is said to be flourishing like a green bay tree and where Americans expect to reap a bigger harvest of dollars (or the French equivalent) than could be hoped for under the present conditions in this country.

Managers McGraw and Mack Will Depend on Pitchers in World's Series

When the New York Giants clash in the world's series with the Philadelphia Athletics, and indications point to the fact that these two great baseball machines will meet in the big conflict this year, the Mackmen will be called upon to face the best collection of twirlers that McGraw has had under his wing in several years.

Christy Mathewson, the premier hurler of the Giants, will have an opportunity to show that he is far from being a veteran in action, even though one in service. The Giants will also have Rube Marquard, Jeff Tesreau, Al Demaree and Doc Crandall, to say nothing of Fromme and some of the youngsters who have recently reported to the Giants and who will be eligible to take part in the big games. The Giants have an old score to settle with the Mackmen for the manner in which the Athletics trounced them in the world's series of 1911.

Connie Mack's hope of landing another world's championship lies in the fact that his pitchers are also showing top form this season. The leader of the White Elephants believes that in Chief Bender, Eddie Plank, Bob Shawkey, Byron Houck and Carroll Brown, he has a twirling corps that will be able to withstand the most strenuous assaults of the Giants' batters.

While the injury to Jack Coombs, who was depended upon to do some of the twirling for the Athletics, has cast a shadow over the camp of the Athletics, it is now reported that Coombs may yet be able to perform in the world's series. Coombs expects to be out in uniform again on Monday. The manager of the Athletics is not figuring very much on Coombs taking part, and it is expected that the burden of the pitching will fall upon the quintet mentined above.

BASEBALL NOTES

Eddie Collins, the star second sacker of the Athletics, tops the list of run-getters in the major league.

Arthur Devlin, the former New York-Boston infielder, has joined the Rochester team of the International league.

Denver has a big lead in the Western league race, with Lincoln and Des Moines fighting it out for second place.

Shortstop Jack Barry, of the Athletics, has been engaged to manage the Meriden, Conn., roller polo team next winter.

Pitcher Munroe, of the Lexington team, who is one of the bright stars of the Ohio State League, has been purchased by the Chicago White Sox.

Ames is pitching better ball for the Cincinnati team than he did for the Giants, and Fromme is doing better work for the Giants than he did for the Reds.

In McQuillan, Cooper, Adams and Robinson, Pittsburgh has four pitchers who are among the dozen flingers leading in the National League.

It is said that John McGraw, the Giants' boss, has not abandoned hope of putting over a trade whereby he can land Ed. Konetchy, of the Cardinals.

Bert Shotten has been doing fine work for the St. Louis Browns this season. Shotten and Manager Stovall are the only Brownies who are hitting in the .300 list.

The chase for the American Association pennant is waxing hot. The first four teams, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Louisville and Columbus, are bunched and traveling fast.

Walter Johnson, of Washington, and Ray Collins, of the Red Sox, have engaged in three great pitching duels this season, each resulting in a 1 to 0 score. Collins copped two of the games and Johnson one.

Had Ed. Walsh been able to take his regular turn in the box this season the chances are that the White Sox probably would be giving the Athletics a hard run for the American League honors just now.

President Tebeau and Manager Carr, of the Kansas City Club, have been putting over some classy deals of late. They have traded Jim Vaughn to the Cubs for Lew Richie and the price of another player, "Cy" Morgan to the Cincinnati Reds for a player and $7,500 in cash, Jimmy Breton to the White Sox for Rath, Lange and Mattick, and Clarence Walker to the Browns for Compton, Allison, Brief and $2,500 in cash.

HARVARD NOW SURE OF TENNIS TITLES

R. Norris Williams Plays Well for Crimson in Intercollegiate Championships.

Haverford, Penn., Sept. 6.—Harvard eliminated the only contenders she had for the titles in both singles and doubles in the intercollegiate lawn tennis championship here yesterday when R. Norris Williams, Jr., defeated Wendell Kuhn, of Princeton, 6—1, 6—3, 6—2, and Williams, partnered with E. H. Whitney, disposed of George M. Church and Kuhn in the doubles, 3—6, 6—1, 6—4, 6—4. The other semi-final match in singles between J. J. Armstrong and W. M. Washburn, both of Harvard, was not finished yesterday.

Williams played the winner of the Armstrong-Washburn match this morning, and this afternoon Williams and Whitney are playing Washburn and Armstrong for the doubles title.

The most brilliant tennis seen since the tournament started was shown in the doubles match in which Church and Kuhn were eliminated. Princeton won the first set, 6—3, but the Crimson players tried hard up to the last game. The games see-sawed throughout, and Kuhn especially played fine tennis. He returned Williams' service with high lobs, and Whitney time and again smashed into the net.

The Harvard pair won the second set, 6—1, Princeton winning the second, to love, only. In this set Church was the prominent one, his overhead work putting Williams and Whitney on the defensive throughout.

The Orange and Black had a good lead in the third set, but Harvard, battling from the rear, drew up level with them and then won out by six games to four.

Williams' cannon-like smashes won the fourth and deciding set for Harvard. Regaining his early game form, he whipped the ball across the net like lightning, and it was seldom that Church or Kuhn could do anything with it.

ROYAL GIANTS TO TACKLE NEWARKERS

Manager Simmons, who chaperoned a collection of ball players out to Newark last Sunday under the name of the Dixie Giants, and saw the defeat of his charges by the score of 16 to 5, at the hands of the Newark Athletics, will parade his Royal Giants to the same hostile territory tomorrow to meet the same bunch of baseball warriors. The battle will be fought on the Roseville Oval, Bergen street and Sussex avenue, Newark, and the curtain is due to rise at 3.30 o'clock.

Simmons said he was unable to gather together a good aggregation last week, but that he feels certain his Royal Giants will force the Newarkers to swallow defeat. "We'll surely throw the jinx into their camp," is the way Simmons puts it. Well, tomorrow will tell.

NOVEL ATTRACTIONS FOR SCOTCH PLAINS

All-Star Nines to Oppose Joe Albert's Team Tomorrow and Following Sunday.

Manager Joe Alberts, of Scotch Plains, has arranged a novel and attractive bill for the Plains fans that go to Thorpe's Field tomorrow afternoon. The home nine will be opposed by an aggregation composed of some of the best players sporting the uniforms of the Central New Jersey League teams and will be appropriately dubbed the "All Stars."

"Red" Grimes, the fiery one from Somerville, will hold down the keystone sack and Conti, who has been flirting with Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics, will perform at the difficult station. Porter, still another Somerville athlete, will handle the throws at first base. The twirler for the stars will be no other than the popular Warry McLaughlin, former big leaguer and who has pitched for about every fast semi-pro in this vicinity. Lou Dixon will be at the receiving end of Warry's shoots. The outfield will be composed of Wilson, lf.; Miller, cf., and Giddes, rf.

The Scotch Plainers will go to bat in the following order: DeMitzio, cf.; J. Walton, 2b.; J. Albert, 1f.; Gray, 3b.; E. Walton, ss.; H. Albert, c.; Frentz, 1b.; Reick, rf.; Ortlieb, p.

A picked nine from the Plainfield and Somerville teams under the management of Lou Dixon, will be the opponents of the Scotch Plains' team on Sunday, Sept. 14. All the stars of the leading Central New Jersey League teams performing on one side, should be a novel treat for the spectators. Lou Slocum will probably pitch for the Dixon crew.

WITH THE BOXERS

The boxing game will open up in New Haven, Sept. 20, with Gilbert Gallant and "K. O." Sweeney in the feature bout.

Curley Lirich, the veteran Western middleweight, has been given the first referee's license in Wisconsin by the new Boxing Commission.

Jack Read, the Australian lightweight champion who came to this country recently with Sam Langford, will box Jimmy Coffey in New York next week.

Bob Fitzsimmons is peeved over Jim Corbett's newspaper stories of the historic battle at Carson City. He offers to meet Jim in a 10-round bout, the winner to take all.

It fully explains how to make a start, how to construct houses, coops, and other devices, how to get a large egg yield, how to cure and prevent disease, how to exhibit, how to get the top price for eggs, how to use incubators and hundreds of other points which everyone wishes to know. It explains the famous secret system through which poultrymen have become rich and afterwards sold for hundreds of dollars.

HUGHES ISSUES 'DEFI' TO RIVALS

AFTER NOMINATIONS

Editor Suggests Three Meetings, One In North Plainfield, One In Somerville and One In Bernardsville, Following Primaries.

Somerset county will witness a unique contest for the assembly this year if the proposition of George T. Hughes, of Watchung, the Progressive candidate, is accepted by his Democratic and Republican rivals. Mr. Hughes has invited the other two aspirants to join him in a series of three public discussions of the issues one to be held in North Plainfield, one in Somerville and one in Bernardsville. Here is the suggestion of the Progressive candidate as embodied in a letter to A. M. Beekman, the present Democratic assemblyman, who is out for re-election:

"It has occurred to me that with three candidates for the assembly in the field from Somerset county it would be a good plan to arrange some sort of a three sided public discussion of the issues. So I am writing to you and will send a similar letter to Mr. Hammond, the Republican candidate, asking you in case the idea appeals to you to join with us in arranging a series of three debates, one to be held in North Plainfield, one in Somerville and one in Bernardsville, at which you will speak for the Democrats, Mr. Hammond for the Republicans and myself for the Progressives.

"This arrangement would give each candidate the advantage of appearing once in his home town and once in the home town of each of his opponents, and would give the voters an excellent opportunity of comparing the arguments advanced in behalf of all three parties.

"Of course I am aware that none of us is yet officially nominated and will not be until after the primaries but as there is no opposition to any of us I think we are justified in making our arrangements now particularly as all three of us will have our speaking dates pretty well made up by September 23. If this suggestion meets your approval I wish you would name some representative to meet one named by Mr. Hammond and one named by myself. The three to constitute a committee to arrange the details."

Mr. Hughes is editor of the New York Globe. He lives in North Plainfield township, where he owns and works a farm.

DOG CATCHER SCARED; HE RESIGNS HIS JOB

Bert Rogers, a local dog catcher, following a reprimand in the City Court, Saturday, administered by Judge DeMeza, quit his job. Evidence was submitted by Assistant Corporation Counsel Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., Thomas Quince and Mrs. H. C. Van Emburgh to show that Rogers had captured a dog belonging to Thomas Hughes, of East Second street, from the stoop of the Hughes residence. The dog ordinance provides that dog catcher should arrest all stray canines on city property for which he receives compensation according to the number of animals he captures. Numerous complaints have been made to the police, that Rogers over-zealous to increase his fees, had trespassed on private property to catch dogs to be taken to the pound.

MOVING PICTURES.

The Y. M. C. A. series of motion picture programs will be resumed next Saturday afternoon and will be continued throughout the fall and winter season in the auditorium of the association. The policies which have heretofore prevailed in selecting only the best and cleanest of reels will continue to be in force during the current season. Four shows will be given each Saturday and holiday at 2:00 and 3:30 in the afternoon, and 7:00 and 7:30 in the evening.

STORE LOOTED.

The bicycle store of Leo Zeisel, of West Front street, was entered by thieves some time yesterday and over $200 in merchandise was taken. The stolen loot includes 12 revolvers valued at $40; 2 bicycles worth $75; $6 worth of lamps and a number of razors. Entrance was effected by forcing a rear window. Zeisel has reported the occurrence to the police.

AUTO LAW OFFENDER.

Frank Decker, of Watchung, was arraigned in the borough court this morning before Recorder Gano on the charge of driving an automobile without a license. A fine of $10 was imposed, but sentence was suspended.

He's Champion Trouble Maker

"That man has caused more trouble in the police department since I have been on the bench than any other person in Plainfield," said City Judge DeMeza, this morning, referring to Davis Steinman, of 314 Plainfield avenue. Steinman had caused the arrest of sixteen years old Harry Lewis, of 503 West Third street, whom he charged with disorderly conduct by throwing stones at him anr using profane language. Lewis was in court to answer the charges, but Steinman failed to appear.

WHY ARE CHURCHES COLD AS ICEBERGS?

That's the Question Asked and Answered by Rev. Dr. Eaton in a Sermon.

A large congregation at the Park Avenue Baptist church last evening, heard Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, of Watchung, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, of New York, preach on the "Church and the Individual.' He said in part:

"Everybody is paying attention to religion these days except the churches. This sounds like an extravagant statement, but I do not consider simple church attendance essentially religion. Religion is a spiritual experience by which a spirit known as man comes into vital contact with that spirit which we call God. It behooves us to examine the inside case of our religious faith, and throwing away the husk, reserve for ourselves that core that is in accord with truth.

"All summer long I have been thinking about this cleansing of the inside of the cup, and there arises the question, what manner of men are we producing? We spend more time in learning how to enter and leave a room properly, in eating with our fork instead of our knife, than we do in learning the teachings of the Lord Jesus. I'm not in favor of boorish manners, but I do know that many a man with the most highly polished manners hasn't yet learned the A B C or the loving companionship of Jesus; on the other hand, there are those who are idiots in the school of society who know what it is to call Christ their Father, and who walk close by His side day by day. What are you doing with your boy? His broad cloth wont save him. Neither is he tempted on the outside because he wears a poor suit of clothes. If your daughter makes a fool of herself, it is because her mind inside is feeble, and not because she wears a dress from Paris.

"Why are so many churches cold as an ice box? They don't lack wealth, culture, refinement or social position; they have abundant orthodoxy, and are interested in social service; but when we come together Sunday morning and evening, we are bothered because the soprano soloist cannot successfully reach high C; or one of the ushers has squeaky shoes, or the color scheme of the audience room jars on our sensibilities; and we leave the service without having derived one bit of spiritual uplift.

"The honest minister, discouraged at the results of his labors, is forced to ask the question, what is the secret of my lack of power? And the answer comes back, it's inside the church in the individual members. If we would cleanse the inside of the cup, we must adopt into our spirits the doctrines of Christ."

MEET WITH ACCIDENT RIDING STOLEN WHEEL

Evidently while riding a bicycle which he had stolen from the rear porch of the home of Stanley Vardon, of 328 Park avenue, a colored boy collided Saturday with the fender of a Fourth street trolley car on East Fourth street, near Watchung avenue. The bike was totally damaged. The colored youth, fearing detection, ran away. The wheel was brought to headquarters by Patrolman Wich and later identified by Vardon, who called at headquarters to report the theft of his property.

DUNELLENITE HURT IN TROLLEY ACCIDENT

Mrs. E. V. Both cars were slightly damaged. Motorman Vroom and Conductor Dorgan, who were in charge of the Arlington avenue car, said the tracks were slippery, because of the rain and the condition was directly responsible for the accident.

Motorman Mundy and Tramber, of the other car, substantiated this statement.

MONEY FOR SHOES WAS GIVEN TODAY

Substantial Sympathy is Being Shown a Poverty-stricken Family Here.

In addition to the $12 acknowledged Saturday, the Daily Press today received $11 for the fund being raised by this paper to help supply the poverty-stricken family of the late Peter Murray, of Terrill road, with the necessities of life. Mr. Murray lost his life by being run down by an automobile driven by a boroughite and since then the family, consisting of a wife and eight children, have been struggling along with little clothing and little to eat.

The attention of the Daily Press was called to their plight and it makes an appeal for second-hand clothing, for money to buy shoes and for provisions. The case is a particularly distressing one. Here is a mother trying to save her own little home which is heavily mortgaged and in addition, far more dear to her, she must care for eight children. They are Mary, aged 7; Patrick, 16; Anna, 13; Ellen, 11; George, 9; Margaret, 1; Josephine, 6, and Katharine, 22 months. Patrick struggles hard tilling the soil and collecting garbage but though he works from sunrise to darkness his earnings are not sufficient to feed and clothe the nine in the family.

The $12 received on Saturday was used in buying coal from Joseph Harrigan, who has also supplied free feed for their horse since last spring. Today $10 was sent in by "Mr. and Mrs. R. H." and we have their permission to see that some shoes are purchased with that money. Another dollar was received from "A Human Being." Clothing for the winter months and provisions are sorely needed. Second-hand clothing will be most welcome. Does this appeal touch your heart?

ADDRESS TO BIBLE STUDENTS.

Rev. William Turner will deliver an address tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock at the German Reformed church, Duer street and Craig place, the borough. All Bible students are invited. Mr. Turner will leave Plainfield in October and his friends will have but a few more opportunities of hearing him.

WEST END ASSOCIATION HOLDS SESSION TONIGHT

BARTON DAVIS IS NOT A CANDIDATE FOR OFFICE

Barton Davis, who was prominently talked of as a possible candidate for the Common Council from the Third ward, on the Democratic ticket, upon his return from Asbury Park, yesterday, announced that he would not seek a nomination for any office this fall. Mr. Davis said:

"I am not a candidate for any office at this fall's primary, but wish to thank those friends who pledged me their support as the Democratic candidate for Common Council from the Third ward, and regret that my business affairs makes it impossible for me to accept. I wish to assure them that they can command my services whenever available in the future as in the past. I also wish to thank the members of the Progressive party who thought well enough of me to endorse me for the same office."

MRS. ANNA E. CLARK GOES TO HER REWARD

Mrs. Anna E. Clark, age thirty-five years, wife of Marcus D. Clark, of 215 Stebbins place, died last night at Muhlenberg Hospital of complications. Beside her husband, Mrs. Clark is survived by one sister and two brothers.

Since coming to this city when her husband entered the employ of one of the local shops, Mrs. Clark has been actively associated with the work at Hope Chapel, where she was a member of the choir. Mrs. Clark has served as secretary of the Ladies' Aid Society for several years and has been one of the assistant teachers in the Primary Department of the Sunday School.

The funeral will be held at her home Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock when Rev. F. L. Greene, pastor of Hope Chapel, will officiate. Interment will be made at Westerly, R. I.

MISS GRACE E. KNIGHT IS NOW MRS. CAMPBELL

Miss Grace Estelle Knight, daughter of Mrs. Sarah C. Knight, of Elmwood place, and William Scott Campbell, son of Mrs. Alexander Campbell, Sr., of East Second street, were married on Saturday by Rev. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church.

The bride was gowned in white silk crepe trimmed with satin and pearls and wore a veil of Brussels net. She carried a handsome shower bouquet of white roses and lilies-of-the valley. She was given in marriage by her brother, Frank C. Knight. Mr. Campbell was unattended.

Prior to the ceremony Mrs. John Knight, Jr., sang "O Promise Me" and as the bridal couple descended the stairs and entered the parlor she played the wedding march from Lohengrin. A reception followed, during which refresments were served. The bride received many handsome presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell left immediately after the ceremony on a two weeks' wedding trip which they will spend in the White Mountains and Boston. Upon their return they will live in an apartment on Grant avenue. Guests attended the wedding from Spring Lake, Philadelphia, New York and this city.

INMATE ESCAPED.

The police of this city have been asked to look for Joseph Schubert 21 years old, who escaped this morning from the Rahway Reformatory. He is described as being of heavy built; five feet, six inches tall, and weighing about 155 pounds. His shoes and other clothing were all marked "No. 1941," by which numerals he was known at the Reformatory.

Washed Hand In Friend's Soup

When George Scherpzberg put his hand in a plate of soup being eaten by Jacob Schaftel, there was a fight in a boarding house at 415 Plainfield avenue and the combatants brought to police headquarters by Patrolman Kelly, who witnessed the finish of the scrap. Both were released on suspended sentences when arraigned this morning before City Judge DeMeza.

MEN SWINDLE WOMEN OF THEIR SAVINGS

One woman today is mourning the loss of $600 and her husband, and another is minus two rings, $139 in in cash and a fiance. The women do not mourn the absence of the men so much as they do their money which represented their savings. Mrs. Felix Macsko and Miss Mary Varoneeko, of 453 West Third street, are the unforunate women. Joseph Codock, whose engagement to Miss Varoneeko was announced last Sunday, and Felix Macsko, who also lived at the West Third street address, have left the city for unknown parts after obtaining the money and valuables from the trusting women, under the pretense of furnishing a home where all four could live.

Joe Codock has been friendly with Miss Varoneeko for nearly a year, the police say. He was apparently in love with her and about ten days ago asked her to marry him. She consented and the banns were published in the church both attend. Felix Macsko, a cousin to Joe, interested his wife in the couple's welfare and it was decided that they should buy a home in this city or Newark, where the married couple and the newly-weds-to-be could live happily together. Codock told his fiancee of the plan and persuaded her to give him $139, which she had in the bank, to furnish the house they were to buy. Mrs. Macsko gave her husband $600 toward the purchase of the house.

The men started out Saturday morning on the supposed house-seeking trip, but failed to return by night-fall. The women, becoming worried, made a search of their rooms. They found that the men had taken everything of value which they owned. The women imparted their suspicious beliefs to Stanley Stroke, who made investigations of his own and he says he satisfied himself that the men had swindled the women of their savings and run away.

A cab driver told Stroke that he drove the two men Saturday noon to South Plainfield. It is thought that they took a Lehigh Valley train for Newark. Inquiries among their friends in Newark failed to reveal any trace of the missing men. A complaint will be lodged with the police.

MRS. JOHN REINMANN.

Mrs. Sarah Reinmann, aged 54 years, wife of John Reinmann, of 61 Harrison avenue, North Plainfield, died at Muhlenberg Hospital, Saturday, to which place she was taken on September 4. Mrs. Reinmann had been ill a long time with a complication of diseases. She is survived by a husband and several children. The funeral will be held at the late home tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock and at St. Joseph's R. C. church at 9 o'clock. The burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

NETHERWOOD CHURCH SUPPLY.

Rev. C. W. F. Attlee, of this city, occupied the pulpit at the Netherwood Reformed church, yesterday morning and evening, and will continue to do so each Sunday until further notice. In the meantime, the pulpit committee, comprising Horace J. Martin, Sr., S. O. Rush and James C. Hansen will endeavor to secure a successor to the former pastor, Rev. Royal A. Stout, who has gone to Philadelphia.

DR. CHAMBLISS RETURNS.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, former pastor of the First Baptist church, was in town today visiting his granddaughter, Mrs. Gifford Cooley. He and his grandson have just returned from a trip to Europe and will leave soon for Chattanooga, Tenn., where the doctor has accepted a position as head of the Bible department in the University of Tennessee.

SCORES BANEFUL ENTERTAINMENTS

Rev. Mr. Jennings Deplores Lascivious Dances and Degenerate Performances.

SHAMEFUL EXHIBITIONS

Philadelphia Clergyman Tells Crescent Avenue Congregation That Modern Shows Have Lost the Sense of God.

Scoring modern dances and baneful amusements, and declaring that serious-minded people have taken up the task of improving conditions with regard to them, Rev. W. B. Jennings, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Germantown, Philadelphia, yesterday morning, preached to an interested congregation in Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. He also called attention to the tendency of men nowadays to forget God and his teachings in business and in politics. After he had concluded, a large number of the congregation pressed forward to congratulate the speaker on his remarks.

Taking his text from Jeremiah 18: 14, "Will a man leave the snow of Lebanon," Dr. Jennings explained how Palestine was dependent upon the snow of Mount Lebanon for water and thus indirectly for subsistence, drawing a parallel to illustrate how the people today are dependent upon God for their moral keeping. In the course of his remarks, Dr. Jennings said:

"The utter folly of withdrawing from God is manifest in three things: God is the one best fact in the universe; he is man's climate; he the alone source of man's life.

"Men are more and more coming to realize this. The time was when God was not in our pleasures. Our amusements had swung away from God as the giver of all gladness. Our dances had become lascivious in the extreme and many still are so, bringing crimson blush to the cheeks of pure maidens and noble young men, bringing sense of shame even to onlookers. Our theatrical and operatic exhibitions had well nigh lost all sense of God. But those who give these amusements and those who partake of them are waking up to the fact that apart from the purity and the modesty which the Book of God enjoins there is the blast and heat and death of the soul. So mothers in counsel and grave gatherings of serious minded men, and even lovers of the theatre and the dance are asking how may we arrest the tide of shame and sin and bring our amusements back to freshness and purity, to intellectual and moral helpfulness.

"The time was when business was conducted with no thought of God and no sense of responsibility to Him; when in the education of our children by the State no place was given to God as the source and sum of all trouble, nor to the Bible as the directing and strength-giving rule of conduct; when politics was wholly divorced from religion and it was declared by some in high places that there was no place for the Golden Rule in the battle of parties, or international diplomacy; when in economics the controlling principles were those of Malthus and Adam Smith rather than the principles of God's word; when in the realm of work and wages it was every man for himself and the devil taken the hindmost, rather than the spirit of brotherliness and mutual service.

"But men are seeing the folly of it; the folly of going away from the snow of Lebanon; the folly of trying to do without God in the affairs of every-day life, and they are turning back toward God in their pleasures, their politics, their economics, their work relations; they are today facing toward God and seeking to put more of His law and more of His spirit into modern life, knowing that in God, in the doing of His will and the bestowal of His favor their own life will be enriched. It is one of the most heartening signs. 'O turn ye, O turn ye, for why will ye die in your separation from God, your disregard of God, ye children of men!' There is for the race, for the nation, for the city, for the home, for the individual, an independence of God which is sheer madness. There is a disregard of God which is suicide.

"Leave not God. Away from Him is death. Draw near to God. Keep close to God. Live your life in the consciousness of His presence, in the doing of His will, in the enjoyment of His favor, and nearness to God is in the righteousness to Jesus—God's son."

Happenings Due This Week

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—Of interest to the politicians will be today's special election in the Third congressional district of Maine to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Representative Goodwin. It is a three-cornered contest between the Democratic, Republican and Progressive candidates, with each party predicting success.

Wednesday will be the one hundredth anniversary of Commodore Perry's victory at the battle of Lake Erie. The centennial will be observed with a great celebration at Put-in-Bay, within sight of which the battle was fought. Both the United States and Canada will be represented. President Wilson has promised to attend if his other engagements permit, and ex-President Taft also will be among the speakers.

Another interesting anniversary of the week will be the centenary of the birth of Major General John Sedgwick, a distinguished soldier of the Indian, Mexican and Civil wars, and one of the ablest officers of the Army of the Potomac. General Sedgwick was born at Cornwall, Conn., Sept. 13, 1813. He was killed near Spottsylvania Court House, Va., May 9, 1864.

At the invitation of the Swiss Federal Council delegates representing the principal industrial countries of the world will assemble in Berne to consider the drafting of an international agreement to prohibit the employment of children below specified ages and to fix a maximum ten-hour day for workers within certain other ages. Other events of the week abroad will include the annual grand manoeuvers of the German army, which will take place in Silesia, and the annual meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science in Birmingham.

Among the important meetings and conventions of the week will be those of the American Public Health Association, at Colorado Springs, the American Fisheries Society, at Boston; the American Association of Passenger Agents, at St. Paul; the American Chemical Society, of Rochester; the Union Veteran Legion, at Zanesville, O.; the General Council of the Evangelical Lutheran Church at Toledo, and the Canadian Conference of Charities and Correction, at Winnipeg.

GREAT ALLENTOWN FAIR.

This Colossal Exhibition to Hold Sway Sept. 23, 24, 25, 26.

Larger and better than ever is the claim of the great Allentown Fair management, which holds its gigantic carnival September 23 to 26 inclusive. It is larger because the entries in every department are larger, the prizes, premiums and race purses are larger. Those who have been fortunate enough to visit this big Fair in recent years know that the claim is never exaggerated and those who have not seen it can not form any conception of its magnitude. Agricultural reports show the Allentown Fair to be the largest this side of the Mississippi River and the largest in the United States with but one exception. It pays its stockholders no dividends, but the profits of every year are spent in improvements which keeps it up to the highest standard. This year $30,000 are set aside for premiums and purses and there are nearly 40,000 entries, which is by far the largest in this country. The poultry exhibit is acknowledged to be the finest and largest and this in itself is a rare treat.

Every building will be filled with new and novel exhibits, one of the largest and most interesting being the Cattle Show. It is really remarkable what a large list of entries this department contains this year.

Second to none is the Poultry Show, which through very able management has grown to be probably the largest in the country.

The one big feature with the Allentown Fair is its excellent horse racing. This is due to its fast track, its big purses and the kind treatment accorded owners and drivers. This year's entries are very large and include some of the big circuit wonders. Opposite the massive grandstand, on an immense stage in full view of everybody will be given a novel and thrilling series of outdoor acts by European performers direct from the New York Hippodrome, and under the personal supervision of its manager, J. B. Fitzpatrick. Daring balloon ascensions, with fourteen parachute drops by one and two men, will be given daily.

The transit service to and from the Fair is something the Fair management does not leave slip by without notice. The public's comfort and safety is always carefully guarded. The Fair's railroad committee has made unsurpassed arrangements in this respect. The Reading, Jersey Central and Lehigh Valley roads will run special trains and charge reduced rates as well as the Lehigh Valley Transit Company, who will run limited trains from 69th street, Philadelphia, and also run its Chestnut Hill cars direct to the grounds.

BOOKS FOR ATTENDANCE AT A SUNDAY SCHOOL

The Sunday-school of the Temple Baptist church formally entered upon its fall term yesterday, when the pastor, Rev. C. C. Conover; the superintendent, L. W. Randolph, and George E. Hall made appropriate addresses. Prizes in the form of books were also presented to those who had led in attendance.

Mr. Hall, who was the doner of the special attendance gifts, spoke briefly, paying a tribute to Rev. Mr. Conover and Mr. Randolph, as heads of their respective departments in the church, and the former in his remarks returned the compliment.

Mr. Randolph commented on the fact that the Temple Baptist Sunday-school led the schools of the State in percentage of attendance. Beckoning Mr. Hall and Rev. Mr. Conover beside him, Mr. Randolph continued, by likening himself to "Faith," the pastor to "Hope," and "Mr. Hall to "Charity"—The Three Graces. The afternoon's program opened with a recitation entitled, "Welcome," by Miss Esther Laggard.

MOTORMAN HURT, RUNS CAR FOR AID

With Bullet Wound Operates Trolley Half Mile.

IS ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

Gun Discharged While Man Was Boasting of His Protection—Trainman, Although In a Critical Condition, May Fight Off Death, as He Displays Remarkable Nerve.

Florence, N. J., Sept. 8.—With a probably fatal bullet wound in his abdomen, John Lawrence of Delanco, motorman on the Public Service traction line between Trenton and Camden, reversed the power and ran his car backward a half mile in search of medical assistance after he had been accidentally shot by James Hamilton, son of John Hamilton, a Florence township farmer.

The remarkable display of nerve will give him a slight fighting chance for life, according to physicians at the Cooper hospital, to which institution he was rushed in an automobile.

Hamilton, whose assertion that the shooting was purely accidental is borne out by eyewitnesses, surrendered himself to Justice John Peacock to await the action of the authorities, who are conducting a thorough investigation of the affair. The shooting occurred as Hamilton was laughingly demonstrating to the trolley crew and passengers his ability to protect himself against highwaymen after a passenger facetiously remarked as he displayed a bill of large denomination for the conductor to charge that Hamilton would make rich "pickings" for a highwayman.

Throwing back his coat, Hamilton displayed a holster containing an automatic revolver. The crew asked to see the weapon, and Hamilton, first emptying out, as he thought, all the cartridges, was explaining how it worked when as he snapped the trigger there was an explosion, and a bullet pierced the stomach of Lawrence. The motorman staggered back with a cry of terror and pain, then, rallying his courage, asked where he could find the nearest doctor and under directions of Hamilton ran his car backward to the office of Dr. David Baird, Jr.

CAR DUMPS 5 ON PALISADES.

Young Woman's Skull Fractured, Four Men Hurt In Accident.

Weehawken, N. J., Sept. 8.—As a crowded trolley car was going down the winding Clifton road incline leading from the Palisades to the West Shore ferries here a gate of the rear platform flew open on a sharp curve and four men and one woman were catapulted fifteen feet into a culvert alongside the tracks. All were sent to the North Hudson hospital in Weehawken Heights.

There it was found that the injured woman's skull was fractured. She is Miss Elizabeth Frank, twenty-one years old, of 14 Edna place, North Bergen. Her condition is serious. One of the men had a broken arm. The other three were cut and bruised.

The sudden projection of the passengers into the culvert caused a panic inside the car. This didn't abate until the car was stopped at the foot of the hill. Many ran back with the conductor and motorman and found the injured ones huddled in a heap.

HELD FOR KILLING MAN.

Detective Gives Damaging Testimony Against Paper Manufacturer.

Paterson, N. J., Sept. 8.—George Frederick Hewitt, Jr., a paper manufacturer at 48 Beekman street, New York, residing at Montclair, was held under $1,500 bail on a charge of manslaughter to await the action of the grand jury.

Hewitt ran down and killed Robert Harmon, an employee of the Du Pont powder works.

Detective Drew accused the manufacturer of driving in his automobile recklessly along the Pompton turnpike and endangering the lives of pedestrians.

At the time of the accident it was stated that Harmon stepped out from behind a tree at the side of the road directly into the path of the automobile.

Hewitt aided in giving Harmon decent burial. Harmon left a wife, who lives in Ireland.

HURT BY ENGINE SMASH.

Reading Employee Has Finger Crushed at Atlantic City.

Ocean City, N. J., Sept. 8.—Engine 330 of the Reading railroad was smashed and the company's night watchman, Walter Matthews of Petersburg, had one of his fingers crushed in a collision here.

Matthews was driving the engine up the Reading tracks toward Tenth street to get water when his locomotive was struck by two combination cars and a day coach of the Pennsylvania railroad that shunted down the Pennsylvania railroad's "Y" near Eighth street.

HOWARD ELLIOTT.

© 1913, by American Press Association.

Following the latest wreck on the New Haven road Howard Elliott, the new president, made public a statement advocating steel passenger cars. "Steel equipment already contracted for will cost approximately $3,750,000," he said, "and there is also a contract which was made Nov. 15, 1912, for 100 steel passenger train cars a year for five years and for 400 cars not included in previous statements that means $6,500,000 more.

EXPECT SENATE TO PASS TARIFF TODAY

Minority Members Likely to Offer Amendments.

Washington, Sept. 8.—Both Republicans and Democrats here are confident that the tariff revision bill will be passed by the senate either late tonight or early tomorrow. There are still a few amendments to be presented by the minority members regarding the schedules on metal, wool and cotton. Senator La Follette is anxious to have his proposed textile amendment accepted, while Senator Jones of Washington and Senator Norris of Nebraska have revision amendments to make on the income tax schedule.

The senate has already accepted the income tax amendment as decided on by the Democratic caucus. The members of the finance committee have decided to agree on the cotton tax, which will go into operation on Sept. 1, 1914, and also to the amendment which calls for the full tax on brandies and neutral spirits used in the manufacture of sweet wines.

Senator O'Gorman of New York made a winning fight in the debate on the income tax amendment. This was regarding the protection of local governments which contract to construct or operate a public utility and enter into a contract with a corporation. The income of the city should not be endangered by the tax, but this would not exclude the federal tax on the corporation. By this amendment, which was accepted, the Interborough Rapid Transit company of New York will be allowed to deduct one-half the tax payment because of the payments which it has to make to the city.

After a long debate Senator McCumber of North Dakota lost his fight in trying to have a countervailing duty amendment on wheat passed. His amendment was defeated by a vote of 41 to 27.

EXCURSION BOAT LEAKING.

Steamer Newark Lands Perth Amboy Passengers at Stapleton.

New York, Sept. 8.—The excursion steamer Newark put into the pier at Stapleton, S. I., in a leaking condition and landed 450 excursionists from Perth Amboy, N. J., who were returning from Rockaway Beach. The steamer left Perth Amboy at 8 o'clock yesterday morning and reached Rockaway Beach at 10. On board were the members of the Waiters' association of Perth Amboy, with their wives and children. When inside the narrows on the homeward trip it was discovered that the vessel was making water under the boilers. As the water reached the fires the commander headed for the nearest landing place.

Some of the passengers had spent all their money and had no way of buying tickets to get home. They were still in Stapleton late last night, some remaining on the pier and others wandering about the town.

Captain Potts Going to Washington.

Newport, R. I., Sept. 8.—Captain Templin M. Potts, U. S. N., whose retirement through the naval plucking board last July created considerable stir in naval circles, is preparing to go to Washington within the next two weeks to take up his fight for reinstatement on the active list of the navy.

THAW CONFIDENT; WILL TRY JEROME

Said Prisoner May Become British Subject.

AGREES TO REMAIN SILENT

Jerome Asks For Trial on Gambling Charge This Afternoon — White's Slayer Told by Counsel He May Never Be Deported.

Coaticook, Que., Sept. 8.—Harry K. Thaw agreed to give up his publicity campaign at the urgent advice of his lawyers and is now considering arrangements whereby he may become a British subject. He declares that there is not a chance of being deported from Canada within six months, and probably not at all.

These facts were made known by a leading citizen of this town with whom Thaw has talked. Thaw himself refuses to deny the story, but it is known that in his talks with Canadian newspaper men he has frequently said he would like to live in the Dominion and become a British subject.

The attitude was believed to have been taken merely for its effect in arousing public sympathy in his behalf. It is known that he desires to have his sanity tested in Pennsylvania, and, if that is impossible, in Canada.

Drops Publicity Campaign.

Thaw's lawyers went to him and said that William A. Stone, formerly governor of Pennsylvania, had instructed that a fight be made for him if necessary before the privy council in England on one condition.

"What is that?" the prisoner asked.

"That you drop all your publicity and remain a dummy in the case."

"I accept," said Thaw without hesitation.

"Then there is not a chance of your being deported for six months, if at all," his lawyers told him.

"If the case is taken to the privy council it will take at least one year to decide it. Your case will test the immigration act for good. Many of us have believed from the first that it is unconstitutional."

Subject of Church Texts.

Thaw arose early yesterday. Inasmuch as he had no interviews to prepare for the edification of the Canadian public, he ate an early breakfast and was shaved. When the church bells tolled the prisoner again expressed the desire to attend service. Many preachers have imitated their brethren in Sherbrooke and took Thaw for a text. They urged that justice should be given to him. Thaw's past was not mentioned.

From information received by Thaw lawyers from Montreal it seems likely that Thaw will be admitted to bail after his hearing Sept. 15. He will enjoy freedom until the privy council has passed on his case.

"We are not defeated yet," Mr. Jerome said. "Thaw will go back to Matteawan before we are through. Rest assured of that."

To Try Jerome Today.

Sherbrooke, Que., Sept. 8.—It was decided after a series of telephone conferences to have the case against William Travers Jerome as a "common gambler" called at 4 o'clock this afternoon before Magistrate Mulvena in Coticook. Mr. Jerome telephoned from the Windsor hotel in Montreal to Jacob Nicol, crown prosecutor of St. Francis district, to have the case brought up today if possible.

MULHALL SPENT $245,000.

Expert Finds Manufacturers Put Out $2,000,000 In Ten Years.

Washington, Sept. 8.—The National Association of Manufacturers spent over $2,000,000 in the ten years between 1903 and 1913, according to the report made to the senate lobby investigation committee by D. L. Frawley. Frawley is the expert accountant engaged by the committee to audit the books of the Manufacturers' association.

Mr. Frawley also testified that Martin M. Mulhall received $245,000 during the same period for the legislative and campaign work. Mr. Frawley stated that the records did not throw much light on the disbursement of this fund by Mulhall, but that his audit of the records substantiated in many particulars the testimony of Mulhall before the committee.

MIX STILL SIFTING WRECK.

His Private Inquest on Today—Sixteen Victims In Hospital.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 8.—Coroner E. Mix of New Haven county resumed his private inquest today into the fatal wreck of the Bar Harbor express at North Haven last Tuesday. The coroner said the inquest probably would be concluded Friday and his findings would be ready a few days later.

Sixteen of those injured in the wreck are still in the various hospitals here, but only three are in a critical condition, it is said. These are the Misses Edna and Jane Annett of Bayonne, N. J., and Mrs. Carl Rose Zimmerman of New York city.

POVERTY-STRICKEN.

The response to the appeal made by the Daily Press on Friday for aid for a poverty-stricken family on Terrill road shows that the people of Plainfield have large hearts. The case in question is one where a mother is left with eight children, ranging in age from seventeen years to twenty months, her husband, the sole support, having been run down and killed by an automobile some time ago. Since his death the family has been dependent upon the meagre earnings of a sixteen years old son. On Saturday, we received for their aid $12 and $11.50 was used in supplying coal, the remainder being handed the poor woman. Today some kind-hearted citizens contributed $11 and this will be used, with their consent, in purchasing shoes for the children. At present these children are without warm clothing and as winter is coming and also as some of them hope to be able to go to school warm clothing is badly needed. Provisions are also wanted. The family for which we make this appeal is that of Mrs. Peter Murray, of Terrill road.

MUST ATTEND SCHOOL.

Our public schools will be reopened tomorrow and indications are that the attendance will be larger than ever. It seems hardily conceivable in this enlightened generation that any parent should not take advantage of the opportunity afforded by our great system of free education in this country and in this State particularly where the schools are exceptionally thorough. But as there are such neglectful parents, they should be reminded that there is a compulsory education law in effect in New Jersey. It provides that all children between the ages of seven and sixteen years must attend school and as to the age the burden of proof is on the parent, whose failure to obey the law means a fine of $5 for the first offense and of $25 for the second offense. As the city employes a truant officer, any violation will be detected and the offender will be summoned before the city court.

Taking exception to our comment that he is unduly alarmed over the auto fire apparatus situation and that the Council may be depended upon to do the right thing, William Jeffery in a letter published by us on Saturday says the editorial is "silly and unworthy of you" and that "your benign and complacent attitude is not agreeable nor consistent in the premises." We do not feel so keenly Mr. Jeffery's judgment for we believe that we are in a good and large company who share our expression of confidence in the Common Council in this matter.

Osborne is devoting his time before the Progressive primaries to abusing Colby and the question arises, is he a common scold or is he a candidate? In either case, how can he consistently support Colby when the latter is nominated on September 23?

Plainfield's Board of Health for the eleventh consecutive year renews its recommendation that a municipal sanitary system for the collection and disposal of garbage and ashes be inaugurated. In this we consider it has the support of the entire community.

SENOR ZAMACONA.

Washington Hopeful of Result of Mexican Envoy's Visit.

Senor Zamacona's mission to the United States is similar to that of John Lind in Mexico. It is believed that he will aid materially in straightening out the tangled Mexican situation.

OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS WILL OPEN TOMORROW

Primary, grammar and high school departments in the local public school system will be opened for the fall and winter term tomorrow morning, preliminary examinations being held in the upper grades today to give pupils an opportunity to make up deficiencies caused by failures to pass spring tests or absence from studies during the preceding term of school. While the new high school is not as yet ready for occupancy, an extra force of mechanics was put to work this morning and the building operations will be rushed as much as possible.

Principal Lindsey Best is in his office today advising the incoming pupils concerning the courses of study most applicable to their proposed lines of work after graduating and will be at the school during the regular high school hours beginning tomorrow. A large number of pupils who have been attending the public summer school conducted during the summer in the Stillman School returned today to take the preliminary examinations and they will be assigned to their courses of study tomorrow.

In order to cope with the large enrollment in the High School it will be necessary to continue the two-session plan which was introduced last year and which will have to be followed until the new addition is ready for opening. Several of the rooms in the commercial department on the southern side of the building have been torn out to make way for the addition and during the fall it will be impossible to use these departments. The schedule of work will be continued as usual, however, the upper school, composed of the three upper grades, meeting at 8:30 o'clock in the morning, and the freshman will meet at 1 o'clock.

FLUNG 100 FEET TO DEATH

Two Men Killed When Electric Car Hits Their Automobile.

Alexandria, Va., Sept. 8.—Two persons were killed almost instantly when an automobile in which they were riding was hurled more than a hundred feet over an embankment by a Great Falls and Old Dominion Electric railway car at Potomac, near here.

William H. Peck, a merchant of Alexandria, owner of the automobile, was crushed and burned beneath the machine, which exploded following the accident. His companion, Ernest Zell, was mangled and killed by his fall. Forrest Cook, flagman of the electric car, was cut by flying glass.

The scene of the accident was Hume's crossing, five miles from here, where the view from the road is obscured by a hill.

NOT ON OFFICIAL BUSINESS.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Havana, Sept. 8.—Manuel de Zamacona, former Mexican Ambassador to the United States, arrived here today on the Steamship Esperanza from Vera Cruz. He immediately transferred to the Steamship Prince George bound for Key West. HIS OBSERVATIONS TRAVELING ABROAD

Pastor Did Not See Immoral Dress of Women or Desecration of Sabbath.

"Throughout my travels in Europe there were two things that strongly impressed themselves on my mind," declared Rev. J. Y. Broek, in his discourse at Trinity Reformed church, last night, "and that was the absence of the immoral dress of women and the absence of the desecration of the Sabbath, both of which are practiced to such a large extent in this country. This was an agreeable surprise to me. I was glad to notice that the people abroad have so much respect for the Sabbath and that women have not adopted the extreme immoral dress which is to be found in this country."

Mr. Broek spent his vacation abroad and he occupied his pulpit yesterday for the first time since his return. Large congregations greeted him both morning and evening. The pulpit was elaborately decorated with palms and flowers under the direction of the women of the church, and there was displayed prominently a sign bearing the words, "Welcome Home."

While abroad Mr. Broek spent several weeks touring England and Scotland. He was fascinated with his visit to Holland, spending ten days in that country He visited the old Broek homestead at Nieurve Leussen built in 1721 and was entertained by John Broek. From Holland he went to Germany visiting Cologne, and taking a boat trip up the famous Rhine river with its castles to Mayence.

From that point he traveled through France, spending a few days in Paris and took the steamer at Cherbourgh, France Both passages across the Atlantic were exceedingly pleasant On Sunday, August 24, Mr Broek conducted the religious service on shipboard.

LITTLE TALKS
BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 3.

YOU remember, doubtless, the story of Aladdin. Whenever he rubbed his wonderful lamp, a genie appeared before him and said: "What wouldst thou have? I am ready to obey thee as thy slave, and the slave of all those who have that lamp in their hands; I, and the other slaves of the lamp."

You, Mr. Business Man—you, Mrs. Housekeeper—you, Mr. Average Individual—you hold in your hands a lamp of equal power—the lamp of publicity— of advertising, if you please.

There is this difference: Aladdin existed only in the imagination of a clever writer of fiction. The lamp was a myth. Advertising exists as a real power, without any quality of magic, but with tangible want-satisfying and business-building possibilities.

Let's get down to facts. You need a cook. You insert a little WANT AD. in this newspaper. Thousands of genii instantly go to work for you, here, there, everywhere. Each copy of the paper is a searcher after the sort of services you want. One of these searchers finds that cook and puts you in touch with her. The "slaves of the lamp" have obeyed your command to go forth and bring back what you want.

Or you are a business man, say, and are in need of the services of a competent stenographer. A little WANT AD. will put you in touch with a score or more. And at a cost of twenty or thirty cents you have commanded thousands of little advertising genii to go out and find that which you seek.

Next time you've a Want, rub the lamp within your reach.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

The Value of Milk.

Of course the greatest value of milk is it strength and health giving property. Any one who is run down, tired and thin can go on a diet of pure milk and soon regain strength and health—any one, that is to say, with whom milk agrees. For it is a nearly perfect food.

But milk has dozens of other uses beside this one of giving strength to the person who drinks it—or rather, eats it. No one ought to drink milk rapidly, as if it were a beverage. It should be eaten slowly, with due remembrance of the fact that it is a food.

For China.

One of the uses of milk is understood by the old-fashioned lover of china. The old-fashioned housewife wasted no time bewailing the breaking of a piece of fine china, but instead tied it together as neatly and securely as she could and put it to boil for an hour in sweet milk. If you have ever tried to clean a double boiler or other cooking dish in which milk was boiled you know what a good sticking agent milk is. The film that form on the sides of the cooking dish forms on the china boiled in milk, and it is a hard, resisting sort of glue.

Milk is the best restorer of oilcloth If oilcloth is given a weekly rub with a cloth wrung out of milk, it regains and retains its fresh color and strong surface.

As a Bleach.

Milk has bleaching properties that can be used in several ways. It is the lactic acid, a strong bleaching agent, in milk that makes it powerful bleach.

Applied sweet or sour it reduces freckles. Applied to sunburn it heals and whitens the skin.

It also removes ink spots. Wet the spot with it and keep it wet until the ink has disappeared. Then carefully wash the fabric in cold water, and then in warm water. Sometimes the mark left by the milk, especially if it be allowed to sour, is difficult to remove. But if it is first washed in cold water and then in hot it will come out readily.

For Health.

Milk can be used in many ways to produce health. Many cases of chronic eczema have been cured by the application of milk. For this purpose and for other troublesome skin affections scald the milk—but do not boil it—and then apply it, hot, to the skin. Use a piece of gauze to apply it with.

Some Cookery Suggestions

ESCALOPED VEGETABLES.

VEGETABLES which have been left over from the previous day's meals may be successfully utilized in the making of escaloped dainties. These baked vegetables are both tempting and wholesome. They are especially suitable for the juvenile members of the family and for dyspeptics or those who are compelled to be careful about what they eat.

Baked With Cheese.

Celery Escaloped With Cheese.—Take three cupfuls of diced celery, a pint of milk, a cupful of diced cheese, one and a half cupfuls of soft crumbs, a little salt and paprika and two tablespoonfuls of butter.

Save the outer stalks of the celery and cut them into dice. Cook in three cupfuls of water, drain, reserve the liquor and add it to the milk. Put a layer of crumbs in the bottom of a buttered baking dish, add a layer of celery, then one of cheese, season, dot with butter and repeat till the dish is full. Bake in a moderate oven.

Escaloped Tomatoes.—Take half a can of tomatoes and season with a teaspoonful of salt, a saltspoonful of pepper and the juice of an onion. Add a cupful of minced celery. Butter a baking dish, put in half of the tomatoes, then a layer of buttered soda crackers sprinkled with two heaping tablespoonfuls of grated American cheese. Then add the tomatoes, sprinkle with crumbs and bits of butter and bake.

Made With Cream Sauce.

Escaloped Potatoes.—Pare the potatoes and cut in small cubes. Make a cream sauce. Cook two cupfuls of potato cubes in boiling salted water until tender, but not broken. Butter a baking dish, drain the potatoes, put into the dish and cover with the sauce. Stir two tablespoonfuls of melted butter into three-quarters of a cupful of fine breadcrumbs and sprinkle over the top. Set in the oven to brown.

Escaloped Onions.—Boil the number of onions desired until tender, changing the water once. Cut into quarters and put into a buttered baking dish. Pour over them a large cupful of cream sauce, and cover all with a layer of cracker or bread crumbs and dot with butter. Sprinkle a little salt and pepper on the onions before pouring on the white sauce. Then bake.

Anna Thompson.

Daisy Started Out With Dolly.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—When Dear Little Daisy Was Lost.

"THERE," said daddy to Jack and Evelyn; "if you will both sit down and be quiet I will tell you how little Daisy got lost.

"Daisy is a mite of a girl. If you ask her how old she is she will tell you 'half past 3.' Daisy means that she is three and a half years old. One day she asked her mother if she could not go out in the garden and play.

"'Yes, dear,' her mother answered. 'But be sure to put on your little sun hat and do not go outside the gate.'

"Daisy tied her white linen sun hat under her dimpled chin, and, calling to Prince, she started out with her dolly.

"Her mother watched her for a few minutes as she raced up and down the walk with the fox terrier, and then she went back to her sewing. She was making the cutest little pink dress for Daisy.

"Daisy's mother became so interested in the dress that she forgot to look out of the window for some time. When she did look the gate was standing open, and Daisy was nowhere to be seen.

"Daisy's mother went downstairs and roused grandpa, who was nodding in his easy chair on the porch. Grandpa put on his glasses and went out to look in the garage, in the chicken house, as well as under the trees, but no little girl could he find.

"Hannah, who was making pies in the kitchen, said that she had not seen Daisy since the grocer's man left the crackers and tea a half hour before.

"Just then Belinda, the big gray cat that belonged next door, jumped up on one of the posts of the fence that divided the two gardens.

"Belinda peered down into the long grass below her and then began to growl and arch her back.

"'Whatever ails the cat?' Hannah exclaimed.

"Grandpa waded over through the grass to see what Belinda was growling at. He parted the tall blades and looked down. Then he waved his hand for the others to join him.

"There, asleep among the grass with the bunch of goldenrod she had picked, lay Daisy, with Prince curled up beside her. Belinda had been growling at her special enemy, the little fox terrier, who chased and worried her when awake.

"They picked Daisy up and carried her in to the hammock on the porch, where an hour or so later she wakened without knowing that she had been lost.

"And now if you ask, 'Who found Daisy when she was lost?' Daisy will answer promptly, 'Belinda found Daisy.'"

MAYOR GEORGE R. LUNN.

Disregards Injunction and Faces Order For Contempt.

County Judge Daniel Naylon granted an order requiring Mayor George R. Lunn of Schenectady, N. Y., to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court in failing to obey an injunction restraining the city of Schenectady, its officers or employees from injuring the shade trees in Front street, where a large sewer is being laid. The order is returnable Wednesday afternoon before Judge Naylon.

WILLIAM HAVEMEYER FOUND DEAD IN BED

Sugar King Had Been Ill Only One Day.

New York, Sept. 8. — William F. Havemeyer, a member of the original firm of Havemeyer Bros., sugar refiners, and a son of former Mayor Havemeyer of this city, was found dead in the home of his son-in-law, former Public Service Commissioner William R. Willcox, 11 East Forty-fifth street, by the butler. The cause was angina pectoris. He was sixty-three years old.

Mr. Havemeyer dined Saturday with Mrs. Arthur Havemeyer, his daughter-in-law, who was on a visit from her home in Denver. The evening was spent by him in his library, and just before retiring he complained of a pain in his back. A remedy was applied by "Old Clinton," who has been a butler in the Havemeyer family for a generation. In the morning the butler glanced in the door of the bedroom, and as Mr. Havemeyer appeared to be asleep he did not disturb him.

Shortly afterward a telephone call came from Mrs. Willcox, who was at her country home in Locust Valley. She wanted to speak to her father. "Old Clinton" went into his bedroom to awaken him and returned quickly to the telephone to announce between his sobs that Mr. Havemeyer was dead. Mr. and Mrs. Willcox immediately hurried up to the city and notified relatives of the occurrence. The funeral will take place as soon as Arthur Havemeyer arrives from Denver, probably on Wednesday.

William F. Havemeyer was born in New York city March 31, 1850, and received his education in private schools. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Willcox, and three sons—Hector H., who is in the real estate business; Raymond, who is in the coal business, and Arthur, a real estate dealer in Denver.

MOTHER AND SON KILLED.

Four Others Injured When Train Strikes Family Auto.

Fremont, O., Sept. 8.—Mrs. George Glecker, forty-four years old, and her son Clarence, twenty-one, were killed and George Glecker, forty-seven, her husband; Miss Jennie Henry, twenty-four, a relative; Teddy and Malinda Glecker, three and eleven years old, were seriously injured when their automobile was struck by a westbound Wheeling and Lake Erie passenger train at the Smith road crossing, east of Fremont.

All the victims resided near Elmore, where Glecker is a prosperous farmer and tile manufacturer. They were en route to Green Springs, south of Fremont. Clarence Glecker, who was driving, either failed to see the approaching train because of a cornfield or sought to beat it at the crossing, applying the brakes when it was too late.

BATS FLY IN THE SENATE.

Vice President's Wife and Other Visitors Disturbed.

Washington, Sept. 8.—During the proceedings incident to the passage of the tariff bill through the committee of the whole in the senate a group of bats entered the senate wing of the capitol and annoyed the women visitors, some of whom were alarmed and speedily left the galleries.

One of the bats flew into the press gallery, and another circled around the senate chamber over the head of Senator Snively of Indiana while he was praising the Democratic tariff revisers and occasionally dipped down in its flight, almost striking the fashionable millinery in the senators' private gallery, where sat Mrs. Marshall, wife of the vice president, and the wives of many senators.

Among the Whims of Fashions Are the Waistcoats and Sashes Which Are Used to Introduce a Touch of Color.

The new waistcoats are fascinating, and with two or three that are distinctly different, the economical women can get variety in her simple tailored suit Not that their use is confined to suits, for they are worn with morning and afternoon frocks, in plaid, flowered or printed silk in brocades of all sorts, and even in plain white or black satin, bengaline and moire. White and silver brocade was used with Russian blue corded silk for the dress illustrated in 7954, and the same brocade fashions the bow at the center-front of the girdle of blue taffeta. The blouse in drop-shoulder style, and a chemisette of ivory-toned shadow lace fills in the space between the revers. In the skirt is shown the fashionable silhoutte of soft plaits at the top to give fullness between waistline and hips, while at the front it narrows in. Five sizes, 34 to 42, and for size 36, 4 1-8 yards 36-inch material needed, with 7-8 yard for vest and revers. In the other gown, 7952, the new jumper effect is exploited the drop-shoulder underblouse showing cream shadow lace over net, with jumper effect of olive green duvetyn. The girdle of darker velvet is unique in draping and is mbroidered in front in a queer design worked out in silver. The skirt draping is gained by a crosswise tuck, that is stitched only across the front which is a method favored by some of the cleverest Paris designers. The closing is in front. Five sizes, 34 to 42, and for size 36, 4½ yards 42-inch material is required. Each pattern 15 cents.

Hand embroidery is quite the most appropriate trimming for dresses for the little girl of from two to six years old and it is really the only suitable trimming for baby's clothes Dresses for little children should be made as simple as possible, of fine, soft materials, but every mother enjoys some distinctive touch to each little frock and the little miss of from three to six, is always delighted if her dresses are given individuality, for she soon knows when her clothes are commonplace.

These dainty little sprays may be worked in unpadded solid work and have many possibilities of adaptation to various styles of garments. They are appropriate for trimming baby's dresses of fine lawn, batiste or handkerchief linen. The yoke and panel may be used on long or short infant's dresses, the narrow motifs on the sleeve bands and the little sprays may be scattered on the skirt or used in any way suggested by the cut of the garment. These little sprays may also be adapted to bonnets, sacks, petticoats, guimpes and collars for the baby and for her older sister.

Transfer patterns 14627, for stamping these sprays, can be supplied to readers for ten cents.

FIRST BAPTIST CATCHER WINNER OF ONE CUP, TIES FOR SECOND

Announced as winner of the silver loving cup for batting and tied for the trophy offered for the best fielding average, Herbert Stine, catcher for the First Baptist Sunday-school League champions, has had an enviable season on the baseball diamond during the past summer. Although the official averages as figured out by the First Baptist baseball scoring committee showed that Carlton Smith, another consistent performer, led Stine by a margin of one point, when revised by the sporting editor of this paper, it was found that Smith and Stine were tied. Technically, Smith led his battery partner by thirty-two one-hundredths of a point, but in figuring batting or fielding averages the official rule does not recognize a point under fifty one one hundredths of a point. While this is getting down to pretty fine figuring it shows that Stine is just as much entitled to the award as the stellar fielder of the Baptist clan.

However the figures may be recognized Stine will get but one cup, as the donor of the trophy made the condition when he presented it to be awarded, that no one player should be given both cups.

Both of these players have been towers of strength to the champions, Stine as a catcher and Smith as a fielder. Until a week ago last Saturday, Stine had a hit to his credit in every game played and has gone through but one battle without registering a safety. On the other hand Smith has twirled every one of the First Baptist team's victories, the team not having lost a single battle but having forfeited one.

CITY LEAGUERS EXHIBITING SNAPPY AFTER-SEASON BASEBALL THRILLS

CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE.

Saturday's Results.

Saurer 14, Spicer 10.
Dixie Giants 5, West End A. C. 4.

Standing of the Clubs.

	W.	L.	P. C
Saurer	11	2	.741
Dixie Giants	7	7	.636
West End A. C.	7	8	.466
Spicer	1	12	.076

Although the Saurer team has now cinched the City League bunting and the contests have become mere formalities the teams in the pennant race are just as good as though staged before the trophy bearer was decided. The Saurers, as champs, are sweeping all before them in the after-schedule contests and the Dixie Giants, as runners-up, are doing likewise, so much so that the fans who follow the City League activities are anxiously looking forward to a meeting of the first and second place guardians.

While both of Saturday's games were played with much run harvesting, especially the one in which the champs figured, the battles were both close and exciting, either contender having numerous chances offered them to win up to the time the final out was registered. As tail-enders, the Spicer contingent is furnishing plenty of live competition for the stronger nines, and the joint-makers set a fast losing pace every time they take the field.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LEAGUE SEASON CLOSED WITH NEW CHAMPIONS

All things considered, and there are many to glance over, the Sunday School League has been unusually successful and not only have some real ball games been staged, but some future stars have been unearthed, who will shine on higher mounds and in deeper gardens in the bright future. By trimming Monroe Avenue, with the same old-fashioned regularity, the First Baptist clan pulled in the line attached to the silver mug and will unfurl the bunting emblemic of the league title after the baseball bugs have had an opportunity to cool down a little. Good pitching and superior fielding won the title for the Baptists and in order to win the coveted crown this contingent had to beat out the pugnacious Hope Chapelites who hung on doggedly from the time the 1913 pennant snatchers started their cruise toward Pennantville until all things were over in the ninth round of Saturday's set to.

Compiling the season's records hung up to date we find that the teams have finished in the following order:

	W.	L.	P.C.
First Baptist	11	1	.918
Hope Chapel	8	2	.800
Monroe M. E.	5	6	.455
Presbyterian	3	7	.300
Park Avenue	0	11	.000

In winning the muslin the First Baptist crew had dropped but a single contest and managed to pull out ahead on the bigger end of eleven, Carlton Smith having won all of the battles for his combination. Hope Chapel won again at the expense of the Park Avenue nine, the latter team having established one of the most noteworthy records of the season by losing every game it has started in. Hope Chapel, last year's champions, are worthy second place holders and this aggregation is the one combination that has played consistently in the league for the two seasons it has been in existence.

"MAC" SAYS

Silver loving cups offered for individual competition may be a good thing, but the two looking the First Baptist players in the face all season were enough to inspire them with hitting and fielding of the calibre that brought home the bacon.

It is rumored that several of the other Sunday-school League aggregations will try this means of producing real baseball.

"Hub" Stine celebrated the First Baptist's victory for the whole team by spending the week-end at Asbury Park. Stine's interests are by the sea just at present. So much so that he couldn't pound out his usual hit Saturday afternoon.

Stine gets the fielding cup and Smith the trophy offered for batting in the First Baptist ranks. Their stick and fielding has been of the top-notch variety and they were closely pressed by several teammates for the renumerable honors.

Thus endeth the Sunday-school leaguers regime for 1913. Now for that post season series between the City League bunting winner and the Bible School champ. First game called for Saturday, September 20.

Among the Sunday-school facts and records for 1913 there is a paragraph to the effect that Carlton Smith won all of the Baptist boys' eleven victories. The records of Johnson and Marquard are again in danger.

If a certain magnate were to be consulted he might remark that these "minor" leagues in Plainfield are afflicted with "too much Johnson."

Another evidence of real baseball finance—Dorflinger and Torpey conspire to call off that Saturday afternoon battle because Jupiter Pluvius threatened to make his appearance sometime during the coming week. Some say it was an ounce of precaution. Another thing to worry about until we meet again.

Scotch Plains is on the baseball tobargon, according to reports circulated during the past week. Too much Central League stuff for the manager maybe. Some say he's a jolly good fellow but he hates to see his pets humiliated.

What has become of Dunellen and Bound Brook? Even High Bridge has refused to show itself in the guise of the National Pastime for the last three weeks.

Query—Who will be drafted from the City League to pitch for the Giants next season?

'Tis said that the basketball bee has been floating around this burg. Let'er flicker, we'll take them as they come.

Some of those malodorous trades in the National League remind us that as a sport baseball is a great business.

The French nut who looped the loop in an aeroplane is still alive, but it is not his fault. So is the jink who predicted a poor season of local baseball.

There are several notable comebacks this year, including the justly celebrated summer. Why not reorganize the Central League and have a real schedule with real teams to play the games.

We note by the papers that "Knockout" Brown can't fight any more in Indianapolis. We never dared to believe that he could fight anywhere.

Howard Drew, the Ethiopian gent who ran a hundred yards in 0:09 3-5 minutes must be this fast black we read so much about.

TWENTY RUNS LEAD CHALKED UP BY HOPE

Park Avenue Crew Proved Easy Prey for the Runners-up in S. S. League.

Park Avenue's losing streak was never endangered Saturday afternoon, when the winless Sunday-school Leaguers took the field against the Hope Chapel crew and came back defeated once again, this time the count was overwhelming, the decision being 22 to 2. Twenty runs under ordinary circumstances would have been enough to decide a game long before nine rounds were tolled off, but the teams battled through the regulation number of rounds and the Parks managed to collect twice.

DIXIE GIANTS WIN FROM WEST END A. C.

Pitcher Hall of Victors Strikes out Twelve Men—Heavy Hitting by Both Nines.

Pitcher Hall, of the Dixie Giants, was an obstacle the West End A. C. batters could not overcome Saturday on the Filmore avenue grounds, and as a result the dusky warriors by gathering in a collection of eight bingles, romped away with a City League contest by the score of 5 to 4. Hall kept his opponents' hits well scattered and twirled air-tight ball in the latter part of the game. Denny was touched up strong in the initial round, the Giants making a couple of tallies before the Westerners settled down.

Williams and Maiden proved a tower of strength for the victors, each accounting for a trio of bingles and registering a run apiece. The losers tied the score in the second inning by making a run after Hand had dented the rubber in the opening session. The Giants scored one each in the third and fourth rounds, however, and not to be out-done at this stage of the contest, the West Enders by a batting rally sent two men across the pan in the fouth. The score remained 4 to 4 until the eighth inning, when Garner, aided by hits by Maiden and Williams, scored the winning tally.

M'LAUGHLIN AND HAND FORM BATTERY THAT WON CONTEST

A local battery, composed of Warry McLaughlin on the firing line, and Frank Hand at the receiving end, brought victory to the Trenton team yesterday afternoon, playing the Long Branch Club at the latter place. The veteran of the local mounds allowed but eight bingles while his opponent was touched up for eleven. The final score was 4 to 2.

McLaughlin's work was considered unusually creditable as the Long Branch outfit has been lining up against some big league combinations.

Sporting Editor:

Answer—The record is held by Iver Lawson, made at Salt Lake City, July 4, 1906. Time 23 4-5 seconds.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What time does the Freshman Class in the Plainfield High School assemble tomorrow morning? R. E. O.

Answer—It does not assemble until one o'clock tomorrow afternoon. That's a little longer vacation than you figured on, isn't it?

Sporting Editor:

Query—Has Rochester, the team with which Jack Martin is playing, got any chance of winning the International League pennant? Z. S. D.

Answer—It certainly has, and unless Newark gets out of its present slump pretty quick, the Rochester crew will be running away with the title.

TRIO OF LOCAL PETS LEADING BRUNSWICK

Outfield That Performed Here Last Season Startles Middlesex Town.

Plainfield Pets do not confine their shining to the two hours a week they are garbed in local regalia, if the performances of Joe Harter and Eddie Stallings in New Brunswick uniforms may be taken as a criterion. Harter and Stallings are the heroes of Sunday afternoon games in the Middlesex county seat and both are "in strong" with the baseballically inclined populace of that community. Playing with Dave Driscoll's Brunswick warriors during the present season the two Pets and a former Pet, Wally Cosgrove, have monopolized all of the honors along the hitting and infielding lines.

Joe Harter leads the batting ladder with a mark of .298 while Eddie Stallings is a close second with .280, having played in one less contest than the speedy center fielder. Cosgrove is third with .264.

In fielding Joe Harter and Cosgrove both have perfect marks, while Stallings has accepted twenty-one out of twenty-four chances for a mark of .875. All three of the players are outfielders and everyone of the trio has some wonderful catches to his credit.

The averages follow:

Batting Average:

	AB.	R.	H.	Av.

MANAGERS WOULD NOT GAMBLE WITH PLUVIUS

Sportsman Refused to Take a Chance on Having to Deal out Rain Checks.

Despite the fact that many ardent cohorts of the Plainfield and Somerville baseball teams had planned to take the afternoon off in order to witness the second game of the series at Somerville, Saturday, and the fact that many had already embarked on their trip to the Somerset county seat, Manager Jack Torpey notified this office at 1 o'clock that the game had been called off because of the probability of a visit from Jupiter Pluvius sometime during the afternoon or night. This was one of the chances that baseball managers are called upon to take from time to time and the Somerville manager evidently shirked when the opportunity came to him.

The fact that a slight decrease in the attendance figures might have been produced by a few overhanging clouds would not have given either pilot sufficient cause for calling off the second battle to decide the pennant winner in the Central organization, for the first battle proved a tremendous paying proposition and any deficit caused by cloudy weather could have easily been borne.

TEAMS HAD HITS AND RUNS GALORE

Spicer Nine in the Rear by Four Counters at Conclusion of the Farce.

Spasmodic scoring in which both aggregations took an active part featured the Spicer-Saurer clash Saturday afternoon and the City League champions had their hands full in trying to get away with a 14 to 10 victory. Heavy hitting took a prominent part in the work of both teams, no less than twenty-five bingles being clouted to the tall timbers during the afternoon

Every man on the winning contingent got at least one bingle and these hits, coupled with the opposition's quintet of errors, made a victory easy.

OUTBATTED, BUT WON S. S. BASEBALL FLAG

First Baptist Clan on Top in Final Struggle for the Bible League Bunting.

Hope Chapel's pennant aspirations were given a fatal jolt Saturday afternoon when the First Baptist clan put over another victory at the expense of the Monroe contingent, thereby anexing the 1913 strip of bunting and the cup that goes with it. Consistent, all around playing that has characterized the work of the league champions from the opening of the league season until the present time made them the title holders and from the time they headed off the Chapelites early in the season until the final clash was staged Saturday they were never overtaken.

Terrific clouting and some clever fielding especially on the part of the Baptists, featured Saturday's game and the contest was a thriller from start to finish, so much being at stake for both sides Three times before this season the Monroes have met their Waterloo at the hands of the new crown bearers and they entered the week-end contest with a view to smashing precedent and hanging up a Baptist scalp. Both teams presented their worthiest fighting regalia and for the first seven rounds the battling was nip and tuck, both aggregations standing equal chances of winning out.

Every man on the Baptist crew came to bat in the stretch stanza and six of the players stretched their pedals across the scoring station before the farce was curtailed. Two baggers by Smith and Banks, the latter's second extra base clout of the game and singles by Savage and Downs savored of tally harvesting, aided by a couple of errors generously contributed by the Monroe color bearers.

While the Monroe team was behind in the run getting, it out-hit the winning delegation by one bingle, every man on the losing side getting at least one single with the exception of Hefti, while three of the victors went hitless.

As a fitting finale to the season of Sunday-school baseball, the Monroes started a rally that for a time looked disastrous to the Baptists in the ninth and was fagged only after the West End team had pulled across a quartet of counters.

RANDOLPH'S WORK WON A CLOSE GAME

Local Flinger, Watched by Big League Scouts, Allows But Three Bingles.

Twirling for the Suburban A. A. in Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon, Cliff Randolph, Plainfield's pride of the diamond hillock, allowed the strong Gregorians but three bingles and shut them out. His team mates chalked up three counters in the eighth session and this trio of counters were all that were scored during the contest.

A number of big league scouts have been watching Randolph's performances on the Brooklyn Field during the last two weeks and as he is still a free agent, having declined a Yankee contract, the local flinger is being sought by several magnates. The Brooklyn National League club was represented yesterday at Suburban Oval and while no contract was tendered him at that time, he had a talk with the scout and some definite action may be taken during the coming week.

Money Saving Time Saving Labor Saving

THE NEW WAY.

READ WHAT WE HAVE TO SAY

You can save many dollars in a year on your clothes and add a day of pleasure to your life each week with this wonderful Rapid Vacuum Clothes Washer, but cutting your laundry work in two. Most clothes are RUBBED OUT and not WORN OUT. When you send your clothes to the laundry what happens to them? They are soaped and beaten, and rubbed so that the hot soap-suds (sometimes a little acid added) is forced through and through the goods. This cleans the goods, but they do not last long. When your clothes are washed in your own home what happens? The hot soap suds are pushed in and out of the garments, as they are rubbed on the board. This cleans them, but wears them out. In every process of washing, soap and water are the only cleaners having any cleaning properties. When your clothes are washed with the Rapid Vacuum Washer what happens? Gallons of soapy water at boiling temperature (which sterilizes the clothes) is forced through the goods every 60 seconds. This cleans your clothes snowy white without straining a thread. You can now wash woolens, blankets, sheets, shirts, collars, bed quilts, etc., at home, and after washing the articles will be whiter, softer, cleaner, fluffier and more beautiful in appearance than before. Compressed air, hot water and soap does the work.

You can wash a tabful of dirty clothes in five minutes without rubbing, without bending, and with very little work.

A tubful of clothes can be rinsed and blued in the same way in one minute.

You can clean anything that can be cleaned with soap and water or gasoline in a few minutes, without straining a thread.

No more rough hands and tired backs for the person who does the washing.

The Vacuum Washer has no moveable parts, cannot get out of order, and with proper care will last for years.

WASHDAY NO LONGER A DAY OF DREAD

DIRECTIONS FOR OPERATION

Have your water hot, the hotter the better. Add sufficient soap and see that it is thoroughly dissolved before putting in the clothes, as hot water without soap will set the dirt. Use enough hot water to float the clothes, then operate the plunger up and down, each time a gallon or more of hot suds is forced through the fabrics, and the same amount is drawn back on the upward stroke. This suction force is produced by an automatic suction valve, which is a distinct and original feature of our invention. During five or ten minutes, which is required to do a washing, many hundred gallons of hot, soapy water are forced through the clothes, which cleans them in a more perfect manner than any other process and with absolutely no wear or tear. This is the secret of the success of this Rapid Vacuum Clothes Washer.

If you do your own washing, it will save you time, strength and temper. If you send your washing out, we know that you are not satisfied, as your clothes are worn and eaten with the strong washing compounds used by laundries. If you employ a maid, her time is worth money.

DO NOT LET ANOTHER WASHDAY PASS WITHOUT A RAPID VACUUM WASHER.

THE OLD WAY.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS ARE OPEN TODAY

High School Over-crowded but Relief Will Come With Completion of Addition.

SOME NEW TEACHERS

Studies Began Earlier Than Usual—Grammar Grades Building Are Also Over-taxed—Enrollment Figures Later.

After the usual summer recess of ten weeks, the city's public schools were reopened this morning for the fall and winter term, record breaking attendance figures being recorded for the most part in nearly every instance. While a preliminary count was taken this morning in several of the primary and grammar grades, the exact figures of enrollment will not be made known until the latter part of the week, when the regular schedules of work are begun. As is the case every year when the public schools reconvene for the fall and winter terms, a number of pupils do not enter school on the opening day and the attendance figures will continue to increase daily for some time to come. The fact that Labor Day came so early in the month this year made the opening of the school term earlier than usual, it being the custom to open up here the second Tuesday after Labor Day.

A number of new faces appeared in the ranks of the local teaching corps this morning, especially in the Plainfield High School, where a number of changes have been necessitated. The new addition to the structure is well underway but will not be ready for occupancy for some months yet. Several of the schools have been treated to extensive repairs during the summer months and all have been thoroughly renovated. Evidences of overcrowding are felt in the High School building and grammar grades and this stress will probably not be relieved until the new addition is completed, making room for hundreds of pupils who are now forced to attend school in the afternoon. As was the custom last year, the High School classes are divided into two sections, the three upper classes meeting in the morning and the freshman class in the afternoon. This makes necessary two assemblies every day and when the addition is ready the work will thus be cut nearly in half.

W. C. T. U. WILL HOLD ITS ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union will be held in the rooms on Madison avenue, Thursday, with morning and afternoon sessions. At 10 o'clock in the morning there will be the reports of the superintendents to be followed by the election of officers. In the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Miss Nettie Beeching will conduct a Bible reading, after which Mrs. Lucie Rising, missionary of the First Baptist church, will give a talk on her trip abroad during which she attended the International Sunday-school Convention in Switzerland. A full attendance of the members and all interested is desired.

PREDICT VICTORY FOR POPULAR CANDIDATE

Friends of Walter C. Linbarger, of North Plainfield, who is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for county clerk in Somerset county, predict that he will be an easy victor at the primaries on September 23. They base their claim on the fact that Linbarger has worked for years, in season and out of season, for the triumph of the party and has always stood by his party, and that he has never asked nor received anything from the party for his valuable services.

Linbarger is a capable man with a clean public and private record and now that he desires to become the county clerk many old stalwarts who appreciate his past services as well as the young voters desire to see him receive some recognition from the party. He is especially strong in North Plainfield where he has lived for a quarter of a century. He is a native of old Somerset and knows every mile of it.

In Plainfield he is as popular as he is in North Plainfield.

'QOU VADIS' MAKES TREMENDOUS HIT

George Kleine's production of the remarkable Cines photo drama "Quo Vadis," presented yesterday afternoon and last night at the Plainfield Theatre, has caused something of a sensation in this city. The big house was packed on both occasions and the enthusiasm of the audiences was unusual. Even the most ardent enthusiasts had no idea that any story in photo drama could be presented on the screen with such gripping interest, perfect detail and spectacular magnitude. It is a revelation to everybody. One fact, however, is apparent nearly all the time, and that is that one half of the people who view this wonderful production of "Quo Vadis" have no conception of the meaning of the title, although Mr. Kleine has done everything to explain it, and "Whither Goest Thou" is placarded all around. In this connection a clever anecdote is related by one of the Southern managers who played the photo drama and attracted large patronage from colored people. That some negroes look into these matters was evidenced by the following dialogue that occurred in front of the theatre at Louisville, Ky., the other day. Two darkies were looking intently at pictures of the arena scene where the Gladiators combat and one said to the other:

"What does dat mean, dat "Quo Vadis?"

"Why, don't you know what dat means, you-igerant trash?"

"Sure enough no—I neyer seen dat befo'."

"Why dat means 'Where you all gwine."

The production will be repeated tonight and tomorrow afternoon and tomorrow night and lovers of the best in pictures cannot afford to miss it.

FOWLER TO SPEAK BEFORE PRIMARIES

Possibly Pierce Also May Address the Union County Voters.

In answer to a resolution recently passed by the Elizabeth Republican Club letters have been received by President Frank A. English from Senator Pierce, Edward C. Stokes and Charles N. Fowler. The resolution directed the president to ascertain if all the Gubernatorial candidates of the G. O. P. planned to set a date apart for Union county and if such were the case to have a date set, if possible, when all would appear under the auspices of the club.

Former Governor Stokes sent the information, however, that he did not expect to make any scheduled campaign before the primaries, but would continue in the role of a "receptive" candidate. If the Republican voters want him for their candidate, they will so express themselves September 23, and after that he would feel at liberty to appear on the platform as the leader of the party.

Charles N. Fowler has set apart September 22 for Union county, but further details of his home campaign have not been announced. It is considered likely that Mr. Fowler will make an automobile campaign, and that meetings will be arranged for him in some of the halls of the county. He pursued this plan when campaigning three years ago.

Mr. Fowler's decision to devote September 22 to Union county, indicated that he will make a hard effort to capture his home county. On the eve of the primary election was the date he viewed as the most effective on which to make his plea here.

Senator Pierce has stated that he will be at liberty to speak in the county before the primaries, but no date has been set. Mr. Pierce's friends believe that one or two speeches, together with the effective statements he has made, will be sufficient to give him Union's vote. However, it is believed that he will make some public appearance before September 23.

COUNTY ROAD WIDENING PROCEEDINGS CONTINUED

Elizabeth, Sept. 9.—There was a continued hearing this morning, of the condemnation proceedings in the matter of the proposed widening of Westfield avenue, from Mountainside to Springfield, as a part of the plans of the freeholders to improve that thoroughfare, and it was decided to meet again on September 18, at which time a report will be made.

County Attorney William R. Codington at that time will call as a real estate dealer, William H. Abbott, of Plainfield, while William A. Coddington, who represents the objecting property-owners, will call Eugene C. Pierson, of Summit, as an expert. Among the objectors in court this morning were J. W. Arkell, P. F. James and Claud Baker, all residents of Springfield avenue Westfield.

REGISTER TOMORROW FOR BOTH ELECTIONS

Those Who Did Not Vote at Last General Election May Qualify Then.

Opportunity to register for both the primaries and general election will be given voters tomorrow, when the polls will be open from 1 o'clock in the afternoon until 9 o'clock at night. Those who participated in the last general election are registered automatically for the primaries, but before voting in the latter they must register tomorrow or on September 23 for the next general election.

In case of illness or other good cause, voters may register for the primaries by affidavit. Traveling salesmen are especially benefited by this provision.

A last opportunity to register for the general election will be given October 27 in municipalities of more than 5,000 population, while in communities having less than 5,000 inhabitants October 28 will be the final day.

The polls will be open on September 23, primary day, from 7 o'clock in the morning to 9 o'clock at night.

Many inquiries have been made as to whether or not those who voted as Progressives last fall can vote in the Republican primaries this year. Under the election law no one can do this. To vote in the Republican primaries he must have voted for a majority of the Republican candidates in November.

KATZENBACH'S TOUR POSTPONED ONE DAY

Although Frank S. Katzenbach, a Democratic candidate for the Gubernatorial nomination, was originally scheduled to tour Somerset county tomorrow by automobile, making a stop in North Plainfield, the coming of Trenton's former mayor has been deferred until Thursday. The same routine of speechmaking as was mapped out by his advance agents for Wednesday will be carried out the following doy.

The schedule follows: Rocky Hill, 10 o'clock; Griggstown, 10.45; East Millstone, 11.20; Bound Brook, 12 o'clock; Dunellen, 2 o'clock; North Plainfield, 3 o'clock; Raritan, 4.30 o'clock; Neshanic, 5.30 o'clock, and Somerville 8 o'clock. A mass meeting has been announced to take place in Somerville on the same night and the Gubernatorial candidate will probably take advantage of this opportunity to meet some of the leading Democrats of the county.

FORM CORPORATION TO REDUCE COST OF LIVING

Elizabeth, September 9.—There was filed with the county clerk in the Court House yesterday articles of incorporation by residents of Plainfield, who have organized a corporation to reduce the high cost of living. It will be known as Poucher-Stansbery Farms Company. The authorized capital stock is $25,000, in shares of $100 each. The incorporators expect to do a large business in poultry and eggs.

The incorporators are Harry E. Poucher, Russell L. Poucher and William F. Stansbery.

FINDS BICYCLES.

Patrolman Vanderweg "arrested" three bicycles for "loitering" on the city's streets shortly after 12 o'clock last night. The wheels were brought to headquarters and are awaiting claimants. That the vehicles should be left standing on the streets at that hour, is mystifying to the police, who believe that the finding of the mounts will clear-up several bicycle thefts that have recently been reported.

RANKS OF ANTIS GROWING STRONG

Plainfield Recruits to Woman Suffrage Opposition Army Number Nearly 600.

THEY FEEL ELATED

Mrs. Sykes Presided at Yesterday's Meeting in Absence of Mrs. Joost, Who Returned Last Night With Encouraging News From L. I.

The members of the Plainfield Branch of the New Jersy Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage were greatly encouraged at their meeting at the Public Library yesterday afternoon, when it was reported that one hundred new applications for enrollment had been received recently, making the total membership about 600. Most of the new applicants were found upon investigation, it is said, to be wage-earners.

A majority of the women are now home from their vacation and the attendance at the meeting yesterday was large. Mrs. Charles F. Sykes presided in the absence of Mrs. Sherman B. Joost. There was an informal discussion of the obstacles met by the suffragists of the State in bringing the proposed amendment to a vote, the resolution passed at the last session of the Legislature not having been advertised within the aime provided by law. Among those present were a number of the newly elected members from Fanwood and Scotch Plains.

Mrs. Sherman B. Joost, of Belvidere avenue, who with her family has been spending the summer at Quoque, L. I., returned home, last night, bringing encouraging news of the progress of the anti-suffrage movement especially on Long Island. She said that in many of the Long Island towns the suffragists had found it impossible to form organizations, and one of the chief speakers at a suffrage meeting she attended, surprised her by making the statement that there was little hope of carrying suffrage through a vote of the people, a constitutional amendment being the only way in which women could obtain the vote.

Referring to the local situation, Mrs. Joost said that from now on a vigorous campaign would be waged. She said that the women are now thoroughly aroused and realize the importance of taking a decided stand against suffrage, and she added, this sentiment is growing rapidly. "I have been much encouraged by the fine reports received from Plainfield and other places in New Jersey and I now feel as though our organization is making real progress."

SOME CHANGES MADE AT A LOCAL PLANT

Casner Quits as Superintendent and Department Heads Also Leave Concern.

Several important changes were announced yesterday at the Saurer plant of the International Motor Company, which includes three resignations. T. S. Casner, who has been general superintendent of the plant, is succeeded by C. W. Stratford, chief engineer, who will combine the two positions. R. A. Booker, general foreman is succeeded by L. S. Ayer, and H. L. Mitchell, who had charge of the routing department, is succeeded by E. R. Smith, who had charge of the specification department, combining the two departments. The changes were effective yesterday.

The three men who have resigned have been connected with the local concern for about a year and a half. There was a rumor to the effect that the recent controversy over the city's proposed purchase of an automobile fire engine, in which William Jeffery, president of the Board of Trade, and Mr. Casner, of the plant, took a prominent part, had a bearing on the resignations, but this is denied by people connected with the plant. It is said that changes have been in contemplation for some time. The men who succeed those retiring have been associated with the company for a long time and are experts in their line.

The funeral of Mrs. Anna E. Clark, wife of Marcus W. Clark, will be held at the late residence, 215 Stebbins place, tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. The burial will be in Westerly, R. I.

DETECTIVE'S DAUGHTER FINDS A LOST CHILD

Miss Mary Flynn, daughter of Detective-Sergeant John J. Flynn, made her first appearance yesterday in the role of "guardian of law and order," when she brought the five years old child of Mrs. Vangartha, of 331 Berckman street, who had become lost, to police headquarters. Miss Flynn found the child crying at the intersection of West Front and Grove streets. The little one was unable to tell where it lived or the name of its parents. The child was playing at the station with Miss Flynn when the telephone bell rang and an anxious mother at the other end of the wire was explaining through her sobs that her baby had been lost. The mother lost no time in coming to headquarters and the little one was quickly restored to her.

NEED INSTRUMENTS FOR THE ORCHESTRA

Municipal Musicians Want Money to Buy Bassoon and Saxaphone.

Members of the Municipal orchestra were told last night at the regular weekly rehearsal held in the Washington School that Herman Rakemann, leader of the Washington (D. C.) Symphony Orchestra, has heard so much about the local orchestra that he will come here next Monday night to hear them play. The fame of the orchestra has gone far and wide in the eastern part of the United States and the work being done here is being watched with much interest in other places. It is expected that later Prof. Senseman, leader of the Marine Band, will be a visitor here.

The orchestra has been presented with a handsome set of kettle drums by A. B. Jones, of Central avenue, and the Recreation Committee, which has charge of the concerts, know where they can procure a bassoon and a saxaphone at $25 each. They have the men to play them if they can get the instruments and it is hoped that some music lovers will visit the Washington School some evening, hear the orchestra play and realize how much these instruments will add to the work being done, and give them to the orchestra. The public is cordially invited to visit these rehearsals on any Monday night.

That the attendance has been so small at the Monday night rehearsals was deplored last night by G. Stuart Simons, who said: "The public does not know the treat it is missing by staying away from these concerts. The music is well selected and the musicians very competent, which will be shown at the first formal public appearance. The band as a whole, under the direction of Prof. Martin A. Korff, has made wonderful progress and is sure to make a name for itself in local musical circles."

A special program will be rendered at the Washington School next Monday.

MRS. LIEFKE'S FUNERAL WAS LARGELY ATTENDED

The funeral service of Mrs. Henry Liefke was held at the late home on West Front street at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and was largely attended by relatives, friends and neighbors, including members of the Masonic bodies and A. O. U. W., with which Mr. Liefke is identified.

Rev. Frederic L. Greene, pastor of Hope chapel, conducted the service, in the absence of Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, of which Mrs. Liefke was a member. He read appropriate Scripture verses and offered prayer.

There were many beautiful floral tributes, comprising wreaths, pillows and cut flowers, which surrounded the bier. They came from relatives, friends and neighbors and bore silent testimony to the high esteem in which the departed was held by those with whom she was acquainted. The burial was in Hillside cemetery and the pallbearers were B. Frank Coriell, Eugene A. Laing, J. Fred MacDonald, Henry Woodland, W. W. Wilson and Walter C. Dobbins.

FUNERAL OF MISS KEOGH.

The funeral services for Miss Catherine Keogh, who died suddenly in Avon, N. J., Sunday, were held from the home of her sister, Mrs. John Duffy, of South Second street, this morning, and in St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock, where a mass was celebrated by Father B. M. Bogan. The bearers were John Lyons, William Conger, William Lyons, Maurice O'Connor, James McCann and George Moore.

SAD PLIGHT OF POOR WIDOW AND CHILDREN

Taxes and Mtge. Interest Unpaid on Home of Destitute Family of Nine.

Since yesterday's acknowledgements, $24 has been received for the relief of the family of Peter Murray, of Terrill road, who have been poverty-stricken since he was run down and killed by an automobiles many months ago. The response to the Daily Press appeal goes to show that there are many kind-hearted people in Plainfield. The case is a most distressing one. Here is a fine mother with eight children, only one of whom is old enough to work and he toils from sunrise to darkness collecting garbage and raising vegetables on their little farm. Kindly disposed women who have visited the home for the Daily Press say that there never was a more deserving family. They are almost without clothes and have had little to eat. Until last Saturday they had no coal in the house for cooking purposes and the provisions were scant.

Since then some good people have supplied some cast off clothing and shoes for the children, through this paper's appeal and the Daily Press has also received and turned over to women who will look after them $47. Coal has been purchased and other absolutely necessary things have been bought. But the money at hand is a trifle to what is needed.

There is $125 interest long past due on the little farm and the taxes are delinquent, which means that the widow will lose her home unless they are satisfied quickly.

Since yesterday's issue we have received: W. L. Smalley employes, $3; W. L. Smalley, $2; Suffragist, $5; Homestead, Fanwood, $12; A Friend, $2.

Before an audience of some eighty or ninety members of the Plainfield Civic Association, a colored organization, at Plainfield avenue last night City Judge DeMeza challenged any one in the audience to show that during his term of office he had shown any partiality in the trial or decision of a case or that in any instance he had not conscientiously done his duty as he saw it. He also declared that no influences had been brought to bear successfully on him and in addition stated that his court has been one not for revenue but for reformation.

JUMPS TO DEATH WHILE DELIRIOUS

FATALITY AT NEWARK

Dead Man Formerly Lived Here and Was a Brother of Oliver R. Pearson—Left Wife and Several Children.

Walter Pearson, formerly of this city, where he was engaged in business as a blacksmith, but more recently of 63 Winthrop street, Newark, jumped from the third floor of the City Hospital, Newark, yesterday, and died a few minutes after being carried into the receiving ward. Death was due to a fractured skull. Mr. Pearson had been suffering from hydrophobia and was delirious at the time of the fatality. He was a brother of Letter-carrier Oliver R. Pearson, of this city.

Fearing that he was affected with rabies, Pearson walked into the hospital Monday afternoon and asked for treatment. He was bitten by a dog five weeks ago, but failed to treat the wound. He became ill Saturday and his condition growing alarming he accepted the advice of friends and went to the hospital.

About five weeks ago Pearson took his child out in a small express wagon and on the way came across the dog barking at an automobile. Pearson picked the animal up, put it in the wagon with the baby and came home. The dog and baby became friendly at once. Later the canine was seen to be acting strangely and it began to snap and snarl and made for Pearson, sinking its teeth in his right hand. Pearson put the dog out and did not bother attending the wound.

Yesterday morning the afflicted man suffered a convulsion, and later when the orderly left him to obtain some water with which to bathe the patient, the latter leaped from bed and crawled to a window through which he jumped. The man landed on the sidewalk where he was found by some men working nearby. Shortly after the injured man died, Mrs. Pearson arrived at the hospital. Until then she knew nothing of her husband's act. Beside a wife, Pearson leaves three children.

The funeral will be held at the late home, 63 Winthrop street, Newark, tomorrow night, at 8 o'clock. The burial will be at Basking Ridge, Thursday morning.

DOMESTIC TROUBLES AIRED IN BORO COURT

William Drake, of East Second street, was arraighed in the borough court this morning before Recorder Gano because of his failure to contribute to the support of his wife and family, who reside on Grove street. He explained that he was out of work, and sentence was suspended on condition that he secure employment and support his family.

Mrs. Katharine Judge, of Grove street, was arraigned on the complaint of Mrs. Louis B. Goldstein. Children's fights and words over the back fence were the cause of the trouble. Recorder Gano advised both families to keep apart and dismissed the case.

SAMPLE BALLOTS TO BE DISTRIBUTED SOON

In order to meet the requirements of the election law thousands of sample primary ballots will be distributed among the voters of this city on September 18, five days before the primaries take place. Each voter must be mailed a sample ballot of each of the four parties participating in the primaries. The samples will be of different color than the official ones, making the use of the former on September 23, impossible.

Another new set of primary ballot boxes will be procured for this city. The set will be for the Progressives who were not entitled to take part in the primaries a year ago.

FINED IN CITY COURT.

Michael Higgins and Britton Chapman, of this city, arrested several weeks ago for driving taxicabs in this city without driver's licenses, were fined $5 each this morning in the City Court when arraigned before Judge DeMeza. The men have obtained the necessary permits since their arrest.

Another ordinance was to regulate the use, storage and handling of all material of a combustible nature, and the erection and maintenance of chimney flues and other contrivances dangerous to public health. They will come up for final consideration at the monthly meeting in October.

Borough Attorney Beekman filed an opinion, in which he stated that the borough had no funds at present available for the payment of the many claims filed for the payment of damages done to chickens by dogs several months ago. Under the law a dog tax must be levied and collectured for this purpos , the receipts from the licensing of dogs can only be used for current expenses of the borough. A motion was passed that the assessor be requested to levy a dog tax in accordance with the law.

Councilman Wight reported that the lights on Main street had been changed by the substitution of tungsten lamps, which had made quite an improvement of that thoroughfare. Two additional lamps are yet to be installed.

The map of the property of the Bridgewater Realty Company was approved for filing, subject to approval by the Bridgewater Township Committee, the property being partly in the borough and partly in the township.

Residents of Hamilton and Franklin streets requested the borough to establish grades on those streets, in order that sidewalks and curbs may be set, and the borough engineer was directed to furnish the same.

Reports were received from the borough recorder and also from the borough collector. The former gave the number of arrests made in the borough from September 1, 1912, to September 1, 1913, with the amounts of fines inflicted. The latter report showed a balance on hand to the borough's credit of about $1,000. It was voted to borrow $2,500 in anticipation of taxes to meet current expenses, the bills for the month amounting to about $3,000.

It was voted to improve High street, the work to be done by the Barrett Manufacturing Company, and it was thought that this would cost about $500.

MILLIONAIRE BIXBY'S TRIAL ON THURSDAY

Los Anegles, Cal., Sept. 9.—With the trial of George H. Bixby scheduled to begin in the Superior Court day after tomorrow, a lively public interest has been revived in the case of the Long Beach millionaire who is to face the bar on charges of having contributed to the delinquency of young girls. Evidence of a highly sensational nature is expected at the trial. Since early summer the lawyers for Mr. Bixby have been gathering evidence to aid in the defense and they declare that when the case is concluded public opinion will be entirely on the side of their client.

The arrest and indictment of Bixby resulted from a police raid last spring on the fashionable "Jonquil" apartment house in Long Beach. The house was run by Mrs. Josie Rosenberg, who was indicted on a charge of pandering. The Grand Jury took up the matter of allegations that wealthy men had an organized system of ensnaring girls and young women for immoral purposes. The "Jonquil" was declared to be the center of the nefarious traffic. Millionaire Bixby was alleged to have been the most conspicuous patron of the "Jonquil," where he was familiarly known as "The Black Pearl."

Bixby was indicted principally on the evidence of several girls and young women whom he is said to have met at Mrs. Rosenberg's establishment. One of these was a youthful motion picture actress whose charges initiated the sensational white slavery investigation. As a sequel to the indictment of Bixby, he was made defendant in suits for $50,000 damages each, filed by Irene Brown-Levy, Helen Clo Barker and Jeannette Ellis, three of the young women involved in the case. They asked damages on the ground that the millionaire has committed "high crimes and misdemeanors" against them.

It is understood that the defence will be based largely upon attempts to show that the girls involved in the case were known to be of immoral character before they met Bixby. Detectives employed by the millionaire are said to have traced the history of the girls for the past several years and to have unearthed many facts calculated to aid the defense. Only recently Helen Clo Barker, one of the three girls whose testimony before the Grand Jury was largely responsible for the indictment of Bixby, was arrested in a downtown hotel in this city with a real estate man. The two were booked on a statutory charge.

KEEP WEDDING SECRET A YEAR.

New Brunswick, Sept. 9.—Announcement has been made of the wedding of Miss Hilda Opie, daughter of Mrs. Etta Opie, to Joseph Wenizer, of Metuchen, which took place August 19, 1912, at Wilmington, Del. To escape their friends and a shower of rice at a public ceremony the bride told her mother of their plans. The couple then went to Delaware accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wagner, of Trenton. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. F. Cochran, of the Union Methodist church. The first news the fellow-employes of the bride at the Interwoven Stocking Company office had of the secret wedding was last week, when they learned the couple had started housekeeping in Highland Park. They showered the bride with linen and, with the company, gave her a good-sized check.

FILTH.

From the pulpit and the press, as expressive of the indignation of the whole country, protest is being made against the toleration of the obscene show and the lascivious dance of the present day and rightly so for no decent-minded citizen can have for either anything any opinion other than it is not only indecent but grossly revolting. The good, wholesome innocent recreation, in the form of the old fashioned dance has been preceeded by a disgusting contortion stunt of which there are many varieties, but all about equally nauseous. The wholesome, instructive and innocent entertainment in the shape of a theatrical performance as produced in the past has been supplanted largely by the most depraved and degenerate sort of an exhibition unfit for any respectable being to gaze upon. "The Blue Mouse" and the "Girl from Rector's" shocked the moral sense but they are eminently respectable when compared to some shows on the boards at the present time noticeably "The Lure" and "The Fight," now being produced in New York.

From the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church pulpit, a Philadelphia clergyman on Sunday pictured these evils and their influences, declaring that the time has come when they must be abated. Said he:

"Our dances have become lascivious in the extreme and many still are so, bringing crimon blush to the cheeks of pure maidens and noble young men, bringing a sense of shame even to onlookers. Our theatrical and operatic exhibitions have well nigh lost all sense of God. But those who give these amusements and those who partake of them are waking up to the fact that apart from the purity and the modesty which the Book of God enjoins there is the blast and heat and death of the soul. So mothers in counsel and grave gatherings of serious minded men, and even lovers of the theatre and the dance are asking how may we arrest the tide of shame and sin and bring our amusements back to freshness and purity, to intellectual and moral helpfulness."

The whole civilized world is sick of the Thaw case, and this constant litigation is a disgrace to America. Had this degenerate criminal been without the Almighty Dollar, whose influence seems omnipotent in the United States, he would have paid the penalty in the death chair long ago.

Between Chautuaqua lecturing and political spellbinding, William Jennings Bryan seems to have little time for such minor duties as those devolving upon a Premier of the President's Cabinet.

There is no telegraphing communication to Wylies' Station, Indiana, but the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has sent a special train to the scene to set up a wire service. The company has no details about the accident except that all the cars except the observation car left the tracks. Some reports say that thirty-five to forty persons were injured. Physicians have been sent.

ALLEGED EMBEZZLER CAUGHT IN FLORIDA

Union County Again Put to Expense in Sending There for Man—He Stole $32.

Acting Governor James F. Fielder today issued requisition papers on the Governor of Florida for the extradition of John Clinton Lear, formerly of this city, who was arrested a week ago in a small town in Florida on a charge of embezzlement lodged against him by the local branch of the Metropolitan Insurance Company.

Lear is about forty years old and is married. While employed by the Metropolitan Insurance Company as an agent and collector on April 6, 1912, according to the complaint, he made many collections and kept the money, making out false reports to cover the shortages. At the time of his detection he lived at Ann street, near this city, in Middlesex county. Learning that he was being watched and was sure of arrest, he deserted his wife, according to the police, and left for parts unknown a day before the hands of the law were about to descend upon him.

Since April, 1912, the local police department has been seeking information as to the whereabouts. It was learned about three months ago that he was in Jacksonville, Fla., and the authorities of that city were immediately communicated with. Lear had gone to another city in Florida, however, and it was not until about a week ago that he was traced to the place of his arrest.

It is thought that there will be little trouble in getting the Florida executive to grant the extradition papers. County Detective Galatian will leave tomorrow for the South to bring the prisoner to the Union County Jail to answer to the indictment. Although Lear is specifically charged in the complaint with having defrauded the company out of $23.82, later investigations revealed that his alleged thefts ran up into the hundreds.

PETERS, REPUBLICAN, IS WINNER IN MAINE

Pattangall, Defeated, Had Support of President.

Augusta, Me., Sept. 9.—Returns indicate the election of John A. Peters, Republican, in the special election in the Third congress district to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Forrest Goodwin of Skowhegan by a plurality of 600 over William R. Pattangall of Waterville, Democrat. The third candidate was Edward W. Lawrence of Lubec, Progressive.

The Kennebec Journal placed Peters' plurality at between 500 and 700, giving these approximate totals: Peters, 14,800; Pattangall, 14,300; Lawrence, 6,400.

The election of the Republican nominee is attributed to the fact that the Progressives who voted for their party at the presidential election last November voted for the Republican nominee. Last fall there was a feeling against President Taft among the Progressives because of his stand on the question of reciprocity and at the same time the steam roller reports as to the Chicago convention were fresh in the minds of the people.

Kennebec county gave Pattangall, the Democrat, a plurality of 1,200, but this was offset by the vote for Peters in the other counties in the district, Hancock, Waldo, Somerset and Washington. The Progressive strength for the most part was confined to the country towns. The vote was considered heavy for a special election.

The campaign was a most spirited contest, on which the eyes of politicians of national activity were turned. It was predicted all along that the results would be close.

President Wilson early in the fight wrote a letter personally indorsing Mr. Pattangall, and Secretary Bryan, Secretary Redfield and Speaker Champ Clark, besides several Democratic Representatives, made speeches in his behalf.

PROCTOR'S GOOD VAUDEVILLE.

Proctor's vaudeville is always good and this week's bill is no exception to the rule of "always clean in word and deed." Previtt and Merrill, Italian illusionists of extraordinary merit, offer an exceptional act. Webb & Burns, the Italian comedians, are a riot of fun, comprising fifteen minutes of smiles and laughter. The Frank McCormack Players present a remarkable comedy dramatic sketch, "The Night of the Wedding," an unusual character sketch. There is a cast of three, including a wonderful child actor. Caspar and Clayton, two blackface artists, are a scream. The dialect is great and the dancing and singing good. Cecil Stanton, the girl beauty of international reputation, offers a classy piano act.

MADE LOVE TO GET WOMEN'S EARNINGS

Police Believe Fugitives Make Living Swindling Polish Women.

That the two Polish men, who, according to the police, swindled two women and left for parts unknown Saturday morning, "worked" the game in other parts of the country is the opinion of Detective Sergeant John J. Flynn, based on investigations he has made in an attempt to learn the whereabouts of the two fugitives. While searching the rooms at 453 West Third street, where the men lived during their stay here, Flynn found a photograph of Joseph Codock, whose engagement to Miss Varooneeko Mulaz was announced over a week ago. In the picture Codock was posed with a bride in all her finery. She is undoubtedly but one of Codock's many victims, according to the police.

As told in yesterday's Daily Press, Codock secured two rings and $139 in cash from Miss Mulaz, under the pretense of buying a home and a cafe in Newark. Codock's friend, Felix Macsko, who has disappeared with him, married a Miss Mary Steboc here several months ago. Under the same false pretenses, he secured $600 in money from his wife, and absconded. Mrs. Macsko before her marriage worked for seven years as a domestic in this city. The $600 represented her savings during that period.

The two alleged swindlers told the trusting women that they were considering the purchase of a cafe and house at 517 Market street, Newark, and at another address in Passaic. To make their intentions seem good, they brought the women to these places several weeks ago. The two men talked frequently, it is said, of the happy married life they were to share with the women and incidentally pleaded that they needed more money to carry out their plans. Thus it was that they persuaded their victims to entrust them with their money.

Mrs. Macsko and Miss Mulaz went to Newark and Passaic yesterday and saw the proprietors of the two cafes they had visited. Both saloonkeepers said they had no intention of selling out and that neither Codock or Macsko had approached them on the subject.

CHICKEN THIEVES MAKE HAUL IN THE BORO

Some time during last night the chicken house of Joseph Johnson, at 153 Manning avenue, was entered by thieves and one prize rooster and three hens, white Orpingtons, were stolen. Although Mr. Johnson has about forty chickens, the thieves seemed to know enough to take his prize birds.

Mr. Johnson paid $10 for each settings and he has been eighteen months raising birds, consequently he feels his loss keenly. He is sure that the parties who took the chickens are familiar with the surroundings. They way in which they broke into the chicken house indicate that he says. The matter has been reported to the police.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE GIVEN PETER LANT

Absence caused by the illness of Chauncey Lant, grandson of Peter Lant, of 1132 West Third street, prevented the presence of four generations at the birthday surprise tendered the elder Mr. Lant, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Lant, who lives with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Lant, at the West Third street address, enjoyed the occasion immensely and received gifts and the congratulations from over thirty guests. Over 100 birthday postal cards were sent him. Although Chauncey Lant, the second youngest of the four generations did not attend the festivities, the latter's son, sixteen months old Donald Lant, was present with his mother.

Peter Lant for many years was a farmer in Piscataway, but retired ten years ago and came to this city.

MISS RANDOLPH'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Miss Daisy Hortense Randolph was held at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Shiloh Baptist church. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends, including representatives from the various societies of the church. Rev. E. W. Roberts, the pastor, officiated. There was a large number of floral tributes and letters of condolence received by the family were read by the pastor. Miss Randolph was a pupil in the Plainfield High School and a member of the senior class. The pallbearers were the Misses Ruth Alexander, Rebecca Williams, Tempe Burgess, Madeline Fisher, Josephine Stewart, Roberta Jones, Emma Cardwell and Clara Carey. The burial was in Hillside cemetery.

SOUGHT OPPOSITION TO MOVIES HOUSE

West End Civic Association, However, Declines to Interest Itself.

Tentative plans for the fall and winter activities of the West End Civic Association were made last night at a meeting in the Washington School library, about thirty members being present. President Thomas C. Vail said the association had reason to feel proud at its progress, but that he hoped for greater results during the coming season. After a long discussion regarding the problems the association should interest itself in, it was decided that the executive committee arrange a program to be submitted at the next meeting.

Two men, said to be members of a union local labor organization, presented a citizens' petition asking the association to agitate opposition to the granting of a license to the new moving picture theatre being erected in West Second street. The two men declared the shows that would be conducted in the new playhouse would be detrimental to the welfare of the city but they offered no proofs. After a brief discussion the members decided that they would take no action for the present at least.

Secretary William J. Boyd, speaking on the matter, said: "Those men gave us no facts. They simply claimed something and gave no proof of their assertions. We will act when the time comes. These gentlemen say the exhibitions to be given in the new theatre will be immoral, but we do not know that and therefore we will take no action as an association until the conduct of the owners of the playhouse should warrant it."

CORNELIUS VAN DOREN WEDS MRS. CARMAN

Announcement is made of the marriage of Mrs. Anna Carman, widow of William H. Carman, of Dunellen, and Cornelius Van Doren, of Bound Brook. The ceremony took place Saturday evening at the newly-built home of the bridegroom in Bound Brook, Rev. Ernest Brown, of the Presbyterian church, Dunellen, officiating.

The bride has been a resident of Dunellen for a number of years, where she is well-known. Mr. Van Doren is also a resident of Bound Brook, where he has lived for many years.

MIDDLESEX CO. SUNDAY SCHOOLS MEET THURSDAY

The Sunday-schools of Dunellen and New Market will be well represented at the annual convention of the Middlesex County Sunday-school Association to be held on Thursday, at the First Presbyterian church, in Woodbridge. Mrs. Mahlon R. Dayton, County Superintendent of Intermediate work, will head the New Market delegates.

A lengthy program has been arranged for the morning, afternoon and evening sessions. Dr. John Handley, of Camden, will deliver the principal address at the closing of the session. Rev. H. N. Jordan, former pastor of the New Market Baptist church, was at one time first vice-president of the association, but resigned when he accepted a pastorate in a western city.

RECEIVER SHURTS ENJOINED.

Trenton, Sept. 9.—Involuntary bankruptcy proceedings instituted in the United States District Court against the Black Diamond Range Company, of Raritan, have been followed by the issuance of a restraining order enjoining Jacob Shurts, of Somerville, from disposing of the assets of the corporation. Mr. Shurts was appointed receiver in proceedings brought in the Court of Chancery, alleging insolvency. The bankruptcy proceedings were instituted by John E. Helm, the Broad and Market National Bank, the Essex Press, Inc., and Buob Brothers, all of Newark. The petitioning creditors allege that the defendant company owes more than $5,000, and that their claims, exceeding $3,700, are not secure.

The Pacific association track and field championships were held this afternoon at the University of California. The DAILY PRESS Will Do it With the RAPID VACUUM CLOTHES WASHER

Money Saving Time Saving Labor Saving

THE NEW WAY.

READ WHAT WE HAVE TO SAY

You can save many dollars in a year on your clothes and add a day of pleasure to your life each week with this wonderful Rapid Vacuum Clothes Washer, but cutting your laundry work in two. Most clothes are RUBBED OUT and not WORN OUT. When you send your clothes to the laundry what happens to them? They are soaped and beaten, and rubbed so that the hot soap-suds (sometimes a little acid added) is forced through and through the goods. This cleans the goods, but they do not last long. When your clothes are washed in your own home what happens? The hot soap suds are pushed in and out of the garments, as they are rubbed on the board. This cleans them, but wears them out. In every process of washing, soap and water are the only elements having any cleaning properties. When your clothes are washed with the Rapid Vacuum Washer what happens? Gallons of soapy water at boiling temperature (which sterilizes the clothes) is forced through the goods every 60 seconds. This cleans your clothes snowy white without straining a thread. You can now wash woolens, blankets, sheets, shirts, collars, bed quilts, etc., at home, and after washing the articles will be whiter, softer, cleaner, fluffier and more beautiful in appearance than before. Compressed air, hot water and soap does the work.

You can wash a tubful of dirty clothes in five minutes without rubbing, without bending, and with very little work.

A tubful of clothes can be rinsed and blued in the same way in one minute.

You can clean anything that can be cleaned with soap and water or gasoline in a few minutes, without straining a thread.

No more rough hands and tired backs for the person who does the washing.

The Vacuum Washer has no moveable parts, cannot get out of order, and with proper care will last for years.

WASHDAY NO LONGER A DAY OF DREAD

DIRECTIONS FOR OPERATION

Have your water hot, the hotter the better. Add sufficient soap and see that it is thoroughly dissolved before putting in the clothes, as hot water without soap will set the dirt. Use enough hot water to float the clothes, then operate the plunger up and down, each time a gallon or more of hot suds is forced through the fabrics, and the same amount is drawn back on the upward stroke. This suction force is produced by an automatic suction valve, which is a distinct and original feature of our invention. During five or ten minutes, which is required to do a washing, many hundred gallons of hot, soapy water are forced through the clothes, which cleans them in a more perfect manner than any other process and with absolutely no wear or tear. This is the secret of the success of this Rapid Vacuum Clothes Washer.

If you do your own washing, it will save you time, strength and temper. If you send your washing out, we know that you are not satisfied, as your clothes are worn and eaten with the strong washing compounds used by laundries. If you employ a maid, her time is worth money.

DO NOT LET ANOTHER WASHDAY PASS WITHOUT A RAPID VACUUM WASHER.

THE OLD WAY.

Which Way Do You Prefer ?

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 4.

ON a window card advertising a certain make of fountain pen I saw this the other day: "Get a Blank Fountain Pen. Every Pen is Insured. If Yours Should Be Run Over and Broken, We'll Give You a New One.

Fine! All you have to do to be sure of getting a good bargain is to put one of Blank's pens in an upper vest pocket, wait for a nice, heavy wagon to come along, lie down and get run over. Then you'll get a new pen free.

This sounds silly, but it's true. That sign is a real one. It is but one instance of what is commonly looked upon as "advertising." If I had a wee fraction of the money that is spent in this glorious, hustling country of ours on this kind of "advertising," I'd be building skyscrapers as a pastime and rolling duckpins with globules of radium instead of the conventional wooden balls.

Let's swing the pendulum the other way for a minute: in the "For Sale" column on the Classified pages of an Eastern newspaper I saw recently a little five-line advertisement. This is what it said: "Mantel Mirrors, with heavy French plateglass, beveled; beautiful design of burnished and old gold frame; 49 inches wide, 43 high; good value at $25; sale price $17.50. Frizzell's Art Rooms, Park avenue, at Saratoga.

No free offer of a new mirror if the one you buy should happen to wander out and get run over. No foolishness. No bait. Just a plain, honest statement of what you get for your money and where you can get it.

Advertising isn't buncombe. It isn't a big hurrah. It isn't magic. It isn't horseplay. It IS common sense. And if you write a common-sense ad. and put it in the Classified columns of this newspaper, you'll profit. TRY IT!

By Products of the Waste Basket.

There is a sort of penny-wise saving that has nothing to recommend it. But in their effort to avoid this sort of saving some persons plunge into an easy sort of wastefulness.

The man who spends twenty minutes a day cutting waste paper into convenient pieces to use is wasting time. The woman who throws away all the paper that comes neatly wrapped about her purchases is wasting money. There is a happy medium between these two extremes.

String and wrapping paper, for instance, are well worth saving. All children delight in bits of colored string. So it might be made the duty of a child to collect and roll in balls all the string that comes into a house, excepting that, of course, that which is badly knotted.

For Children.

Some one has pointed out that a child can be happy without toys if it is allowed to rummage about and find playthings for itself in the waste products of a household. Every child likes the old-fashioned button bag. Every child likes to play with a strawberry basket for instance. It has possibilities that most ready-made toys have not. It can be made into a baby basket for a doll; by lining it with a bit of lawn or swiss. It can be pulled apart and made into fascinating little buildings, or it can be turned upside down and so made into a house. And children rejoice in the colored pictures of magazines that are thrown away, in pencil ends, and in scraps and samples of colored cloth. And was there ever a set of dolls' dishes that equaled the one made up of chipped and nicked pieces of broken crokery and china?

So there are two ways of making the waste basket useful—one, in redeeming things from it that are really good, and the other in finding in it things for children to play with.

Of course the way to effect these savings is not to throw the things worth saving into the waste baskets. No one wants to go rummaging about in waste baskets for pieces of string that are good enough to use again. And no one wants to have her children go snooping into the guest room waste basket to see what the last guest has left that wil console her for the want of a doll.

So have a string box and a paper bag and a receptacle for any other waste product that you think worth saving. And when you have a pile of samples to look over, or finish with a fashion magazine or accidentally put an alarm clock out of commission, remember that these things will prove real treasures to children.

Ladies' Home Journal Patterns

The finest pattern articles in the world printed exclusively in Plainfield in The Plainfield Daily Press. Ladies' Home Journal Patterns are on sale at A. E. Force & Co., "The White Store."

Wash frocks are being worn by little girls all the year round now, as mothers feel they can, in the cold weather, substitue the heavier galateas and cotton bedford cords for the lighter-weight chambrays and lawns of the summer. And so simple and easy-to-make are the dresses that are worn now-a-days, that even the tired mother of a large family finds it no difficult matter to turn out enough to keep her brood looking fresh and clean. A dress of plain and dotted blue galatea, made like 7944, would be very practical for school wear, and the deep belt could be of dark blue galatea embroidered in a queer design in front. 4 sizes, 4 to 10 years. 1½ yards 36-inch figured, with 1⅝ yards plain material will be required.

The yoke cut in one with short sleeves is an attractive feature of many of the frocks for little girls, like the illustrated one, 7951. With a rose and white striped gingham, a yoke of white linen gives an effective contrast. The guimpe which is included in the pattern may be of white mull or batiste, and a belt of white linen or one of black patent leather makes a smart finish. 4 sizes, 4 to 10 years, and the six-year girl will need 2⅜ yards 36-inch material with 1¼ yards extra for guimpe. Each pattern is 15 cents. 14609 transfer pattern includes 2 large motifs, 12 small motifs, a yoke and 4 strips of border. 15 cents.

A bureau-scarf made just to fit the top of your bureau is much prettier than the old-fashioned style that hung down several inches on each end. This design is exceptionally effective although it is so simple, for the large eyelets will show the polished surface of the wood through the open work. These large eyelets are worked in the usual way but should be padded more firmly than the smaller eyelets, so that they will not pull out of shape when the scarf is laundered. The size of this bureau-scarf is 19 inches wide by 41 inches long, but you can easily adapt it to a narrower scarf by omitting part of the scallops, and if your bureau is longer and narrower than this you can cut part of the design off the ends, and use it in the center of the front border. It is one of the advantages of these transfer patterns that they can be so easily cut apart and rearranged for various uses.

The pin-cushion is 7 inches square and may be stamped on a square of linen 9 inches across. The edge may be hemmed and hemstitched or finished with narrow lace.

A very beautiful tea or luncheon-cloth 38 inches square might be embroidered by using two of these patterns. Use heavy round-thread or Hungarian linen for a cloth of this kind, for it is not worth your while to spend your time embroidering cheap flimsy materials that will not look well after they are laundered. If you must use a substitute for linen, a fine quality of cotton poplin is very satisfactory as this launders well and wears well. It comes at about thirty cents a yard.

Transfer patterns 14604 for stamping bureau-scarf and pin-cuhsion can be supplied to readers at fifteen cents each.

Industrial and occupational hygiene will be further discussed by Dr. John B. Andrews, of New York, and C. T. Graham-Rogers, of the New York State Department of Factory Inspection.

Other topics that will be taken up by the congress and exhaustively discussed will be public health aspects of the candy industry, milk pasteurization, the dangers of the housefly, the transportation of food prducts, the medical inspection of schools, the progress in the fight against tuberculosis, and the increasing mortality from cancer in the United States and foreign countries.

JERSEYMAN IS DIVORCED.

Mrs. Angelica L. Diehl has obtained a divorce at Reno, Nev., from her husband, Clarence A. Diehl, on the ground of cruelty, with the custody of the children of the marriage. The judge ordered the defendant to pay her $75 monthly until she remarried, when the payment would be reduced by half for the benefit of the children. The couple were married in Utica in May, 1907, and separated in New York city in November, last year. The defendant has large interests in a coffee plantation in Brazil, of which he is manager, with offices in New York city. He lives in Hopewell, N. J.

REARRESTED LEAVING JAIL.

Elizabeth, Sept. 9—J. Harry Nolan was rearrested on a charge of burglary yesterday as he left the county jail. Nolan was committed a month ago after he had passed as a deaf and dumb beggar. Since that time a complaint has reached the police telling about the more serious offense. This complaint was made by a woman. Nolan, the police say, was sent to State prison from Newark, March 7, 1908, for breaking, entering and stealing. He had served time there previously and was also an inmate of the Rahway Reformatory, the police say.

Some Cookery Suggestions

TEMPTING FRUIT FRITTERS.

LUNCHEON MENU.
Lamb's Liver and Bacon.
Potatoes a la Lyonnaise.
Toasted Corn Bread.
Cookies and Tea.

FRITTERS may be made of almost any fruits. Those that can be neatly sliced are the best. Apples, peaches, pears, bananas, oranges, pineapples, figs, apricots, etc., all may be utilized.

Sweet Fritters.

Banana Fritters.—Take a half dozen bananas and slice them lengthwise. Cut each half in two pieces. Put these in a bowl and sprinkle over them two tablespoonfuls of sugar and the juice of half an orange. Let this stand an hour or more. Beat two eggs light and add to them half a cupful of milk. Add this mixture gradually to one cupful of flour, with one-half teaspoonful of baking powder, and beat very smooth. Then stir in a little melted butter and a large pinch of salt. Dip each piece of banana in this batter, then drop into boiling fat.

Orange Fritters.—Peel several oranges, then slice, taking out the seeds. Sprinkle with a little sugar and lemon juice. To make the batter beat the yolks of two eggs until thick, add a half cupful of milk, a tablespoonful of butter, a saltspoonful of salt and a cup of flour, or enough to make a batter that will drop. Add the whites of the eggs beaten stiff, then dip each slice of orange into the batter and fry.

Shaped With a Cutter.

Pineapple Fritters.—Melt one-fourth cupful of butter. In this cook half a cupful of cornstarch and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt. Then stir in the juice of half a lemon, one pint of grated pineapple and one-third of a cupful of sugar. Let simmer five or six minutes, then gradually pour over one lightly beaten egg. Return to the fire to cook the egg and then turn into a well buttered dish, making the mixture half an inch in thickness. When cold cut or stamp out into such shapes as desired. Dip each in batter and fry in fat until colored a golden brown.

Fig Fritters.—Put half a pint of cold water into a small saucepan with the thinly pared rind of a lemon and two ounces of sugar. Let it boil for five minutes, then take the pan from the fire and add the juice of half a lemon. Arrange as many figs as are required in a pie dish, pour the hot sirup over them and leave them for an hour; then drain them from the sirup, dip them into a thick batter and fry them in a bath of boiling fat. Sprinkle some sugar over the fritters and serve with the sirup.

Gave Her Grandparents a Present.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — How Little Tottie Enjoyed The Party.

EIGHT o'clock was Jack and Evelyn's bedtime. Usually they were ready to go, but it happened when daddy came in they were grumbling. The folks next door were having a party, and they wanted to have a peep at it.

"When I'm grown up I'm always going to ask the childen to my parties with grown people," Evelyn declared stoutly.

"W-e-e-ll," daddy replied thoughtfully, "if that is going to be the style a lot of changes will have to be made in grown people's parties to make them suit the small folks. And I'm not sure but it would be a good thing, for instance, for folks to get home a little earlier than they do instead of dancing all night."

"I shouldn't mind staying up all night," Jack remarked.

"H'm," smiled daddy; "I think the sandman would have something to say about that. He generally calls quite regularly on you and Evelyn.

"Tottie talked just like you. When Tottie heard her grandma and grandpa were to have a lovely party because they had been married twenty-five years Tottie was greatly pleased. All the children and grandchildren were to come to the party.

"Tottie's bedtime was 7 o'clock, and the party did not begin till 8. Tottie lived just round the corner from grandma and grandpa, and so she did not have far to go to reach the house. She had taken a little nap in the afternoon so that she might not feel sleepy in the evening.

"She had a nice present to give to her grandparents. It was a pretty little silver dish, and she had gone to the store with her mamma to buy it.

"Tottie wore her little white dress and her pink sash, which was the color of her cheeks, that evening. She was one of the first guests to come to the party. She kissed grandma and grandpa and gave them the present. Then she went and sat down and watched the people come in. They kept coming and coming, and the talk began to sound like the faraway buzzing of bees. She wondered what made her eyes feel so heavy. In a few minutes she was nodding.

"Little Tottie had a lovely dream. She was still at grandma and grandpa's party, but she was eating ice cream and cake and playing games with a lot of dream children who looked like her aunties and uncles. At the end of it grandma and grandpa turned into little children also and joined merrily in the game with the others.

"Tottie never wakened until the next morning in her own little bed, to which her daddy carried her when she went off to play at the sandman's party. And his was a much nicer party for a little girl than the real one."

2 DEAD, 2 DYING AS TRAIN SMASHES AUTO

Artist, Wife, Daughter and Friend Victims.

South Norwalk, Conn., Sept. 9.—The worst grade crossing accident in Norwalk occurred when a fast New York express on the Danbury division of the New Haven road struck an automobile driven by Addison T. Millar of Silvermine, a suburb of this place, and wrecking the machine, instantly killing Mr. and Mrs. Millar and seriously injuring their daughter, Miss Dorothy Millar and a friend, Miss Jessie Guthrie, so that both may die. The two girls are in the local hospital. Both have fractured skulls and other hurts.

Mr. Millar is a prominent artist. He was born in Warren, O., forty-five years ago. He studied in art schools out west and later worked with William M. Chase. He has had a studio in Silvermine for the past eight years and was a prominent member of the Silvermine Artist group. At a recent exhibition one of Mr. Millar's paintings sold to C. A. Johnson, a New York art gatherer, for $1,000.

Miss Millar, who is fifteen years old and the only child, is not expected to live. Miss Guthrie, a neighbor of the Millar family, had just accepted an invitation from the Millars to ride home in their machine.

The crossing has a long toll of deaths from similar accidents, the most recent being in June, when Ernest Hedman was struck by the same train and also instantly killed. The public utilities commission of the state was appealed to after the Hedman death, but refused to guard the crossing by gates. A flagman was on duty at the time of the accident.

CHARLTON CAN'T PAY LAWYER

Will Ask Italian Government to Assign Him Counsel.

Rome, Sept. 9.—It was stated here that Porter Charlton, the young American now in prison at Como awaiting trial for the murder of his wife there three years ago, will ask the Italian government to provide an attorney for his defense and also to bear the expense of bringing his witnesses from America.

Charlton says that his father is practically penniless because of the long legal battle he waged in America to prevent the extradition of his son to Italy. The elder Charlton, it is said, is unable to bear the expense of coming to attend his son's trial. It is said that several leading criminal lawyers, including Scimonelli and Paternos, have offered their services free.

CURRENCY HEARINGS PUT OFF

Wilson Stands Pat For Measure, but Will Hear Experts.

Washington, Sept. 9.—After a conference with the president Senator Owen, chairman of the banking and currency committee of the senate, announced that further hearings on the banking reform bill would be postponed for ten days or two weeks, at which time only experts will be heard.

It was learned that President Wilson regards as futile the efforts of the committee of the American Bankers' association to bring new arguments before congress on the advisability of amending the currency bill.

BOWLBY AT RUTGERS.

Bowlby, Somerville High School's mainstay on the basketball court, baseball diamond and football gridiron, has decided to enter Rutgers College this fall and will take an active part in athletics as a New Brunswick collegian. Bowlby is one of the best all around performers Somerville has had for some time past and his work will probably be brought to intercollegiate notice during the next four years.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—Where will the Plainfield High School football team play its games this season? H. Y.

Answer—On Parker Field, according to present plans.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Does the local Y. M. C. A. promote track athletics? If not, where can I enter this sport and train under a competent coach? L. M. N.

Answer—While the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. does not foster track sports on an extensive basis, the training you wish can be secured in the association better than in any other athletic institution in this city. Sports of all kinds are carried on and indoor training is conducted under a competent coach.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Will the Rochester team of the International League appear in this city as an opponent of the Pets this season D. F.

Answer—It is planned to bring the Rochester outfit here on September 27. At least, tentative arrangements have been made for the game and it will probably be played at that time.

Sporting Editor:

Query—I would like to know the meaning of a stamp placed on an envelope at right angles with the head to the left. D. O. P.

Answer—It usually means that the postage has been paid and that Uncle Sam will carry the letter.

Sporting Editor:

Query—How can I become a citizen? I have lived in this country more than three years and am twenty-five years of age? B. H.

Answer—Take two resident citizens with you and apply at the naturalization bureau in the county courthouse. The clerk in charge will then tell you what further steps to take.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS FOR WINNING FOOTBALL ELEVEN AT P. H. S.

Prospects for a winning football eleven are bright in Plainfield High School gridiron circles, if the dope handed out by early season enthusiasts may be taken as a criterion. With the advent of a new coach who will devote the greater portion of his time to the training of the High School athletes and the wealth of material that has presented itself on the opening the chances of formulating a stellar regiment of warriors to sport the red and blue against hostile forces are rosy. The successful and surprising showing of the local schoolboys on New Jersey scholastic gridirons last season established for them a reputation that will be difficult to uphold this year, as many of the formidable aggregations that were vanquished last fall are out to even up matters with the Queen City delegation at their next meeting.

Graduation, that which deprives every school and athletic fostering institution from the cream of its talent, took away a number of the most brilliant stars but at the same time left a nucleous around which a good combination can be moulded. Out of the nineteen warriors who took an active part in Plainfield High School football last fall, but six were lost in June and there still remains thirteen of the veterans, including regulars and substitutes, who are in line for their old jobs on and behind the line.

While there are more than enough of the veterans left to form a team this year, the influx of new material from the grammar grades will have to be considered in lining up a crew of fighters. Scholarship deficiencies and other drawbracks always present themselves at the beginning of a gridiron season and what players who will be eligible to play after the weeding out process remains to be seen. Monroe Good, who acted as captain last year after Arthur Van Zandt was injured, is the only member of the star backfield that will be missing this season, and as he was the life and substance of the 1912 eleven, his absence will without a doubt be the most keenly felt. Good is in town but was graduated from P. H. S. last spring and will probably enter Princeton this fall.

Good's ripping attack gained many a yard for the red and blue outfit last season and many a victory was credited to his never tiring plunging through the enemy's defense. While Good is a fullback, he was pressed into service at quarter last fall when Van Zandt was incapacitated. As a probable successor to Good and one who will bear the brunt of battle this season, is William Peacock, who has two more years to go in P. H. S. Peacock has had a brilliant career since entering the local High School, having played on every athletic team since his entrance into the institution. While handicapped by a weak ankle, which is at the present time not in the best of condition, he played great football last season and was a fit running mate for Good. While he put up a consistent fight in every contest in which he appeared, his most spectacular battling was evidenced in the Holy Cross contest, when his gains were marveled at by everyone who witnessed the fight. In this game the stocky little Plainfielder seemed to be imbued with superhuman fighting strength and he was the only member of the red and blue outfit who could make any gain against the churchboys' stonewall defense. Peacock succeeded Good at fullback last year but intends to cast his lot at quarter this fall. He can play any position in the backfield to advantage and will be the mainstay of the offense this fall.

Fred Mills, who played when his scholarship conditions allowed him to at left halfback last year, will probably be back in school this year and will be a candidate for the team. Joe Green, the little colored halfback who played sensational football last year, will rank second to Peacock for a backfield berth, while Guy Snyder, a substitute, who displayed rare form during the latter part of the season, will be back on the job again. Thus with Peacock at quarter, and Mills, Green and Snyder for the other three positions, P. H. S. has nothing to worry about.

The loss of Joe Carty at center, while keen, will not be a difficult one to remedy as Du Bois, who substituted last year, has had some explenced and will be ready to fill the gap. The guard positions will be well taken care of by Eynon White and Warren Butler, two of last year's regulars.

"Smiling Jimmy" Dunwell's place at right tackle will be a hard one to fill, as Dunwell's weight was a great asset to the P. H. S. defense. Robert Gavett, however, substituted for Dunwell on several occasions and he will probably seek the open berth again. Left tackle, which was so ably handled by Irving Schenck, one of the hardest fighters on the 1912 crew, will be sought by a substitute in the person of Clinton Berrien. He has had a little experience and while a little awkward as yet, may be trained into a first class performer.

Robert McDowell's absence from right end is another blow, but James Herman, stands ready to answer a call to fill the position, for which he substituted last year. The other end will once more be handled by Donald Sminck, and should he be shifted to the backfield, for which he is admirably fitted, Substitutes James Noonan and Morris Mann will be given a trial.

Graduation took away Monroe Good, Joseph Carty, James Dunwell, Irving Schenck, Robert McDowell and Ned Jenkins. Manager Joseph Sattels is busily engaged in arranging a schedule of contests and the first practice will probably be called within the next two weeks. Parker Field will be used for the High School games again this season.

FITZ DOES NOT WANT TO SERVE

Former Pugilist Asks to Be Excused From Jury Duty.

SAYS HE IS ELIGIBLE

Claims That Middlesex Court Work Would Mean a Serious Financial Loss to Him—Has Arranged to Have Motion Pictures Taken.

"Bob" Fitzsimmons, ex-king of the squared circle, wants to be excused from serving on the Middlesex Grand Jury, which will be sworn in next week, because to serve would interfere with a $50,000 contract which he has to pose for a series of moving pictures.

"Fitz" told of his picture contract to a reporter, who called on him yesterday afternoon at his home in Dunellen, to set at rest the question of whether the prospective juror was an American citizen or not. He is.

"I would very much like to serve on a Grand Jury," said "Fitz" to his caller. "It would be a new experience to me, and I feel complimented at having been selected. But it would mean a serious money loss to me just at this time. I signed up the contract for the moving picture series only last week. I got word Saturday that the scenario was to start in this week. It will keep me busy for a month.

"The pictures are to give a history of my life, going all through my ring career. Some of them will be taken here in Dunellen.

"I was in New York when I read that I had been drawn for the jury and I came home so that I could see what I could do about getting excused. I expect to see both Judge Bergen and Judge Daly and explain the situation to them.

"About my being a citizen, there is no question about it. I took out my first papers in New Orleans in April, 1893, and my second papers in Brooklyn some years later."

The famous pugilist then sat down at his desk and started to rummage through a bushel or so of documents in search of his papers. Two or three trips through the accumulations of his eventful career failed to produce the papers, however, and he came to the conclusion that he had mislaid them.

"Of course, my naturalization is on record, anyway," he said. "I remember the date of the first papers, because I got them three days before I fought Jim Hall. I haven't anything to fix the Brooklyn date in my mind.

"I have only voted once in my life, and that was last fall, when I voted here for Col. Roosevelt for President. I have always admired the Colonel and wanted to do what I could for him." Here "Fitz" lifted from one of his letter-files a personal letter signed by Col. Roosevelt when the latter was President, introducing Mrs. Fitzsimmons to the United States consuls of Europe, asking them to show her what courtesies they could while she was making a tour of the continent.

"Another thing," said "Fitz," "is that I own property in New Jersey, New York and California, which I don't think I could hold if I were not a citizen."

As told, "Fitz" is an Englishman by birth, having first seen the light of day in Cornwall, some 51 years ago. He not only isn't a native of Australia, as was stated in a paper, but lived in that country only a very brief time. He spent most of his younger days in New Zealand, and came here at the age of 28, shortly after which he won the middleweight championship from Jack Dempsey. When he won the heavyweight championship from Corbett he was 35, an age when most pugilists are ready to quit the ring. He was nearly 40 when he lost the championship to Jeffries.

PEER OF EUROPEAN CYCLISTS KILLED WHILE SETTING PACE

The news of the death of Gussie Lawson the younger brother of Iver Lawson in Cologne, Germany, while pacing Gaul Guignard, the world's champion in the 100-kilometre (2½ miles) championship of Germany, Sunday, cast a gloom over racing cyclists yesterday. The unfortunate pacemaker was well known and well liked and a number of the riders sent cable messages of condolence to the bereaved wife in Paris.

The track on which Lawson met his death has long been considered unsafe and a number of serious accidents have occurred there before. It is a cement affair with a rough and broken surface and in fast paced races the wheels literally touch the high places only. This accident, coming as it does immediately following the annual meeting of the International Cyclist Union, at which a committee was appointed to form regulations making motor-paced races safer will emphasize the need of reform in this respect and, no doubt, in this country.

AMERICANS WON TITLE.

Camp Perry, O., Sept. 9.—The United States team won the Palma match yesterday in the international rifle tournament. Its score was 1,714. The team from the Argentine Republic was second, with a score of 1,684, nine points ahead of Canada. Sweden made 1,484 and Peru, 1,465.

NEW METHOD OF COMPILING AVERAGES PUZZLES BAPTIST TEAM'S PLAYERS

While the presentation of cups will be in no way affected by the increase or decrease of individuals' batting or fielding averages, several wrangles have already been produced, or rather unearthed, by the trouble probers who have sighted technicalities in the figures turned over by the official scoring committee that have or will do nothing but serve to produce hard feelings among the players on the team. The fact that the batting and fielding averages were sent in for publication by the chairman of the committee minus any explanation that was certainly due when the particular line of averaging which they introduced was involved, would lead any authority on the national pastime to believe that the figures were wrong.

Following the publication in yesterday's issue of this paper of the batting and fielding averages as corrected according to the logical method of compiling records and the one in common use in both big leagues, the chairman of the First Baptist's scoring committee has submitted an explanation stating that he included the "errors in fielding averages in the chances," a feature that is unusual to say the least. By this method Smith's mark totals up to .978 and Stine's is .977 plus, not quite a point in difference, but enough to determine Smith the winner of the trophy.

Another local paper, in commenting on the cup winners' work during the past season on the diamond, stated "Stine's fielding average was .970" and that the winner of the fielding cup, Smith, led the runner-up, Stine, by seven points. The fact is, Smith is probably the winner, but by a fraction of a point alone.

The team will meet at the home of Captain Pierson tonight to feast on watermelon and the averages will probably be discussed at that time.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

"September Morn"--for the schoolboy.

With the opening of the Plainfield High School, football enthusiasts can get their first whiff of the gridiron aroma. The National Pastime of the summer months will soon give way to the peer of college sports, chasing the pigskin.

While Holy Cross kickers have made themselves heard various times during the past month, they have done nothing definite as yet toward reorganizing. Manager Jack Doyle is sleuthing around, however, and the red and white color bearers will probably be as strong as ever this fall.

Once more North Plainfield High School will omit the gridiron game from its athletic program. While there is a sprinkling of material evident in borough circles, the scarcity of material would not warrant the formation of an eleven to stack up against other scholastic teams of the State.

Present indications seem to point toward the formation of but two elevens in local circles this fall. Holy Cross and P. H. S. are the old reliables that will be back on the job.

In Dunellen there is a movement on foot to induce Bob Bogardus, the genial baseball magnate, to handle the managerial reins of a football regiment. Bob has refused to "condescend" thus far, however, and he says that he will stick to the sport that has recently become a business.

Something that worried fans would like to know: "Who called off that Somerville-Plainfield contest last Saturday afternoon." Torpey told the Plainfield scorer last night that he did not engineer the trick and when seen last night Manager Dorflinger put it all on the Somerset county pilot's shoulders.

Dorflinger further stated that the cancellation is still a mystery to him and he is at a loss to know why Torpey did the stunt. The second clash will probably be staged next Saturday afternoon, "if it does not look like rain during the forepart of this week."

Tomy Mullin has signed to play with the Somerville outfit during the remainder of the season and was to have opposed Plainfield Saturday, but fate was cruel to him as well as to the fans.

As predicted during the fore part of the season, those trophies offered for individual competition among the First Baptist ball tossers have caused trouble and no little amount of personal feeling has been stirred up. It appears that the official scoring committee has originated a method all its own in presenting the averages for publication and some mix-ups have been caused. However, the cup winners have not been affected as far as cups are concerned, although the margins of victory were all too small to be good.

EDDIE STALLINGS' INJURY MAY COST HIM HIS JOB

"Bill" Samuels, whose hit won the game for the Brunswicks against Perth Amboy Sunday, and who played first base for the Dunellen Central Leaguers, may join the Driscoll crew. He may succeed Left Fielder Eddie Stallings, who plays here Saturday. Two weeks ago Stallings injured his leg while running to second base and this has handicapped him in his playing. He was not with the Brunswicks since, as his brother has been taking his place. He was scheduled to get into yesterday's game.

It is likely that Driscoll will sign Samuels to play with the Brunswicks. His fine work Sunday has put him in line as a regular. In the two games which Samuels played with Plainfield against the Brunswicks this year he also showed up in rare form.

CHAMPIONS vs. Y. M. A.

Following the closing of the Sunday-school League season, the First Baptist baseball team's manager is scheduling a number of independent games the first of which will be played in Bound Brook next Saturday, when the champions will line-up against the Y. M. A. nine of that place. The Baptists still have a third game to play off with the Somerville Klinkers, each team having won a contest.

POST-SEASON STUFF.

A movement is on foot to bring the First Baptist team, champion of the Sunday-school League, and the Sauer outfit, champion of the City League, together in a post-season series to decide the city amateur title. The first game has been tentatively set for Saturday, September 23, and as both of the teams are title holders, and considered to be fast in their class, the series should prove interesting.

VICTIM OF RABIES LEAPS TO DEATH

Man Goes Mad From Bite of Animal.

PLUNGES THREE STORIES

Patient In Newark Hospital, Bitten by Dog He Saved, Fights With Nurses Until He Reaches Window—Canine Which Caused Death at Large.

Newark, N. J., Sept. 9.—Walter Pearson, thirty-eight years old, of 63 Winthrop street, this city, while delirious from rabies fought his way past several nurses at the City hospital and, leaping from a third story window into the courtyard, struck on his head and was killed instantly.

Pearson was a dog fancier and five weeks ago while wheeling his two-year-old child interfered with a truckman who was beating a small dog. Placing the animal in the carriage with the baby, Pearson took it home, but when he attempted to lift the animal out to wash its wounds it snapped at his right hand, causing a small abrasion. He thought nothing of the injury until Saturday, when he was taken ill and his hand began to swell.

He was so much worse Sunday that he consulted a physician, who, discovering that he was in the first stages of rabies, took him to the hospital. The Newark police are looking for the dog, which disappeared from the Pearson home some days ago.

THIEF CATCHER CAUGHT.

Charged In Warrant With Robbing Hen Roosts.

Caldwell, N. J., Sept. 9.—Chicken and apple thefts disturbed the farmers in the village of West Caldwell so much that ten days ago they met and appointed Jared Beach, a carpenter, special policeman to guard their coops and orchards. The robberies became more numerous.

Joseph Beach, uncle of the policeman, heard noises in his chicken coop and, with his neighbor, William McChesney, went out. Two men fled from the coop, and one escaped. The other ran into a fence and was captured. He was Jared Beach, the special policeman.

Joseph Beach told his nephew to get out of town, but he repented and swore out warrants before Recorder Heller for both Jared Beach and George Baldwin. Neither could be found.

FEWER SUICIDES IN AUGUST.

27 Took Lives as Compared to 35 In Same Month Last Year.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 9.—The month of August did not produce the usual number of suicides in New Jersey. There were twenty-seven persons who killed themselves as compared to thirty-five in the same month last year, according to the monthly report just issued by the bureau of vital statistics of the state board of health.

Because of the intense heat there were 292 deaths of children over one year of age and under five and 877 deaths of persons sixty years old or over. There were 3,458 deaths in August, as compared with 3,214, the monthly average for the past year.

FOR UNIFORM MOTOR LAWS.

New Jersey Commission Holds First Meeting and Adjourns to Sept. 15.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 9.—The commission authorized by the last legislature to draw up uniform motor vehicle legislation met at the statehouse and listened to the argument of J. J. Fitzgerald of the Paterson board of trade, who advocated abolition of all automobile license fees. He said that such action by the state would give to New Jersey a kind of advertising that would more than compensate for an annual loss of $600,000 in fees. Mr Fitzgerald had no suggestion on making up the revenue in another way.

CHANCELLOR'S SON DIES.

Young Walker Stricken While In Ireland With Parents.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 9.—Word was received here of the death in Dublin, Ireland, of Geoffrey Fritz Walker, twenty-two years old, son of Chancellor Edwin Robert Walker, the highest judicial officer in New Jersey.

The young man contracted typhoid fever while touring Europe with his parents. He was a student at the University of Virginia and prepared for that institution at Lawrenceville.

FACTORY HAND KILLED.

Falls Six Stories Trying to Slide Down Brass Banister Rail.

Burlington, N. J., Sept. 9.—Herman Minister, nineteen years old, fell over the guard rail on the sixth floor of the Philadelphia Watch Case plant at Riverside as he joined the noon exit rush and was killed.

In the hurry to the first floor employees have made a practice of sliding down a brass banister rail, and it is thought that Minister was so doing when he fell.

JERSEY WILL HAVE ONE IMMENSE FAIR

Elaborate Plans Being Made for Huge Exhibition to Be Held at Trenton.

Trenton, Sept. 9—Trenton is already making preparations for the reception and entertainment of the thousands of visitors who will come to the New Jersey capital for the 1913 Inter-State Fair, which will open Monday, September 29, and continue until Friday, October 3. The fair will be formally opened by the raising of the flag of the United States over the executive buildings and an address by Mayor Frederick W. Donnelly, of Trenton. The agricultural, cattle, sheep and swine, poultry and pet stock, machinery, horse show, industrial, art and fancy work, school children's exhibits, home and dairy products departments have all been enlarged and will combine in making a fair that will stand out as the greatest in the East.

An innovation will be the wonderful spectacle of the "Last Days of Pompeii" by the Pain Fireworks Company. This will be presented every night, and in addition the shows along the midway will be opened evenings for the amusement of the guests of the big exhibition.

The track program has been changed for this year, so that the horse racing will begin Monday and conclude Thursday, and added to the regular trotting and pacing events will be a complete card of running races every afternoon. Friday will see the world's greatest automobile drivers in thrilling contests under the auspices of the Automobile Association of America.

MANY SAY WILLS WAS INTOXICATED

Prosecution Presents Strong Case Against Man Charged With Violating Law.

STATE IS REPRESENTED

Asst. Atty. General Calls Witnesses to Prove Defendant Who Figured in Collision Was Drunk When He Drove Car.

The prosecution in the case of Arthur Wills, of 316 East Seventh street, who was arrested on Aug. 13, charged, after figuring in a collision, with driving an automobile while under influence of liquor, produced six witnesses at the trial before City Judge DeMeza this morning, all of whom gave damaging testimony against the defendant. They all stated that young Wills was, in his or her opinion, under the influence of intoxicants at the time of the accident that caused slight injuries to Mr. and Mrs. George F. Murphy, the former's sister, and Charles S. Sminck, all of East Front street, who were riding in a carriage from Dunellen to this city when their vehicle was struck by the Wills' machine.

A recess was taken at 12.30 and the proceedings were resumed shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon. Wills is represented by former City Judge William N. Runyon. Under the law there is no option for the presiding magistrate to exercise but to send Wills to jail for a term of not less than 30 days or more than 6 months, if the prosecution proves its case.

Assistant Attorney-General Josiah Stryker, of Trenton, represents the State and is leading the fight to send Wills to jail. Assistant Corporation Counsel Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., represents the city. Inspector of Motor Vehicles A. Harry Elbow is also aiding the prosecution.

The first witness to take the stand was Dr. Charles B. Lufburrow. Others who gave testimony up until 2.30 o'clock are: George F. Murphy, Patrolman Thomas Flatley, who made the arrest; Richard F. Randolph, who was near the scene of the accident and heard the crash; Benjamin F. Hunt and Miss Gertrude F. Murphy, who rode beside Mr. Murphy, when Wills auto struck the carriage.

After the complaint had been read to Wills, his lawyer moved for an adjournment of a few days because of the absence of L. W. Serrell, Judge Runyon stating that he was one of the principal witnesses for the defense. Mr. Serrell had sent a telegram from New England saying that it would be impossible for him to get to Plainfield until late Wednesday afternoon. City Judge DeMeza declared that the trial had been postponed four times and that he saw no sufficient cause why a further adjournment should be granted.

On the stand Dr. Lufburrow said he talked with Wills in a cell after the arrest and gave the opinion that he was partially under the influence of intoxicating drink because "his gait was unsteady; his eyes were dimmed and blurred; he talked incoherently, an his face was conjested." The physician admitted, however, that the defendant's eyes were almost in the same condition, or rather looked the same, today, as at the time of his arrest.

Mr. Murphy described the accident in detail and told of his conversations he had with Wills immediately after the collision. He said one member of the automobile party jumped from the machine and ran away. He was asked if the street was well illuminated by street light in the vicinity of the accident. A laugh from the court spectators arose when he replied, "The street at that point is lighted about as well as any street in this city."

Patrolman Flatley repeated parts of conversations he had with Wills after he was placed under arrest. Wills said to the policeman at one time he stated: "I would rather have killed myself than hurt the people in the carriage." Flatley also asserted Wills said to him, "Don't go hard on me, I have been drinking." Councilman Randolph said he thought the Wills machine was going over forty miles an hour just previous to the accident.

According to the police records Wills, with a party of friends, was driving along East Seventh street, near Monroe avenue, on Monday night, Aug. 13, shortly after 9 o'clock, when his car smashed into the carriage containing Mr. and Mrs. Murphy and their relatives and friends.

MISS BESLER'S AUTO KNOCKS WOMAN DOWN

Victim Only Slightly Hurt and Driver of Car is Exonerated From Blame.

Becoming confused in crossing Davenport street, near West Main street, in Somerville, yesterday, Mrs. Tobin, of that place, was knocked down and slightly injured by an automobile driven by Miss Helen A. Besler, of West Seventh street.. According to eye-witnesses of the accident, Mrs. Tobin had just crossed the thoroughfare and suddenly deciding to go back to the other side stepped directly into the path of the machine which was running at a slow rate of speed at the time.

Miss Besler sounded the automobile horn as soon as the pedestrian stepped into the street again and this served to frighten the woman sufficiently to bring her to a standstill and she was just grazed by one of the mudguards of the car. This contact was enought o knock the woman down. When carried to a nearby drug store it was found that she was bruised and also suffered from sprains. After receiving "first aid" treatment the woman was able to go to her home.

Miss Besler, who is the daughter of General Manager Besler, of the Jersey Central, was exonerated from all blame in regard to the accident after the circumstances surrounding the case had been investigated.

WANT SOME ACTION ON 'T. B' SANITORIUM

Women Ask Somerset Freeholders to Make Haste in Selecting Site.

Somerville, Sept. 10.—A delegation of women, headed by Miss LaMonte, of Bound Brook, appeared the second time before the Somerset County Board of Freeholders at its monthly meeting at the court house at Somerville yesterday in reference to the selection of a site for a county tuberculosis hospital. The Board has several proposed locations in view, and these were laid before Dr. Hunt, of the State Board of Health, for his approval in the selection of the one most desirable, but the Board has received no word from him in reply, and it was for the purpose of hastening action that the visit of the women was made. Under the circumstances nothing could be done, but the members promised action.

Nicholas Youngblood, a former resident of Somerville, but now living at Zion, near Skillman, wanted the Board to take some action in reference to a road across his premises. He wants to sell the place, but is prevented by the presence of the road, which he claims is for the sole benefit of a neighbor with whom he is not on friendly terms. This matter was referred to a special committee composed of Freeholders Everett, Opie and Dilts.

Because the Progressive (Roosevelt) party has filed petitions in the county and several of the municipalities it will be necessary for the county to provide an extra ballot box for use on primary day, and the clerk was directed to purchase thirty-six boxes for such use.

Charles L. Force, of Noth Plainfield, filed a claim for damages to his automobile, which he says were sustained by reason of a faulty bridge in Branchburg township recently. This matter was referred to Counsel Frech.

A representative of the American Portland Cement Company addressed the Board in reference to the product made by his company, and urged its use by the freeholders, but received little encouragement.

The clerk was directed to notify the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company to widen its crossing at Somerville.

County Clerk Allen reported that the expenditures to date amounted to $119,839.27, exclusive of the bills ordered paid at this meeting.

UNION FREEHOLDERS TAKE UP MANY BRIDGE REPAIRS

It was reported that several of the spans are in need of immediate improvement and that the repairs should be made before winter.

CARLOAD OF BOXES FOR THE ELECTIONS

Most of the New Ballot Boxes for Union County Intended for Progressives.

Notice was received yesterday from the freight agent in Elizabeth of the Pennsylvania Railroad by Freeholder George G. Teller, chairman of the Election Committee of the Board of Freeholders, that a carload of ballot boxes was at the station awaiting delivery. Nearly all these boxes are required because of the participation of Bull Moosers in the primary for the first time on September 23.

Boxes were also ordered to furnish five newly-formed districts in the county and to replace primary boxes not in proper condition. Sufficient boxes were also procured to obviate the necessity of using all the same boxes for both the general election and the primary. In the past an order had to be secured from the Court of Common Pleas permitting the use of primary boxes for the general election also. This shortage caused considerable inconvenience to the municipal clerks as the contents of the primary boxes had to be stored in some safe place until the general election was over, when they could be put back into their proper receptacles.

The Socialists were allowed to hold primaries for the first time in 1912. This made it necessary to provide 104 more boxes than in 1911. The five new districts formed this year required the purchase of twenty boxes alone.

With the supply now on hand the large expense of purchasing new boxes to which the county has been put for three consecutive years should be removed for the next few campaigns.

VITAPHONE TO BUILD ADDITION TO PLANT

Concern Also to Have a Branch Factory Near Montreal, Canada.

The increasing demand for the products manufactured by the Vitaphone Company, which has its factory on North avenue, near the Netherwood station, has made the erection of an addition to the present plant necessary and plans and specifications have been drawn calling for a building 45 by 185 feet. A strip of land 560 by 207 feet is owned by the concern on which there are now two buildings.

Another factory will be built in Canada, most probably in the neighborhood of Montreal, from which city the major part of the necessary capital has been subscribed. The parts will be made in Plainfield but the cabinet work will be constructed and the complete vitaphone assembled in Canada. Owing to the heavy tariff imposed by the Dominion government on talking machines and records, a separate plant is Canada is considered essential.

PEACHES, ICE CREAM AND MUSIC ENJOYED

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Netherwood Reformed church, a successful "peach and cream" festival was held in that edifice last night. Throughout the evening the Dutch Arms Band of the Trinity Reformed church rendered a delightful musical program consisting of the classical numbers as well as popular medleys. The church was suitably decorated for the occasion.

LANGHORNE AGAIN SEEKING DAMAGES

Third Trial to Obtain Compensation From Penna R. R. For Injuries.

IN U. S. DISTRICT COURT

His Rowboat Run Down by Company's Tug While Fishing in Staten Island Sound Three Years Ago.

The suit of F. C. Langhorne, of this city, against the Pennsylvania Railroad, is among those listed for trial in the United States District Court at New Brunswick, which opened its fall term yesterday. This case has been tried twice, and Senator George Silzer, of counsel for the plaintiff, will again represent Mr. Langhorne at the trial which is scheduled for Tuesday, September 16.

The action against the company is the result of an accident Mr. Langhorne had three years ago while fishing in the Staten Island Sound, near Sewaren, when one of the company's tugs ran his boat down. He was rescued after great difficulty and extreme measures were adopted to resuscitate him. For a time, it is said, there was some doubt as to Mr. Langhorne's recovery.

Nominal charges were awarded after the first trial and the court ordered a new trial. The second time the jury disagreed. The company is represented by Mr. Strong, of New Brunswick.

PRIMARIES CANDIDATES IN FANWOOD BOROUGH

In the Borough of Fanwood the Republicans have placed a full ticket in the field for the primaries while the Democrats have named but one candidate for the Council, H. J. McNamee, and TenEyck R. Beardsley for member on the County Committee. The Socialists and Progressives have no tickets.

The list of candidates for primary nominations follow:

Republican—For two-year term as member of the Board of Chosen Freeholders, Burton P. Hall; for mayor, William H. Hoar; for three years term in the Council, Offley T. Brown, Fred W. Creesy and W. G. Britten; for one year term in Council (unexpired term), Frank T. Urner; for member of the County Committee, Dr. F. W. Westcott.

Democratic—For three years' term in Council, H. J. McNamee; for member of the County Committee, Ten Eyck R. Beardsley.

The appropriations which will be listed on all ballots to be voted "Yes" or "No" follow: Street department, $1,500; lights, $1,300; police, $950, and general expense, $750.

MANY REGISTERED IN CITY; FEW IN BOROUGH

Registration for the coming primaries and elections was conducted by the various district boards of election, yesterday, in this city. It is estimated that twenty-five per cent. of the voters took advantage of the opportunity and appeared at the polling places to personally register September 23 and October 21 still remain as days when the voters may register for the general election in November.

On or before noon of next Wednesday, September 17, sample primary ballots will be mailed to all voters who either registered yesterday or voted at the last general election.

Few voters availed themselves of the opportunity of the first registry day in the borough. The registration in fact was about the lightest on record. This condition is explained by the absence of any local contests for the party nominations in North Plainfield.

One or two of the district election boards were complaining because the borough failed to supply tables for the use of the boards. It is understood that the County Board of Freeholders argue that it is up to the person from whom the polling place is rented to supply the necessary table for the use of the boards. In no case, however, is the borough clerk responsible for the lack of the tables. In this city, all district boards are supplied with tables from City Clerk James MacMurray's office. It is believed that the condition will be remedied before primary day.

FRIENDS CELEBRATE SATURDAY, SEPT. 27

Plan for Observance of 125th Anniversary of Meeting House's Erection.

The Plainfield Religious Society of Friends will observe the one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of the erection of the meeting house on Watchung avenue, on Saturday, September 27, with an appropriate program both afternoon and evening. There will be a number of prominent speakers from among the Friends, and Mayor Percy H. Stewart will make the address of welcome. Among the speakers will be Henry Wilbur, of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Hollingsworth Wood, of Mt. Kisco, N. Y. Miss Margaret Vail, of this city, will read a historical sketch.

Oliver B. Leonard, clerk of the First Baptist church, in a short reminiscent sketch published in the church bulletin on Sunday, states that in 1825 the only other Protestant church in the village aside from the First Baptist church, was the newly-built First Presbyterian edifice, built in that year, and he further says that the Friends had at that time been occupying their meeting-house some fifty years. There were then less than a hundred homes in Plainfield. The settlement of the Friends here and their meeting-house are full of historic interest which will be elaborated upon at the time of the celebration.

THAW IS RUSHED OVER THE BORDER

Immigration Men Thrust Him Into Auto and He is Lodged in N. H.

FIGHTS AS MADMAN

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Colebrook, N. H. Sept 10.—Harry K. Thaw, the notorious slayer of Stanford White, is a prisoner in the local jail after enjoying a few brief hours of freedom in the United States this morning. He was seized in the Coaticook, Que., jail by immigration officers early this morning, and rushed, shrieking and fighting to a waiting automobile, in which he was conveyed to the Vermont line at Norton Mills at 855 o'clock. A swift trip across the State of Vermont was made in an automobile, and at 1010 Thaw entered the State of New Hampshire at West Stewartston. He continued through the State until early this afternoon when he was arrested here.

On his way to the automobile in Coaticook, Thaw shouted at the top of his lungs that he was being kidnapped, and immigration officers sought to quiet him with assurances that such was not the case. Notwithstanding, he fought like a madman and smashed a window with a bottle as the officers dragged him down the stairs.

The suddenness of the manoeuvre took both Thaw and his counsel entirely by surprise and literally carried them off their feet. It was reported, though not confirmed, that the immigration officers acted under instructions of the minister of the interior.

Thaw arrived at Averill Ver., at 9 a. m. He had been released by the Canadian immigration authorities when his automobile crossed the Vermont line at Norton Mills, four miles away, and was then an absolutely free man, as nobody representing the State of New York or the State of Vermont was on hand to take him.

At Norton Mills, Thaw left the automobile of the Canadian immigration authorities and climbed into the car of several newspaper correspondents, who had accompanied him, and continued the journey in their company.

Thaw was a much astonished man when the Canadian immigration officials told him he was free to go wherever he liked. He got out of the automobile and stood gazing helplessly around, when the newspaper men who had followed him offered him room in the car. He accepted the offer.

"This thing has been such a surprise to me," he said, "that I don t know yet what I shall do."

Thaw reached Stewartstown shortly after 10 o'clock. No attempt was made to arrest him there.

He stood about the village square for about fifteen minutes, then re-entered his automobile without announcing his destination. About 11 o'clock he stopped at a farm house near Stewartstown, and then continued his journey to this place, where he was arrested.

Montreal, Sept. 10.—The members of Thaw's family and his lawyers here were dumbfounded when they learned that the fugitive had been deported.

"I am simply paralyzed," said J. N. Greenshields K. C., the leader of Thaw's band of lawyers. "I cannot understand it. With a writ of prohibition and habeas corpus out it seems to me to be utterly impossible to believe. It is all beyond me. It certainly is a disgrace to the country and to our administration of law. All we can do if Thaw has been forced across the line is to bring Robertson, the assistant superintendent of the immigration department, before the Court of Kings Bench. But what good will that do us?"

Mr. Greenshields received a telegram from Thaw's secretary notifying him that Thaw had been taken to Norton Mills, Vt.

W. K. McKeown, another of the Thaw counsel, said:

"Deportation of Thaw in the face of the writ of habeas corpus, certainly looks like contempt of the Court of Appeal."

Before hearing that her son had

Concerning Rothberg's---A Foreward

We have no hesitancy in saying that this business was started for the purpose of making money. Nor have we any hesitancy in saying that it has succeeded.

But we also wish to say that the successful business should make other things besides money—it should make loyal, lifelong friends.

And if it doesn't, then in my opinion it hasn't succeeded, no matter how much money it has amassed.

Money isn't the final test of honesty and fair dealing. But loyal, life-long customers are.

Combining success with honor is not to be admired, but to be expected.

And rightly understood, one cannot be achieved without the other. Had the Rothberg Shop been built on deceit and misrepresentation it would have been a moral failure, no matter how great would be the volume of business.

Honesty in business doesn't consist in being square with your customers, but in being square with yourself.

Shakespeare's dictum, "First unto thy ownself be true," has never been improved upon.

If we misrepresented our goods, or had more than "one price for an article," or resorted to petty schemes to take advantage it would not be a deception on our customers, but on ourselves.

And although the wise Franklin said that to see things by faith is to close the eye of reason, our customers are buying things on faith today more than they ever did.

Our pre-eminence in selling "Most Things Men Wear" is not only the result of our customers understanding of clothing, but of their faith in Rothberg's.

They know what Rothberg stands for—what it has ever stood for—and they know that I would rather retire from business than violate one whit of that confidence.

GROWTH OF Y. M. C. A. MOST REMARKABLE

In North America During Last Year 31,700 Members Were Added.

A gain of 31,700 in the membership of men and boys in the Young Men's Christian Association in all parts of North America has been recorded this year over that of last year. These and other figures indicate a steady growth in the Association's enrollment and influence. In some quarters it is occasionally charged that the Young Men's Christian Association has discontinued religious work. Figures show, however, that almost 17,000 men are serving on religious committees while in the Bible classes 114,200 men are enrolled, an increase of 11,000 as compared with last year. The number of men who attend religious services held in the Association's building runs into the millions.

There are now 1,831 Associations with almost 600,000 men and boys on their rolls. Besides these there are many college and county Associations not reporting. No fewer than 81,500 men are serving on Association committees, another gain of more than 4,000. There are 86,000 railroad men belonging to Associations, 59,000 college students and 98,000 men engaged in industrial occupations. The educational classes added nearly 6,000 students to their numbers last year and now have 73,000.

There are 360,000 men in athletic training and there are nearly 10,000 in a corps called volunteer leaders. Something like 90,000 men are in athletic clubs and teams and in summer camps. There go to Association buildings of all kinds every day an average of 246,500 or almost 90,000,000 men a year. Jobs were obtained last year for 54,000 men

That railroad men appreciate Association work is shown by the fact that last year Association rest rooms were used 2,850,000 times and almost 6,500,000 meals were served to railroad men. The army and navy departments situated at important points, received from enlisted men for safekeeping $707,250.

The net Association property gain last year was $8,207,000, and it makes a grand total of $81,367,000 besides there is said to be $6,507,000 pledged but not yet paid in. The endowment funds now amount to $10,000,000, not including the large sum likely to come from the Butterfield estate for the army and navy branch.

The amount paid to maintain all Association work was the largest in the history of the organization. It was $11,942,000. Great pressure is brought to bear upon the army and navy department to obtain a larger number of secretaries on battleships and at army posts. These are desired where the Government does not provide regular chaplains. Secretary Daniels has joined in the plan.

The Butterfield residuary estate may reach $20,000,000, and will make possible a great enlargement of the work. This sum is to go through the hands of the Woman's Auxiliary, of which Mrs. Finley J Shepard is the head. The Association now furnishes one secretary in the Atlantic squadron and one in the Pacific squadron. To supply secretaries for all battleships would require twenty-five men at least. Still more would be required if needy posts in the west were supplied with secretaries.

They will also act as guards for Japanese residents of Nanking

SENATE WILL SOON GET THE CURRENCY BILL

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Washington Sept. 10.—A conference was held at the White House today between President Wilson and the steering committee of the Senate over the program for currency legislation. When the Senators came out of the meeting they unanimously reported that currency legislation would be pushed. Senator Kern said that there would be no recess while Senator Owen was of the opinion that the measure should be ready for the Senate's consideration within about two weeks.

BANKERS CONSPIRING TO DEFEAT CURRENCY BILL?

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Washington, Sept. 10.—Denouncing the bankers who have criticized the Glass currency reform bill as a scheme to institute political control of the banking business of the country, Chairman Carter Glass, of the House Banking and Currency Committee, opened the general debate on that measure in the House today. He asserted that these bankers are trying to coerce Congress into yielding to certain big banks with extensive Stock Exchange connections. Mr. Glass indicated that Federal reserve banks would probably be located at New York, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Washington, New Orleans and in the State of Pennsylvania.

MISS ELLA A. COOPER NOW MRS. C. P. COLLYER

Somerville, Sept. 10.—A quiet wedding took place at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when Miss Ella Arminta Cooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Cooper, of North Bridge-street, became the bride of Charles Potts Collyer, of Elizabeth, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Dr. Edward G. Read, of Plainfield, formerly pastor of the Second Reformed church of this place.

The bride was gowned in a blue boucle cloth traveling costume, with a Parisian plumed hat, and wore a corsage bouquet of bridal roses. The maid of honor, Miss Bertha M. Cooper, sister of the bride, was attired in a dark blue tailored suit and hat, and wore pink Killarney roses.

Charles S. Lewis, of Elizabeth, was best man. After the wedding supper the bridal couple left for an extended trip to Bermuda, and on their return will reside in their newly furnished home in Elizabeth. Many costly presents were received by the bride.

The bride entered the parlor escorted by her father to the strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin," played by Mrs. George H. Cooper. The house was tastefully decorated with palms, Boston ferns and cut flowers.

TARIFF PASSES IN SENATE, 44 TO 37

La Follette and Poindexter Join With Democrats.

NOW GOES TO CONFERENCE

President Wilson Issues Statement Expressing Gratification at Result. Big Crowd In Galleries as Final Vote Is Taken.

Washington, Sept. 10.—Carrying all the features for which President Wilson has contended, free wool, free sugar, free meats and greatly reduced duties on all of the necessaries of life, the Underwood-Simmons tariff bill passed the senate by a vote of 44 to 37. The result was a great personal victory for the president, and he was showered with messages of congratulation.

The bill now goes to conference between the two houses, and ten days, it is expected, will see final action on this important measure, which has dragged itself along for five months.

The vote in the senate was big with political possibilities. Two Republicans, La Follette of Wisconsin and Poindexter of Washington, voted for the Democratic bill. Only two Democrats, Thornton and Ransdell of Louisiana, failed to stand by the caucus pledge. They voted with most of the Republicans against the measure.

La Follette's Stand Puzzles.

Nobody was certain what La Follette's plans are. Some Republicans believed his action today meant that he is preparing to lead an independent fight of his own, while others were confident that he was getting ready to jump into the Democratic field. His isolation was still further emphasized by an obvious break between him and Senator Cummins, one of the Republican progressives.

The Democratic leaders obtained a larger majority for the bill than they had expected. This was due not only to the votes of La Follette and Poindexter, but to the absence of three Republicans, two of whom, Senator Burton of Ohio and Senator Grenna of North Dakota, released their Democratic pairs on the final vote in order that they might have the satisfaction of recording themselves in favor of the party measure.

The vote came at 5:40 o'clock yesterday afternoon after the senate had been in continuous session since 9 in the morning. Many of the senators had had only a few winks of sleep in the last forty-eight hours, and it was with a sigh of relief that most of them received the announcement that all amendments had been disposed of and that a vote would finally be had on the bill.

Animated Scene on Floor.

The scene on the floor of the senate was animated. Probably a hundred representatives from the house came over and remained throughout the final voting. The scene resembled an inauguration or the closing hours of a session of congress. The senators' reserved galleries were filled. Mrs. Marshall, wife of the vice president, had invited a party of friends to join her in the vice president's row among them Mrs. McLean, wife of Senator McLean of Connecticut; Mrs. Pomerene, wife of Senator Pomerene of Ohio, and others from the official circle.

Secretary Tumulty, accompanied by a few friends, sat in the president's row, but he was the only White House representative who witnessed the vote. A rumor was afloat in the afternoon that President Wilson was coming to occupy the executive gallery but he did not appear. Mrs. La Follette, wife of the senator from Wisconsin, who was a conspicuous figure in the proceedings, sat with a party of friends in the front row of the senators' reserved gallery.

President Issues Statement.

President Wilson, as soon as he heard of the passage of the tariff bill by the senate, issued this statement:

"A fight for the people and for free business which has lasted a long generation through has at last been won, handsomely and completely. A leadership and a steadfastness in counsel has been shown in both houses of which the Democratic party has reason to be very proud. There has been no weakness or confusion or drawing back, but a statesmanlike directness and command of circumstances.

"I am happy to have been connected with the government of the nation at a time when such things could happen and to have worked in association with men who could do them. There is every reason to believe that currency reform will be carried through with equal energy, directness and loyalty to the general interest.

"When that is done this first session session of the Sixty-third congress will have passed into history with an unrivaled distinction. I want to express my special admiration for the devoted intelligent and untiring work of Mr. Underwood and Mr. Simmons and the committees associated with them."

When the president was asked to comment on the votes of Senator La Follette and Senator Poindexter he expressed very warm admiration for their conscientious independence and courage.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, SEPTEMBER 10.

DO IT FOR PLAINFIELD!

All the duties that a man owes have been embraced in three classifications—to his family; to his COUNTRY and to his God. As to the second group, it is as a general term, the MUNICIPALITY as well as the state and nation being included.

Have you ever seriously pondered over what you OWE your own city—for it is YOUR own. It BELONGS to YOU and YOU BELONG to it. It therefore follows that it CARES for you and hence YOU SHOULD CARE for it.

So, what you do, DO IT FOR PLAINFIELD. Ever have in mind the welfare of your city. But don't stop there. GET INTO ACTION. Do something. Do it today. Do it tomorrow. Do it every day.

Help Plainfield to be GREAT and play your part IN MAKING it great. Herald abroad the glad tidings that PLAINFIELD IS GREAT. You do not have to exaggerate. You know, everybody here knows, that it is THE GREATEST CITY—size being considered—in these whole United States. You know this because when you have abided for a time elsewhere you have LEARNED to love Plainfield and to pine to get back to Plainfield and to ENJOY its attractions and advantages. While beyond its borders, you have PREACHED its greatness, haven't you? You have always said a good word for it. You HAVE DONE IT for Plainfield.

Now that is exactly what is proposed for you to do RIGHT HERE at home. We want you to BOOST Plainfield and our plan is a simple one. At the same time it is a MOST EFFECTIVE one.

The Plainfield Daily Press has engaged AN EXPERT on municipal publicity to help you do it for Plainfield. Under this paper's direction he is collecting material for the GREATEST ADVERTISEMENT Plainfield has ever had. All this carefully selected matter, featuring EVERY PHASE of Plainfield activity and industry, commercial, social, educational religious and civic, will be featured in a MAGNIFICENT INDUSTRIAL EDITION.

The Plainfield Daily Press STAKES ITS REPUTATION on this forthcoming special edition and its specially engaged municipal advertising expert, Mr. Albert E. Walker, heads YOUR procession as it were in heralding Plainfield's greatness.

The industrial edition is intended for outside circulation. Its purpose is TO REACH THE PEOPLE ELSEWHERE, in this and other States, and to attract them to Plainfield.

It will show them what we Plainfielders are and what we ARE DOING and what we propose TO DO. It won't deal with the past—that is dead and gone. The PRESENT AND FUTURE are what concern us as Plainfielders and they equally concern our superb municipality. In brief, this Industrial Edition is going to be PRACTICAL.

YOU will want to figure in it and YOU SHOULD figure in it, if for no other reason than you should DO IT FOR PLAINFIELD.

The Industrial Edition will make its appearance some time in October. Before then, the ADVERTISING MISSIONARY for Plainfield, Mr. Albert E. Walker, will call upon you to learn whether you are going to

DO IT FOR PLAINFIELD!

While we do not look with favor upon the candidacy of former Governor Edward Casper Stokes to obtain the Republican gubernatorial nomination, we feel that he is the victim of a most cowardly attack and should lose no time in having run down and prosecuted the authors of an anonymous pamphlet entitled "$60,000 School Fund Graft Paid to Howard Stokes, a Brother of Edward C. Stokes, beginning with 1905, the First Year that Edward C. Stokes was Governor." The American people love fair play and they have but scorn and hatred for the loathsome creature who strikes in the dark.

Frank S. Katzenbach, a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, will address the voters of North Plainfield tomorrw. Everett Colby, an aspirant for the Progressive nomination, will speak in Plainfield on Monday night. Charles N. Fowler, who seeks the place on the Republican ticket, will also be heard here before primaries day. The local voters should make it a matter of duty to listen to what each of them has to say; give them all a hearing.

Jack Johnson and Harry Thaw fled to British domains, but now Pankhurst threatens to find an asylum here. Is this what could be called a fair exchange?

The "antis" claim approximately 600 recruits here and yet it is said that this is the storm-centre of Equal Suffrage.

Y. M. C. A. RESUMES WORK.

After being shut down for ten days, during which the building has been treated to a thorough renovation, the Y. M. C. A. has been reopened for the fall and winter term and the association rooms will be open to members from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m. daily. Herbert E. Parker, general secretary; C. William Bingeman, boys' work director, and E. C. Ostlin physical director, have all returned from their vacations and are preparing schedules of work for their respective departments.

"This purposely deferred visit of myself and younger son, J. C. Thaw, as well as the second visit of my daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Carnegie are purely family matters, prompted by affectionate interest in the son and bother, H. K. Thaw.

"It is not the intention of any of us to interfere in the slightest degree with H. K. Thaw or his counsel in the management of his case. It has been demonstrated already that he is abundantly able to manage his own affairs."

INJUNCTION IS ISSUED AGAINST PLAINFIELDER

Trenton, Sept. 10.—Acting Chancellor Backes, at the conclusion of today's hearing in the case, allowed an injunction restraining The Hudson Porcelain Company, of this city, from selling its product to Richard W. Osland, of Plainfield, president of the company. The restraniing order was granted on the ground that in disposing of the product to Osland he was selling to himself to the detriment of the company's interests.

The court announced that the temporary injunction was allowed pending the final determination of the suit brought by William Burgess, of Trenton, for the appointment of a receiver for the company.

FRELINGHUYSEN FAVORS PIERCE CANDIDACY

Somerville, Sept. 10—Former Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of Somerset county, in a strong letter today, urged the nomination of Senator Carlton B. Pierce for Governor by the Republicans at the coming primaries. Mr. Frelinghuysen was chairman of the recent school investigating committee, which brought to light some startling disclosures regarding the use of State school moneys. He is now a member of the State Board of Education. His letter follows:

"In reference to your letter announcing your intention to run at the primaries as a Republican candidate for Governor, I desire personally to extend to you my best wishes for your success.

"Your statement of principles appeals to me strongly, particularly with regard to equal taxation and grade crossings. In my opinion, property holders are being taxed on an unequal basis, and the lack of equalization is creating a great deal of dissatisfaction. No right-minded citizen objects to a fair levy on his property if others pay the same; but if he has to pay a greater proportion than his neighbor, he naturally objects. That you have a definite plan to stop discrimination, is one of the attractive pledges that you make.

"Your determined stand for the elimination of grade crossings and the protection of human life and your long fight for adequate means of providing this protection, should appeal to every citizen in the State. These menaces to human life, of which there are so many in the State and which during the past half century have caused so many deaths, should be abolished and the fact that this abolition is so strenuously resisted by the railroads makes it the plain duty of all public-spirited citizens to uphold a leader who is fair enough to take the stand that danger to the travelling public be reduced to a minimum.

"Your great assistance in securing legislation for more prompt distribution of the school money than heretofore, and your study of school legislation and endeavors to promote the cause of education, warrant me in believing that—were you Governor, you would interest yourself to a great extent, in that important branch of our government.

"Having watched your splendid career in the Senate, I feel that you are eminently qualified to be Chief Excutive of the State and that, as such, you would use every effort to improve the business conditions in all its branches. Your election, therefore, in my opinion, would undoubtedly promote the interests of the entire State."

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

A meeting of the Fourth Ward Republican Club has been called for tomorrow night and the session will be held in the Frost building on Park avenue.

A conference of Democrats was held last night in the Elks' clubhouse, in Elizabeth, in the interest of the candidacy of Major-General Dennis F. Collins, who is anxious to be elected a member of the State committee. The conference was called by the general and plans for an active campaign in his behalf were discussed.

Republicans in Elizabeth will map out plans for their campaign at a meeting of the Elizabeth Republican Club to be held tomorrow night in headquarters, in the Woodruff building. Contrary to the reports circulated, the Republicans have candidates for nominations for all ward and city offices. The club is optimismistic this year and predicts it will gain in its representation in the Common Council.

THE FORUM.

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

I refer to the article of the president of the Plainfield Board of Trade—kindly pardon the omission of his name as I am sure he personally, will, too, because I imagine such self conceived importance as he attaches to same should not be used in vain, except by himself; and every one of us knows that he alone loves the public so well he cannot say one single word about anything, but what his name or the big "I" is forced upon us. As to the letter appearing in the Plainfield Daily Press on September 6, permit me to state that the insinuations made therein regarding the part I have taken as chairman of the fire and building committee of the Common Council are malicious and absolutely without any truthful foundation.

The following are the facts as every intelligent person knows: The laws compel the Common Council to advertise for bids on whatever the city may need. Each article needed is specified in detail when bids are advertised for. Specifications for the fire apparatus wanted by the city were advertised according to law. The Saurer works, a Plainfield industry, were the lowest bidders and in their bid agreed to live up to the specifications, as advertised. Under the law the Council is compelled, and properly so, to give the order to the lowest bidder and if the Council fails to do so, as every intelligent person also knows, the city will be subjected to lawsuits and, doubtless, to loss and the members of the Council can be impeached.

After placing the order under these conditions, it is up to the bidder to make good or take his medicine.

It is not up to the Council to condemn any one, or anything before hand, even though the president of the Board of Trade says we should.

The American people know when their representatives in public office do right or wrong. It has been clearly proven in the re-opening this fall of the "Diamond Hill School" in Berkeley Heights.

This same President of the Board of Trade only very recently and then in the capacity of a resident of Plainfield, in his characteristically arrogant manner told the people it would never be re-opened again. It is open, however, because the people wanted it so.

I could not understand how Berkeley Heights could get along without him, after he had resided in their midst for four or five years, but upon inquiry from prominent residents and taxpayers there, I was told that all he ever did for that community was:

First—To exceed, in his capacity as president of the School Board, by a considerable margin, the appropriations made upon plans and specifications approved by the Board; and after doing so left the community an unfinished school building and which to this day has not been completed.

Second—Closing the Diamond Hill School to the great inconvenience of the pupils and which school has since been reopened by the people themselves.

Third—That during his entire stay there he did not do a single thing for the good of the community.

I, personally, do not desire such a record.

In conclusion I desire to assure the people of Plainfield (I do not believe assurances are wanted) that the Common Council during my term has served its constituents with considerable ability, much energy and absolute honesty; and the purchasings of a fire apparatus, at this time will be no exception to the prevailing standard of conduct, any talk to the contrary by the president of the Board of Trade notwithstanding.

We shall not exceed the sum appropriated for this purpose, any more than we shall permit our constituents to be imposed upon by accepting an apparatus which may fall to meet the requirements of the specifications, as advertised.

Respectfully yours,
FRED ENDRESS.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

FRANCES MARSHALL

Start the Social Ball Rolling.

This is the time to lay the foundations for your next winter's social life—to start the social ball rolling. Society is a co-operate institution, every member of which must do his part to make it a success. Some women sit quietly at home, and complain that society neglects them. And in nine cases out of ten it is because they do not do their part.

If you would be a part of any social life, you must be willing to help to make that social life pleasanter, willing to take your share of responsibility. So when you are thinking of the festivities of the coming winter, think of the part you must take to initiate them and to keep them up.

Clubs.

Clubs of some sort are an effective means of awakening social spirit in even a sleepy community. So if you would stimulate the social spirit, talk over the formation of some club with your friends. You can plan and organize a card club, if you wish. Think of the means of three or four friends who are congenial and like to play cards, and then ask them to co-operate with you in forming the club. Decide together who else to ask to become members of the club, and formulate a plan for the club's meetings. It is easier to form a club with peace and harmony if a set of tentative rules are in your mind to begin with than if you wait for all of the members to give suggestions and advice.

A small card club is usually more congenial and easier to manage than a large one. If it is very small it can be a lunch club as well, and meet once every two weeks at a member's house for a simple lunch before the game of cards.

Sewing clubs are interesting. Your object can be philanthropic or it can be selfish. You can call yourself a Christmas club and meet every week for an afternoon, informally, to make Christmas gifts. If the meetings prove a success, you can continue them after Christmas, of course. If you are all interested in some special philanthropy, you can sew for that. The result of the friendly meetings will be the same, in both cases.

A club of this sort is an inexpensive way of furthering sociability. The refreshments, when the club meets at your house, are the only expense, unless you play cards for prizes. Even so, if twenty-five cents a meeting is collected from each member for a prize, the club is far cheaper and unusually more enjoyable than a bi-weekly trip to the theatre.

An Autumn Tea.

An autumn tea is a good way to begin your winter's social activities. Often the members of a community need jogging. The effect on their social natures of a card announcing an at home is magical. They at once search about in their brains to plan some corresponding festivity. And quite likely within a month after you take the initiative, and give a tea, all your neighbors and friends will be talking about luncheons and teas and card parties and other events that make up the social life of many a community.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

THE WOMAN'S VOTE AND THE IGNORANT VOTE.

A wise man once said, "The trouble with too many persons is that they fail to distinguished between things that differ." This is exactly what the Antis fail to do when they cry "Wolf," because of what they call "the ignorant vote" that would be added to the electorate in case the vote were given to women.

Mrs. George Duffield Goodwin says she knows that giving the vote to women will add to the ignorant electorate because she has worked among foreign women and knows that they are ignorant.

Jane Addams and Jacob Riis have worked longer among many more foreign women and have reached exactly the opposite conclusion as to whether or no they should be allowed to vote. Is it not probable that upon Mrs. Goodwin's own shoulders is at least a part of this burden of ignorance inasmuch as her knowledge of the foreign woman is limited compared to that of either Miss Addams or Mr. Riis, and hence her conclusions lack the value of theirs? "A little knowledge is a dangerous thing."

Then Mrs. Goodwin proceeds to say, "If equal franchise were a question of allowing intelligent women to vote, I would say let men and women both have the ballot."

Right here is where Mrs. Goodwin fails to distinguish between things that differ.

She thinks that she is opposed to woman suffrage when as a matter of fact what she is opposed to, by her own admission, is ignorant suffrage, and these two things she imagines to be one and the same. Nothing could be further from the truth; nothing could be more misleading than this. Ignorant suffrage is something that every right-minded person is opposed to, and it is by no means synonymous with woman suffrage. Neither sex has a monopoly of ignorance and the vote of neither men nor women can be relegated to the "ignorant electorate."

Mrs. Humphrey Ward is afflicted with this same "blind spot" when she opposes the extension of suffrage to English women because of the ignorance of those of the lower classes. The men of these classes she says in all seriousness, have the knowledge that they acquire from mingling with their fellows at the Public House! Now "Public House" is John Bull's idiom for saloon—a splendid training men get there for citizenship! How logical and just to deny political rights to their wives because they do not get this training!

It seems to be useless to remind the Antis, before whose minds this ignorant vote looms so black, that girls in our country go to school longer than boys and so get more of the free education offered them; that it is the mothers of these boys and girls—especially of many of the foreign boys and girls who insist upon the children's remaining in school often when the father is indifferent or opposed to their doing so. It is useless to remind the Antis that we have far fewer foreign women of the type that they fear than foreign men. They are equally numb to the fact that in States where suffrage has been granted women, the first concern of those more fortunately circumstanced has been to provide training in the use and the value of the ballot for those women (not all foreigners by any means) who most need it. How many boys as they approach full legal age have had any such definite and helpful instruction in citizenship as the newly enfranchised women in Kansas and Illinois? Yet the Antis continue their cry about this "ignorant vote."

"I feel that I am competent to vote, and I would be willing to do so. But I prefer to forego my own vote rather than have my washerwoman a voter."

This is a familiar slogan of certain dames of blue blood, and what is more, they utter the sentiment with actually a feeling that they are self sacrificing. As a matter of fact they are simply self conceited. What would one think of an educated, cultivated man who announced that he would choose to abdicate his own right to citizenship in order to prevent his coachman from having the same right? Why, we would catalogue him as a snob and a mighty poor type of American.

Ida Tarbell takes the measure of such women correctly when she writes of "Woman and Democracy." She says:

"The one notion that democracy has succeeded in planting firmly in the mind of the average American citizen is his right and duty to rise in the world. Tested by this conception the American woman is the ideal democrat.

* * * * * *

"The weakness of this popular conception of the democratic scheme is that it gives too much attention to what a man gets and too little to what he gives. Democracy more than any other scheme under which men have tried to live together depends on what each returns—returns not in material but in spiritual things. Democracy is not a shelter, a garment, a cash account; it is a spirit. The real test of its followers must be sought in their attitude of mind toward life, labor, and their fellows.

* * * * * *

"If we are to measure the woman's understanding of the system under which she lives by what she has done with her own particular labor problems, we must set her down as a poor enough democrat."

That exactly describes the Anti—she is no democrat at all. Her belief is in a limited franchise for the chosen few. (She herself is always eligible to the inner circle.) But she has no faith in what the broadest-minded, greatest hearted American that ever lived described as "a government of the people, by the people, for the people." And because Lincoln's wisdom was so closely blended with his wit one cannot help fancying his enjoyment of this bit of conversation that actually passed between Miss Julia Lathrop and some man who questioned the desirability of equal suffrage. We recommend the story to the blue blooded dame who is "a poor enough democrat."

"Miss Lathrop," said the man, who was opposed, "I realize that you would use the ballot wisely. But what about your cook? Is she competent to vote?"

And Miss Lathrop replied:

"Well, I do not know about that—but he does vote."

Some Cookery Suggestions

DAINTY PARFAITS.

THESE iced dainties are frozen without trouble. Parfaits and mousses belong to the same class. They both are made with stiffly whipped cream. The mousses, however, are generally combined with gelatin. A sirup made by boiling sugar and water is the basis of parfaits. They are frozen without stirring, and when placed in individual molds to freeze the ices are known as biscuits.

Stiff and Cool.

Orange Parfait.—Take a heaping teaspoonful of powdered gelatin and dissolve in one-half cupful of boiling water, add one cupful sugar and one pint of cream whipped stiff and stir until it begins to thicken, then add one glassful of orange marmalade and one teaspoonful orange flower water. Pack in ice and stand for about three hours.

Fig Parfait.—Take enough cooked figs to fill a cup. Select nice, juicy ones. Press them through a sieve and add to them half a cupful of sugar and four tablespoonfuls of sirup. Squeeze the juice from half a lemon and add it to the figs. Then fold in two cupfuls of firmly beaten cream. Fill a mold with this and freeze.

With Maple Sirup.

Maple Parfait.—Take the yolks of six eggs and half a pint of maple sirup cooked to a jelly. Set aside to cool. Whip one pint of cream and beat in the jelly, which has been strained. Freeze in two-thirds ice and one-third salt.

Silver Parfait.—Take a cupful of sugar and boil in a cupful of water until it threads; pour it on the whites of three well beaten eggs and beat well. When cool add one pint of whipped cream. Flavor with two teaspoonfuls of any kind of extract. Pack in ice and salt and let stand until firm.

Use For Grape Juice.

Grape Juice Parfait.—Beat one cupful of cream, one-half cupful of grape juice and the juice of a lemon until thick in the bottom of bowl. Cook one cupful of sugar in a half cupful of water to a thread, then pour on the whites of two eggs beaten until foamy. Beat until cold and light, then fold the cream mixture into the meringue. Turn into a mold and let stand an hour or more in ice and salt.

The Cat Jumped to the Manger.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Dog In The Manger In Trouble.

JACK had been naughty, and when he and Evelyn came upstairs to go to bed daddy, who knew of their little trouble, smiled and said he would tell them the story of the dog in the manger.

"He lived in the stable, did this old dog, and he wasn't a very likable chap. You see, he was mean and jealous. He never could bear to hear any one else praised or see them have anything more than he had," daddy said.

"One day Mrs. Bossy became the mother of a handsome little calf, and every one in the stable admired little Calfie to the great delight of the proud mother.

"Only the dog didn't praise the calf. He said it was a queer looking creature, with its big eyes and long weak legs.

"Mrs. Bossy did not say much, but all the animals could see that her feelings were hurt. When Mrs. Puss, who had been in the cellar hunting a rat, came upstairs and heard about it she was very indignant. Pussy was very fond of the cow, from whom she had a nice bowl of milk morning and evening.

"Poor Mrs. Bossy was so put out by the dog's rude remarks that she was not so well when the stableman came in to feed the animals. So the stableman mixed up for her some special nice hot feed of which she was very fond, and he put it into the manger for her to eat.

"The dog waited until the stableman was gone and then jumped up on the manger and sat down on top of it. When Mrs. Bossy reached out to take a bite of food he snapped at her so that she was afraid to eat.

"Now, Mrs. Puss happened to be around this time, and when she saw the cross old dog teasing Mrs. Bossy she said to the other animals, 'Now, let's teach him a lesson.'

"So up jumped Mrs. Puss on the manger, snarling and growling in the dog's face. He was so startled that he jumped over into the next manger that belonged to the horse, and old Dobbin gave a toss of his head that sent the dog over into the stall where the donkey was tied, and the donkey with a bray of anger raised his heels and sent the dog flying over to the side of the stable where the goat was browsing, and the goat lowered his head and butted the dog out of the doors where some pigeons were hovering about, and the pigeons flew down and flapped their wings sharply in his eyes and pecked his fat sides.

"And when the stableman, who was coming in, saw this he said, 'There: that dog's been in mischief!' and he picked up a stick and chased him out of the stable. And after that he wouldn't allow the dog to live in the stable with the other animals, so there was peace there at last."

Graceful Draperies Meant For the Slender Silhouette.

There is no mistaking the new gowns for fall and winter of 1913 with the changed outline they give to the figure, and the novel designs of fabrics which fashion commends. The willowy pose effected becomes inviting with the right kind of costume. The general character of the styles suggests to many women the wisdom of making their own dresses, and having more of them; for it is numbers which count in the well equipped wardrobe just now. The home sewer often has at hand short lengths of materials, and some treasured brocade or Roman sash, like the silk in the gown sketch at the left, which may be utilized in her own sewing room, if there is a pattern to suggest the suitable idea.

Roman stripes are revived in all-over silk and in ribbons, to be used as shown with dark navy blue serge (7927). This drop shoulder blouse is fastened in the back, and has the open neck piped with silk and trimmed with small buttons and a lace frill. Notice the full length sleeve which ruffles over the hand. The draper skirt has a panel back and insets of the Roman silk which also forms the wide sash. 4¾ yards of 54-inch material was used for this model.

The bolero jacket effects and the overskirt drapery made on a foundation underskirt are new points in an ultra modish dress designed for one of the New York smart set. The material is dull rose crêpe de chine with a futurist fruit motif, combined with black velvet. It can be duplicated from pattern 7935, which like the one above may be had in five sizes. 15 cents each.

A Pillow You Can Make In An Afternoon—Rambler Rose Embroidery and Ribbon Work.

Such an attractive pillow and yet so easy to make. The rambler rose embroidery may be done on moire silk, of mercerized cotton poplin or pongee, with rope silks or very heavy number 5 mercerized cotton. The ribbon design may be done running simply with a narrow taffeta or soft satin ribbon, sewed in place with stitches from the under side or, if you wish to spend time it can be embroidered in unpadded solid work. The basket may be worked in darning stitchings and rope stitch, while the leaves should be done in lazy-daisy stitch or unpadded solid embroidery. Explicit diagrams and directions for making the rambler roses are given on the pattern envelope so that you need not hesitate to try this style of work if you have never done it before. Brown, old blue, dull green, grey or natural colored material may be used for the pillow. The roses may be worked in three shades of yellow, pink, copper color or brown, the leaves in two shades of brown or green; the basket in brown and the ribbon may be the color of the roses, old gold old blue or a darker shade of the color of the material.

Transfer pattern No. 14612 for stamping this design can be supplied to readers for fifteen cents each.

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 4.

ON a window card advertising a certain make of fountain pen I saw this the other day: "Get a Blank Fountain Pen. Every Pen is Insured. If Yours Should Be Run Over and Broken, We'll Give You a New One.

Fine! All you have to do to be sure of getting a good bargain is to put one of Blank's pens in an upper vest pocket, wait for a nice, heavy wagon to come along, lie down and get run over. Then you'll get a new pen free.

This sounds silly, but it's true. That sign is a real one. It is but one instance of what is commonly looked upon as "advertising." If I had a wee fraction of the money that is spent in this glorious, hustling country of ours on this kind of "advertising," I'd be building skyscrapers as a pastime and rolling duckpins with globules of radium instead of the conventional wooden balls.

Let's swing the pendulum the other way for a minute: in the "For Sale" column on the Classified pages of an Eastern newspaper I saw recently a little five-line advertisement. This is what it said: "Mantel Mirrors, with heavy French plateglass, beveled; beautiful design of burnished and old gold frame; 49 inches wide, 43 high; good value at $25; sale price $17.50. Frizzell's Art Rooms, Park avenue, at Saratoga.

No free offer of a new mirror if the one you buy should happen to wander out and get run over. No foolishness. No bait. Just a plain, honest statement of what you get for your money and where you can get it.

Advertising isn't buncombe. It isn't a big burrah. It isn't magic. It isn't horseplay. It IS common sense. And if you write a common-sense ad. and put it in the Classified columns of this newspaper, you'll profit. TRY IT!

MANAGER TORPEY EXONERATED; TRUE FACTS ARE MADE KNOWN

Reasons for the cancellation of the Somerville-Plainfield title clash last Saturday afternoon continue to present themselves and the situation is still shrouded in mystery. No one person will take the responsibility for the action that deprived the fans of a contest over the week-end and each of the managers shifts the blame on someone else. As stated in yesterday's issue of this paper, Manager Ernest Dorflinger, of the Plainfield crew, said that Manager Jack Torpey, of Somerville, was responsible for the action and that the Pet management had nothing to do in calling the affair off. It has since developed, however, that Torpey was an innocent party in the whole thing and he is indignant over the importune cancellation, the Somerville fans and players being equally as wrought up as those in this vicinity.

During the course of an interview last night, Manager Torpey stated that Dorflinger called the game off at the last moment and Somerville was ready to play until they received the notice from Plainfield. Torpey even went so far as to notify a star pitcher he had secured from New York that everything was O. K. at 12:30 o'clock.

In explaining the situation to Torpey last night over the telephone, President Steele, of the Plainfield Baseball Club, said that the organization which he represented was at present probing the strange circumstances surrounding the case and that the management intended to get to the bottom of the whole thing as soon as possible. He explained the mix-up by saying that Eddie Stallings, one of the Plainfield players, had called up someone in Somerville at noon Saturday and was informed that it was raining at the latter place and that no game could be played. He accordingly notified his brother "Bill" and Joe Harter and called up Manager Dorflinger's home, leaving word with the latter's wife to the effect that there was no game and that he had told Harter and his brother so. When Dorflinger arrived home at noon he received the message and having no means of communicating with Stallings thought that something had come up to prevent the game and notified Steele. Notice was posted about town of the postponement or cancellation and this was all the satisfaction local fans got. Steele went immediately to the railroad station and notified all the local fans who had not at that time left for the Somerset county seat that the game was off, thus saving a number of needless trips.

All concerned in the affair are indignant over the apparent unsportsmanlike spirit of some Somervillian and if discovered the offender will be severely censured for his action. It is the concensus of opinion locally that some rabid fan evidently figured on getting rid of the Stallings brothers and Harter by pulling the rain gag, as the absence of this trio would materially weaken the Plainfield outfit.

No blame for the occurrence can be shifted to Jack Torpey's shoulders, however, as he was an innocent party in the whole affair. Torpey's management has never been blemished by the slightest trace of poor sportsmanship and he has become popular through his fair treatment of the fans and players while connected with baseball.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—How many boxes will there be in the local and borough polls this fall. Is a man required to register personally in this city and in North Plainfield? T. O. L.

Answer—There will be four boxes in the local polls—Progressive, Socialist, Democratic and Republican. In the borough there will be three, the Socialist party not having polled five per cent. of the votes for the Assembly ticket in Somerset county. In cities, towns, townships, boroughs, and villages exceeding five thousand inhabitants, no person shall be allowed to vote at any general election unless he shall have first registered personally or by affidavit as required by the act to regulate elections.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What is the fare to Somerville by train. Is it true that the local baseball management has offered to refund the expenses incurred by fans when the Somerville-Plainfield game was called off last Saturday? S. P.

Answer—Fifty-five cents is the return fare. Dorflinger is still in the best of health and we have noticed no mental failings since Saturday. However, you might try to collect and we anxiously await results.

LOCAL SHORTSTOP WHO IS PLAYING SPEEDY BASEBALL

After occupying sixth place in the batting order for the last two weeks Jack Martin, the local boy who is playing short for Rochester, was pulled up into third place yesterday and celebrated the occasion by pounding out one of the hits that brought a 6 to 4 victory to the International League runners-up. Rochester is not hopelessly out of the race for first honors in the league yet, and should Newark continue in its slump while Rochester is winning consistently, the New Yorkers will probably be declared the winners of the flag when the season closes on September 20.

But few more games remain to be played, however, and little short of a miracle will deprive the Newarkers of a pennant. Jack Martin will bring a crew of his league teammates here on September 27 to lineup against the Plainfield Pets and it is likely that he will appear in a local uniform after the Rochester team's barnstorming trip is ended. Martin has been hitting and fielding in sensational style ever since he was released by the Yankees last spring and it would not be a great surprise to many to see him recalled to the big league at the opening of the 1914 season.

LOCAL SHORTSTOP ON TRIAL WITH THE LEAGUE CHAMPIONS

Fay Washburn, who played shortstop for the Plainfield baseball club here two weeks ago and who has appeared in a Pet uniform on several other occasions, is this week trying out with the Lowell club, champions of the New England League. Washburn left last Saturday night to join the league outfit.

This is not Washburn's first trial in fast company, he having received a tryout with the Newark club, of the International League two years ago, but an injury to his knee practically settled his chances of sticking with the Newark nine. While here he showed up well with the stick and is one of the best infielders in this vicinity. He will tryout for either third base or shortstop with the Lowell club.

GIANTS FILE APPEAL.

Thomas J. Lynch president of the National League, has been requested by Charles H. Ebbets of the Brooklyn Baseball Club and chairman of the board of directors of the National League, to call a meeting of the National directors at Cincinnati on September 16, to pass upon the appeal of the New York Club against his decision in awarding the forfeited New York-Philadelphia game of August 30 to Philadelphia.

MOVEMENT ON FOOT TO ORGANIZE PUBLIC SCHOOL ATHLETIC LEAGUE

A movement has been launched in this city during the past week to organize a Public School Athletic League similar to the one which has been tried and proved to be a huge success in other communities having one or more public schools. Those in back of the idea plan to organize a league on the same basis as the one now in use in Newark, N. J., and in Greater New York. In the latter places athletics of every nature, including baseball, football, basketball soccer, ice hockey and track athletics, but it seems likely that local competition will be confined to baseball, basketball and track athletics as the other forms have not sufficiently developed here to warrant the drawing up of schedules.

Rivalry is keen between all factions of public school junior athletes in this city and the primary and grammar departments are close enough together here to make a league profitable. While extensive and careful organization is required in a movement of this kind, those interested in it at the present time are well qualified to handle the preliminary arrangements and the affair will be launched on a substantial basis, probably by the time the basketball season opens.

During the summer months, the public school athletes engaged in competition of every description in the playgrounds and while no inter-school competition was conducted a sense of rivalry was unearthed that will be of great assistance in setting the league movement underway. Not only were the athletic games played in the playgrounds but the recreation directors took pains to teach the youngsters the fine points of the different branches of sport endeavor and as a result the younger generation of athletes here have a thorough knowledge of almost every line of sport. Those interested in the formation of the league contend that what has been tried and proven successful in Newark will be just as successful here and they expect that the response will be spontaneous.

A league of this kind does not involve the expenditure of large sums of money and a little time given by those who desire to see the plan adopted will shortly make it a reality. At various times during the year different schools have organized baseball and basketball teams and interscholastic games have been played under the supervision of youngsters who have met with more or less success at various times in the capacity of managers. If these some teams were banded together and a competent director placed in charge competition would be furthered and a more definite schedule could be drawn up.

Br-r-r-r—Real football weather ordered for early season drill.

Captain Bill Peacock, of the Plainfield High School eleven, established somewhat of a precedent yesterday afternoon, by calling the first gridiron drill on the opening day of school. This, together with the fact that school reconvened unusually early this fall, makes the football opening one of the earliest in years.

Nearly fifty schoolboy warriors reported to chase the pigskin at the initial call. Look's like another good season for the red and blue color bearers.

Manager Jack Doyle, of the Holy Cross eleven, is wearing a business like look these days and he promises to spring something in a few days.

This cold snap has induced many a husky young American to scour the attic after a pair of dusty moleskins cast off last Thanksgiving Day.

With the opening of the Y. M. C. A. for the fall and winter term this afternoon, the basketball bug will be able to do a little louder buzzing. Supporters of the popular indoor game are already preparing for the season so near at hand.

Although last year found more teams of basketeers on local courts than ever before, the number will probably be doubled this fall if present indications may be taken as a criterion.

Swimming, a sport that has been practically dormant here for the past five years, will be revived this winter. A number of local amphibians are organizing a team which will probably practice in the Y. M. C. A. tank. Competition will be sought with all of the fast amateur teams of the State and Plainfield will probably find a berth for its laurels in this line of sport during the coming season.

While the North Plainfield High School will once more be without a football team, the wearers of the blue and black are planning for a busy court schedule. Captain Burner has Dunning, Abrams, Van Mater and Love out of last year's quintet around which he can mould a team.

Where the N. P. H. S. athletes will stage their contests is still undecided but it will probably be Saengerbund Hall once more.

Plainfield will go to Somerville Saturday afternoon to play that title game with the Somerset county nine. The meeting of Torpey and Dorflinger will be a little side show all by itself. When it comes to a weigh-in, however, Torpey has about thirty pounds on his rival from the haunts of the Queen City.

The past season on the playgrounds has inspired so many local youngsters with the athletic bug that the High School freshmen have turned out almost as a unit to seek positions on the school eleven this fall and there is talk of organizing a public school athletic league.

The introduction of a public school athletic league in this city would be one of the greatest movements ever launched among local schoolboys. It is a thing that has been tried and proven a mammoth success in other cities, some of which have a smaller public school system than Plainfield.

BASEBALL NOTES

With Harry Lord leading the White Sox in batting with an average of .267, the Sox are still "the hitless wonders."

The proposed series between the Mobile Southern League team and Houston, champions of the Texas League, has been called off.

Now that the minor leagues are closing up shop for the season, new names are found in the line-up of major league teams almost every day.

The fight between Cobb and Jackson for the American League batting honors resembles the Cobb-Lajoie close struggle of a few years ago.

When it comes to heavy batting the Athletics have it on the Giants twice over and then some. McGraw has not had a consistent .300 sticker this season.

Having copped quite a bunch of promising minor league talent, Manager Frank Chance expects to boost his Highlanders up among the real performers next season.

It is whispered that Nap Rucker, Brooklyn's old reliable slabster, is going back. According to the records Nap has not been as successful this season as in former years.

Wilson, of the Lynn team, is leading the New England League in both batting and base stealing. He is booked for a trial with Clark Griffith's Washington team.

Captain Heinie Wagner, of the Red Sox, thinks the world's series will be close with betting at even money, should the Athletics and the Giants clash for the championship.

In the big trade with Cincinnati last winter, whereby Tinker went to the Reds, the Cubs evidently picked the right boy when they named Humphreys. He has turned out to be Evers' star twirler.

It is not often that a player who has stood one-two-three in batting all season, is slipped out of the big show, but such is the case of Charlie McDonald, recently released by the Boston Braves to Rochester.

The Red Sox have not played like champions this season, but they have crabbed all efforts to establish new pitching records. They stopped both Falkenberg, of the Naps and Johnson, of Washington, after both pitchers were well on the way to produce new hurling marks.

ANOTHER POLO CHALLENGE.

The Hurlingham Club, of London, has started to prepare the international polo challenge and it is a matter of only a short time when the defi will be forwarded to the Polo Association here. When Lord Ashby St. Ledgers learned that between forty and fifty first-class ponies were available, he immediately turned the challenge over to Major F. Egerton Green, manager of the Hurlingham Club, and it was immediately put in the hands of the polo committee. It is understood that the challenge will be the same as last year and the dates will be about the same time—that is, the early part of June.

LOWELL WINS PENNANT.

Boston, Sept. 10.—The Lowell team became champions of the New England League yesterday. Worcester's defeat by Lynn yesterday pushed Worcester from second to third place and made impossible any attempt to outstrip Lowell. A winning streak of sixteen consecutive games, which was ended only yesterday, when Lowell lost to Fall River, secured the leaders in their position.

PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL WARRIORS HELD INITIAL GRIDIRON PRACTISE

Responding to the initial call for candidates, nearly fifty Plainfield High School students reported at Parker Field yesterday afternoon, where they were given preliminary instructions in the rudiments of the greatest of all college games—football. Under the watchful eyes of Captain William Peacock and several experienced coaches, the aspirants for the school eleven were put through a series of loosening up tactics that always preceded the real work on the gridiron.

Sprinkled among the fifty candidates for the team were many veterans, some of whom proved of great value to the speedy aggregation of last year that established a reputation for itself by making a creditable showing against some of the fastest elevens in the State. Dopesters who witnessed the drill of yesterday, predict a brilliant gridiron season for the red and blue supporters and even go so far as to state that the team of 1913 will surpass the fighting bunch of last fall. A more capable leader than Captain Peacock would be hard to find and his understudies work to their best advantage under his direction.

So promising is the influx of the new material that many of the veterans will have to extend themselves to the limit in order to hold down their places in and behind the line and several of the youngsters look like regular material, although at this early date it is hard to single out a real footballist. Some appear as stars in practice, but when pitted against real elevens such as P. H. S., make a sad showing.

While Parker Field is not in the best of condition for the gridiron game just at present, constant use by the pigskin chasers will soon put it in passable condition and it will prove an ideal place for the scholastic competition as was shown last fall. While the weather was a little warm for much work yesterday afternoon, it has cooled off today and some real football weather is promised for the coming week.

WITH THE BOXERS

Three large clubs have opened in Milwaukee under the new Wisconsin boxing law.

Manager Dan McMettrick has added Tom Gavigan to his string of boxers and will take him to Paris.

Joe Rivers, the Mexican lightweight, has received an offer to box either Tommy Murphy or Leach Cross at San Francisco the latter part of the month.

SPITTER A HEALTH MENACE.

Wilmington, Sept. 10.—Use of the spitball as injurious to the health of the players was attacked at a meeting of the local Board of Health Monday. It was offered as an amendment to an ordinance of 1905, and attacks the wet delivery. The resolution was signed by Frank C. Sparks, George C. Hutton and Dr. H. W. Briggs, all members of the board, and action may be taken at a future meeting. Three of the Wilmington champion pitchers use the spitball variety of ball. The matter will probably be acted upon at the next meeting.

BRICKLEY JOINS ATHLETICS.

Philadelphia, Sept. 10.—George Brickley, of Everett, Mass., the young infielder signed by Connie Mack for the Athletics last spring, joined the Athletics yesterday. He has been playing summer ball with the Newport, N.H., team in the Twin State League, which has just closed its championship race, in which Newport finished third. Brickley, who played in left field at Newport, led the league in batting, participating in thirty games, scoring 116 runs and making 43 hits in 113 times at bat for an average of .380.

RUBBER GAME CARDED.

Manager Pete Simmons, of the Royal Colored Giants, announced this morning that the third and deciding game between the local dusky representatives and the Scotch Plains' crew of semi-pros would be staged at the latter place next Sunday afternoon. Each aggregation has won a game to date and the playoff has been the subject of much speculation since the second contest was decided.

NEW WORLD'S AUTO RECORD.

Corona, Cal., Sept. 10.—A new world's record for automobiles of 231 cubic inches piston displacement was established here yesterday by Edward Waterman. Waterman covered 102.45 miles in the light-car race over the Corona course in 1.37.26 4-5, an average of sixty-three miles an hour. The best previous record was sixty-one miles an hour.

Shannon, of this place, charged with beating a horse she was driving. Colonel Edward S. Edwards, of Newark, represented the society and Mrs. Mowrey pleaded her own case. It is said a man who accompanied Mrs. Mowrey will be brought before the recorder on the same charge as soon as he can be found.

STATE'S MINERALS INCREASING IN VALUE

Industry Shows Substantial Gain Over Previous Year Report Will Show.

Trenton, Sept. 10.—The State Geological Survey, in a forthcoming bulletin prepared under the direction of State Geologist Henry B. Kummel and Assistant State Geologist M. W. Twitchell, shows that the value of the mineral industry of New Jersey for the year that closed December 31 last was $40,391,548, an increase of $2,675,137 over the previous year.

Few realize that New Jersey stands first in the zinc production of the eastern States. That the State stands high in clay products is known to everybody, but the other mineral products are not as well known. Mr. Kummell shows in this report that New Jersey last year produced $9,626,191 in zinc, an increase of $797,410 over the previous year; $20,540,561 of clay and clay working products, an increase of $1,703,456 over 1911; $1,191,816 of iron, an increase of $25,545; $1,738,473 of stone, increase $114,589; $1,146,640 of sand and gravel, increase $87,714; $3,052,098 Portland cement, decrease $207,430; $65,241 lime, decrease $48,543; $209,726 mineral waters, decrease $397; sand-lime brack, $6,924, decrease $10,786; $2,912,424 mineral paints, coke and by-products, increase $205,154; $454 miscellaneous.

The bulletin will go on to say that the only operating zinc mines are near Franklin Furnace, Sussex county, that the active iron mines are in the Highlands and extend from near Ringwood, Passaic county, by way of Hibernia and Dover, in Morris county, to Oxford Furnace, near Belvidere, in Warren county, limestone is quarried in Sussex, Warren, Morris and Hunterdon counties; trap rock quarries chiefly in the Passaic area, and are scattered all along the ridges including the Palisades, Watchung Mountains, Rocky Hill, etc.; slate at only two points in Sussex county; granite in the Highlands around Pompton, Passaic county, Waterloo, in Sussex county, and German Valley and Hibernia, in Morris county; sandstone quarries are mostly near Stockton, Byram, Princeton and Wilburthia, and the only talc and soapstone quarry is near Phillipsburg.

Most of the clay pits and clay working plants are located along the cretaceous belt extending from Woodbridge, Middlesex county, to Salem, in Salem county, although quite a number are scattered over the rest of the State. All of the operating Portland cement plants are in Warren county, near Phillipsburg; the only coke works at Camden; sand-lime brick are at West Palmyra, Burlington county, Penbyrn and Haddonfield, Camden county, and Rockaway, Morris county.

The mineral plants are at Newark, in Essex county, Lincoln, in Middlesex county and Gracelli, in Union county. Sand and gravel are found in sixteen out of the twenty-one counties of the State, with all of the southern counties having these pits.

NEGRO SHOOTS CAPTAIN TONER

State National Guard Commander Injured In Row.

WAS FIRED AT FOUR TIMES

One of Infuriated Colored Man's Bullets Takes Effect In Toner's Leg—Said He Was Conversing on Street Corner With Negro's Wife—Shooting Arouses Interest.

Beverly, N. J., Sept. 10.—Captain Frank Toner, one of Beverly's leading citizens, commander of company G, National Guards of New Jersey, was fired at four times by an infuriated colored man, one of the bullets taking effect in his leg.

Captain Toner, who is married and has two children, is said to have been conversing on a street corner with a mulatto woman, the wife of William McCray, the man who shot him.

The shooting, under the circumstances, has aroused the interest and curiosity of the entire town, and additional revelations are promised when the case comes to trial.

Captain Toner is said to have met the attack of his assailant by also drawing his revolver and shooting McCray in the leg. Both men were arraigned before Walter F. Fenimore, justice of the peace, and held in $500 bail each for the action of the grand jury. Two colored women, witnesses of the shooting, were held in $300 bail each.

Company G is Beverly's crack military organization, many of the best young men of the town being identified with it. The news soon spread to Burlington, where Captain Toner also is well known. He is about thirty-eight years old. His wife was Miss Florence Jobe of Florence, N. J.

HELD FOR FARMER'S DEATH.

Joseph White Arrested for Manslaughter—Auto Hits Man.

Red Bank, N. J., Sept. 10.—As the result of an investigation by Coroner Morris following the death of Charles Smith, a farmer of Middletown township, at the Long Branch hospital on Sunday, Joseph White of Keansburg was arrested by direction of Prosecutor John S. Applegate, Jr. He was taken before Judge John E. Foster at Atlantic Highlands, who held him under $500 bail on a charge of manslaughter. He furnished bail. The arrest was made by Constable George Van Winkle, who accompanied Coroner Morris.

White's automobile struck Smith on the Middletown turnpike. The man was left unconscious on the road and later taken to the hospital, where he died of a fractured skull. Farmer Tilton, who lived near the scene of the accident, told Coroner Morris that he heard a woman crying and pleading with some one they called "Joe" to go back and see if the man was killed. They did not go back.

DISOWNS I. W. W. AGITATORS

Catholic Church Against Tactics of Miss Flynn and Quinlan, Says Bishop.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 10.—The Catholic church cannot recognize the tactics of Miss Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, the I. W. W. agitator, and Patrick Quinlan, a labor leader among the Socialists, according to the statement made here by Bishop James A. McFaul of the Trenton diocese.

"There are two names which have been much exploited in the press of late in connection with labor troubles," he said. "These names are Irish, and the bearers of them, no doubt, should be Catholics. It is probable that the general public looks upon them as Irish and as representatives of the Catholic church. I wish to say that the Catholic church cannot recognize their tactics. These names are Quinlan and Flynn."

The bishop added that Chief of Police Cleary took the right stand in granting Miss Flynn a permit to speak here on condition that she refrain from assailing national, state, or city laws.

The dead men are:

Charles E. Norman, forty-five years old, of Edgewater, mechanical engineer; skull fractured and both arms broken.

James McAllister, twenty-eight years old, of 49 East One Hundred and Thirty-first street, New York, is in a critical condition at the North Hudson hospital at Union Hill, N. J. His left arm and six of his ribs were broken. He has a slight chance of recovery.

A Necessity--Not a Luxury

A safe deposit box has come to be recognized as an absolute necessity. Almost everyone owns valuable papers such as insurance policies, mortgages, stock certificates, etc., which are in constant danger so long as they are kept at home but which, if lodged in our vault, would be both safe and accessible.

Safe deposit boxes of all sizes may be rented for $5.00 a year and up.

CLERIC FACES NEW CHARGES

Ecclesiastical Trial for Rev. MacRorie Convicted in Criminal Court.

ACCUSED OF LYING

Bishop Wilson's Committee Prevents Him Being Restored to Ministry Until Newark Conference Deals With Him in March.

Rev. Willis S. MacRorie, the former pastor ofthe M. E. churches at Mt. Horeb, Martinsville and Springdale, who was suspended by the Newark Conference until September 1 for "unbecoming ministerial conduct," prior to his conviction and sentence in the Union County Court on serious charges, has been suspended by a committee of the Newark Conference until the next session of that body in March. In connection with the suspension new charges have been made against the deposed minister, accusing him of "lying" in his testimony at the Conference trial. MacRorie will be called upon to face these charges at a Conference trial to be held in March.

This action was taken at a meeting of a committee of nine held at Bound Brook on Tuesday, the membership being named by Bishop Luther B. Wilson. It was set forth that MacRorie is alleged to have told one story when tried at the last session of the conference, and when placed on trial in the Union county court, related a different tale. It was reported further that he had made alleged false statements against Bishop Wilson, who presided at the conference, and his cabinet. Rev. W. R. Neff, of Hoboken, has been selected as counsel to represent the church.

Among those who appeared before the committee at Bound Brook on Tuesday, was Rev. Dr. Palmer, who was one of the witnesses at MacRorie's first trial by the conference. This more recent action on the part of the conference, it is believed, will result in the dismissal of MacRorie from that body. The time of the first suspension being up on September 1, there was nothing to prevent the minister making application to Bishop Wilson for an appointment, but now that new charges have been made against him, such action is not possible.

It is said that the latest charges against MacRorie were formally made by Rev. Mr. Aten, who is at present supplying the three churches of which MacRorie was the former pastor. Rev. Dr. D. B. F. Randolph, of this city, district superintendent of the Elizabeth district of the Newark Conference, presided at the meeting on Tuesday and he will present the new charges to the conference at the proper time. So far as known MacRorie has not taken any steps to secure full reinstatement and another charge.

MacRorie was sentenced to serve three months in jail, but he took an appeal and was released on bail. The appeal is still pending.

Rev. Dr. D. B. F. Randolph, the district superintendent, when questioned this morning about the matter today, made the following statement:

"Rev. Willis S. MacRorie, former pastor of the Mt. Horeb and Springfield M. E. churches, who was tried at the last session of the Newark Conference under charges of improper relations with Miss Edith Nelson and suspended to September 1, was brought before an investigating committee at Bound Brook on Tuesday to answer to charges of lying. He did not appear to answer the charges nor did he send anyone to represent him, and Rev. Dr. Warren L. Hoagland, of Phillipsburg, former presiding elder, was appointed to defend him with Rev. J. H. E. Schultz, of Flemington, as his assistant counsel.

"Rev. W. R. Neff, of Hoboken, and Rev. Ralph D. Urmy, of Morristown, were appointed counsel for the church. The committee sustained charges and by the same vote suspended Mr. MacRorie from all ministerial services and church privileges until the ensuing annual conference in accordance with the laws of the church."

WHAT'S BEEN DONE AT THE DAY NURSERY

1,264 Day Children Cared for at Institution During the Summer Months.

Reports of the great amount of work acomplished at The Day Nursery, were received this morning at the meeting of the executive board of the King's Daughters. These showed that during the summer there was a total of 1,264 day children cared for at the Nursery, that there were eight sick babies boarded there for a considerable time, one being there during June, July and August. There was an average of twelve babies received a day at the milk station to get specially prepared food.

The board moved that a vote of thanks be sent to the Plainfield Press for its work in raising funds with which to support the summer work at the Nursery. It was further decided to plan a series of entertainments for mothers during the winter months.

VIOLATED ORDINANCE; CHRISTIAN IS FINED $10

Edward Christian, of 843 Richmond street, was arraigned in the borough court before Recorder Gano, this morning, on a charge of dumping garbage and refuse on the public highway at West End and Willow avenues. Complaints had been received by the borough authorities for some months past of such actions but have never been able to obtain the necessary evidence until early this week when envelopes and postcards addressed to a prominent resident of West Front street were found among the rubbish. Potato peelings and lima bean shells were also found among the material which had been dumped on the street.

Christian explained that he had taken the garbage and other refuse from the residence of his employer, who had objected to the re-opening of the old Compton dump sometime ago, and had carried them away in his employer's delivery wagon on his instructions. The court fined Christian $10 for the offense.

BURGLARS MADE $300 HAUL IN DUNELLEN

Burglars visited the business section of Dunellen early this morning and got over $300 worth of loot from the establishments of Oscar Runyon, a men's furnishing store in North avenue, and Oscar Victorson, a tailor, having a shop in the same street. Both places were entered by forcing a rear door. Victorson's store was entered by thieves less than two months ago.

At Runyon's haberdashery, considerable jewelry dry goods and furnishings were stolen, the loot amounting to about $200. Victorson had his gold watch and fob taken from his coat which hung in a closet, and several suits of clothes were stolen, besides a quantity of goods which he recently purchased for fall and winter trade.

MORE FOR RELIEF OF THE POVERTY-STRICKEN

SOMERVILLE FIRE LOSS IS $50,000

HORSES MEET DEATH

Woman Saves Lives of Farm Hands—Buildings Set Afire and Beyond Control When Departments Get to the Scene.

Somerville, Sept. 11.—Ruin by fire threatened this city early this morning, when the collection of storehouses and barns on the Cornell estate were ignited by incendiaries about 2 o'clock this morning. The flames were beyond control when the fire departments of this city and Raritan responded to alarms The blaze, burning simultanously in three structures containing tons of hay, grain and other inflammable material, scattered sparks and pieces of burning embers for miles around. A burning piece of wood floated through the air three miles away and set fire to a shed on the farm of Luther Martin, on the mountainside north of this city. The loss is estimated at $50 000.

Accompanying the story of the ruinous fire comes an account of daring bravery by Miss Elizabeth Hardwicke, niece of the Cornell brothers. The heroine, discovering the fire, ran from her bed in her nightrobe, spreading the alarm, saving the lives of several farm hands who slept in one of the buildings. A barn nearby the homestead contained three valuable horses. Although the building was in flames, Miss Hardwicke rushed to the stalls and after throwing a sack over each equine's head, led the animals to safety. One of the horses was her favorite pet.

The farm was formerly the property of the late Rev. Frederick F. Cornell and was one of Somerville's most valuables estates. The storehouses and barns contained many hundred tons of crops, the result of this year's harvest from the thousand acres of farm land which make up the estate.

When the fire was discovered the structures were burning in several places at the same time, which proves undoubtedly that the disastrous flames were the work of a fire-bug. An employe of the Public Service Corporation, whose name could not be learned, says he saw a man run from the lane leading to the barns about 1 o'clock, which was an hour before the fire was discovered. The police of Somerville are seeking the Public Service employe to obtain a description of the man he saw about the property. Orders have also been issued to arrest any strange man seen in the city. The authorities of surrounding cities and towns will be asked to aid in the search of the incendiary.

The flames when first seen were bursting from the roof and second story windows of each building destroyed. The hay barn on the eastern section was evidently set afire first. The firemen prevented the destruction of the residence and several small buildings near the storehouses, but all efforts to save the buildings that had caught fire were futile. A general alarm was sent to the neighboring residents to watch the roofs of their homes which were threatened by the burning embers which rose to the air and moved like a huge cluod southwest from the direct vicinity of the blaze.

Included in the loss of property were many valuable farming implements, eight horses, one mule a calf and several pigs. The estate is said to have carried heavy insurance.

FOUR GENERATIONS AT CHILD'S BIRTHDAY PARTY

Bernard R. Townley, the four years old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Townley, of Church street, was tendered a birthday surprise yesterday afternoon, when his parents furnished an enjoyable occasion for over twenty-five friends and relatives of the little celebrant. Games were played and refreshments were served. The children also had their pictures taken in a group.

Among those present was the boy's grandmother, Mrs. Edward Walter, of Church street, and his great-grandmother, Mrs. Emily DeCamp, of East Second street, thus making the event a re-union of four generations.

HOOD FAMILY 'REGULATIONS'

Set Rules Governed Conduct of Husband and Wife Divorce Trial Reveals.

BANN ON SWEARING

"No Sins" Mrs. Hood Says Meant no Slugging Her—Hubby's Ill Temper—Couple Agreed to Disagree.

Newark, N. J., Sept. 11 (Special).—"The rules and regulations" for the guidance of the "R. H. Hood family" set down in black and white figured as one of the numerous exhibits at the final hearing today before Vice Chancellor Stevens of the divorce suit brought by Mrs. Frances Sparks Hood, of Plainfield, against R. H. Hood, a retired engineer and contractor. The gist of the rules was that the husband was "plainly and sweetly" to apprise his wife of any faults he might see in her, and that Mrs. Hood was to do the same. The phrase "plainly and sweetly" occurring also in the paragraph defining the wife's duties. These rules and regulations were gotten up in the first year of the married life of the Hoods. Some years later Mrs. Hood according to her story on the stand induced her husband to write out for himself other regulations for the government of his conduct toward her According to this later edition he was to scold only in private. There was to be "no swearing and no sins"

Questioned by R. H. McCarter, chief counsel for Mrs. Hood, the latter explained that "no sins" had reference to his habit of striking her with his fist, and he was to abstain from this hereafter.

Mrs. Hood testified that for seven years they lived happily, and in 1908 their married life was marred by ill-temper on the part of Mr. Hood. She said that he had two natures, one lovely and the other cruel.

In concluding his examination of Mrs. Hood, counsel brought into evidence a letter written by Hood in September, 1911, at the time he departed for India. In this he said that he found it impossible to live happily with her, but he agreed to support her. In February, 1912, there was a reconciliation, and this was followed by the troubles which have already been thoroughly aired. The hearing is still going on.

PRESIDENT WILL SEE BIG SHIPS IN TARGET PRACTICE

Washington, Sept. 11.—President Wilson will witness the October target practice of the battleships of the Atlantic fleet, according to Secretary Daniels, at whose invitation the president is going. He will leave Washington on the yacht Mayflower on Oct. 17, arriving at the southern drill grounds off the Virginia capes the next day. He will have an opportunity to see both day and night practice on the 18th and will be back in Washington probably on the 19th. Mrs. Wilson and the Misses Wilson may accompany the president.

Among the spectators will be Secretary Bryan, who has declared frequently on the lecture platform that as long as he is in office the American navy shall have no fighting to do. Secretary of War Stimson and probably other members of the cabinet who did not attend the spring target practice are expected to be present also.

WILLS BEGINS TO SERVE SENTENCE

LAW IS MANDATORY

Judge Expresses Regret That He Must Have Youth Confined—Testimony Was Overwhelming—An all Day Battle in Court.

After a trial lasting all day, Arthur Wills, twenty-four years old, of 316 East Seventh street, was found guilty by Judge De Meza in police court shortly after 6 o'clock last night, of having driven his automobile while intoxicated on Monday night, August 13, and was sentenced to serve thirty days in the Union county jail. His auto license was automatically revoked by the decision of the court.

Addressing Wills, Judge De Meza in passing sentence said, "It grieves me greatly to have to send any young man to jail. It is my painful duty therefore, to commit you to the county jail for a term of thirty days."

As he heard his fate pronounced, Wills whispered to his counsel, former City Judge William N. Runyon, and the latter then addressing the court, said, "Mr. Wills has asked me to state that he will serve his sentence. Although beneving that he is innocent now, as from that fateful night on August 13, he has determined to 'face the music,' because he feels certain, as he said to me many times, that if his father were living he would have him stand his punishment like a man."

George Linke, of West Second street, and Duncan C. Pell, Jr., of East Seventh street, who had testified during the afternoon for the defense, rushed from among the court spectators and grasped the hand of the prisoner. Wills forced a smile to his face, but said nothing, as his two friends shook his hand.

Judge Runyon asked that the commitment papers be made out at once, so that Wills could begin serving his penalty as soon as possible. This was done, and Wills, accompanied by his counsel and Detective Sergeant John J. Flynn, was taken to Elizabeth shortly after the papers were issued.

Before he left the court room, State Inspector of Motor Vehicles A. Harry Elbow preferred another charge against Wills, that of speeding. Turough his counsel, the defendant pleaded non vult and Judge De Meza suspended sentence. This action was merely a formality.

The trial was resumed at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, following a recess for luncheon. City Physician Dr. Norman W. Currie was placed on the stand by the prosecution. He proved rather a good witness for the defense. Captain Frederickson, of the police department, who said he has known Wills since the latter was a child, testified to Wills' condition after his arrest when brought to police headquarters. The State then rested its case

The defendant was called to the stand to tell his story of the accident and how he occupied the day previous to the collision with the Murphy carriage on West Seventh street, near Monroe avenue. Wills said he spent the morning and afternoon with a young woman in New York. "We had lunch together," he said, "then she went shopping and I went shopping. We met again for tea and came to Plainfield on the 6:30 o'clock train from New York, arriving here at about 7:30. I had nothing intoxicating to drink the whole day in New York.

"After driving my friend to her home, I went to Thompson's garage, where I keep my car. I met George Linke there and suggested that I drive him to his home. At his father's store in West Front street, I told him I had to 'kill' time until 9:30 o'clock, at which time I was due at a dance at the Plainfield Country Club. We decided to go for an automobile ride. Heading down Park avenue, we drove to West Fourth street. We were headed for no particular place. Linke then suggested that we go to Kerwin's cafe. I stood up to the bar and during the time I was in the place, approximately one hour, I had but four small glasses of beer. I then left for the dance. Coming down West Seventh street, I saw the Murphy carriage about one and one-half blocks ahead, 450 feet.

A NEIGHBORS' QUARREL.

Claiming that children of Mrs. Effie Smith, of 1834 West Second street, had stoned to death a number of his chickens and ducks, Peter Martin, of the same address, explained his quarrel with the woman, which had disturbed the immediate neighborhood. City Judge DeMeza in court this morning told them to settle their neighborly disputes quietly.

GAYNOR DIES ABOARD SHIP

Heart Disease Ends New York Mayor's Career, Old Wound Hastening End.

SON WIRES MESSAGE

Remarkable Man Passes Away Aboard S. S. Baltic, Having Left for Vacation Hoping to Recuperate Health.

New York, Sept. 11.—Mayor William J. Gaynor died on the steamship Baltic in mid-ocean at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The wireless message received here today by his secretary, Robert Adamson bore the news:

"On Board S. S. Baltic, at Sea, Thursday, by Wireless via Crookhaven.

"Robert Adamson,
"New York.

"Father died Wednesday afternoon, 1 o'clock. Death due heart failure. Notify mother.

"R. J. GAYNOR."

Secretary Adamson received the message at his home in Brooklyn early this morning. He immediately notified Mrs. Gaynor, at St. James, Long Island, and then tried to find Colonel Kline, acting mayor, who lives in Brooklyn.

Mr. Adamson ordered Janitor Ryan of the City Hall, to place all the flags on the building at half-mast.

The mayor sailed on the Baltic last Thursday. He had planned to stay but a few hours in England, returning on the first steamer possible to New York. With his son, Rufus, who is a reporter on a Manhattan evening newspaper, the only other member of the party was a trained nurse.

That the mayor's death was directly due to the bullet of James J. Gallagher, the insane dock hand who tried to assassinate the mayor three years ago at a Hoboken pier, just as he was leaving for a European vacation, was the belief when the news of his death flashed about town.

Adolph L. Kline will act as mayor until January 1. He became acting mayor last Thursday, when the mayor sailed through virtue of his office as president of the Board of Aldermen, following the resignation of John Purroy Mitchel to take the collectorship of the port.

Colonel Kline arrived at the City Hall a few minutes before 11 o'clock, and went into conference with Secretary Adamson. He planned to issue a proclamation this afternoon.

On the day before Mayor Gaynor sailed for Europe last week, according to a report today at his summer home at St. James, L. L. his physicians made another attempt to remove the bullet fired by the maniac Gallagher in Hoboken in August, 1910. Several times since the shooting an attempt had been made to remove the bullet, as at brief intervals it had caused the mayor great distress. On the day before he sailed several physicians were in attendance at his St. James home, and it was understood by the neighbors that they were making a final effort to dislodge the bullet.

William J. Gaynor was born at Whitestown, Oneida county, N. Y., in 1851, and was educated in the Whitestown Seminary and in Boston. Going to Brooklyn in 1873 he worked on metropolitan newspapers while studying law. He was admitted to the bar in 1875 and in his career as a lawyer appeared in many important cases. He was judge-advocate on the staff of General McLeer, Second Brigade N. G. S. N. Y., in 1890. He was elected judge of the Supreme Court of New York for the term of 1893 to 1907 and from 1907 to 1921. He was elected mayor of New York city in 1909.

specifications as required by the Common Council are too severe for a four cylinder engine and that it would be impossible for such an engine to stand up under these conditions for any length of time. Mr. Phillips, of the International Motor company informed the Council last night that the concern would be willing to submit to an official test to ascertain whether its engine would meet these specifications. There was a report that the company had withdrawn its bids, but some of the Councilmen when questioned denied that it was so. A comparative test is considered the only means of ascertaining whether the specifications are unreasonable or not.

HAMMOND DECLINES TO MEET IN DEBATE

G. O. P. Assembly Aspirant Declines Challenge of Progressive Rival.

Ogden H. Hammond, of Bernardsville, candidate for nomination at the Republican primaries in Somerset county for the Assembly, has sent the following letter to the Daily Press:

"George T. Hughes, the candidate on the Progressive ticket for the nomination of assemblyman, has published a letter written to me in regard to the proposal from him that a joint debate be held between the three candidates epresenting the Republicans, Progressive and the Democratic tickets for the office of assemblyman; I enclose herewith my reply in answer to his letter.

"I have your letter of September 5th, in which you propose that a joint debate be held between the three candidates for the assembly from Somerset county

"This suggestion does not meet with my approval for the reason that during the campaign I will endeavor to discuss such issues as may come up, and present such arguments from time to time, as may clearly define the ideas I represent.

"At the present time I know of no issue which we could debate upon I am a Progressive Republican, and no doubt many of the ideas which you have in mind are held equally by me.

"If you have been a good Republican in the past, I see no reason why you should have deserted the Republican party. No doubt, among the Progressive party there are many Democrats, and I can of course understand why they should have left the Democratic party.

"If during the campaign it should seem advisable to me to accept your offer for a joint debate, I will let you know, but at the present time I can see nothing gained by so doing.

"Since the above letter was written to Mr. Hughes, the result of the election in Maine has become known, and the chairman of the Republican committee aptly expressed my views when he made the following statement:

"'The difference between the Progressives and regular Republicans are not fundamental, but more a difference of opinion as to how the same principles should be administered.'"

TEST OF AUTO FIRE ENGINE IS PLANNED

Common Council Will see That Saurer Machine Comes up to Requirements.

The Common Council, meeting last night as a committee of the whole to consider the question of an automobile fire engine, which has been agitated for several weeks, decided to arrange for an official test of the Saurer engine on the hill near the home of Seigfreid Arens on Rahway road, the time to be fixed by the committee on fire and buildings. It is proposed to have present representatives of the National Board of Fire Underwriters present and mechanical devices will be used to show whether the engine is fully up to the requirements.

It has been proposed that the other companies who have submitted bids be invited to bring their engines to this city at the same time and have each on esubmitted to exactly the same test. This, it is believed, would be the fairest method that could be employed to aid the Council in reaching a decision.

The International Motor Company gave a test of its engine last night, first on Central avenue, near Road Ending and again at the Babcock building, at which there were present members of the Common Council representatives of the fire department and other interested citizens. The engine worked smoothly and apparently with plenty of force at each place. There was no mechanical device to show exactly the amount of water pumped per minute, but it was stated by an official of the company that the pump pressure was 140 pounds per square inch. With one line of hose the engine threw a stream approximately twenty-five feet above the Babcock building, but with two streams the heighth was reduced somewhat. The nozzle used was 1⅛ inches.

At the conference of the Common Council, last night, Fred Phillips, of the International Motor Company, and Mr. Charles, the New York sales manager, were present and explained details about the company's engine.

It was the opinion of Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed that an engine that had been run and tested was more dependable than one that had never been subjected to such a test.

It is the opinion of some that the

Concerning Rothberg's---A Foreword

We have no hesitancy in saying that this business was started for the purpose of making money. Nor have we any hesitancy in saying that it has succeeded.

But we also wish to say that the successful business should make other things besides money—it should make loyal, lifelong friends.

And if it doesn't, then in my opinion it hasn't succeeded, no matter how much money it has amassed.

Money isn't the final test of honesty and fair dealing. But loyal, life-long customers are.

Combining success with honor is not to be admired, but to be expected.

And rightly understood, one cannot be achieved without the other. Had the Rothberg Shop been built on deceit and misrepresentation it would have been a moral failure, no matter how great would be the volume of business.

Honesty in business doesn't consist in being square with your customers, but in being square with yourself.

Shakespeare's dictum, "First unto thy ownself be true," has never been improved upon.

If we misrepresented our goods, or had more than "one price for an article," or resorted to petty schemes to take advantage it would not be a deception on our customers, but on ourselves.

And although the wise Franklin said that to see things by faith is to close the eye of reason, our customers are buying things on faith today more than they ever did.

Our pre-eminence in selling "Most Things Men Wear" is not only the result of our customers understanding of clothing, but of their faith in Rothberg's.

They know what Rothberg's stands for—what it has ever stood for—and they know that I would rather retire from business than violate one whit of that confidence.

THAW A PRISONER; JEROME ON SCENE

Big Fight on to Return Him to Matteawan.

HELD AT COLEBROOK, N. H.

New Hampshire Judge Passes on New Writ Today—Prisoner's Mother In Montreal Collapses When She Hears of Recapture.

THAW'S ITINERARY SINCE HE FLED MATTEAWAN.

Aug. 17.—Harry Kendall Thaw escaped from the Matteawan State Hospital For the Criminal Insane with the aid of five men and two high powered automobiles and fled across the Connecticut border.

Aug. 18.—Sheriff B. H. Kelsea of Coos county, N. H., recognized Thaw on a Maine Central train. The sheriff left the train at Colebrook, N. H., and Thaw left it at Hereford and went on foot to Beecher Falls, ten miles north of Colebrook.

Aug. 12—After driving most of the night in a carriage Thaw arrived at Garford, Canada, where he was arrested at 5 o'clock in the morning. He was then committed by Justice of the Peace Dupuis at Coaticook and later taken to Sherbrooke, where he was locked up.

Aug. 19-Sept. 3.—Thaw kept in Sherbrooke jail, except for various appearances in court when he was hailed as a popular hero. Involved legal battle ensued, in which his lawyers fought for his freedom.

Sept. 3.—Thaw was taken to Coaticook, where the legal warfare was renewed.

Sept. 5.—William Travers Jerome was arrested for playing "penny ante" in the street.

Sept. 10.—Canadian immigration officers took Thaw from detention pen at Coaticook at 8 o'clock in the morning directly to Norton's Mills, Vt., accompanying him as far as Averill, Vt., and then left him to his own resources. He started for New Hampshire in an automobile, crossing into that state at Beecher Falls, and was arrested as he approached Colebrook and locked up in the Monadnock hotel.

Colebrook, N. H., Sept. 11.—After being thrown bodily out of the Dominion of Canada Harry K. Thaw is a prisoner here.

Dumped into the state of Vermont, with no lawyer to advise him and no official to thwart him, he did not know for a time what to do. Then he got transportation in the automobile of a newspaper correspondent and ordered the car driven to New Hampshire.

He was captured at Stewartsville Hollow a few miles away from this town, at 11:58 a. m. Though no specific charge was then lodged against him, he was brought here and locked up in a hotel room.

Jerome Reaches the Town.

Thaw was technically arrested, charged with having taken part in a conspiracy to escape from the Matteawan asylum on Sunday, Aug. 17.

At 11:05 o'clock last night a special train carrying William Travers Jerome and Deputy Attorney General Franklin Kennedy of the state of New York reached here, and those officials at once began to lay plans to get the fugitive back to the insane asylum.

It is said here—though without the warrant of authority—that Mr. Jerome has an understanding with Attorney General James P. Tuttle of New Hampshire whereby Thaw is to be returned to Matteawan with a rush.

Evidently Thaw fears that, for as soon as he was locked up here he begged that he be specially guarded, so that "Jerome might not kidnap him to New York." Chief of Police Kelley of Colebrook swore in twelve special policemen, who, all armed, are patrolling the streets about the hotel.

Again the Habeas Corpus.

Thaw had resource again to his favorite legal move, the writ of habeas corpus. The first thing he did when he got here was to engage another attorney. This lawyer applied to Judge R. N. Chamberlin of the superior court for the writ. The judge was busy at the time, but said he would hear the application later.

L. J. Vorhaus, a New York attorney, arrived here to help in Thaw's newest fight. T. R. E. McInnes of Ottawa, one of the framers of the Canadian immigration law, also is here. McInnes says the deportation was an act in contempt of the kings bench, before which Thaw was scheduled to appear on Sept. 15, and that those who deported him would be punished.

What occurred under the British flag is something I can't discuss, but we believe good Canadians will do what is right. Now I have come to New Hampshire, but only on my difficult way to Pennsylvania.

There is no honest legal charge against me, and we trust New Hampshire won't accept any subterfuge from a few officials of a larger state. We hope citizens of New Hampshire who won't be bluffed will write the governor.

HARRY K. THAW.

Some persons here believe that he will have an excellent chance to stay in this state for a long time and fight off efforts to extradite him. Others believe he will be sent back to Matteawan quickly.

Governor Felker's Statement.

Governor Samuel D. Felker was at Newcastle when he received news of the arrest of Harry K. Thaw. He said:

"I can't say as yet just what action I will take in this matter. Thus far the New York authorities have not communicated with me, though I expect that they will do so immediately. I will be governed entirely by the advice of Attorney General James P. Tuttle of Manchester.

"The facts concerning Thaw's detention in this state will be laid before the attorney general, who will determine the steps of procedure.

"If the New York state authorities send officers here and the latter bear properly executed documents calling upon us to deliver Thaw to their custody I shall probably sign the extradition warrant.

"At this time it is a bit unbecoming to discuss the matter since I hold no exact knowledge with regard to the arrest or the status of the case.

"In any event Thaw would be entitled to a hearing before extradition. I can only reiterate what I said a short time ago, and that is that New Hampshire does not want Thaw within its confines, neither does it care to do him any injustice."

Thaw's Mother Collapses.

Montreal, Sept. 11.—Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw collapsed when informed that her son had been recaptured. A doctor was hastily summoned. When she recovered consciousness her condition was so grave that a nurse was employed to watch her constantly.

Members of Thaw's family and his lawyers here were disconfounded when they learned that he had been deported.

"I am simply paralyzed," said J. N. Greenshields, K. C., the leader of Thaw's lawyers. "It certainly is a disgrace to the country and to our administration of law."

BODY OF SLAIN GIRL STILL UNIDENTIFIED

Limb Found May Belong to Cut Up Remains.

New York, Sept. 11. — Detectives working under Inspector Faurot, after proving that most of the "clews" to the identity of the young woman who was murdered, chopped up and thrown into the North river led into blind alleys, were left with only two trails.

One of these grew out of the purchase of a pillow of peculiar design from George Sachs, 2762 Eighth avenue. It gave promise of affirmative results. According to Inspector Faurot the men working under him may be able to report material progress today.

"Like several other so called clews, rumors and theories we have worked on," said the inspector, "the trail we are following may lead us into another blank wall. We will know before evening."

The other lead that may aid the detectives was the finding yesterday of the upper part of the leg of a woman on the beach near the Morris pavilion, Keansburg, N. J. It was made by Norman Carhart and Irving Broander. Coroner Harry Fay of Red Bank will take the leg to the Hoboken morgue to see if it corresponds with the other parts of the young woman's body found on the shore opposite Manhattan.

The portion of the leg apparently had been separated from the body with a saw. It measured fourteen inches, the section extending from about three inches below the hip joint to two inches below the knee joint. No decomposition had set it.

OUR PUBLIC ORCHESTRA.

For some unaccountable reason the general public has not shown any marked degree of interest in the Municipal orchestra organized some time ago under the direction of the Plainfield Recreation Committee. Here we have an exceptionally fine aggregation of talent under capable leadership. Its rehearsals at the Washington School on Monday nights are of a very high order and the few who have shown enough civic interest to attend them have spent most enjoyable evenings listening to the excellently rendered programs.

Few municipalities of the size of Plainfield can boast of a public orchestra—musicians who give their services free for the entertainment of the inhabitants. To many, therefore, it appears rather strange that the orchestra has not received more attention from the people. Possibly when the first public concert is given in the near future, general interest will be aroused and larger audiences will be found at these rehearsals. But why wait until then? Why not put in a very pleasant time next Monday night at the Washington School?

WASTING COUNTY MONEY.

What are the Freeholders of Union county thinking of when they allow hundreds of dollars to be wasted in paying the expense of sending county officers to some distant state to bring back a a fugitive accused of having embezzled $32. Detective Galatian is on his way to Florida now to get the offender and of course there will be a big bill for the county to pay as a result. Not long ago two police officers were sent to the same State to bring back a young man charged with wife desertion, who got a suspended sentence and later disappeared again. The bill for the Florida trip was a huge one. Isn't it about time that the Freeholders called a halt on this sort of expenditure of the people's money?

Somerset county's Board of Freeholders does not seem to be in any hurry to establish a sanitorium for the treatment of persons afflicted with tuberculosis. The law, however, makes such an institution mandatory for each county and therefore sooner or later Somerset must have one. So why not hurry along with the work.

As the special representative of the Plainfield Daily Press, Fred D. Youngs is busy explaining to the professional and business men of the city how to "Do It For Plainfield." When he visits you listen to his story and govern yourself accordingly if you have one hundred per cent. of civic pride.

The appeal made by the Plainfield Daily Press for the poverty-stricken family of the late Peter Murray, of Terrill road, did not fall on deaf ears nor cold hearts for the response has been quick and fulsome.

The cause of Equal Suffrage in this country is about to receive the hardest blow that could possibly be dealt it. Mrs. Pankhurst will arrive in New York on October 18.

Possibly at some future day the dictionary may give this definition of Chautauqua—"An institution made famous by W. J. Bryan, of Elsewhere.

PROTECTOR EATON ON RESCUE WORK

Noted Clergyman Dwells on His Board's Task of Reforming Drunkards.

"FINE LEGISLATION"

"The Farmer-Dominie" Says the Saloonkeepers Are Co-operating in North Plainfield Township for Statute's Enforcement.

A statute of New Jersey will go a long way toward solving the question of reforming habitual drunkards and those on the path to become habitual drunkards, in the opinion of the Rev. Charles A. Eaton, of Watchung, pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, of New York. A few months ago he was appointed a member of the "Board of Protectors," established by a law passed by the legislature in 1909. The chairman of the board is Dr. Richard Moldenke, and the third member is George Schmidt.

The law establishing the Board of Protectors sets forth that the board shall have authority to investigate the causes of drunkenness, and wherever it satisfactorily appears that any person is an habitual drunkard or likely to become such, the board shall, by notice in writing mailed to everyone licensed to sell intoxicating liquors direct that no liquor be sold to the person in question. Also the saloonist is forbidden to sell to anyone else to be given to the one declared to be a drunkard or likely to become a drunkard. The penalty is a fine of $50 for the first offense, $100 for the second offence, and $200 and loss of license for the third offense.

"I cannot understand," said Dr. Eaton today, "why the Anti-Saloon League and other temperance organizations in the State have not taken the statute up and used its power in the fight against drunkenness. The law is full of dynamite and can be made a great power for good. We have already had several cases before our board and we have used the law successfully. In only one case have we been compelled to go to the extreme of issuing notice to the saloon men. In the other cases we have been able to bring about the desired results by advising and kindly attention to the persons accused of being near the point of becoming habitual drunkards.

"As you can see from a reading of the law, the board has full power to decide the possibility that a man may become a drunkard. This is a most important point; but it also is a dangerous power to put in the hands of men who have not the proper charity and kindly sympathy with human nature to cope with the conditions. The law could very easily be made a power for evil if the members of the board are lacking in those qualities and make it possible to gain the confidence of the derelicts it is aimed to reach. The members must also be able and willing to co-operate with the licensed dealers in liquors. In North Plainfield Township we have found the saloon men ready and anxious to work with us in the enforcement of the law. Thus they know they can protect themselves from selling the liquor to the weaker members of the community and thereby stand better with the better element of the community. I think this will be the attitude of the saloon men in all rural communities. Their business is really hurt by any disorder and drunkenness in the community, and they are selling liquor as a business, usually in connection with a hotel.

"There are always a number of defectives in a community—men and women who are not really bad, only weak. It will be the business of the board of protectors to establish friendly relations with them, to help them to get back upon their feet, and the issuing of orders branding them as habitual drunkards will only come as a last resort after everything else fails.

"I feel sure that a great good can be accomplished and that many weak men will be given the strength to get back into the right path again. Also I hope that our work will show the way for the good people of other municipalities to take up the law and put it in operation. It is a fine piece of legislation and covers the question thoroughly. The law should be taken advantage of in every community in the State, and I am sure it would go a long way toward solving a very difficult problem. The mere fact that the law makes it possible for the temperance people and the saloon men to co-operate in the work is one of its strongest features."

Genuine Pianola Pianos	" 310
Player-pianos of other makes	" 235
Genuine Pianolas [Cabinet Player Attachments]	" 75

Remarkably Low Monthly Payments

The great semi-Annual Sales of Exchanged Pianos instituted eleven years ago at Aeolian Hall have become internationally famous. Nowhere else in the world are pianos of such high quality, in such splendid condition, and at such unheard of value-giving prices, ever offered.

The powerful magnet that draws such exceptional pianos to Aeolian Hall; that has caused their owners to relinquish instruments actually above criticism, is the world renowned Pianola Piano—the Piano which everyone can play.

From New York's finest homes a majority of these wonderful Exchanged Pianos have come. Their owners could not play them; they could play the Pianola Piano. Despite their newness, therefore, despite the splendid names they bear, and the years of satisfaction they still represent, these pianos have been sent to Aeolian Hall as part payment for the genuine Pianola Piano.

Note the lists of specimen values given. Remember that these show but a few out of an immense stock of hundreds of pianos. Then come to Aeolian Hall tomorrow prepared to secure the piano you have always wanted at a price and on payments that you will hardly feel.

Genuine Pianola Pianos at the lowest prices ever quoted

Changes in many styles and the introduction of magnificent new instruments such as the Steinway, Weber and Steck Grand Pianola Pianos have brought a large number of our regular model instruments back to us in exchange.

In the factories where they were originally made, these returned instruments have been thoroughly gone over. Parts showing wear have been replaced. Tuners, tone regulators and polishers have worked on them as carefully as though they were again to be sold as new.

New they are to all intents and purposes, for in spite of the tremendous reductions from the rigidly maintained regular prices at which Pianola Pianos are sold, each of these exchanged instruments is guaranteed the same as new.

Satisfaction Absolutely Assured

The name and reputation of the Aeolian Company as well as the extraordinary character of these sale instruments make these great Fall clearing sales at Aeolian Hall the overshadowing selling events of the year in New York.

The Aeolian Company is just as interested in giving complete satisfaction to every purchaser, as in giving the greatest bargains to be obtained in the music industry.

No matter what instrument you buy; whether a piano, a Pianola Piano or Pianola, a player-piano of another make or one of the famous Aeolian Orchestrelles of which a few at greatly reduced prices are offered, you may make your purchase with absolute assurance of satisfaction.

The Aeolian Company stands behind every instrument it sells the public. It is this policy which has made the Aeolian Company the largest manufacturers and sellers of musical instruments in the world.

• NEW YORK

BEGINS TO SERVE SENTENCE

The driver of the vehicle evidently heard me coming for his horse was directed toward the right hand curb. As I neared the wagon, I turned to the left to clear the carriage, but in straightening my car again, the rear wheels skidded to the left, thereby causing the fore wheels to crash into the vehicle. The skidding was of course unexpected and it all happened so quickly I had no time to avert the collision, if means had been within my power. That is the only excuse I can give for the accident."

On cross-examinat on by Assistant Attorney General Josiah Stryker, Wills' story was unshaken. At one time he said, in reply to an interrogation, "My demeanor was greatly affected after the accident. I was dazed when I realized that I had almost killed someone."

The first question put to the defendant by Strker was, "What is the girl's name whom you accompanied to New York on the morning and afternoon of August 13?" Judge Runyon objected and after long arguments, the objection was sustained by the court. Wills said he did not want to "drag" his friend's name into the case. When the cross-examination was continued, Stryker scored the defense for not bringing the young woman to headquarters to testify whether he had been drinking in New York or not. He also said that no effort had been made to have the bartender at Kerwin's cafe testify to corroborate the defendant's story of his actions in the place he got his liquor.

When placed on the stand by the defense, George Linke said he was twenty-three years old. He told an identical story as Wills, and denied running away from the scene of the accident, although Wills had told him to. Linke said he had refused to become a witness for the State, because he was Wills' friend and the Attorney General insinuated that he had evidently come to the court to tell all he knew that would tend to be of benefit to his friend, but had resolved not to testify to anything to the contrary. Linke retorted quickly that he had not even been asked to testify for Wills and that the latter told him not to do so.

Among the other witnesses for the defense were Duncan C. Fell, Jr., Joseph P. Taylor of Hobart avenue, and L. W. Serrell, of West Seventh street. Mr. Serrell said he returned to the scene of the accident two hours following the collision after caring for the injured persons in his home and had taken notes on all conditions he observed. He said he saw evidences in the road that the car had skidded and said he "paced off" the width of the road and the relative positions of the two vehicles.

Former Judge Runyon in summing up attacked the new law under which his client was tried and said it was too drastic. He claimed that if the true words of the law were to be lived up to every man who should take a drink and then drive an automobile could be found guilty under the provisions of the statute. He said even one drink would have an effect of intoxication under which a prisoner could be determined guilty. Judge Runyon closed with an earnest plea to dismiss the charge.

Assistant Attorney General Stryker scored the defense for not producing witnesses who could have told of the defendant's actions, the attorney charging that the missing witnesses would convict Wills and that therefore they had not been summoned to court.

Judge De Meza reserved decision for twenty minutes while he reviewed the evidence in his private office. As court was again resumed the judge, from the notes he had taken during the trial, reviewed the testimony of the various witnesses.

Turning his head in the direction of the calm Wills, the magistrate said, "Wills, I have known you and your family long. The evidence given against you here today is overwhelming and there is nothing left for me to do but to adjudge you guilty. It greatly pains me to have to send you to jail, but the law gives me no other option. And I must do my duty. Knowing you for many years as I have, I am surprised that you should use such indiscretion, and I must make an example of you. Your offense was a serious one and might have cost the lives of several people. Considering every item of testimony that has been given in this court today, it is my painful duty to sentence you to a term of thirty days in the county jail."

Marion S. Ackerman, a brother-in-law of Wills was in the court room throughout the trial and accompanied the defendant to the county jail in Elizabeth. At that institution Mr. Ackerman made arrangements for every comfort that can be allowed to prisoners without any infringement on the rules of the jail.

Assistant Attorney General Josiah Stryker, of Trenton, and State Motor Vehicle Inspector A. Harry Elbow, of Newark, who prosecuted, both had the highest praise for the manner in which Judge William G. De Meza conducted the trial.

Mr. Stryker said after the magistrate had passed sentence "Judge De Meza was absolutely fair and correct in all his rulings. His comment on the testimony just before passing sentence showed that he had followed the statements of the witnesses to the minutest detail, and his interpretations of the testimony was fine."

Elbow said to a Daily Press reporter: "In no case that I have assisted to prosecute, have I ever been associated with such a fair and conscientious magistrate."

THREAD COMPANY DENIES IT'S TRUST

Files Answer to Charges of Sherman Law Breach.

65 INDEPENDENT DEALERS

Averred American Thread Firm Controls Only About 22 Per Cent of Cotton Thread Industry In This Country—Answer Denies Defendants Are Part of Any Conspiracy.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 11.—The American Thread company, the so called "thread trust" which the government is attempting to dissolve as a violator of the Sherman anti-trust law, together with the Thread agency and a number of individual defendants in the suit brought by the department of justice, filed a joint answer in the United States district court here through their counsel, J. M. Beck of New York. The answer is mainly along the lines of the joint answer filed by J. & P. Coats, Ltd., and other defendants affiliated with the Coats interests.

The answer filed specifically denies that the English Sewing Cotton company, Ltd., of England is represented in the United States by the American Thread company. It also denies that the Coats company dominate the English Sewing Cotton company, the American Thread company or the Thread agency.

In averring that the Coats interests do not dominate the thread business in the United States the answer declares that there are forty independent thread manufacturers in Great Britain and sixty-five in the United States. It is averred that the American Thread company controls only about 22 per cent of the cotton thread industry in this country, and, including silk, linen and cotton yarn, only about 15 per cent.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

FRANCES MARSHALL

Economical Crackers.

When you roll croquettes in powdered cracker did you ever stop to think that you are adding precious nourishment to the meat of the croquett? When you inflate a meat loaf with a goodly addition of cracker crumbs did you ever stop to think that you are adding very considerably to its food value? When you serve soda crackers with jam or hard water crackers with cheese you probably do so with the feeling that you are simply providing a sort of means of transportation for the jam or the cheese. Really you are providing one of the most nutritive foods in your larder.

There is more nourishment in wheat crackers than most persons suppose. In the terms of the scientist, there are 1925 calories of fuel in every pound of wheat crackers as compared with 1220 calories in bread or 1520 in dried white beans, which are well known for their high food value.

In the terms of economy, crackers are noticeably richer in food value, both in proportion to weight and to cost, than any other wheat products. In crackers the price for a pound of protein is only a dollar and ten cents, and the cost of a thousand calories of energy is five and three tenths cents—facts which should prove to the economical housewife that good sense makes crackers play a prominent part in her weekly bill of fare.

Crackers, to be palatable, should be served crisp and fresh. If you want to taste them at their best, serve them this way with the salad course for your next "company" dinner: Butter saltines generously and place them in rows in a large roasting pan. Sprinkle them lightly with pepper—freshly ground, if you have your own pepper mill. About five minutes before you wish to serve them slip them into a good hot oven and leave them there until they have turned a golden brown. With salmon mayonnaise salad these crackers served piping hot make a dish fit for a king.

Broken Crackers.

Any good housewife of course knows the usefulness of broken crackers. They may be crushed into a powder with a rolling pin on the bread board and kept in a closely covered jar for use in frying croquettes, rice balls and other food, and for use in meat loaves and for the foundation of the filling of cooked stuffed vegetables—tomatoes, peppers and cucumbers.

Here is a satisfactory recipe for using crackers in place of potatoes with the meat course: Break the crackers and spread the pieces with butter, pepper and salt, and just a touch of mustard if you like the flavor. Put them into a baking dish and cover them with good, rich milk, if possible half cream. Bake them in a moderate oven until brown and serve hot.

Here is a delicious cracker pudding—which calls for six large soda crackers, a quarter of a cupful of butter, a teaspoonful of sugar and the strained juice and a little of the grated rind from two lemons. These ingredients should be mixed together with enough boiling water to soften the crackers. While the water is soaking into the crackers beat up separately the yolks and whites of three eggs. Add a little sugar to the yolks if a very sweet pudding is desired. Briskly stir first the yolks and then the whites into the cracker preparation. Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake in a moderate oven till a golden brown color. This makes a delicious sweet dish for the children and served with a fruit or wine sauce is an easily made dinner dessert for grown-ups.

SUMMER'S SWAN SONG.

O! Have ye seen Royal Autumn?
He's hiding hereabout
To rob me of my green domain
And put my birds to rout.
He's marshaling his army;
The skirmishers are out
"All's well! All's well!" the katydids,
His mighty pickets, shout.

Rogue Autumn, bold pretender,
Conspiring with the sun,
Is working in the morning mists
That I may be undone.
Already through my fields and woods
The fires of treason run;
My myriad leaves are putting on
His colors, one by one.

Thy breath at night, Rogue Autumn,
Strikes chill upon my brow;
My crown uneasy rests upon
The head I soon must bow.
Take thou the spoil: But there will come
A mightier than thou,
Whose wind shall pierce and break thy heart,
As mine is breaking now!

—T. A. DALY.

Andrew Lang's last book, which was in type before the author's death, will be published in October by Longmans, Gren & Co. "The Strange Story Book" is the twenty-fifth and last of the famous series and will have twelve colored plates and many sketches in black and white. A good book to add to the Christmas list.

Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, formerly of Plainfield, has an excellent article in the August Child-Welfare Magazine on "The Profession of Fatherhood." In it he says, "In a word, it's up to the woman.'

"If she take advantage of every opportunity to become a well trained mother, first she will demonstrate by practice the possibility of the profession of motherhood. When by the mother's expert knowledge, vital problems are solved, most difficult questions answered, great responsibilities well met, fathers will be obliged to se that there must be something in it. And if something in it for the mother, why not equally for the father? Why not a profession of fatherhood as well as of motherhood? Why should they not both together, working with the same motive, methods, principles and practices, instruct and train their children?"

....."The mother's hardest task is not in the nursery where she can control conditions, but it is in eradicating the prejudice and misinformation from the minds of her grammar school or high schoolboy, who learns on the street or playground or from the moving pictures or yellow press what may offset all the influence of the home if she is not forewarned and equipped with special knowledge."—L. A. Mead Child-Welfare Magazine.)

TO INTERPRET FOOTBALL RULES

Philadelphia, Sept. 11—Announcement was made here yesterday by Dr. James A. Babbitt, member of the Intercollegiate Football Rules Committee and Chairman of the Central Board of Officials, that the annual meeting for the interpretation of football rules will be held at the Hotel Manhattan, New York, on Sept. 25, at 8 p. m. Changes in the rules will be discussed and all rules over which there may be some question as to their meaning will as far as possible be given definite interpretation. Dr. Babbitt said that the Rules Committee is desirous of having in attendance all coaches and managers of football teams in the East.

GEN. DRAKE NOT TO ATTEND

Elizabeth, Sept. 11.—General J. Madison Drake has declined an invitation to be present at the reunion of the Fifteenth New Jersey Volunteers, which is to be held at Belvidere next Wednesday and Thursday. The general will be unable to attend because of illness. He declares that the "Fifteenth" lost more men on the battlefield than almost any other regiment. It was called by Fox, the historian, "The Immortals."

BRANDYWINE ANNIVERSARY.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 11.—The 136th anniversary of the battle of Brandywine was observed today with the customary exercises on the battlefield, near West Chester. The battle was fought Sept. 11, 1777. The Americans were defeated and as a result Philadelphia fell into the hands of the British. It was at Brandywine that the Continental army carried the Stars and Stripes into the battle for the first time.

Some Cookery Suggestions

FRESH HUCKLEBERRIES.

HUCKLEBERRIES are ideal fruit for pies or puddings. The acid of the fruit promotes digestion and thus counteracts the richness of the puff paste. The huckleberry is variously known as the whortleberry and blueberry.

A nice homemade pie may be made with the fruit as follows:

A Simple Pie.

Huckleberry Pie.—Cover a deep pie dish with rolled puff paste; then fill with berries, to which add a cupful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of molasses and a little salt and cinnamon. Bake in the oven until done.

Batter Cakes.

Huckleberry Muffins.—Cream a third of a cupful of butter and a fourth of a cupful of sugar; then add an egg well beaten mixed with three-fourths of a cupful of milk and two cupfuls of flour sifted with a saltspoonful of salt and four teaspoonfuls of baking powder. After the batter is beaten smooth add a heaping cupful of huckleberries. Bake in hot buttered muffin rings.

Made With Stale Crumbs.

Huckleberry Pudding.—A bread and huckleberry pudding is made in this way: Soak a cupful and a half of stale breadcrumbs in two cupfuls of milk. When the crumbs are soaked soft mash them. Add two tablespoonfuls of sugar, a pinch of salt, a well beaten egg and some grated nutmeg. Mix two cupfuls of berries thoroughly with the batter and pour it in a buttered dish. Bake slowly for an hour and serve with cream and sugar or hard sauce.

An Attractive Ice.

Huckleberry Ice Cream.—Allow one pound of sugar and a cupful of water to come to the boiling point; then add a quart of huckleberries and let them cook for fifteen or twenty minutes, taking care that they do not burn. Cool the mixture and strain it. Clear the liquid and add a quart of cream. Put the whole into the freezer and freeze until stiff. In freezing it becomes a pale lavender.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Carlo Will Now Keep Away From Chickens.

Carlo Ran Yelping Home.

"THERE," said daddy as he put down his book; "I was wondering if you were going to let me off from the story."

Jack and Evelyn smiled. "Ah, we couldn't do that!" they said.

So daddy leaned back in his chair to think.

"I told you how puppy dog Carlo started to run away. Well, after being scolded by his mother, Mrs. Beauty, he was good for some time.

"'Now, Carlo,' she said one morning, 'I am going to run up to the house a minute, and I want you to be a very good little puppy and stay here in the doghouse until I come back.'

"Carlo promised, and he meant to keep his promise, but after awhile he got lonesome. In the chicken yard Mr. Strut, the rooster, gave a loud crow.

"Mrs. Beauty then told him that he must never go into the chicken yard. 'Dogs are not allowed in there,' she said.

"'Why not?' Carlo had asked.

"'Chickens are afraid of dogs,' Mrs. Beauty replied. 'Our mistress would not like us to frighten them. It is not kind to frighten any one.'

"When Mr. Strut crowed so loudly Carlo thought again of the chicken yard. 'I don't see why the chickens should be afraid of a little puppy dog like me,' Carlo said to himself as he trotted toward the wire fence.

"The gate was open a little. Gates always did seem to be temptingly open for Carlo just when they should not.

"What interested Carlo was Mrs. Biddy with her ten little chicks. The chicks were as round as balls and as fat as butter. Carlo thought what good playthings they would make. Then he popped into the chicken yard.

"Mrs. Biddy saw him coming. Down went her head, and snip, snap! she pecked Carlo on both sides of his round little head.

"'I'll teach you to frighten my babies!' cackled Mrs. Biddy, and all the hens cackled, 'Served him right!' while big Mr. Strut chased Carlo out of the chicken yard.

"Carlo ran, yelping, home and crouched down in the darkest corner of the doghouse.

"When Mrs. Beauty came home and saw the blood trickling down his face from the places where Mrs. Biddy had pecked him she was very much put out. She carefully licked the sore head to make it well, but she said very severely:

"'You will get into trouble one of these days if you don't mind what you are told.' And, with the tears running down his face, Carlo promised that never any more would he go into the chicken yard.

"'Chickens are mean old things anyway,' he murmured as he fell off to sleep."

SMART COATS AND DRESSES FOR TINY TOTS

If tiny tots do not have their new fall coats designated as "sport coats," like their grownup sisters, they look just as smart and happy when seen playing in Central park. Just a half hour there on a bright morning will make one acquainted with these fascinating miniature fashion plates, from whom the busy mother can get ideas for the clothes she must make. Here are two sketches of stylish and warm full length models for children. The younger child has on a one-piece plaited dress (7947) in a serviceable beige color poplin with a deep collar and cuffs of brown and white check silk, which is also used for the belt. It is a warm dress to be worn without a coat on mild days. For a child of six years 2½ yards of 42 inch material will be sufficient. The pattern is cut in four sizes and costs 15 cents.

Soft and beautiful in texture, but light in weight, is the mixed tweed used for the older girl's long coat. It has a straight one-piece back and coat sleeves. The shawl collar and cuffs are made of one of the latest kinds of trimming plush in seal brown. This pattern will require 1¾ yards of 54 inch goods for the coat and 1⅛ of 24 inch plush. The coat is cut in five sizes. Fifteen cents.

To obtain either pattern illustrated fill out this coupon and inclose 15 cents in stamps or coin. Be sure to state number of pattern and size, measuring over the fullest part of the bust for dimensions. Address Pattern Department.

Dainty Design for Embroidering a Blouse In Solid Work and Eyelets.

What gives such a distinctive note to a blouse or dress as a touch of hand embroidery? No matter how simple the garment may be, that touch of individuality so much admired in the well dressed woman or child, may be obtained through a little hand embroidery here and there. Embroidered waists or dresses are luxuries for most of us, as they are very expensive to buy, but if one is handy with a needle one may have any number of pretty embroidered garments at very little expense.

This attractive design for a blouse may be also used on dresses, aprons, negligees, underwear and children's clothes and if a less elaborate design is preferred some of the dots and sprays may be omitted or just the center group of sprays used. If the design is to be adapted to a front-closing garment the center sprays must be omitted. This can be done without spoiling the appearance of the design in the least.

The waist may be embroidered in the color of the garment with which it is to be worn or entirely in white on linen, lawn, batsite, silk, crepe or chiffon. The flowers should be developed in solid work and the leaves in solid work, eyelets or outline and seed-stitch while the dots may be embroidered in solid work or eyelets or both. If this design is to be used on an evening gown, beads may be substituted for the dots which will give a sparkling touch to the dress.

Pattern number 14587 includes design for stamping front of waist, collar and cuffs and can be supplied to readers for ten cents.

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 5.

THE other day a man sitting across the table from me in a down-town lunch room turned to the man seated next to him, whom he evidently knew, and said:

"Say do you know of a good colored man who wants a job?"

His neighbor thought for a moment, and replied:

"No, I do not. Why, what do you want one for?"

"Well, we need a janitor, and I thought you'd know of someone suitable for the job."

A little later on, another man known to the seeker after janitor service came in and sat at our table. He, too, was asked if he knew of anyone looking for that kind of a job. The answer was negative.

Now, I wonder if that fellow who needs a janitor imagines that the average business man keeps a pocket directory of men looking for that kind of work.

I wonder if it ever occurred to him that, for about twenty or thirty cents, he could put a little WANT AD. in a newspaper's CLASSIFIED columns and, as a result, have his pick from several dozen janitors?

Wouldn't that plan seem to you to be a wise one?

THE GREATEST SHORT STORY EVER WRITTEN

A bet between Richard Carle and Hattie Williams, each to name the greatest short story ever written, was decided lately in Miss Williams' favor. "It goes like this," said the actress: "I have fought fifty pitched battles, almost all of which I have gained. I have framed and carried into effect a code of laws that will bear my name to the most distant posterity. From nothing I raised myself to the most powerful monarch in the world. Had I succeeded I should have died with the reputation of the greatest man that ever existed, and, though I failed, I shall be considered an extraordinary man." "And the author?" asked Mr. Carle. "Napoleon," answered Miss Williams.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is Charlie McDonald, who played with either the Boston Braves or Cincinnati at the beginning of the season, still in the big leagues, and if so, what is his batting average? L. S.

Answer—It is not often that a player who has stood one-two-three in the batting all season is slipped out of the big show, but such is the case with Charlie McDonald, recently released by the Boston Braves to Rochester.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is there a professional basketball team in this city? Do you think the organization of such a team would be a paying proposition?—H. S.

Answer—There is no pro team here and has been none for years. A quintet of this kind would probably prove a failure because of the scarcity of competition in professional basketball circles, unless you organized a five of sufficient strength to meet the German Turners and other whirlwind aggregations.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Where can I get arguments for and against the six year presidential term and the one term question?—B. K.

Answer—You can get essays on the above in the Public Library.

Sporting Editor:

Query—I went down town the other day and bought a wooden whistle and when I got home it wouldn't whistle. What was the trouble?—X. Y. Z.

Answer—I should worry, your joke has whiskers.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Kindly tell me whether the word "filled" is considered a word of one or more syllables.—S. T. E. N.

Answer—The word has only one syllable.

Sporting Editor:

Query—I am a young man of twenty-seven, and would like to secure a position on some good farm. This has been my desire for some time, in fact, ever since I moved to Plainfield from the city, but I have failed to receive word for the same.—G. R. P.

Answer—Your query is not very clear. In fact, it is a mere statement of facts. So that all we can say is that we are pleased to learn of your ambition, and regret the failure of the farmers to avail themselves of your desire.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What course should one pursue in the Plainfield High School to become an engineer?—C. C.

Answer—The scientific course will start you on your way, but more than a High School course will be necessary to make an engineer out of you.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Are visitors allowed to go through the State's prison at Trenton on Saturdays?—T. R. E.

Answer—Visitors are allowed only on Thursdays.

BRUGGY AND CARLSTROM ARE PLAYING GREAT BALL

Albin Carlstrom, who last year played shortstop for the Plainfield baseball team, and Frank Bruggy, who formerly caught for Bound Brook, are burning things up on the New England League circuit according to recently published statistics, and Carlstrom is making a wonderful record for himself before reporting to the Boston Red Sox this fall.

Carlstrom's fielding average is .937. Bruggy still continues a pace well above the .800 mark. Bruggy and Carlstrom have been doing some tricky playing in the last few games which has been the means of their club either taking the lead or winning each game. In a recent game with the score tied, 1 to 1, Carlstrom came to bat in the tenth and walloped out a single. He took second on a sacrifice and went to third on Bruggy's scratch hit. Carlstrom and Bruggy started a double steal. The catcher whiffed the ball to third and Carlstrom scampered across the plate with the winning tally. Bruggy and Carlstrom have registered nearly half of the runs registered by the Lawrence Club.

ROUND-UP CARNIVAL OPENS.

Pendleton, Ore., Sept. 11.—With a program of frontier sports that never has been xcelled Pendleton's annual Round-up Carnival was opened today and will be continued through the remainder of the week. Expert riders, ropers and shooters are here from all sections of the West and from Canada to compete in the championship contests. Special trains are bringing record-breaking crowds of visitors to the city from Seattle, Spokane, Tacoma and other points.

A NOTABLE COMEBACK.

There has been a lot of cases of come-backs in the national pastime, but when Harry Davis, after a lapse of 19 years, went into one of the Chicago games recently and caught good ball for the Athletics despite Bush's erratic work, the climax was reached. Harry never caught in the American League, but back in 1894 he spent a season behind the bat for the Providence Club, of the Eastern League.

CLARK WINS AT VELODROME.

Newark, N. J., Sept. 11.—Arthur Zimmerman, the first American cyclist to win a world's championship, was the guest of honor at the Newark Velodrome last night, when the Zimmerman Stakes, a one-mile professional tandem-paced race, appeared on the cards. Zimmerbman came on the track and started the final heat himself. Jackie Clark, Alfred Grenda, and Alfred Goullet, the Australian riders, being the contestants. Clark refused to follow his pace and was in the ruck on the last turn, with Grenda, the big Tasmanian, leading, but Jackie closed the gap very neatly and defeated Grenda in 1:59 1-5. Goulett was badly beaten and finished last.

P. H. S. INCLUDED IN RAHWAY'S SCHEDULE

High School Football Eleven Will Meet Best Gridiron Teams in State.

Manager Blanchard Durand, of the Rahway High School 1913 football team, has completed what is admitted in Rahway to be one of the most difficult schedules for the red and black warriors in the recent history of the school. With East Orange, the winners of the 1912 New Jersey scholastic championship and Barringer High School, the closest contender for the title, on the Rahway schedule, in addition to Plainfield High School, Battin High School and Trenton High School, the Rahway boys will have to travel speedily to attain their usual standing at the end of the season.

Rahway will open the gridiron season with Orange High School on the opponents' grounds September 27. The red and black candidates, under the direction of Coach Walter E. Short and Captain A. Durst, held the initial practice yesterday. Among the old men who are again in line for positions are Arthur and Elmer Armstrong, Alfred Brooks, George Schweitzer, Relfred Ayers, Robert Davis, Fay Roselle, Arnold Wand and Leonard and Russell Montio.

The list of games as approved by Coach Short is as follows:

September 27, Rahway vs. Orange High School, at Orange.

October 3, Rahway vs. Barringer High School, at Rahway.

October 18, Rahway vs. Battin High School, at Elizabeth.

October 25, Rahway vs. Trenton High School, at Rahway.

November 1, Rahway vs. Plainfield High School, at Rahway.

November 8, Rahway vs. Roselle High School, at Rahway.

November 27 Rahway vs. Rahway High School Alumni, at Rahway.

P. H. S. FOOTBALL OPPONENT A STAR BASEBALL TWIRLER

If Matty Sheridan, the boy phenom of the Phillipsburgh High School, is able to defeat the Lincoln Giants next Sunday in the third and deciding games of the series at Olympic Field, New York city, he will be hailed as the peer of all semi-pro pitchers in the Metropolitan District. Matty succeeded in whitewashing the Lincolns on Labor Day, 3 to 0, held the colored champions to a 2 to 2 tie last Sunday, and now expects to add the odd game to his credit. Last Sunday's struggle was without doubt the greatest semi-pro contest ever staged in Harlem in years.

The hair-raising fielding stunts of the visitors and the sensational pitching of Cyclone Joe Williams and Sheridan had the 4,000 fans who packed the baseball park in a state of frenzy. Sheridan is somewhat of a football player, having been a substitute end on the gridiron eleven that lined up against the Plainfield High School eleven last fall. He twirled for the high school team last spring and attracted State wide notice in scholastic and semi-pro circles by his great feats.

MISS WILDEY WINS AGAIN.

Paired with Mrs. Marshal McLean, in the women's doubles lawn tennis competition at the Morristown Country Club, Miss Edna Wildey, of this city, won her match in the second round of the State championship tourney by defeating Miss Bastine and Miss Holden with scores of 6-3, 6-1. The finals will be played on Friday afternoon.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

BASEBALL vs. SPORT.

The little old game has become a trust
And bloated and rich it stands;
The magnates are gathering piles of dust
With calloused and grasping hands.

Time was when the little old game was new
And it carried a spotless name,
But the business end of the pastime grew
'Till it strangled the gol darn game.

Not insinuating that the Central New Jersey League article of baseball has become corrupt because of the overflowing treasuries and overwhelming gate receipts.

Remember the time when the village talent played the next town's team just for sport and cleaned up on a series in two straight game? I don't.

Dorflinger claims that his team will smash precedent to smithereens and turn a trick unknown to baseball magnates by winning the second game of the series next Saturday afternoon, thereby making a third contest unnecessary. Let us hope so, the weather man is getting tired of baseball as present circumstances will indicate.

Central New Jersey League government, if it unearths the true facts, will probably order a certain rabid Somerville fan deported. Another kidnapping scare about to be launched. Wonder if the victim will get a ride in a chug-chug machine.

Yes, we have to admit that the Somerville and Plainfield combinations are great machines in their own class, but it has also been noticed that at times both are in need of anti-skid chains.

Torpey has been led to believe that if he had hired a pitcher by the name of Stick instead of Stack, he would have been there to stay and not merely for a little browning up under the rays of Old Sol.

If he had signed Foote Ruel, the Somerville crew might have measured up a whole lot strong. There is still another chance, however, to gain back some lost inches.

As a means of celebrating the winning of the Sunday-school League championship, the First Baptist players gathered at the home of Captain Pierson Tuesday night to enjoy a watermelon feast. The silver mugs were there but the watermelon failed to make its appearance and there was nothing with which to fill the cups but congratulations.

As a championship nine the Saurer contingent is a little out of the ordinary. Apparently it thinks little of trophies and is out for diamond honors alone. This is somewhat of a novelty in baseball but the aggregation has proven that it can stand before any local nine and at the same time make a good showing.

Wonder if Park Avenue will be able to enjoy a victory now that the Sunday-school League season has been concluded. There is some satisfaction in the fact that the Parks were not pressed for the last place berth, however. They are the undisputed champions of the cellar berth, all leagues and teams included.

Rahway High School evidently looks upon Plainfield High School as a very likely contender for the New Jersey State Scholastic football title. The little Rahwayites seem to have little else in view and have included the local eleven in their season's bookings.

It is rather unusual for a football manager to cross the pond at this time of the year, but Eynon White, the P. H. S. game booker, is summering in Europe and Captain Bill Peacock is doing the work.

WILL RESUME TENNIS COMPETITION AT P. C. C.

Lawn tennis competition will be resumed at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday, September 13, when the tournament for the championship of the club will be started. An unusually strong field of competitors is already assured, and the meeting promises to be one of the most successful ever held by the club.

Play will begin at 2:30 o'clock and will continue throughout the afternoon. The tournament will be brought to a conclusion on Saturday, September 20. All matches will be the best two out of three sets, except finals, which will be the best three out of five sets.

WINSTON-SALEM BASEBALL TEAM IN NEW BRUNSWICK

Earl Mack, son of Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, will bring a strong team of stars from the Carolina League to New Brunswick next Sunday afternoon to lineup against Dave Driscoll's outfit. Young Mack is manager of the Winston-Salem team of that organization and won the league title during the season which has just closed. The visiting team will be made up of a number of the players of the flag winning contingent and several former big league stars.

Local interest is attached to this game as three Plainfielders were members of the Winston-Salem outfit during the early part of the season and local enthusiasts are anxious to see just what calibre of baseball the southern outfit puts up. Louis Slocum and Otto Frederickson, pitchers, and Tommy Mullin, a shortstop, played for some time with the twin city team, but were farmed out soon after the season opened. Mullin went [illegible] was sent but Slocum and Freddy returned to pitch semi-professional baseball in this city.

RANDOLPH HAS ALLOWED ONE RUN IN 27 ROUNDS

When the crack Reading baseball team makes its first appearance in the East at Suburban Oval, Brooklyn, next Sunday afternoon, it will have to face the slants of Cliff Randalph, of this city, who has been selected by the Suburban management to do the box work on that occasion. The Western team has traveled extensively through Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, meeting the best semi-professional aggregations in that territory with marked success, making a clean-up wherever it has appeared.

Randolph's recent achievements in a Suburban uniform have attracted wide notice and his performance against the Westerners will be watched with particular interest next Sunday by representatives of several big league clubs that are angling for his services. The local boy has allowed but one run in the last twenty-seven innings he has pitched.

PEN AND INK

You can enter upon the most perfect contract in the world, and still it is possible for either party to make that contract a burden for the other.

Pen and ink nor the law that sustains it, can never wholly compensate one man for another's breach of faith.

It is a good plan always to look into the record of the party you sign up with.

The DAILY PRESS Will Do it With the RAPID VACUUM CLOTHES WASHER

Money Saving Time Saving Labor Saving

THE NEW WAY.

READ WHAT WE HAVE TO SAY

You can save many dollars in a year on your clothes and add a day of pleasure to your life each week with this wonderful Rapid Vacuum Clothes Washer, but cutting your laundry work in two. Most clothes are RUBBED OUT and not WORN OUT. When you send your clothes to the laundry what happens to them? They are soaped and beaten, and rubbed so that the hot soap-suds (sometimes a little acid added) is forced through and through the goods. This cleans the goods, but they do not last long. When your clothes are washed in your own home what happens? The hot soap suds are pushed in and out of the garments, as they are rubbed on the board. This cleans them, but wears them out. In every process of washing, soap and water are the only elements having any cleaning properties. When your clothes are washed with the Rapid Vacuum Washer what happens? Gallons of soapy water at boiling temperature (which sterilizes the clothes) is forced through the goods every 60 seconds. This cleans your clothes snowy white without straining a thread. You can now wash woolens, blankets, sheets, shirts, collars, bed quilts, etc., at home, and after washing the articles will be whiter, softer, cleaner, fluffier and more beautiful in appearance than before. Compressed air, hot water and soap does the work.

You can wash a tubful of dirty clothes in five minutes without rubbing, without bending, and with very little work.

A tubful of clothes can be rinsed and blued in the same way in one minute.

You can clean anything that can be cleaned with soap and water or gasoline in a few minutes, without straining a thread.

No more rough hands and tired backs for the person who does the washing.

The Vacuum Washer has no moveable parts, cannot get out of order, and with proper care will last for years.

WASHDAY NO LONGER A DAY OF DREAD

DIRECTIONS FOR OPERATION

Have your water hot, the hotter the better. Add sufficient soap and see that it is thoroughly dissolved before putting in the clothes, as hot water without soap will set the dirt. Use enough hot water to float the clothes, then operate the plunger up and down, each time a gallon or more of hot suds is forced through the fabrics, and the same amount is drawn back on the upward stroke. This suction force is produced by an auctomatic suction valve, which is a distinct and original feature of our invention. During five or ten minutes, which is required to do a washing, many hundred gallons of hot, soapy water are forced through the clothes, which cleans them in a more perfect manner than any other process and with absolutely no wear or tear. This is the secret of the success of this Rapid Vacuum Clothes Washer.

If you do your own washing, it will save you time, strength and temper. If you send your washing out, we know that you are not satisfied, as your clothes are worn and eaten with the strong washing compounds used by laundries. If you employ a maid, her time is worth money.

DO NOT LET ANOTHER WASHDAY PASS WITHOUT A RAPID VACUUM WASHER.

THE OLD WAY.

Which Way Do You Prefer ?

MADE FROM PERRY'S WARSHIP.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 11—Just before the game yesterday between the Pirates and the Giants, Wagner was presented with a bat made from Commodore Perry's historic warship the Niagara, which until a few weeks ago had lain on the bottom of Lake Erie since September, 1813. The bat was a gift from H. A. Seidel, of Erie, Pa., a boyhood friend of Honus, with whom he used to play ball on the lots. The bat is beautifully carved and is inscribed with Perry's famous declaration: "We have met the enemy and he is ours." Although assured that the bat was well seasoned, having been on the bottom of Lake Erie for a century, Wagner did not use it in the game.

DO IT FOR PLAINFIELD

Flocking to the Standard of Plainfield and Prosperity

Gratifying Results—Merchants, Bankers, Manufacturers and Professional Men Vie With Each Other In Support of the Press' Gigantic Undertaking to Issue a Magnificent Trade at Home and "Made in Plainfield" Edition—Their Commendation of the Enterprise Gives Assurance of Unparalleled and Unbounded Success—Cyclone of Praise, the Cry Is "Onward! Put Plainfield on the Map!"

As the work of The Plainfield Press' Big Historial and Industrial Edition progresses, a quickening of interest is manifested by city officials, business and professional men, and grand endorsements of the undertaking continue to come in from all quarters, showing the hearty approval with which the work is being received and approved by the wide-awake and loyal sons who are striving to bring Plainfield more to the front.

Plainfield is just the place that strangers looking for new homes or factory sites should fully investigate before determining upon any other. All that is necessary is that they come and see the Fine, Prosperous City, and a single visit will convince them that it is the proper and best place in the world to locate, and it is to this end that The Press is hard at work on the greatest journalistic effort of its kind ever attempted in New Jersey, and the wide-awake and progressive merchants, manufacturers and others are pulling together and helping advertise and exploit Plainfield in a way that will do her a heap of good, and in a manner that she so justly deserves.

The Daily Press is one of your newspapers, your representative to the outside world, and Plainfield is largely judged according to its appearance. One of the greatest captains of industry has aptly said that a newspaper is the greatest and most just representative of the community in which it has its being. By it shall we be judged.

We have a representative in our territory now, who will doubtlessly call upon you and explain just what is to be accomplished, and just how it should be done. Give him a fair hearing. It will be worth your while, we hope. Let us build: It means work, but are we not a community of workers? We have much to offer, but few beneath the Heavens will know it unless we tell it. It will mean a bigger, better, more prosperous Plainfield, and we believe that all of our citizens are striving toward just that end. Let's get together and do the work in proper shape, and regard whatever you do towards making this Boom Edition a big success as your Thanksgiving contribution to the Progress and Prosperity of Plainfield.

POPULAR PRELATE IS 75 YEARS OLD

Archbishop Ireland Celebrates His Birthday at St. Paul, Minnesota.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 11.—In the modest chapel attached to the archiepiscopal residence, Archbishop Ireland, who, next to Cardinal Gibbons, is perhaps the best known and undoubtedly the most influential member of the American hierarchy, celebrated this morning the mass of thanksgiving that marked the seventy-fifth anniversary of his birth. The Archbishop desired that there be no particular ceremonies. Numerous friends called to extend congratulations, while telegrams and letters of felicitation arrived in large numbers.

Archbishop Ireland has frequently been called the typical American prelate. It is more than a half century since he was ordained to the priesthood and a quarter of a century since he became an archbishop. For many years he has been looked upon as the head of the so called liberal element among the Catholic clergy in America. But for the extreme tolerance of his views on secular matters, some of which are not in exact accordance with the more conservative element at the Vatican, it is believed that the St. Paul prelate would long ago have received the cardinal's hat.

Born in Kilkenny County, Ireland, September 11, 1838, John Ireland at the age of 11, came with his parents to the United States, reaching here in 1849. The family lived three years in Chicago and then came to St. Paul, where the boy studied in the cathedral school for a year. In 1853 he was sent by Bishop Cretin to a seminary in France, where he studied the classics for four years.

He returned to the United States in the early days of the Civil War. One month after his ordination he went to the front as chaplain of a Minnesota regiment. When the war had ceased he returned to St. Paul and was assigned to the rectorship of the Cathedral. His clerical duties did not interfere with his interest in all movements looking to the public welfare. He aided in the development of the Northwest by establishing large colonies of desirable immigrants whom he brought over from Europe. He was active in the temperance cause and was elected president of the Total Abstinence Union of America. He was president of the St. Paul Law and Order League, and was said to have been an influence in inspiring the famous encyclical of Pope Leo XIII. on capital and labor. He was prominent in 1898 in an effort to settle the differences between the United States and Spain without war and later he rendered great service in the cause of bringing about conciliation between the French Republic and the Catholic Church.

While he has seldom mixed in political life in the sense of delivering addresses and making pleas for one party or the other, Archbishop Ireland is a man of pronounced opinions on all State and National topics, and exercises his influence in his own way, but the occasions have been few on which he felt it his duty to break his rule of non-interference. One of these occasions came in the fall of 1896. The campaign between McKinley and Bryan had only about three weeks to run, and twenty of the leading business men of St. Paul sent him a letter asking that he give to the public in his own way his views regarding the great questions then before the citizens of the republic. On October 12 of that year he sent to the country what was then regarded as one of the great addresses of the contest, which later ended so overwhelmingly for McKinley.

Archbishop Ireland's identification with education in the Northwest and his record as a constructor covers a wide field. In 1885 he established St. Thomas Seminary. St. Thomas Military College also owes its origin to him, while he has aided in the establishment of numerous academies for boys and girls throughout this section. What he has himself declared to be the greatest work of his life is now nearing completion and will perpetuate his memory. This is the building of the two great cathedrals in St. Paul and Minneapolis.

Plainness appears to be the great prelate's watchword—in the furnishings of his home, in his dress, in his speech, in his acts. The Archbishop never varies his dress. His suit is of plain black, the coat being a long Prince Albert. He wears no jewelry whatever and the plainest of linen. He sticks to the old-fashioned boots, never having worn a pair of shoes since his early boyhood days.

At seventy-five the Archbishop appears to be in the prime of life, both mentally and physically. His daily life is as simple and unostentatious as it is possible to make it. He arises regularly every morning at 5 o'clock and retires not far from 10 o'clock each night. His capacity for work is wonderful, considering his years, and his enthusiasm as unflagging as in the days of his youth.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

No finer example of the unadulterated, incurable triple-plated "boob" is to be found in modern dramatic literature than Shipping Clerk Jimmy Gilley in George Broadhurst's "Bought and Paid For." On the subject of "boobs," Webster is silent. There is to be found in the depths of his ponderous philological volume no definition of this widely known brand of individual. Many have sought to define the word but, after all, and by announcing that a "boob" is just a "boob."

William Caryl gives the best definition of a "boob" by portraying one behind the footlights for two hours and a half. It is an eloquent definition. He proves that he is a true artist by taking the man from real life, with all his failings that affront you in Battery street, and making him afford you true entertainment when you hear him declaiming from the theatre stage. He does not introduce a false note in his delineation. The criticism of his work that he most treasures was given by Augustus Thomas, "I admire your characterization," said Thomas, "not so much for what you do, but for what you don't do."

REVERE BEQUESTS.

Trenton, Sept. 11.—As executors and trustees under the will of Augustus L. Revere, the Morristown Trust Company has filed a bill in the Court of Chancery asking the court to dispose of certain bequests made in the will. Mr. Revere died May 20, 1910. One of the provisions of his will was that $5,000 be expended for the erection of a bronze and granite base for the flag-staff in the Morristown Park, upon consent being given by the trustees of the Morristown Green and the municipal officials. The base was to be erected in memory of Mr. Revere's father, General Joseph Warren Revere, and his brother, Paul Revere. Another bequest of $2,500 was made to the Society for Providing Medical Attendance to the Worthy Poor of Morristown. Neither of these provisions of the will has been carried out, the trustees of the Morristown Green having refused to grant permission for the erection of the base, while the society for providing medical attendance is practically defunct. The residue of the estate was to go under the will to the wardens and vestrymen of the Church of the Redeemer, of Morristown, who now claim title to both the bequests mentioned.

UNITE IN PERRY TRIBUTE.

Put-in-Bay, O., Sept. 11.—The two-day celebration here of the centennial anniversary of the battle of Lake Erie was brought to an impressive conclusion today with the reinterment of the remains of the American and British officers who were killed in battle. Following the battle of one hundred years ago the sailors who were killed in the engagement were buried in the lake. The remains of the officers were brought to Put-in-Bay Island and interred in graves close by the shore. The fallen officers were buried alternately, England and American, side by side. Today, with ceremonies of a most impressive character, the bones of the naval heroes were taken from the graves where they have reposed a full century and placed in the crypt of the Perry memorial. The solemn exercises were conducted jointly by American and British chaplains, as was done a hundred years ago.

LUTHERANS GENERAL COUNCIL.

Toledo, O., Sept. 11.—Ministerial and lay delegates from all parts of the United States and Canada filled St. Matthew's church today at the opening of the 34th convention of the General Council of the Evangelical Lutheran church in North America. The Rev. Theodore E. Schmaak, of Lebanon, Ga., president of the conference, presided. The sessions will continue about six days and will be devoted to the consideration of questions relating to the Sunday-school, educational, publication and home and foreign missionary work of the church.

CONSERVING OYSTERS.

New Orleans, La., Sept. 11.—In order to enforce the conservation of the Louisiana oyster beds a new ruling was put into effect today which provides that any boat fishing for oysters must be registered in the State. In this way the owners can be held responsible. All catches must be landed on Louisiana soil and if shipped from the port of entry must be marked "Louisiana Product." If shipped outside the State a privilege tax of three per cent will be assessed.

NEW MARKET LOSES BANNER.

New Brunswick, Sept. 11.—The attendance banner of the Past Councilors' Association of Middlesex County, which has been held by the New Market Council since the association was formed several months ago, has been won by Charles L. Walters Council, of Milltown. The Council having the largest number of members in attendance at meetings gets the banner. Carteret Council got a hammer, not a member being present.

FOR POSTMASTER AT ISELIN.

Metuchen, Sept. 11.—The United States Civil Service Commission announces that an examination will be held October 11, at Iselin, to fill a vacancy in the fourth-class postmastership of that place caused by the death of Postmaster Michael Finnigan. The compensation of the postmaster last year was $298.

COLBY-OSBORNE DUEL OF WORDS

Progressive Party's Opposing Candidates for Governor Present Their Views.

RECORD AS REFEREE

Big Crowd At Newark Is About Evenly Divided In Sentiment—Colby Ridicules Osborne's Vote-Getting Platform.

Newark, Sept. 12.—The local police arrangements were perfectly able to take care of the Osborne-Colby debate in the Krenger Auditorium, last night, and it was not necessary to call the National Guard. State Assessor George L. Record, with an extra fluff to his curly locks and extra draft upon his vocabulary, sat as chairman without using a club. The big audience decided that Record was the star attraction. He made almost as much of a speech as the two candidates, and as he is Osborne's director general, his remarks were not calculated to help Colby very much.

The two Progressive candidates for Governor went at the situation with vigor and dispatch. Osborne put forth his radical views and the sensational platform on which he is running, or rather whirling. Colby presented his more conservative views and told the people what they might expect if he were chosen Governor of the State. The great crowd was apparently about evenly divided, with a shade the best of the demonstrations for Colby, who has been before the independent voters of Essex county as a leader for some years and who has always had a strong following.

The keynote of the Colby speech was evolution, rather than revolution. This was regarded as the first crack at Osborne, whose extremist program has been regarded in many parts of the State as visionary and somewhat socialistic. He riddled a good many of the Osborne schemes and intimated that there was back of them more of a desire to get votes than to serve the people. On the issue of the single tax, one of the foremost of Osborne's planks and which is a Record hobby, Mr. Colby said:

"What is the practical object to be gained by a tax on land values, and how are we going about to levy it? When land is held out of use and unimproved, it prevents the application of labor to it and upon it, decreasing thereby the economic surplus of the community. A tax on land values will compel owners of unimproved land either to build or sell to one who will improve. This will force into the market or throw open to labor land that is now being held for future speculative prices. In this way, I believe, the problem of the unemployed will be greatly simplified. My immediate objects are to cure the evils of congestion in our large cities, to lower rents and to decrease the tax on small homes.

"How can we change all this and reduce the rents in tenements, relieve congestion and lower the taxes on small homes? By reducing the tax rate on buildings and increasing the tax rate on lands. To this end I favor the passage of a law that will give every municipality the right to reduce the tax rate on buildings to one-half the tax rate on land."

Mr. Colby also declared for the initiative and referendum, home rule for municipalities, short ballot, easier methods for the amendment of the Constitution, more stringent pure food regulation, no injunction in strikes without investigation, improved health service and the adoption of a scientific method of preparing a State budget.

In his address Mr. Osborne strongly and eloquently pleaded his cause laying marked stress upon the planks of the radical platform he has erected with Assessor Record's aid. He undertook to explain in detail what is wrong in America with especial reference to the nation's politics.

DENIES REPORT.

H. P. Vosseller, of the Standard Automobile and Tire Company, is indignant over a report to the effect that he is backing Charles P. Sebring, a Republican candidate for sheriff in Somerset county. As Mr. Vosseller is a life-long Democrat office appointee, the story is injurious to him. "I don't live in Somerset county and can't vote there," said Mr. Vosseller. "As for 'backing' a Republican, that is absolutely false. I am a Democrat who votes the straight ticket and always works for its supremacy. I want to deny the report in the most emphatic way and I will be obliged to you to contradict it for me."

MINISTER JUST NOW OF NO DENOMINATION

Reformed Church Classis Will Take up the Case of Rev. Percival Barker.

The fall session of the Classis of Newark of the Reformed Church of America will be held at Trinity Reformed church on Wednesday, October 15, when among the many matters to be considered will be that of the standing of Rev. Percival Barker, the stated supply of Christ Reformed church, Newark. At the present time Mr. Barker has no ecclesiastical standing in that denomination. Prior to going to Newark he was pastor of a Presbyterian church in the West, but was dismissed. About a year ago he became the stated supply of the Newark church, but so far as the Classis are concerned his pastorate is not settled.

There are about twenty churches comprising the Classis, located in Newark, the Oranges, Montclair and this city. Rev. Royal A. Stout, former pastor of the Netherwood Reformed church, was the president, but he resigned upon accepting a call to the Green Hill Presbyterian church, Philadelphia. At the fall session of Classis a new president, as well as other officers will be elected. The other business will include a report from all the churches, and a consideration of denominational matters in general. There will be morning and afternoon sessions and the women of Trinity Reformed church will entertain the delegates at lunch during the noon hour.

KATZENBACH SAYS HE'S NO MAN'S MAN

National and State Administrations Against Him Candidate Tells Boroughites.

Addressing a small but rather enthusiastic group of boroughites in front of the North Plainfield fire headquarters yesterday afternoon, Frank S. Katzenbach, a candidate for the Democratic Gubernatorial nomination denied the charges he said had been preferred against him by certain "machine workers" that he was a reactionary, and added that he was in no way "peeved" because of what had been brought out by party strife. Trenton's former mayor, in the course of his short address, outlined the new primary law, which he said gives the voter an added responsibility.

"I am here," said Mr. Katzenbach, "not as the choice of President Wilson, as he has seen fit to elect another choice; nor do I come here as the choice of any man. Against me are lined up the National and the State administrations. Should I be selected by the people of the State, 'Efficiency' will be my watchword, and I will aim to cut down the expenses of the government by stopping 'leaks' which exist by the reason of the creation of numerous useless offices."

Starting in the gray of early dawn Mr. Katzenbach and his party, coming from Trenton, invaded Somerset county at Rocky Hill, where the candidate met and talked to the employes of the Atlantic Terra Cotta Works. Thence the next stop was made at East Millstone and around noon Bound Brook was reached. Although Mr. Katzenbach intended to put in but twenty minutes at Somerville before he got through saying "how do you do" to everybody an hour and a half had passed.

The party then went to Dunellen and from there came to North Plainfield, where Mr. Katzenbach made the only other speech of the day. He then went to Raritan, Neshanic and Neshanic Station, from where he went to Somerville.

Mr. Katzenbach expressed himself as highly pleased with the situation. When he reached the county border he was met by County Counsel John A. Frech, former Sheriff Frank Ross, Walter C. Linbarger, candidate for county clerk, and later in the day he met Commissioner of Banking and Insurance George M. LaMonte.

MISS SCHOONMAKER J. L. WILSON'S BRIDE

The Wedding at St. Matthew's New York, Attended by Immediate Relatives.

Miss Marjory Schoonmaker, daughter of George B. Schoonmaker, formerly of Madison avenue, this city, and Joseph Lupton Wilson, of Leeds, England, were married at St. Matthew's Episcopal church, New York city, yesterday afternoon at 1 o clock by the rector, Rev. Joseph Rushton, L. H. D., in the presence of the immediate members of the two families, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford McGee, of North Plainfield, the latter being a sister of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the Hotel Manhattan, for members of the bridal party. After a wedding trip the couple will reside in New York.

Mr. Wilson is connected with the General Electric Company. Mrs. Wilson formerly lived in this city with her parents for several years, but more recently both she and Mr. Wilson have been residents of New York.

BEEKMAN DECLINES THE DEBATE ALSO

Joins With Hammond in Refusing to Meet Hughes in Tri-cornered Argument.

Somerville, Sept. 12.—Following the example of Hammond, Republican, Beekman, Democrat, declines the challenge of Hughes, Progressive, for a joint debate among the three candidates in Somerset county for Assembly nominations. His reply follows:

"I have carefully considered the suggestions contained in your letter of the fifth instant, and while I have every confidence in the integrity of your intentions, I do not feel at liberty at this time to enter an agreement for a three-cornered debate between Mr. Hammond, yourself and myself. Mr. Hammond to speak for the Republicans, you to speak for the Progressives and I for the Democrats. It seems to me that such an arrangement would be premature at this time. The effect of it would be that we candidates for the Assembly would fix upon ourselves as the self constituted spokesmen for our respective parties before we know who the candidates upon the State and county tickets are to be and also before the State platforms are formulated. I feel that the candidates upon the Democratic ticket who are to share my fortune at the polls should be consulted before I assume the role of "party mouthpiece" and it is better to wait until the party conventions have met shortly after the primary. If those who are, at least, equally interested with myself then have no objections I will be willing to consider the proposition.

"My present notion is that a 'three-cornered,' 'three-meeting' debate would be unsatisfactory and of little aid to the voter and also difficult to arrange so as to do justice to all parties concerned. There would be a distinct advantage in favor of the speaker having the 'last word' and it is difficult in the heat of debate to avoid mixing the personal with the merit of the case. The tendency would be to confuse rather than to clear the issues. While joint debates were a custom in the days before the press was so free and available, it seems to me, that now through the channels of the newspapers of the county (which always give every candidate a fair chance to have his ideas and public speeches reported and circulated) we can more effectively present our own ideas and criticise those of an opponent than by the method you propose and without danger of being misunderstood or misrepresented through lack of time and opportunity to make the intended meaning of statements perfectly plain.

"I would prefer to let every candidate stand upon his own merit and submit his case to the people in the manner he deems most proper.

"I shall be pleased, however, to meet Mr. Hammond and yourself at an early date so that we can become acquainted with each other and enter upon our coming contest with a feeling of mutual esteem that should not be impaired by the mere difference of political opinion."

BODY OF MAYOR LIES IN STATE

Guard of Honor at Gaynor's Bier in Town Hall at Liverpool, England.

OFFICIAL CONDOLENCE

Remains to Be Brought Back to New York on Lusitania Leaving Tomorrow—Kline Sits in the Vacant Mayoralty Chair.

Liverpool, Sept. 12.—Arrangements were made by the Liverpool authorities to render full civic honors to the body of the late mayor of New York, William J. Gaynor, who died Wednesday afternoon on board the steamship Baltic while that vessel was several hundred miles off the Irish coast, on the arrival of the steamer this afternoon at this port.

Plans had been made to have the body lie in state in the Town Hall, guarded by a detachment of police, until the time arrives to take the casket on board the Cunard Line steamer Lusitania for shipment back to the United States.

The lord mayor of Liverpool took charge of the arrangements, and in compliment to New York, with which Liverpool has such close ties, and as a mark of sympathy with the American people, he arranged with the steamship officials to have the body transferred immediately to the Town Hall from the ship.

Mounted police were assigned to escort the cortege from the head of the steamship pier to the Town Hall, and men were picked to guard the coffin continuously throughout the night.

Acording to the program prepared bu the authorities, the body will be removed from the Town Hall to the Lusitania tomorrow morning.

The lord mayor of Liverpool today forwarded to Mayor Ardolph L. Kline a cablegram expressing his sympathy with the people of New York.

New York, Sept. 12.—The Gaynor party managers at a conference today decided to substitute the name of President McAneny for the vacancy on the head of the ticket caused by the death of Mayor Gaynor.

It was said that Mr. McAneny had not been approached on the subject.

Mr. Harrington is secretary of the Gaynor Fusion and Nominating League. Among those present were Jacob H. Schiff, Henry Clews, Fire Commissioner Johnson, Herman Ridder and Mr. Harrington.

Henry Clews said that if it was decided to go on with the Gaynor movement, Borough President McAneny should be nominated for Mayor.

New York, Sept. 12.—Mayor Gaynor's body is to be transferred at Liverpool to the Lusitania, which, leaving tomorrow, will arrive here next Friday. The lord mayor of Liverpool has been asked to facilitate the transfer. Norman Gaynor, at St. James, N. Y., said the body would be taken to the mayor's Brooklyn home and later interred in Greenwood cemetery.

Mrs. Gaynor, widow of the stricken mayor, is prostrated at her home, St. James, N. Y. She collapsed when the news of Mr. Gaynor's death was broken to her.

The following wireless from Mayor Gaynor's son Rufus tells in detail of the mayor's death:

"On Board the S. S. Baltic (by Wireless via London).—My father, Mayor Gaynor, died on the Baltic at seven minutes past 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Death was due to heart trouble. He was sitting in a deck chair

FUNERAL OF HARL A. SIPE.

Funeral services for Harl A. Sipe, formerly of Plainfield, who died on board the battleship Louisiana, were held this afternoon at the Easton (Pa.) Cemetery chapel. The body was clothed in the uniform of a United States sailor, and over the coffin was draped an American flag. Adam Neuman, with whom the young man made his home in Plainfield, went to Easton yesterday, but was unable to get up there today. Mr. Neuman said this morning that a letter was sent young Sipe's relatives, from the commander of the Louisiana, in which his record while in the navy was highly commended, and expressing great regret at the loss of so promising a young man.

WATER RESERVOIR WILL BE ERECTED

Huge Tank to Be Built by Plainfield-Union Company at Scotch Plains.

The Plainfield Union Water Company has completed plans for the erection of a reservoir of nine million gallons capacity, on a tract of land recently purchased from the Ackerman Estate and located at Scotch Plains. The water will be pumped from the company's wells in the Netherwood district to the reservoir for emergency purposes.

The reservoir will be constructed of concrete and will be 300 feet long, 200 feet wide and twenty feet deep. The walls will be eight feet wide at the base, approximately ten feet below level and will extend up twenty feet, tapering to a width of two feet at the top. J. J. Heller, of Newark, has the contract.

From the pumping station to the reservoir the water will automatically run from other pipes and be utilized about the city. In this way the reservoir will be constantly filled and the water will be kept fresh and ready for use in case of a drought.

STRENUOUS LOVER IS FINED IN COURT

McBride, Who Had Weapons to Enforce Marriage Consent, Got Off Easily.

Elizabeth, Sept. 12.—Charles McBride, of this city, who went to Plainfield on August 26, carrying with him a fully loaded .32 calibre revolver and a blackjack, which he contemplated using to force the parents of Miss Anna Whelan, of 635 East Second street, that city, to consent to his marriage to their daughter, was fined $50 when arraigned this morning before Judge James Connelly, in the Court of Special Sessions, on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. McBride was arrested by Patrolmen Welch and Flatley on West Front street, Plainfield, while seeking his sweetheart, in Abrams' shoe store, where she was employed.

When lodged at the Plainfield police station, McBride said he had been keeping company with Miss Whelan for two years and wished to make her his wife, but that Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Whelan, her parents, refused to consent to the match. Mad with the love craze (novelists say there is such a thing), McBride went to the "Queen City" fully armed to force the nuptials.

ALLEGED ASSAILANT IS HELD IN $1,000 BAIL

Elizabeth, Sept. 12.—Eugene Britton, colored, who was indicted by the May grand jury on a charge of atrocious assault with intent to kill, preferred against him by Samuel Smelson, a Plainfield restaurant keeper, was held in $1,000 bail for the October term of court, when brought this morning before Judge Connelly in the Court of Special Sessions. Britton and Smelson became involved in an argument in the latter's establishment. Angered, the colored man drew a blackjack from his pocket and knocked Smelson unconscious to the floor. He escaped but was caught at White Plains, N. Y.

PRIVATE OBSEQUIES FOR W. E. BENJAMIN

Services for Counsellor Who Edited Law Works, Held in New York.

Private funeral services were held for Wayland E. Benjamin, of 64 Washington avenue, at 2 o'clock this afternoon, at the home of his son, Frank E. Benjamin, No. 10 East 130th street, New York city. Mr. Benjamin died at St. Luke's Hospital, New York, Wednesday afternoon, following an operation for a trouble of long standing.

Mr. Benjamin was an attorney and senior member of the firm of Benjamin, Shepard, Houghton & Taylor, of 111 Broadway, New York city. He was born in Boston in 1854. He graduated in 1877 from Brown University, Brown University Law School in 1879 and was admitted to practice law in New York State in October, 1882. He prepared for college at Peddie Institute, Hightstown. He was a member of the New York Bar Association and of Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity. He was a member of the First Baptist church, this city.

Mr. Benjamin collaborated with the late Austin Abbott in the preparation of Abbott's Digest and in other works. He edited the Railway and Corporation Law Journel, New York Annotated Cases and Benjamin's Table of New York Cases. LEAGUE CHAMPIONS GUESTS OF CAPTAIN

First Baptist Baseball Players Ate Some "Real" Watermelon in Pierson's Home.

As a fitting finale to a most successful baseball season when the team won the championship of the Sunday-school League, by virtue of some phenomenal playing, Captain and Mrs. E. Pierson entertained the members of the First Baptist nine in their home on Essex street last night, the captain lifting the ban of strict training long enough to allow the athletes to dispose of a quantity of real southern watermelons that had been imported especially for this occasion. Although all of the players who were present at the festival last night are around this morning they all are enthusiastic over the grade of melons Captain Pierson selected and are willing to forgive and forget the lectures and knocks of the worthy leader during the diamond season.

The affair was held on the back lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Pierson's home and before the festivities were curtailed the premises had been converted into what resembled a watermelon patch that had been recently invaded by a delegation of ebony adventurers. Japanese lanterns were used to illuminate the scene of the feast, and during and after the eating part of the program, vocal and instrumental numbers were rendered by the more talented athletes and Dr. Norman Probasco, teacher of the Bible Class in the First Baptist church in which the team was organized, called upon all the guests to express their sentiments. Reminiscent stories of diamond battles during the championship race were rehearsed and game playing was enjoyed until a late hour.

At the conclusion of the affair the guests gave three hearty cheers for Mr. and Mrs. Pierson who had acted admirably as host and hostess during the evening. Among those present were Dr. Norman H. Probasco, Mr. Henderson, Mr. Spratt, Arthur Pierson, Bert Banks, C. Savidge, A. Gilbert, E. Downs, Daniel Randolph, Pierson Bailey, Herbert A. Stine, Carlton Smith and Mr. and Mrs. E. Pierson. Various reasons were given for the non-appearance of some of the absentees and after considerable probing it was learned that Manager Fountain was keeping a date with a maiden in Bayonne, second baseman George Townley was joy-riding with a member of the fair sex, Taylor is attending school in the West and Randolph Chandler was attending a meeting of those interested in making Plainfield a sanitary spot to live in.

HOOD'S INTEREST ONLY FATHERLY

OCEAN TRIP FIGURES

Wealthy Man, Wife Who Sues and Co-respondent on the Stand—Hood Says He Had Six Happy Days After Marriage.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Newark, N. J., Sept. 12.—Richard Haden Hood, the last and only witness in the final hearing given by Vice-Chancellor Stevens of the suit for divorce brought by his wife, Mrs. Frances Sparks Hood, was called today and was still on the stand at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The Court of Chancery was crowded with interested spectators, among whom were a number of Plainfielders.

Mr. Hood denied all improper conduct with Miss Dorothy Hoyt, explaining that he had only a fatherly interest and had desired to adopt her. He admitted taking her out riding after Mrs. Mary A. Field, guardian of Miss Hoyt, had remonstrated with him. He said that she was fond of driving and was a conspicuous figure running a car.

"I neither drink nor smoke," said Mr. Hood, "and I dislike a woman who drinks and smoke and asked Miss Hoyt to give up smoking. Taking her out riding was a sort of compensation."

Mrs. Field testified yesterday that Miss Hoyt "slipped out" after midnight, returning home on one occasion at 4 o clock and another at 4.30 o'clock in the morning and she let her in the house. This testimony was corroborated by Miss Ella Dutcher, a cousin of Mrs. Field.

James Lockwood, a private detective employed by the Lanyon Detective Agency, testified to seeing Hood on the Kronprinzessin Cecilie, when he registered under the name of "Robert Harris." He testified that Miss Hoyt was constantly in his company and in Hood's stateroom. She first had stateroom No. 219, and later moved to stateroom No. 220, which was across the corridor from the room occupied by Hood. Upon landing at Plymouth, the detective said that the couple went to London, where they remained for a week at the Hotel Carleton.

Lockwood said that he learned that Hood and Miss Hoyt occupied rooms 537 and 539 and that they registered as "Robert Hunter and niece." During the week they were in London, Lockwood said that he watched them for three days.

The testimony by Mrs. Field brought out the fact that when Miss Hoyt sailed, she gave Mrs. Field a cablegram, written in Italian, to send to relatives on the other side.

TWO STOLEN BICYCLES FOUND IN NEWARK SHOP

While in Newark yesterday where he went on a futile attempt to place blame for the looting of Leo Zeisel's store several nights ago, on two suspects arrested by the Newark police, Detective Sergeant John J. Flynn, found the two stolen wheels in the store of a bicycle dealer. The bikes were returned today to the local merchant.

The Newark man said he had purchased the wheels from two men, and paid $20 for them. He gave a check in payment. The check the police say may be the means of tracing the thieves.

MURRAY FAMILY FUND IS GROWING STEADILY

If ever a sad woman, left a widow with eight children to support, has been made happy she is Mrs. Peter Murray, of Terrill road, for the appeal made by the Plainfield Daily Press in her behalf has been abundantly answered. Second hand clothing and shoes are being provided for the children and money has been coming in to pay for living expenses and to meet the interest on the mortgage on their little farm.

In addition to $60 already acknowledged, $5.00 was sent to the Plainfield Daily Press today for the fund, by Councilman Francis J. Blatz. Individual members of the Elks last night contributed $60 for the family's support. Some provisions have also been given by interested citizens.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

There has been a great deal of interest manifested in the forthcoming engagement of George Broadhurst's stirring drama-comedy of married life, "Bought and Paid For," which has been playing for two years at William A. Brady's famous Playhouse in New York, and which will be seen at the Plainfield Theatre tonight. The plot deals with Robert Stafford, a handsome young self-made billionaire, and a man of domineering will, who woos Virginia Blaine, a pretty telephone operator at a fashionable hotel, while transacting business over long-distance. He invites her and her sister, Fanny, and Fanny's intended husband, Jimmy Gilley, a self-conceited shipping clerk, with superfluous ideas, to visit his palatial home. While showing her all the treasures of his bachelor quarters, he proposes, and although as yet she does not love him, she is dazzled by her surroundings and accepts him. At the supper that follows, he purposes a toast to the future Mrs. Stafford, much to the surprise of his guests. Two years later the ex-telephone girl is the loving wife of this money king, who has one serious fault in that he occasionally comes home intoxicated. Stafford comes home artificially illuminated, and disgusts his wife by his insinuations. In this frenzy he tells her his checkbook has been the means of making her his wife and establishing her in his home. The next day she agrees to a reconciliation if he will forswear drink. This he refuses to do, on the ground he will not be dictated to. His wife leaves him and goes to the home of her sister, taking a position as a saleslady, at the paltry salary of $7 a week. Brother-in-law Gilley has also come down in the world through the estrangement of Stafford and his wife and informs his sister-in-law that by her quixotry she has absolutely ruined his career. Gilley and his wife, Fanny, put their heads together and conspire to bring about a reconciliation. Gilley calls the now penitent Stafford on the telephone, tells him that his wife wants to see him. They meet and rush into each other's arms and all is forgiven.

BLODGETT ON NAVY TEAM.

Blodgett weighs 200 pounds, is six feet, two inches in heighth and has a fine reputation in a number of branches of athletics. He played halfback for several years on the High School of Commerce team and has played two seasons past on the New York City All Scholastic eleven.

HAS AWAITED DEATH FOR TWELVE YEARS

Woman Who Killed Husband Has Been in Jail Since Conviction.

Reading, Pa., Sept. 12.—Another effort is to be made next week to free Mrs. Kate Edwards, who has been in the Berks county jail for twelve years under sentence of death for the murder of her husband, John Edwards. The case was quite unusual and attracted considerable attention throughout the country at the time. Everywhere a great deal of sympathy was manifested for the woman and numerous efforts have been made in the past to bring about the granting of a pardon for her. Four governors have failed to set a day for her execution and as a result Mrs. Edwards has spent twelve years in prison, probably longer than any other woman ever sentenced to death in this country.

She was sentenced in 1901 during the term of Governor Stone, who left the case for Governor Pennypacker, who in turn left the fixing of the date of the execution to Governor Stuart. The latter passed it along to Governor Tener, who has never made a move in the matter. The case has been through all the State courts and has several times come up before the Board of Pardons without success. Now lawyers have drawn up a petition which will be presented to the Board of Pardons when it next meets next Wednesday.

There are many remarkable features to the case of Mrs. Edwards, not the least remarkable being her transformation from an uncivilized, almost brutish creature into a woman of fair school education and even a certain refinement and culture. She came to the prison vicious to the last degree, a drunkard, unkempt, desperate and intractable, almost like a wild beast. Good women, patient ministers and humane prison officials worked years to civilize and reform her and accomplished wonders. They have awakened her conscience, taught her something of religion and have changed the whole course of her life. She learned to read and to write and something of other branches of a common school education and during the many years under the shadow of the gallows she acquired a knowledge of sewing, knitting, embroidering and other feminine occupations and became a good housekeeper.

The life history of Mrs. Edwards does not make cheerful reading. Born in squallor and extreme poverty, she became an orphan at the age of seven years. At the age of seventeen she was married to John Edwards, a drunken and ignorant quarryman. She was absolutely without education like her husband and soon developed into a drunkard like Edwards. Edwards used to beat and choke her an made her his beast of burden. Five children were born to them and the family lived like animals in a small hut near the quarry where Edwards worked when he was not too drunk. Their only associates in their drunken debauches were negroes working in the quarry, for the white neighbors would have nothing to do with them. One of their most intimate companions was a negro named Samuel Greason.

On the morning of July 4, 1901 John Edwards was found dead in the vicinity of his home, with his skull crushed by some blunt weapon, probably a stone. Kate Edwards, his wife, her daughter Mary aged fourteen years, Samuel Greason and three other negroes were arrested on suspicion of having murdered Edwards.

Kate Edwards was tried at the September session of the Berks county Court of Oyer and Terminer and was found guilty of murder in the first degree. The death sentence was imposed in December and at the same time Greason was tried and likewise convicted and sentenced to death. The other prisoners were discharged.

For four years, upon one allegation or another, the case was kept before the Board of Pardons, but the board refused to commute the sentence of the woman. The Superior Court and the Supreme Court likewise refused to interfere and in February of 1905 it seemed as if nothing could save the woman and the negro. Governor Pennypacker signed a document fixing February 16 for their execution. A voluminous petition in behalf of Mrs. Edwards was presented to the governor by a delegation of Ohio clubwomen, but the governor refused to interfere.

Two days before the day set for her execution Mrs. Edwards signed a document in which she confessed her guilt and completely exonerated Greason. Both were granted a respite and after a special law had been passed by the Legislature, Greason was again tried and acquitted. The woman's case remained as it had been before. She remained under sentence of death, but neither Governor Pennypacker nor any one of his successors ever fixed a day for the execution of the death sentence. The daughter to which Mrs. Edwards gave birth a few months after her imprisonment was taken away from her shortly before the original date set for her execution and has been adopted by some wealthy woman.

HOSPITAL DEATH IS EXPLAINED.

Elizabeth, Sept. 12.—County Physician Frank W. Westcott granted a burial permit Wednesday afternoon in the case of Mrs. Ellen E. Taylor, a widow, who died earlier in the day at the Elizabeth General Hospital, under unusual circumstances. She was taken to the hospital two days ago from the home of her niece, Mrs. Frederick Smith, 35 Third street. Because it was rumored that the woman had taken a powder to ease her suffering the hospital authorities decided to investigate and called in Dr. Westcott. It was learned to his satisfaction that the woman's death was due entirely to endocarditis, a form of heart failure, from which she had long suffered. Mrs. Taylor's physical ailment was aggravated by a mental complaint. Dr. F. W. Warnke diagnosed the cause of her death as heart failure. The body was removed to Martin's mogue and later to her home. No autopsy was deemed necessary. Mrs. Taylor was seventy years old.

WOMAN'S WILL BROKE.

By a decision rendered yesterday Owen F. Roberts, of Avon, a member of the New York Stock Exchange, is entitled to $200,000 of the estate of his wife, formerly Cornelius Whitehead, of Lakewood. Roberts was cut off in his wife's will with only the house decorations. He sued for his legal third interest in the estate. The couple were married in 1910. The decision was given by Judge Joel H. Reed. Questions of residence were raised. The ruling, if not overborne in the Supreme Court, will mean a loss of $20,000 to Charlotte Lucille Whitehead, a niece of Mrs. Roberts and residuary legatee. She challenged the jurisdiction of the court on the ground that her aunt was a resident of New York at the time of her death.

Headquarters of the encampment will be opened at the Hotel Patten tomorrow morning by Commander-in-Chief Beers.

POST MORTEM.

It is amusing to read the nice things said about Mayor Gaynor by the New York papers that bitterly attacked him while he was in the flesh. There are, however, two striking exceptions, whose honesty is commendable. The Journal consistently has nothing to say. The Sun does not mince matters at all. It pictures him just as he was and just as every one knew him. It is a characteristic Sun opinion and believing our readers will all like to read it, the editorial estimate of the man is reproduced:

"Mayor Gaynor had plenty of faults; he was irritable—there was plenty of physical excuse for it in his last days—he sometimes went too far and fast both on and off the bench; he fought without gloves; his humor and temperament did not always tempt him to be charitable to his opponents, who, to be sure, were seldom charitable to him; he liked to swat; he was more than 'a good hater," he was a pitiless scorner of many; he turned not the other cheek but the other fist to those who assailed him; he was hot tempered; like many generous and placable natures; he saw his enemies in hell's own black, his friends in rose colors; he was impatient sometimes; he seemed a little fickle politically sometimes; far enough from a saint and right down near the passions, prejudices, hatreds, affections, the sympathies and the laughter of common men."

A MUNICIPAL BAND.

Now that Plainfield has a Municipal orchestra, why not a Municipal brass band? There is plenty of good talent available for that purpose and there is no doubt that the musicians would give their services free. Were one to be formed, it is not unlikely that the city government, if the law permits, would provide attractive uniforms and other incidentials. In any event, they could be obtained readily for an appeal to civic pride would result in voluntary subscriptions ample in amount for the outlay.

The Municipal orchestra is a fine thing for the home people but a municipal band would serve a larger purpose. It could participate in parades and demonstrations in other cities and thus advertise this city as a progressive municipality.

All that is needed is for a few earnest men to come forward and start the movement. The orchestra serves as an object lesson as to how easily an organization of this sort can be gotten together.

Let's have a city band. Think of what it will mean on summer evenings for the people of our city, particularly those who have not the means to obtain entertainment otherwise. Think of what it wil lmean as an advertisement for our municipality.

Evidently a newspaperman got lost in Park Row yesterday and wandered into the Evening Post's plant for that real nice old lady made her appearance dressed with scare headlines and bold type to tell the news of Gaynor's death.

Considering the number of fake newspaper stories emanating from Berlin about the Imperator, the Winsted, Conn., correspondent had better look to his laurels.

Martine boasts that he has never missed a vote in the Senate—News item.

A better boast would be that the vote was always right.

Will Wall Street complain to the Immigration authorities that the Prince of Monaco is an undesirable visitor?

Death has robbed the people of New York of its strongest weapon in the fight against Tammany.

By the way, who's Kline?

Do it for Plainfield!

WELCOMED HOME POPULAR PASTOR AND HIS WIFE

The Christian Endeavor Society of Warren Chapel gave a social at the chapel, last night, the affair being in the nature of a "welcome home" to Rev. and Mrs. J. O. McKelvey, after their month's vacation. There were about sixty young people present. The early part of the evening was spent in playing of games, after which there was an adjournment to the parlors where Theodore Martin, president of the society, made an appropriate address of welcome to Mr. and Mrs. McKelvey and then presented the latter with a beautiful bouquet of asters, tied with satin ribbon.

Peaches, ice cream and cake were served. The committee in charge comprised Mrs. John Schenck, chairman; Alfred Everett, Miss Grace Van Denberg, Miss Terressa Snyder, Miss Adelaide Stiglitz, Miss Ida Wheeler, Miss Lou Stites, assisted by Miss Dolly Bolsterle, Mrs. Theodore Kurzhals and Mrs. Gibson Smith.

TO "WORK THEIR WAY" TO BE CIVIL ENGINEERS

Harry Miller, 20 years old, of 401 East Sixth street, and Samuel Smelson, of Somerset street, two former pupils at local schools, left yesterday for Valparaiso, Porter county, Ind where they will "work their way" through college. They have made arrangements whereby they are to enter the Valparaiso Institute and will take a course of study to equip themselves to become civil engineers.

Both Miller and Smelson attended the North Plainfield High School for several years and worked after school to gain an education. Smelson assisted his father in the restaurant business and the other youth was employed in W. W. Warnock's bakery. They had an ambition in their minds to become civil engineers and to attend the western school, following a conversation they had about a month ago with Secretary Herbert E. Parker, of the Y. M. C. A.

Miller came to this country four years ago from Germany, where he obtained an education equivalent to that taught in the High Schools in this country. He entered the borough school, however, and was placed in the freshman class.

Both Miller and Smelson will work in the Valparaiso School as waiters at the institute's restaurant.

KATZENBACH TO INVADE UNION COUNTY MONDAY

Peter J. McGurk, a member of the Katzenbach Union County League, made arrangements this morning for the appearance of Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., in this city, Monday afternoon, in the interests of his candidacy for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. The aspirant will speak from an automobile at the intersection of Madison avenue and West Front street, beginning at 1:15 o'clock.

Katzenbach's itinerary for that day will include a tour of the principal cities in Union county. Making the initial stop at Elizabethport at 10 o'clock in the morning, he will proceed to the following places at the specified time, in the order named:

Rahway, 10:45, Cherry and Irving streets; Cranford, 11:20, North avenue, near railroad station; Garwood, 11:45, Aeolian and Hall plants; Westfield, 12:45, Broad and Elm streets; Plainfield, 1:15, Madison avenue and West Front street; Summit, 3:00, Union place; Springfield, 3:45, Sickley's Hotel; Elizabeth, 5:45, Berkeley Hotel, Broad street.

PROCTOR'S GOOD VAUDEVILLE.

Another fine bill is being offered at Proctor's Theatre for the balance of the week, each act being a headliner, unique in itself. Rose Gray & Co., offers a novel singing skit of stage life, in which Miss Gray has ample opportunity to display an unusually good voice. "The Palace of Parisian Arts," is an artistic triumph in reproductions of famous sculptures of masters of the old world. There are nineteen poses by beautiful models. Dunlay & Virton, are comedians of eccentricity in its highest form. Miss Dunlay is clever and her makeups are remarkable. Darley, Bird and Leigh appear in a dramatic sketch, "The Underman," which is excellent. Johnson and Wells are a team of classy colored entertainers in singing and dancing.

LOCAL SHOOTERS HELPED SECOND REGIMENT TO WIN

A regimental team match, in which First Lieutenant A. R. Phillips and Sergeant J. A. Thompson, of Company K, as members of the Second Regiment team participated, was held at Sea Girt, yesterday afternoon, the squad of which the local sharpshooters were members winning the match. The Third Regiment team was second, and the Fourth Regiment gunners came in third, less than ten points behind the winners. Weather conditions were such that the shooting was done under difficulties and Major Martin, of the Second Regiment squad, was kept constantly at the telescope directing his men during the change of winds.

The winning team, with the other contestants, will enter in the Interstate Regimental team match today, several of the competitors have just arrived from Camp Perry, Ohio, for the match.

HOOD'S INTEREST FATHERLY

Miss Hoyt's deposition which was taken in London in August, explained the cablegram to the effect that sh desired to spend a week in London with Hood before going to the home of relatives. She said that she was much in Hood's company.

Her testimony further set forth that she had valuable jewelry and considerable money and she made arrangements with the purser to have her room changed on shipboard so that he might care for her valuables She admitted being in Hood's room at night to give him her valuables as she said. She denied any misconduct.

Walter Duslon, another detective from the Lanyon Detective Agency testified that he had traced Hood's trunk to the New Jersey Central ferryhouse on September 9 last and followed him to the North German Lloyd pier, where he helped Hood carry his trunk. He said that Hood spent that night on the steamer.

Hood testified today that his happiness lasted only six days after his marriage. He described his wife's disposition as being ill-tempered alleging that she would lie on the floor for ten minutes at a time and kick up her heels in a fit of temper. In answer to questions, Hood said that he was born in 1868 and that at one time was a professor in Columbia University in Missouri and that he was a graduate of Reassalaer Institute at Troy, New York.

During the day the depositions of five stewards on the steamer were introduced, each one agreeing that both Hood and Miss Hoyt acted like a bridal couple while aboard the ship.

It is the belief that the hearing will be concluded today, as Hood is the last and only witness for himself and his testimony will probably be finished during the afternoon.

Mrs. Hood was a breezy witness in her own cause, yesterday. She told of meeting her husband for the first time while both were touring the world. This was in Egypt in 1901. They were married at Kennebunkport Me., July 21, the same year of their meeting.

During the first year of their married life, Mrs. Hood said, her husband drew up a set of rules for the guidance of both. These rules were revised from time to time as it appeared that a more strenuous code was required, she said.

As mutual requirements under the original rules, both husband and wife were "plainly and sweetly" to make known to each other whatever nature they detected in each other.

A letter said to be written by Hood in 1911 on the eve of his departure for India was produced. Mrs. Hood identified it. It stated that Hood had found, after ten years' trial, that it was impossible for him to live happily with her because of incompatibility. He proposed to live apart from her, but announced that he would support her from his ample means.

Three days after her husband had started for India Mrs. Hood left for Europe. The following year they met at Paris and a reconciliation followed. They returned to this country together, but two months after their return the Hoods were occupying differents parts of their home.

"He ordered me to do that," said the petitioner. "He always ordered me, he never requested me to do anything."

Mrs. Field admitted that she, as guardian of Miss Hoyt, had read letters she had found among Dorothy's effects. She conceived it her duty to do so, she said, in her capacity as guardian.

Mrs. Field was aided by Mr. McCarter in recalling that she discussed the contents of these letters with her minister and also with a lawyer, but her memory was too cloudy to tell the contents.

FUTILE ATTEMPT TO LIFT FOOTBALL BAN

North Plainfield High School Will Again Be Unrepresented on the Gridiron.

After investigating conditions the North Plainfield High School Athletic Association once more voted not to lift the ban on football in the borough school yesterday and as a result N. P. H. S. will once more be unrepresented in this popular line of sport. At a meeting of the association held in the school rooms yesterday the subject was broached as it has been annually since its abolition and in order to test the advisability of reviving this sport in the borough a call was sounded for candidates. Although notices were published and the student body canvassed for material but sixteen athletes made their appearance at the time set for organization and the subject was accordingly dropped for another year. Although the school was not weakened perceptibly by the loss of candidates by graduation, the incoming students were not of the calibre that football requires and the school is not better off athletically than it was last year or two years ago, when the sport was first dropped.

Although inter-class tennis has proven its popularity in the North Plainfield school during the past two years and an interesting revival has been experienced this fall, the athletic governing board decided not to support the court game and the classes introducing the competition will have to finance it.

Vice-president Frank O. Dunning, of last year's board, called the first meeting to order and the officers elected to serve for the coming year were chosen as follows: President, Frank Dunning; vice president, Ralph Smalley; secretary-treasurer, Ashley Burner.

W. C. T. U. MEETING.

The concluding session of the annual meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held yesterday afternoon at the union's rooms in the Babcock building. The session was opened with a Bible reading by Miss Nettie Beeching, of Watchung, and a soprano solo by Miss Ruth Sadler, of the First Presbyterian church choir. Mrs. Lucie Rising delivered an address on "Total Abstinence at Home and Abroad."

BODY LIES IN STATE

when the end came. A deck steward had been with him but a few moments before his death and had taken his order for lunch. The mayor had marked the menu to indicate the dishes he desired.

"I was on the boat deck. I went below at lunch call to tell father that his lunch was ready. He had been taking his meals in one of the staterooms.

"He was seated in his chair apparently asleep. I shook him gently, but he did not respond.

"His trained nurse, who had been with him ten minutes previously, was summoned and the ship's surgeon, Dr. Hopper, was called. The mayor was given a hypodermic injection and artificial respiration was resorted to.

"But it was quickly apparent that he was beyond aid. They stopped for an examination. The stethoscope showed that the heart was no longer beating.

"The body was taken in charge by the ship's officers. It was embalmed and placed in a sealed casket.

Ate Hearty Breakfast.

"On the morning of his death the mayor arose about 9 and, after a hearty breakfast, went on deck. He walked about on the boat deck at frequent intervals, keeping in the sun. He watched the men go through fire drill. About ten minutes before 1 he descended to the promenade deck and went to his chair, remarking that he felt very well.

"During his voyage his health had steadily improved. His nervousness decreased noticeably. The mayor had taken great interest in the ship's daily run and was particular to know just where the Baltic was when the chart was pointed out in the companionway each noon.

"On behalf of my mother, my family and myself I wish to express publicly my deep gratitude to Captain Ranson and his officers for kindness, courtesy and unfailing thoughtfulness.

"I wish to acknowledge my debt to the passengers for their courteousness and consideration at all times in respecting the mayor's desire for privacy."

Kline Takes Oath.

Colonel Ardolph L. Kline, president of the board of aldermen, having taken the oath of office before Supreme Court Justice Delany at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the first Republican to rule this city since Seth Low's administration. Mayor Kline at once issued a proclamation, intimated that he would continue Mr. Gaynor's policies and retain Mr. Gaynor's department heads.

The news of the death of Mayor Gaynor reached New York through a wireless message sent from the Baltic to Robert Adamson, the mayor's secretary, by Rufus W. Gaynor, the mayor's son and sole traveling companion. In asmuch as the message was addressed to "Adamson, City Hall," it is presumed that it was sent Wednesday afternoon immediately after the mayor passed away and that young Gaynor hoped to catch Mr. Adamson before the latter should leave his office.

Young Mr. Gaynor's wireless was sent from the Baltic to the Marconi station at Crookhaven, Ireland. From there it was sent by land wire to the nearest cable station and did not reach New York until early yesterday morning.

Instead of telephoning the contents of the cablegram to Mr. Adamson at his home, the cable people sent a messenger boy with it to the city hall. At 4 o'clock in the morning the city hall is closed and locked, but the police substation in the basement is open. But the messenger did not go to the police station.

Message Again Delayed.

He pounded on the doors until he awakened Joseph Ryan, the son of John Ryan, superintendent of the building. Mr. Ryan, having no idea what the message contained, receipted for it and agreed with the messenger to deliver it to Mr. Adamson upon his arrival at the city hall.

Along about 8 o'clock in the morning somebody in authority at the office of the cable company bethought himself to call up Mr. Adamson at his home. The message was read to him, and he hastened to the city hall, arriving at 8:30 o'clock, when Mr. Ryan handed him the cablegram, which had been waiting there four hours and a half. The message read:

Adamson, City Hall, New York:
Father died Wednesday at 1 o'clock. Death due to heart failure. Notify mother.
R. W. GAYNOR.

Not until he had received the actual cablegram did Mr. Adamson satisfy himself that the dire information was authentic. Then he made the news public. In a few minutes the newspaper extras were carrying the information throughout the city and the ticker was reeling it off on the tapes in hundreds of brokerage offices and hotels.

The first message read on the Stock Exchange after the opening was the message announcing the death of the mayor.

Mayor Kline Calls Meeting.

Mayor Kline called a meeting of the board of estimate for today at 11 o'clock to take action on the death of Mr. Gaynor. Also he called a special meeting of the board of aldermen for next Tuesday at noon for a similar purpose.

City Clerk Peter J. Scully will probably call the meeting to order in the absence of any other qualified presiding officer. Then the aldermen will elect an acting chairman, who, in case of need, will be acting mayor. Alderman Ralph Folks, the leader of the fusion majority, will likely be elected.

Mrs. Gaynor was with several of her daughters and her son Norman when the news of her husband's death reached her at Deepwells, St. James, N. Y. With her, besides Norman Gaynor, were Mrs. Harry Vingut and Marian, Helen and Ruth Gaynor. Mrs. William Seward Webb, Jr., another daughter, who lives at Westbury, hurried to her mother's side shortly afterward.

MAYOR ARDOLPH L. KLINE.

Fills Vacancy Caused by the Death of William J. Gaynor.

© 1913, by American Press Association.

General Ardolph L. Kline, who succeeded John Purroy Mitchel as president of the board of aldermen and became acting mayor when Mayor Gaynor sailed for Europe, is now mayor of New York, with full powers. He will serve until Dec. 31. Mayor Kline is a Republican. He was leader of the Republican-Fusion majority in the board of aldermen and vice chairman by virtue of that designation. When Mr. Mitchel resigned to take the position of collector of the port General Kline succeeded to the office of the president of the board of aldermen, and the charter provides that in the case of the death of the mayor the president of the board of aldermen succeeds to the office.

Norman Gaynor saw the newspaper men who called at the St. James home and explained that his mother was too much overcome to see any one. Arrangements for bringing his father's body home would be made, he said, by Robert Adamson and other friends and associates of Mr. Gaynor.

The tidings reached the gentlemen at the head of Mr. Gaynor's candidacy for mayor when they were meeting in the office of the commissioner of public works in the Park Row building at about 10 a. m.

Mr. Schiff In Tears.

Comptroller Prendergast and Borough President McAneny met there by appointment. Fire Commissioner Joseph Johnson and Jacob H. Schiff. They were to discuss ways and means of placing the names of Prendergast and McAneny on the Gaynor ticket.

They were shocked by the news. There were tears in Mr. Schiff's eyes. He was too much overcome to discuss the death. Commissioner Johnson's grief was apparent.

With Mr. Schiff he had been so confident of the mayor's success, so sure of the popular awakening for the mayor, that he couldn't credit the blow that had fallen.

All of Mr. Gaynor's associates received the news with similar manifestations of grief. Police Commissioner Waldo and others of the mayor's cabinet were greatly depressed.

Mr. Adamson and others who knew the mayor intimately agreed that the wound received from the assassin Gallagher had eventually brought about the mayor's death.

EDISON ILL AFTER VACATION.

Suffering From Cold and Indigestion, but Is Not In Danger.

West Orange, N. J., Sept. 12.—Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, is confined to his home in Llewellyn park by cold and indigestion. It is the first time in eight years that he has been unable to go to the laboratory, a short distance away.

During the recent vacation which he took, making a motor trip through New England, he caught a cold, which caused him to admit illness at the time, but he was able to finish the trip and came home, reaching here Sunday night. He was up and about and working since, but indigestion set in, complicating the cold condition from which he suffered, and he had to remain at home. It is denied that his condition is at all grave. Eight years ago Edison had to lose some time from work because of an operation for mastoiditis.

The DAILY PRESS Will Do it With the RAPID VACUUM CLOTHES WASHER

Money Saving Time Saving Labor Saving

THE NEW WAY.

READ WHAT WE HAVE TO SAY

You can save many dollars in a year on your clothes and add a day of pleasure to your life each week with this wonderful Rapid Vacuum Clothes Washer, but cutting your laundry work in two. Most clothes are RUBBED OUT and not WORN OUT. When you send your clothes to the laundry what happens to them? They are soaped and beaten, and rubbed so that the hot soap-suds (sometimes a little acid added) is forced through and through the goods. This cleans the goods, but they do not last long. When your clothes are washed in your own home what happens? The hot soap suds are pushed in and out of the garments, as they are rubbed on the board. This cleans them, but wears them out. In every process of washing, soap and water are the only elements having any cleaning properties. When your clothes are washed with the Rapid Vacuum Washer what happens? Gallons of soapy water at boiling temperature (which sterilizes the clothes) is forced through the goods every 60 seconds. This cleans your clothes snowy white without straining a thread. You can now wash woolens, blankets, sheets, shirts, collars, bed quilts, etc., at home, and after washing the articles will be whiter, softer, cleaner, fluffier and more beautiful in appearance than before. Compressed air, hot water and soap does the work.

You can wash a tubful of dirty clothes in five minutes without rubbing, without bending, and with very little work.

A tubful of clothes can be rinsed and blued in the same way in one minute.

You can clean anything that can be cleaned with soap and water or gasoline in a few minutes, without straining a thread.

No more rough hands and tired backs for the person who does the washing.

The Vacuum Washer has no moveable parts, cannot get out of order, and with proper care will last for years.

WASHDAY NO LONGER A DAY OF DREAD

DIRECTIONS FOR OPERATION

Have your water hot, the hotter the better. Add sufficient soap and see that it is thoroughly dissolved before putting in the clothes, as hot water without soap will set the dirt. Use enough hot water to float the clothes, then operate the plunger up and down, each time a gallon or more of hot suds is forced through the fabrics, and the same amount is drawn back on the upward stroke. This suction force is produced by an auctomatic suction valve, which is a distinct and original feature of our invention. During five or ten minutes, which is required to do a washing, many hundred gallons of hot, soapy water are forced through the clothes, which cleans them in a more perfect manner than any other process and with absolutely no wear or tear. This is the secret of the success of this Rapid Vacuum Clothes Washer.

If you do your own washing, it will save you time, strength and temper. If you send your washing out, we know that you are not satisfied, as your clothes are worn and eaten with the strong washing compounds used by laundries. If you employ a maid, her time is worth money.

DO NOT LET ANOTHER WASHDAY PASS WITHOUT A RAPID VACUUM WASHER.

THE OLD WAY.

MAY LOSE THREE FINGERS.

William Peel, aged about twenty years, of 76 Somerset street, employed by William C. Smith, the mason, on the construction work of erecting a new building for Roth & Co., on East Front street, had his right hand badly crushed this afternoon, when a large stone fell on it. He was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, where it will probably be necessary to amputate three fingers.

The glass bottle blowers' union and the manufacturers have agreed to continue last year's wage scale for another twelve months.

GOVERNOR S. D. FELKER.

New Hampshire Executive Will Pass on Thaw Case.

Governor Felker may finally decide the fate of Harry K. Thaw. It will be up to him to pass on the extradition petition of William Travers Jerome.

ARREST DAVID LAMAR, "WALL STREET WOLF"

Said President Wilson Advised Drastic Action.

Washington, Sept. 12.—David Lamar, the wolf of Wall street, was arrested here on a warrant charging him with having impersonated a federal officer. Lamar was arraigned before a United States commissioner and was released on $3,000 bail. A fight will begin for his extradition to New York state for trial.

It is fifty-eight days since Lamar was indicted in New York and the impression here is that President Wilson suggested that the wheels of justice ought to be put into operation against him without further delay. The president, it is understood, has been stirred by the reports that Lamar and his friends have been promoting the agitation in congress against Attorney General McReynolds on account of his action in indorsing the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific dissolution plan.

Lamar came to Washington soon after the grand jury in New York began to investigate his case and he has remained here since.

The statute under which he was indicted refers to officials of the United States government. The question raised is whether or not a representative is such an official. Many lawyers contend that he is a state officer. The indictment was based on Lamar's impersonation of Representative A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania. Lamar will fight extradition and the indictment will be attacked in the courts of the District of Columbia.

The arrest was made by two detectives at the Continental hotel, where Lamar is staying. He invited the detectives to dinner, then got into an automobile and rode with them to the commissioners' office, where a professional bondsman was waiting to put up the $3,000.

REMARKABLE CAREER OF TAMMANY'S MOST FORMIDABLE FOE

The Late Mayor Gaynor

Interesting Career of New York City's Chief Executive. His Attempted Assassination — Planned to Run For Mayor Independent of Tammany—Farmer, Lawyer, Judge and Philosopher.

WILLIAM J. GAYNOR, mayor of New York city, who died on board the steamship Baltic while on his way across the Atlantic on a short vacation, was a man of great force of character, honesty of purpose and fearlessness in the discharge of his duty as he saw it.

Judge Gaynor was born near Oriskany, in Oneida county, N. Y. He was of mixed Irish and English ancestry. One of his ancestors on his mother's side fought under Montgomery in the war of the Revolution and was killed in the attack on Quebec. The neighborhood in which he was reared was called "Skeeterboro." His was the usual life of a boy on a farm in a poor country. He worked in the fields and woods and did the chores. He went to the little district school each winter for a few weeks. He afterward went to the village school and the seminary and afterward taught school and finally achieved a good education.

He settled in Brooklyn, N. Y., in 1875, at the age of about twenty-four. He did newspaper work. Then he practiced law. His rise in his profession was steady. He was a student and was careful in his practice. He settled all the cases he could, but when he had to fight in court he was a formidable antagonist.

He early began to take an interest in public affairs, but not as a partisan. He at first lived in the town of Flatbush, adjoining Brooklyn. Its population was about 10,000. Its government was dependent on two political bosses and was thoroughly bad. There were much waste and peculation. All sorts of favoritism existed. There were forty saloons, only one with a license. There was a colony of road houses frequented by drivers to Coney Island and the beaches. Gaynor was then a silent young fellow. But he had tried several law cases at the town hall with [illegible] for the legislature, but refused. He said he wanted no office. The newspaper accounts of that time show that in his speech he declared, as he often has since, that "ours is a government of laws and not of men." He even read that famous passage to that effect from the Massachusetts bill of rights.

As a Police Officer.

When the government was organized the town board insisted on appointing Mr. Gaynor police commissioner, and he was prevailed on to serve. He went quietly and systematically to work, and everything was done in a strictly lawful manner. No lawless police raids were made, but in a few months the colony of evil places was empty, and every hotel and saloon had a license, and they were made to respect the Sunday law. The town was "cleaned up."

In a year Mr. Gaynor resigned his office. His work was done. He made the police force respect the law and not do as it liked. He tried to teach the same lesson to the 10,000 policemen of the city of New York. They were not permitted to do any unlawful violence. He taught them and the community that "the way to enforce the law is the way prescribed by the law itself," as he had so often declared. When a distinguished citizen once said to him that that way would not detect and punish crime he answered dryly and drolly, "Then don't."

Fights Boss McLaughlin.

Soon afterward Mr. Gaynor moved into Brooklyn, then and for many years under the control of Boss McLaughlin. The politicians distrusted him. He did not court them, but went his way. The ring quietly bought up a private water company which supplied a part of the city. They paid about $200,200 for it. Soon after they made a contract with the mayor and comptroller and auditor, selling it to [illegible] will see him as a self seeker." A great meeting was held in the Academy of Music, which named him for mayor. But he would not run. He said no one would ever be able to say that the public services he had rendered were with a view to get into office. He was even touchy about it. And that characteristic manifested itself in the many times he had been asked to be a candidate for governor and mayor. Another was nominated instead.

Later he was nominated for justice of the supreme court. He wrote, declining. But leading citizens induced him to run to help the city ticket, the city being part of the ten counties making up the judicial district. There was a majority the other way of about 30,000 in the district, and the ring majority in the city was about 20,000 in past elections. But Mr. Gaynor was elected by a majority of over 30,000, and the ring was as badly beaten in the city. It never again got back into power. It was broken for good, and Brooklyn became a part of New York city a few years later.

Notable Career as Judge.

The career of William J. Gaynor as a judge is well known. He was an immense worker and set a new pace. The number of cases he tried each year was beyond anything theretofore known. The legislative committee on the law's delays reported all this several years ago. His opinions on the rights of the individual, on immunity from unlawful arrests and police interference and on libel and other kindred things became read and known all over this country, and some of them are legal classics. It was not thought he would remain long on the bench, but he refused to resign to run for governor, for mayor of Brooklyn and twice for mayor of Greater New York. At the end of his term he did not seek renomination or say a word on the subject, but all of the parties without an exception renominated him. He served only two years of that term. The last four years as a judge he served as a member of the appellate division of the supreme court of the state.

Only Winner on His Ticket.

But in 1909 he was induced to resign to run for mayor of New York city. Every one on his ticket was beaten except himself. He had a majority of 73,000.

His career as mayor is known to the whole country. He made no promises or alliances to get the office. He selected men to head all the twenty-eight departments of the city to suit himself. The knowledge and insight which he manifested in the workings of the city government were an object lesson to every one. Nothing escaped his attention, and he knew the way to do everything. He cut off millions of expenses. He abolished boards and bureaus that every mayor before him had supposed to be legal fixtures. The story has been so often written and [illegible] preach to the Jews in the most congested Jewish quarter in order to convert them. The mayor answered as follows:

Reverend and Dear Sir—It seems to me that this work of proselyting from other religions and sects is very often carried too far. Do you not think the Jews have a good religion? Have not the Christians appropriated the entire Jewish sacred scriptures? Was not the New Testament also written entirely by Jews? Was not Jesus also born of the Jewish race, if I may speak of it with due reverence? Did not we Christians get much or the most of what we have from the Jews? Why should any one work so hard to proselytize the Jew? His pure belief in the one true living God comes down to us even from the twilight of fable and is the one unbroken lineage and tradition of the world. I do not think I should give you a license to preach for the conversion of the Jews in the streets of the thickly settled Jewish neighborhoods which you designate. Would you not annoy them and do more harm than good? How many Jews have you converted so far? Very truly yours, W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.

Perhaps this letter also displays the mayor's own profound belief in God, which seems to be his whole creed. His use of pure Anglo-Saxon in his oral and written speech is remarkable.

Attempt to Kill Him.

In August, 1910, a discharged city employee tried to assassinate Mayor Gaynor. He came up behind the mayor on the deck of an ocean steamer, where the mayor stood talking with friends who had come aboard to see him off to Europe, and, placing a pistol close to the back of the mayor's head, fired. The bullet entered back of the right ear and, changing its course two or three times, passed through his throat. It was never extracted. At first it was thought that the mayor's voice was permanently gone. But it came back by degrees, and during the past two years he made many public speeches.

This assault on the mayor revealed a new phase in his character, a most unusual physical as well as mental courage. The concussion rendered him unconscious momentarily, but he struggled to his feet and kept perfectly cool. He did not manifest the slightest fear of death, although he and every one thought he was dying. He never spoke of the matter.

In the fall of 1910 the Democratic party called on Mayor Gaynor to run for governor. He carefully considered everything and then sent a letter to the waiting convention saying that as a matter of duty to the people of New York city he could not resign as mayor to accept another office. He had since often said the office of mayor was larger than that of governor and second only to the presidency. Considering the immense powers vested in the mayor of New York, this is true.

The mayor had all along taken a deep interest in national politics, and nothing in that field escaped him. His speech on the tariff when Cleveland first ran for president was widely circulated. It was one of the best. He was a close student of national questions. For years he spoke of favoritism in freight rates as the grossest wrong of the age.

Fond of the Old Farm.

Every year Judge Gaynor used to visit his sisters, Miss Mary C. Gaynor and Mrs. A. V. Lynch, who live in Utica. From Utica he used to trolley to Oriskany and then walk four miles into the country to Skeeterboro, to of Mayor Gaynor's father forty odd years ago.
